AYER'S

HAIR VIGOR,

For Restoring Gray Hair to its Natural Vitality and Color.

A Dressing which is at once agreeable, healthy, and effectual for Preserving the Hair. Faded or gray Hair is soon restored to its original color, with the gloss and freshness of youth. Thin hair is thickened, falling hair checked, and baldness often, though not always, cured by its use.

Nothing can restore the hair where the follicles are destroyed, or the glands atrophied and decayed. But such as remains can be saved for usefulness by this application. Instead of fouling the hair with a pasty sediment, it will keep it clean and vigorous. Its occasional use will prevent the hair from turning gray or falling off, and consequently prevent baldness. Free from those deleterious substances which make some preparations dangerous and injurious to the hair, the Vigor, can only benefit our hair.

If wanted merely for a HAIR DRESSING, nothing else can be found so desirable. Containing neither oil nor dye, it does not soil white cambric, and yet lasts long on the hair, giving it a rich glossy lustre and a grateful perfume.

Notice Relating to Artificial Limbs.
Greenland and Rye Beach—C. R. Edmonds.
Closing Out Sale—C. H. Mendum & Co.
Daily Excursions—Steamer Favorite.

☞ In our mention of the Steamer Favorite, (new to these waters,) this little craft got mixed up with another larger boat which has been talked about running to Boston. The Favorite is a little side-wheeler of light draft, but good capacity; and is advertised to run to the Shoals daily (except Thursday of this week) until further notice, at low fare. She will also run to Dover three times a week, probably, as soon as arrangements can be completed. Her trip to the Shoals will include a call at the Sagamore House. The Favorite is considerably the largest steamer on the river, being 134 feet long; but draws only three or four feet of water. See her advertisement.

☞ Mr. Barnabee, Mrs. H. M. Smith, Miss Addie Ryan, and Mr. Prescott, have accepted an invitation of the Com. of Arr., to be present at the Editorial Convention at the Ocean House and elsewhere, and have volunteered to add to the pleasure of the occasion by singing some of their choice selections on Wednesday evening.

Mr. Blaine will also be present, and will briefly address his brethren of the press; but is not to deliver a set studied oration, which neither he nor they desire.

Harlow's Naval Band have also kindly volunteered their services for Wednesday, at the Sagamore House dinner and elsewhere.

☞ The North Parish and friends will hold a picnic at Dow's Grove, Wallis' Sands, on Wednesday, 27th,—starting from their Vestry on Fleet St. from 8 to 10 o'clock. Particulars can be had of Mr. Reuben Kimbell or Mr. C. M. Tredick.

The Methodist Sunday School will also go on a Picnic excursion to New Market Junction on Wednesday, where they will unite with the Sunday Schools from other towns in the vicinity.

☞ On Saturday, the Whipple base ball club of Kittery played a game with the Married Men's club of that place, in which the latter were defeated by a score of 99 to 12. Having so effectually used up the Married Men, perhaps the Whipples may feel inclined to try the Granite States again:—they created a favorable impression by their appearance and bearing on the occasion of the former match with the Portsmouth boys.

☞ Mr. Saml. C. Coleman, late of the firm of Bachelder & Co., periodical dealers in this city, died recently, having removed to Boston a few months ago. Mr. Coleman had a policy of $3000 in the Equitable Life Assurance Society of New York. The amount insured was promptly paid this week, by A. F. Craig, Esq., the Agent of the Society in this city.

☞ Master printers, publishers, or editors, or those who have been such, in this vicinity, who desire to join the N. H. Association, can do so, and be furnished with tickets to the Convention this week, on application to Frank W. Miller, at the Chronicle Office.

For the Chronicle and Gazette.

OLD TIMES IN PORTSMOUTH.—Messrs. Editors: "Uncle Joseph" has but a very limited knowledge of Portsmouth forty years ago. He says that Dwight's Book of Travels, sixty years ago, says the number of dwellings was 626. In Dec., 1813, there were over 600 burned, and that was not one quarter of the town. And worse still, that he believed that Portsmouth and Newmarket made one district. Now how could you get Newmarket on to Portsmouth, with one or two towns between.

Then he says,—up to this time Portsmouth had not suffered much by fire; he says not more than a dozen buildings had been burnt. Now in 1802, there was a fire, that burnt from the Brick Market, both sides of Market Street, to Merchants Row, both sides of Merchants Row to the Whipple estate, including the N. H. Bank, and the old N. H. Gazette office; and in 1806, another fire which burnt the church on Church Hill, and a number of houses near it, and a number of houses and stores on Spring Hill.

I am sorry he could find but two celebrated men in Portsmouth in 1810. I carried newspapers from 1807 to 1814, and I think that there were in 1810 (and I could name them from memory) as many great, good and solid men as could be found in any city or town of like inhabitants in America — men whose names old Portsmouth should be proud of. Daniel Webster came to Portsmouth in 1806.

There are many other wrong statements in Uncle Joseph's communication. Your humble servant, OLD TOM.

☞ The Dover Cornet Band, 16 pieces, in handsome blue uniform, with waving yellow plumes, Drum Major and all, was in town Monday, on their way to Rye Beach to camp out for a week. Mr. J. W. Newell is their leader; and they played finely. We suppose they will "assist" the Editors in Convention.

☞ We are informed that the arrest of the man and woman on Saturday evening was made by officers Entwistle and Stearns, and not by officer Mortimer, as stated.

Correspondence of the Chronicle and Gazette.

YORK, ME., July 25.

At a caucus holden at the Court House in York, Saturday, July 23, to choose delegates to attend the Republican County Convention to be holden at Alfred, Tuesday, July 26th inst., the following persons were unanimously chosen:

John B. Fernald, G. W. S. Putnam, William G. Moulton, Henry Moulton, Daniel B. Harris, J. Appleton Talpey, Thomas G. Wilbur.

The following persons were also chosen a Town Committee: Edward A. Bragdon, Joseph Bragdon, Jr., John W. Nowell, G. W. S. Putnam, J. Appleton Talpey, Lemuel Mitchell, John B. Fernald.

The gentleman who it has been intimated intended to do all in his power to defeat the election of Mr. Lynch, was present, but probably the extreme heat of the evening caused him to wilt, as he was not heard from. The Republicans of York believe in supporting all nominees fairly and honestly nominated, as was Mr. Lynch; and by their action, last Saturday night, condemned the course pursued by the delegates to the Congressional Convention in bolting there from.

Mr. Lynch has served his constituents faithfully and acceptably and labored incessantly to promote the best interests of the nation, and will be supported in this town, with a few isolated exceptions like the above, who always had a disposition to ruin if he could not rule.

PAREPA-ROSA'S COURTSHIP.—A correspondent of the Chicago Republican gives the following account of the courtship of the great prima donna and her diminutive spouse:

Parepa and Carl Rosa were going on the cars to New Haven to take part in a concert. The violinist was in a dejected mood, and, being asked the cause, told the charming singer that he had ill fortune in this county; that he was constantly losing his friends, whatever he might do to retain them.

"Oh don't grieve; cheer up, my little man," said Parepa. "If you have lost friends, you can find others. I'll be your friend, if you will let me."

"Oh I shall be delighted. Will you indeed be my friend?"

"Most certainly, and I will be your wife, too, if you wish it."

At this juncture the small musician, who was entirely overcome with emotion, seized Parepa's plump hand, carried it to his lips, and the moment after disappeared in the liberal folds of her agitated wardrobe. They were married a few days after, and they have been one of the happiest of married couples. Who will deny, hereafter, that, in joining contrasts, lieth love's delight?

These bonds have 50 years to run, are convertible at the option of the holder into the stock of the company at par, and the payment of the principal is provided for by a sinking fund. The convertibility privilege attached to these bonds cannot fail to cause them at no distant day to command a market price considerably above par, besides paying about 9 per cent., currency, interest in the meanwhile. U. S. Five-twenties, at present prices only return five per cent.; and we regard the security equally good.
The greater part of the road is already completed, and the balance of the work is rapidly progressing.
The established character of this road, running as it does through the heart of the most thickly settled and richest portion of the great State of Iowa, together with its present advanced condition and large earnings warrant us in unhesitatingly recommending these bonds to investors, as, in every respect, an undoubted security.

AMERICAN & FOREIGN PATENTS.
R. H. EDDY,
SOLICITOR OF PATENTS,
Late Agent of the United States Patent Office, Washington, under the Act of 1837,
No. 78 STATE ST., OPPOSITE KILBY ST., BOSTON,
After an extensive practice of upwards of twenty years, continues to secure patents in the United States; also in Great Britain, France and other foreign countries. Caveats, Specifications, Bonds, Assignments, and all papers or drawings for Patents, executed on reasonable terms with dispatch. Researches made into American and Foreign works, to determine the validity and utility of Patents or inventions, and legal and other advice rendered on all matters touching the same. Copies of the claims of any patent furnished, by remitting one dollar. Assignments recorded in Washington.
No Agency in the United States possesses superior facilities for obtaining Patents or ascertaining the patentability of inventions.
During eight months the subscriber, in the course of his large practice, made on twice rejected applications, SIXTEEN APPEALS, EVERY ONE of which was decided IN HIS FAVOR by the Commissioner of Patents.
TESTIMONIALS.
"I regard Mr. Eddy as one of the most capable and successful practitioners with whom I have had official intercourse. CHARLES MASON, Commissioner of Patents.
"I have no hesitation in assuring inventors that they cannot employ a man more competent and trustworthy and more capable of putting their applications in a form to secure them an early and favorable consideration at the Patent Office. EDMUND BURKE, Late Commissioner of Patents.
"MR. R. H. EDDY has made for me THIRTEEN applications, in all of which patents have been granted, and that one is now pending. Such unmistakable proof of great talent and ability on his part leads me to recommend all inventors to apply to him to procure their Patents, as they may be sure of having the most faithful attention bestowed on their cases, and at very reasonable charges. ARE YOU GOING TO PAINT?
IF SO, SELECT THE BEST, which is the
AVERILL CHEMICAL PAINT.
It has proved itself, West, North and South, to be the best Paint known. It will not peel, crack, nor chalk off, and will last twice as long as the best Lead Paints.
It is cheaper, handsomer and more elastic, than the class of low priced paints. It is the most convenient Paint made, being mixed, ready for application; it dries rapidly, and retains its shade perfectly, with a beautiful surface and glossy finish, and for years retains its gloss and beauty. It is excellent for walls inside, in the place of paper, making a smooth glossy finish, which can be cleaned with hot soap and without injury.
One Gallon of Mixed Lead Paint weighs 20 lbs. and costs $2.72, and will only cover 16 square yds, 2 coats: while one gallon of Averill Chemical Paint only weighs 10 lbs., and coats but $2.50, and will cover 20 square yds., 2 coats.—thus making a saving of 22 cts., per yard, besides covering 4 yards more than Lead Paint, and will last twice as long and look far better.
The Chemical Paint is sold by the gallon in quantities to suit purchasers, in 40 different shades and pure white, and will be applied by experienced workmen and satisfaction given in every case; or in case of dissatisfaction in one year after put on, the whole cost of Paint will be refunded.
The sale of these unequalled Paints are daily increasing. Call and examine these ready mixed Paints, both in kegs, and applied to Buildings one year ago, before buying elsewhere, and save your money and money, and beautify your dwelling by using the

RICHARDSON'S
LITTLE WASHER, unlike all others, is light and portable, weighing only ten pounds, is sold for the small price of five dollars. Adjusts itself to any article from a Pocket handkerchief to a
LARGE BED SPREAD,
without alteration. Can be fitted to any tub, and removed at pleasure.
If you will use this little common sense washing machine, you will do the work of half a day in 2 hours.
RICHARDSON'S LITTLE WASHER does not tear or wear the clothes, no matter how fine the fabric. Clothes are straightened out, and passed back and forth, between the rollers till clean.
Remember and always have a good strong and hot suds.
Put your Pocket handkerchiefs, Cuffs, Collars, Napkins and Fringes into a sheet or Pillow slip and wash perfectly clean, in two to three minutes. We wash at one time, two or three sheets gathered at the hem, six Pillow slips, six Towels, two or three Cotton Shirts, one pair heavy Pants or two pairs light ones, one heavy Spread or Blanket, always put in the smaller things inside something larger or longer.
Wherever this Little Washer has been introduced the sale has been unprecedented, having sold upwards of three hundred in Dover, N. H., in less than two months; two thirds of the purchasers had been using large awkward machines costing from five to eighteen dollars; all a failure, one great complaint being that they are heavy and no woman can work them.
Richardson's has taken a Silver Medal in Springfield, Mass., at Mechanic's Fair in 1868, and other places where exhibited.
A Lady who has not washed for three years, told her neighbors she did her washing, with that little Washer, with ease, consequently they ordered one, and the question all over town is, how you get a RICHARDSON'S LITTLE WASHER?

Morning Chronicle.

HOROSCOPE FOR 1870.—"The Morning, Noon and Night" Almanac for 1870, has one page devoted to a horoscope for the current year. It says:—

This will not be a year of general fruitfulness. Grain in the west will not be over half a crop; the price of land will fall in all the States west of the Alleghanies and north of parallel 38, and advance in all States south of that line; there will be fearful storms in the northwestern States during the summer, and late in the fall the lower Mississippi country will be inundated. The sugar crop in Louisana will be a good yield, and that of cotton throughout the Southern States will be a large yield, but in the seaboard States will be less satisfactory than in 1869.

There will be a serious schism in the Roman Catholic Church, and there will also be a serious conflict of opinion between the Romish and Protestant Faith. An Emperor will die and his dynasty will cease its reign. Two Empresses will cease to reign. A leading member of the reigning family of Great Britain will die. Great discoveries in the African continent will be announced. Canada will be in deep discontent, and one member of the Dominion will ask for admission to the United States. Two United States Senators will die during the year. A fierce simoon will sweep the southern coast, reaching to the Isle of France, in August.

A great philanthropist, even as we write, is obscured in the Horoscope, betokening his early decease. A millionaire of vast influence in the commercial world will cease his labors, either by death or accident. His horoscope indicates a violent death. A railroad accident of an appalling character on one of the lines of railroad lying east and west is inevitable. The Union will be fully restored during the year. An author of great celebrity will die, probably before the summer. A woman now celebrated or distinguished on the stage will meet with a calamity, which will end in her death, and much scandal will be associated with her name.

Some of these predictions are already fulfilled. "A great philanthropist" applies to Geo. Peabody, as does "an author of great celebrity" to Charles Dickens. One of the two Senators whose deaths are foretold, has died; and one Empress (or Queen) has left her throne, of the two promised; whether the others will follow or not, we do not pretend to say. But some of the prophecies are safe ones to make. That violent storms will occur in the northwest and the Mississippi overflow its banks in the fall, that a terrible railroad accident will occur in this country, and a serious conflict of opinion exist between the Protestant and Romish churches, needs no very keen second-sight to tell.

A WEDDING SIXTY YEARS SINCE.—Very grand wedding! Plenty of bearouches and bridesmaids, cake and favors, kissing and crying! The bride, indeed, had amused herself with the last-mentioned recreation for a whole week, and having, moreover, accumulated on her person so much finery in the shape of lace flounces, spencers, bonnets, veils and scarfs, that she looked as if by mistake she had put on two wedding dresses instead of one, was by many degrees the greatest fright I ever saw in my life. Indeed, between crying and blushing, brides and bridesmaids too do generally look strange figures; I am sure we did, though, to confess the truth, I really could not cry, much as I wished to keep all my neighbors in countenance, and was forced to hold my handkerchief to my eyes and sigh in vain. I don't really think if I were married myself I should have the grace to shed a tear. For the rest all went off extremely well, except two small accidents, one of which discomposed me very much.

One of my fellow bridesmaids put on her skirt wrong side outwards, and though half a dozen abigails offered to transplant the lace and bows from one side to the other, and though I all but went down on my knees to beg her not to turn it, turn it she would; and turn it she did—the obstinate! The other mischance was our entirely forgetting to draw any cake through the ring, so that our fate still rests in abeyance. The bride and her second sister set off to Brighton, and I and the youngest remained to do the honors of the wedding dinner. Of course we all got tipsy—those who were used to it comfortably enough—and those were not, rather awkwardly—some were top-heavy, and wanted tying up like overblown carnations, some reeled, some staggered—and one fell, and catching at a harp for a prop, came down with his supporter and a salver of coffee, which he knocked out of the servant's hands; such a crash, vocal and instrumental, I never heard in my life.—Mary Russell Mitford.

CREEDS. — One of the bravest and most eloquent of American preachers—Octavius Frothingham—once uttered a great discourse on "The Creeds of the Poets." He might have called it the Creed of the Poets, for, in all time, they have but one creed substantially. When Wordsworth heard Coleridge accused of atheism, he remarked that he had always found Coleridge's atheism very much like his (Wordsworth's) Christianity. The poets stand on the peaks of Humanity's mountains range, and the same light it is that shines from summit to summit—though purple or one, golden or silvern on another—the same light, causing them to stand in the perspective of generations as the many-hued columns sustaining the dome of azure beneath which true spirits ever kneel and aspire.—M. D. CONWAY, in Harper's Magazine.

UNCLE JONATHAN'S POD-AUGER.—I was weeding my beets again, and as Uncle Jonathan strolled out, I asked, "How about that pod-auger?"

"Jotham," says he, "Mr. Jotham Thompson, I mean—"

"All the same to me," said I.

"I know [all about] that," says he, speaking the bracket words so that he thought I didn't hear 'em.

"Well, your Gran'ther Knox stole the first screw-auger that was ever seen in Massachusetts, outside of Boston."

"Stole it!"

"Yes; D'Estings' fleet put into Boston, crippled, ninety-two years ago come next month, and the Continentals were awful mad at him for leaving Sullivan in the lurch on Rhode Island. Your gran'ther was sent aboard the Cæsar to help the carpenters. He said it made his eyes stick out to see how that crooked thing would twist itself into the wood. The pod-auger was a slow concern, would bore only a quarter as fast. That auger stuck to Gran'ther Knox in some way, and was the pattern for L'Hommedieu of Moriden, Conn."

Says I, "The navy would not get along very well without screw-augers in these days."

"Jotham," says he solemnly, "The pod-auger is retained in our navy to this day."

"That's not literally true," says I.

"Not literally," says he, "but in a sense. The first inquiry of the British Admiralty is, how to get its work done cheapest; here the great point is, whose constituents and friends shall by eight hours' shirking get pay for ten hours' working. I've made a rhyme, but there's more truth than poetry in it. Were the Secretary of the Navy to order a vessel to Portsmouth for repairs, merely because the work would be done cheapest there, the Congressmen from round Boston, New York and Philadelphia, would crush him. It ruins a man to give him a berth in a navy-yard. If it wasn't for what he does at home morning and night, he'd die for want of exercise. Shortening their hours was a mercy to them. The best recipe I know of for restoring our commerce is to get at least $5 worth of work for ten dollars pay, in the navy-yards. Why, there wasn't a Congressman that voted for that eight hour law, but knew he was betraying his country, as sure as Judas. The law used to be that navy-yards should pay the same wages as other bosses; now it compels them to pay twenty-five per cent. above the local wages of the place."

"And when the craft's afloat," says he, "no possible way of wasting money on her is lost, but one—Jack gets very little of it. He doesn't get his berth because his uncle is a Congressman, nor because he has voted early and often. The secret of this is that Jack's work must be done. There is no place on the gun-deck for a sham. And so Jack's pay is small, his hours sixteen, and he is voted into his office for three years when he is drunk. And so the sailor's pay is one of the incidentals in cost of our navy. But I believe there's a sort of understanding that there shall be only three officers to one man."

"In war," says he, "that nation is licked whose money gives out first."

I s'spose Uncle Jonathan would 'a' talked till this time, if I hadn't gathered up my tools and started for the house.

MEDICAL MADNESS.

LET US HOPE THAT the insane practice of administering poisonous evacuants in cases of indigestion, biliousness, constipation, and female debility, is almost out of date. When the Tonic-Cathartic produced by Nature herself in the most valuable Sanitary Spring in the world is reproduced by science, in the form of Tarrant's Seltzer Aperient, it is indeed midsummer madness to rack, relax and irritate the diseased or enfeebled system with drastic purgatives. This refreshing and delicious counterpart of a remedy prepared by the creative hand of the Omnipotent Physician Himself, is everywhere superseding the nauseous and sickening compounds heretofore used as laxatives. jy4w

FOOD CURE.—This Journal aims to show how to maintain health by natural agencies, and by the same means to restore it if lost. It is not pretended that all diseases are cured in this way; but it is very certain that quite a number of ordinary ailments may be removed by the judicious employment of the contents of a well-furnished larder—and with this great advantage, the cures are more permanent, and less liable to return—accomplishing their object without any shock to the system, and without the danger of killing the patient, by mistaking the quantity, or quality, or name of the dose.

Ripe fruits and berries, slightly acid, will remove the ordinary diarrhœas of early summer.

Common rice, parched brown like coffee, and then boiled and eaten in the ordinary way, without any other food, is, with perfect quietude of body, one of the most effective remedies for troublesome looseness of the bowels.

Some of the severest forms of that distressing ailment called dysentery, that is, when the bowels pass blood, with constant desire, yet vain efforts to stool, are sometimes entirely cured by the patient eating a heaping tablespoon, at a time, of raw beef, cut up very fine, and repeated at intervals of four hours, until cured, eating and drinking nothing else in the meanwhile.

If a person swallows any poison whatever, or has fallen into convulsions from having overloaded the stomach, an instantaneous remedy, more efficient and applicable in a larger number of cases than any half a dozen medicines we can now think of, is a heaping teaspoon of common salt and as much ground mustard, stirred rapidly in a teacup of water, warm or cold, and swallowed instantly. It is scarcely down before it begins to come up, bringing with it the remaining contents of the stomach; and lest there be any remnant of a poison, however small, let the white of an egg, or a teacup of strong coffee, be swallowed as soon as the stomach is quiet; because these very common articles nullify a larger number of virulent poisons than any medicines in the shops.

In case of scalding or burning the body, immersing the part in cold water gives entire relief, as instantaneously as the lightning. Meanwhile, get some common dry flour, and apply it an inch or two thick on the injured part, the moment it emerges from the water, and keep sprinkling on the flour through anything like a pepper-box cover, so as to put it on evenly. Do nothing else, drink nothing but water, eat nothing, until improvement commences, except some dry bread softened in very weak tea of some kind. Cures of frightful burnings have been performed in this way, as wonderful as they are painless.

Erysipelas, a disease often coming without premonition, and ending fatally in three or four days, is sometimes promptly cured by applying a poultice of raw cranberries pounded, and placed on the part over night.

Insect bites, and even that of a rattlesnake, have passed harmless, by stirring enough of common salt in the yolk of a good egg to make it sufficiently thin for a plaster, to be kept on the bitten parts.

Neuralgia and toothache are sometimes speedily relieved by applying to the wrist a quantity of bruised or grated horse radish.

Costive bowels have an agreeable remedy in the free use of tomatoes at meals—their seeds acting in the way of the seeds of white mustard or figs, by stimulating the coats of the bowels over which they pass, in their whole state, to increased action.

A remedy of equal efficiency, in the same direction, is cracked wheat—that is, common white wheat grains, broken into two or three pieces, and then boiled until it is as soft as rice, and eaten mainly at two meals of the day, with butter or molasses.

Common sweet cider, boiled down to one-half, makes a most excellent syrup for coughs and colds for children—is pleasant to the taste, and will keep throughout the year in a cool cellar.

In recovering from an illness, the system has a craving for some pleasant acid drink. This is found in cider which is placed on the fire as soon as made, and allowed to come to a boil, then cooled, put in casks, and kept in a cool cellar. Treated thus, it remains for many months as good as the day it was made.

We once saved the life of an infant which had been inadvertently drugged with laudanum, and was fast sinking into the sleep which has no awakening, by giving it strong coffee, cleared with the white of an egg, a teaspoonful every five minutes until it ceased to seem drowsy.—Hall's Journal of Health.

—The "American Normal School Association" and the "National Teachers' Association" will hold their Annual Conventions at Cleveland, Ohio; the former on the 15th and 16th of August, the latter on the three following days. A large number of the most eminent educators in America will favor the Association with lectures, essays, or reports. The exercises promise to be of great interest and importance. It is hoped that New England will be represented in the Conventions.

WEDNESDAY, JULY 27, 1870.

THE EUROPEAN UNPLEASANTNESS. American and Prussian freight not contraband of war will be respected in Prussian bottoms.

The Hamburg line of steamers will be suspended after one more departure from New York, not so much from fear of seizure as on account of the difficulty there will be in making port by reason of obstructions in the rivers and harbors.

Four or five vessels will be added to our European squadron with a view of protection to American vessels during the war. Although the Congressional appropriation is strictly confined to a peace establishment, the Navy Department will to the full extent of its means fit out vessels for sea in behalf of our commercial marine. Neither France or Prussia will be permitted to purchase vessels or warlike supplies in this country.

Paris is to be fortified.

Empress Eugenie goes to the front in a day or two.

It turns out that previous to the declaration of war, Prussia refused to agree to a proposition from France for France to take Belgium and Prussia to swallow Holland.

The English feeling has been profoundly moved by the publication of the proposed treaty between France and Prussia. The grave urgency with which Mr. Disraeli, in the House, questioned the government, justly reflected the general emotion. The conversation among members turned on no other topic. Mr. Gladstone's reply, while declining absolutely to commit the Government to any opinion or declaration whatever, betrayed in the manner more than in the words an unmistakable apprehension that the document might prove authentic. His answer was given with a pale face and hesitating lips, and when he sat down the House felt that England's relation with the Continental trouble had grown suddenly close if not alarming.

The war enthusiasm in France is said to be dying out.

The Minister of France at Stuttgart was insulted before his departure, by the populace.

Austria has issued a proclamation of neutrality similar to that made by Russia.

Gleaned and Ground.

Commissioner Douglass advises collectors that dividends declared on August 1st, 1870, are subject to a tax at the rate of 2 1-2 per cent., and dividends declared prior to that date are subject to a tax of 5 per cent.

Ferlehard is Paradol's successor.

John A. Mack, the negro minstrel, died at San Rafael, Cal., Sunday.

At Cincinnati, 56 deaths from drowning and 12 from sunstroke have been reported thus far this summer.

The President and Secretary Robeson are at Long Branch.

The increase of the net debt of Boston, during the past year, was $2,168,133.99.

Michael Kennedy and John W. Clark were killed by the fall of a grain elevator at the Boston & Lowell depot in Boston, on Monday.

Austria will not recognize papal infallibility.

The war prospect is interfering with our finances to such an extent that the Secretary of the Treasury is not likely, he says, to make any arrangements at present for carrying out the funding bill, though he will go on getting his bonds ready so as to be in a position to avail himself of the first favorable opportunity.

Ex-Collector Grinnell's papers show that during his term the revenues have been more closely collected than under any previous officer.

Gold, Tuesday, 121 1-8.

CURRANT ICE.—This ice makes a very handsome as well as a palatable dish. To one pint of currant juice, obtained by squeezing the berries through a piece of flannel, add one quart of water, and two pounds of sugar. Beat to a froth the whites of four eggs, and stir into the juice, just before it is placed in the freezer. Beat it well in with the ice cream beater, and it will freeze in a bright pink froth. Grate a cocoanut, mix it with sugar, and serve in the same saucer with the currant ice. The contrast is attractive, the taste unequaled by any other similar confection. Country Gentleman.

STEAMED FOWLS.—Fowls are much better steamed than boiled, and especially when there is no veal stock on hand to boil them in. When steamed, the juices should be saved by placing a pan under the strainer to catch all the drips. Drawn butter, plain, or seasoned with parsley or celery, is the most common sauce used for boiled fowls. Liver-sauce is good, but when oysters can be had oyster sauce is to be preferred above all others.

New Hampshire Items.

A post office has been established on Berwick side, and Uranus O. Brackett has been appointed post-master.

An Irishman named Michael Riley killed his wife Catherine, in Manchester on Sunday. He was not drunk, strange to say.

The homestead of the late President Pierce is not to be made a summer hotel, as has been reported.

A serious fire ocurred at Colebrook on Sunday last. The following are the names of the losers:—V. F. Day, shoe store and post-office, $2500; J. W. Savage, tailor, $1000; H. C. The damaged caused by removing goods from houses and stores, not burned, was great.

Rev. C. A. Downs of Lebanon has been appointed State Mineralogist.

Two years ago the fish commissioners of the State placed a few black bass in the clear waters of Sunapee lake, and this summer, for the first time, it appears that they have been spawning to good effect. Numbers of young bass about four inches long have appeared, and there is a prospect that the lake will soon be well stocked with this fish.

The blacksmith shop, with all the tools of Mr. William Robinson, in Dover, was burned on Sunday morning last. Loss about $2000. This is the first fire in that city for nearly a year.

The foxes are destroying the turkeys in the northern part of the State.

All the woolen mills in Cheshire County are starting up, war news making a prospective demand for their goods.

Rev. B. F. Hay of Hartford, Vt., has accepted a call from the Congregational Church at New Ipswich.

DESTRUCTIVE FIRES.—At East Boston, Monday afternoon, fire broke out in the drying rooms of the planing mills of W. & J. F. Bennett, fronting on Border Street. The flames spread rapidly and Boston, Cambridge, Charlestown, Chelsea and Somerville sent engines to assist in quenching it. About 60 buildings were burned on Border, Meridian, London, Porter, Havre, Paris, Chelsea and Bremen Streets. The Baptist and Presbyterian churches were burned. Loss about $500,000.

At the same time a fire on Washington Street, Boston, did $100,000 damages. A fireman named William Lewis fell through a scuttle, (on the building occupied by A. M. Lunt) and was killed.

A destructive fire broke out at So. Berwick village, Me., at 12 o'clock Monday night. It commenced in Central building and burnt that large building to the ground. The loss on the building was $7500, and stock, &c., $13,000; partially insured. The fire next communicated to the frame building owned and occupied by Jos. P. Davis, which was totally consumed, together with its stock; loss $3000; not insured. The adjoining building, owned by Charles Raymond, and occupied for a milinery store and dwelling, was totally consumed; loss $2000. Also the building owned by John A. Hooper, and occupied for a fruit store and dwelling; loss $1500. Mrs. Ruth G. Witt's store and dwelling, Noah Pike's store and dwelling, Chas. Walling's store and dwelling, Chas. E. Whitehead's clothing store and dwelling, and a building occupied by Miss Linton for a millinery store, were also consumed. A house and barn owned by D. Farmington were also totally destroyed. The loss on these latter buildings and contents was about $13,000, and the total loss is some $40,000, upon which there is an insurance of some $17,000. The fire took in the rooms of the Young Men's Christian Association from some unknown cause. There was a lack of water.

☞ Hoosac Division, No. 25, Sons of Temperance, in Kensington, is in a fine condition, and has more than a hundred members. There is no place in the town where liquor is publicly sold; and those people who wish to drink are obliged to depend on the town fathers for their liquors. If the laws could be enforced against liquor dealers, and also against those persons who rent their stores to liquor dealers, the condition of many people and the happiness of many wives and children would be greatly improved.

SPECIAL NOTICES.

The Blood is Summer.

The blood deteriorates in hot weather. Profuse perspiration deprives it of a portion of its nourishing and reproductive properties. Consequently, in Summer, the flesh loses in some degree its firmness, the muscles lack their usual elasticity and vigor, and the weight of the body diminishes. These are clear indications that the ordinary supply of the life-sustaining principle afforded by the food we eat, is not sufficient to meet the requirements of the system under a high temperature. There is another reason for this, besides the direct influence of the heat, viz: the loss of appetite and the weakening of the digestive powers which it occasions.

Under these circumstances a wholesome invigorant is evidently needed, and the best and safest is HOSTETTER'S STOMACH BITTERS. This admirable vegetable tonic and alterative, acts favorably upon the system in several ways. It increases the appetite and facilitates digestion, thereby inclining the stomach to receive and enabling it to assimilate a due amount of nourishment. It also tones the relaxed secretive organs and the bowels. Under its operation the process of emaciation, occasioned by the drain through the pores is arrested, the whole frame refreshed and invigorated, and the spirits exhilarated. The dyspeptic, the bilious, the nervous, the debilitated, scarcely need to be told that it is precisely the stimulant and corrective they ought to take at this season. Thousands of them know the fact by experience. Nothing in the pharmacopoia (or out get it) will supply its place—least of all the trashy local nostrums which some unscrupulous dealers would be glad, for the benefit of their own pockets, to peddle out in its stead.

CURE FOR CONSUMPTION.

What the Doctors Say:

AMOS WOOLLEY, M. D., of Kosciusko County, Indiana, says: "For three years past I have used ALLEN'S LUNG BALSAM extensively, in my practice, and I am satisfied there is no better medicine for lung diseases in use."

ISAAC A. DORAN, M. D., of Logan County, Ohio, says: "ALLEN'S LUNG BALSAM not only sells rapidly but gives perfect satisfaction in every case within my knowledge. Having confidence in it and knowing that it possesses valuable medicinal properties, I freely use it in my daily practice and with unbounded success. As an expectorant it is most certainly far ahead of any preparation I have ever yet known."

NATHANIEL HARRIS, M. D., of Middlebury, Vermont, says: I have no doubt it will soon become a classical remedial agent for the cure of all diseases of the Throat, Bronchial Tubes and the Lungs.

Physicians do not recommend a medicine which has no merits, what they say about

ALLEN'S LUNG BALSAM,

Can be taken as a tact. Let all afflicted test it at once. Sold by all Medicine Dealers.

BRANDRETH'S PILLS.

Their great value consists in this: They may be used so long as any disease affects any of the body; and by thus persevering in their use the disease will be cured, and the body restored to health, free from every taint and impurity. Their reputation proves their merit.

Thomas Smith, Coroner and Justice of the Peace, Hastings-on-the-Hudson, says BRANDRETH'S PILLS cured him of Dyspepsia and Heartburn, when every other medicine had failed to relieve him. Certificate dated April 2, 1868.

Dr. Turner, of Savannah, Ga., says he has, for nearly forty years, recommended BRANDRETH'S PILLS as a specific in Yellow Fever; that he never knew a patient to die who took them for this malady, being otherwise sound. Their prompt use takes out of the body those matters which feed the fatality of the disease. As a general family medicine he considers them far in advance of all others, and here he speaks from personal experience of their qualities. mh12

FREEMAN'S IRON MANDRAKE SYRUP,

FREEMAN'S IRON MANDRAKE SYRUP,

FREEMAN'S IRON MANDRAKE SYRUP,

It excels all other Iron preparations in the combination with Mandrake and Vegetable Tonics, so that the Liver is acted on to remove bile and impurities from the system, while the vegetable tonics strengthen the stomach and promote the digestion of Iron with the food and its absorption into the blood. It renovates the system and is the best medicine.

MANDRAKE is the Great Vegetable substitute for calomel to act on liver. In FREEMAN'S IRON MANDRAKE SYRUP it is combined with Iron and Vegetable Tonics, and forms the most perfect medicine. It purifies the blood and imparts IRON to it. It acts on the Liver and removes foul humors from the body. It is a most excellent remedy for debility, especially for mothers who are worn down by nursing infants, and for all persons whose blood is poor, and who need Iron and a strengthening medicine. 2mcodawjy25

LOCAL AFFAIRS.

New Advertisements to-day.

Sealed Proposals—Edwin Putnam.
Notice—Dr. A. P. Stevens.

THE DAY "WE" CELEBRATE.—This is just it, and all the "wes" will be there, from far and near. First, the Maine Association of Publishers, Editors and Printers, and the New Hampshire ditto, will hold their annual Conventions, at the Ocean House, Rye Beach; and the Officers of the Massachusetts and Vermont Associations, with many other civil, political and military dignitaries, will be present to join in the socialities of the occasion. A very large company of ladies and gentlemen is expected, and a grand time is anticipated.

The programme is something like this. The Boston guests will stop at North Hampton, the Maine people the same, and the N. H. and Vermont visitors at Greenland Depot of the C. & P. R.; and all will take carriages to the Ocean House. Here the proceedings of interest to the public, will be, at 8 o'clock this evening, Music by H. C. Barnabee and a splendid quartet; brief addresses by Mr. Blaine and other editors or ex-editors, a poem by Mr. Shillaber; and at 10 o'clock a grand Ball given by the proprietors of the Ocean House, for which the most complete arrangements are made, and many of our prominent citizens are among the invited guests.

Thursday morning, the party will take steamer Favorite for the Shoals, return and dine at the great Sagamore Tent, visit the Navy Yard, and proceed to Portsmouth in season for the trains home. And may all enjoy themselves to their hearts' content.

☞ All the Hotels, Railroads, Steamboats, Musicians, and other public bodies in this vicinity, have generously afforded every facility in their power, to render the visit of the Editors pleasant. For lack of sufficient hotel accommodations, it has been deemed impossible to receive them creditably here; and so it was arranged for the party to merely land from the Navy Yard, and pass through Portsmouth to the Depots.

But it is now suggested that a considerable number of them, with their ladies, may remain in the city until the evening trains, in which case it would be desirable to spread at least a collation for them in Congress Hall or some other suitable place, if supper could not be furnished at the hotels. Several public-spirited editors have expressed to us a desire to aid in such a compliment to our distinguished visitors, should it be practicable.

☞ Officers Barsantee and Stearns arrested a man (drunk, of course,) for brawling in the street, and one of the officers had his clothes torn by the fellow, who was obliged to pay $8.76 for his amusement, on Tuesday. Shortly after making this arrest, the same officers visited a house on Church Hill, where a law-abiding citizen was disciplining his wife, and the pair disturbing the entire neighborhood with their noise and tumult, — and poured oil on the troubled waters by convincing the loving husband that he had got to give up his amusement or be more quiet over it.

The same evening, Officers Taylor and Rand were attracted by a great outcry to a house not far from Liberty Bridge, where another family fight was in progres; and had hardly got the brawlers quiet, when they were called to quell another domestic riot in Hunking Street. Rum was at the bottom of all these disturbances, as it is of most crimes that are committed anywhere.

Correspondence of the Chronicle and Gazette.

KITTERY, ME., July 23.

Messrs. Editors:—I wish to correct a statement in your Monday's issue made by your correspondent "R." from Kittery. He says the Republicans of this town, as well as several of the delegates to the late Convention at Saco, in caucus, pledged their support to Mr. Lynch. The facts are they neither pledged themselves for or against Mr. Lynch. When men make such statements as those of your correspondent R., in the face and eyes of plain facts, they evidently belong to one of three classes. Those that do not know how to state facts, those that are addicted to habitual misrepresentation, and those that falsify from mercenary motives. The surest way for Mr. Lynch to insure his defeat so far as this town is concerned, is to send in a few more workers with instructions to pursue the same course as that adopted by those now at work here in his interest. They are goading men into opposition that would otherwise support him. ***

☞ A Fair is to be opened at Gosport to-day, and will continue two weeks. See advertisement.

THE INFERNAL CREEK CESS POOL sent out such a foul odor, Monday night, that residents within half a mile were obliged to close doors and windows, and suffer heat rather than encounter the abominable smell. We speak of what we know of the nuisance, and we know of two families, living on Islington, Street a quarter of a mile from the cess-pool, whose members were all awakened and made sick for hours by the suffocating stench.

It is high time that the Eastern Railroad should fulfil its agreement with the city, in this matter, and fill up the pool. The case is one of urgent necessity. We are having a heated term which is more oppressive than for many years. Sickness is already on the increase and filth at the Creek lies several feet deep, rotting and emitting a most nauseous odor. The people of that section are being poisoned because of it. The effect is more and more lasting. A pestilence will soon result unless prompt action prevents, should the intense heat continue. We make a loud call for the relief of a fifth of the population of Portsmouth. The nuisance is an intolerable one and should be immediately abated.

☞ John Morrissey, (not the New York rough, gambling-hell proprietor and Congressman, but a much more respectable personage,) a boy employed in the shoe store of Mr. D. L. Leavitt, fell into the water alongside the steamer Favorite, Monday, and was rescued by Mr. Chas. H. Joy, after having sunk twice. "Large bodies move slowly," as a general thing, but a good sized "body" moved pretty quick on this occasion,—so we are told.

☞ We are informed that the Summer complaint is very prevalent in this city. There is not probably a better remedy than Garden Wormwood, steeped in hot water, taken strong, mixed with a little liquor, or without it. All persons, especially youth, should avoid eating green, unripe fruit.

☞ A great Press of visitors is expected at Rye Beach this week. The Farragut, Atlantic and Sea View Houses, as well as the Ocean, have kindly placed all their available room at the disposal of the Com. of Arr.

BASE BALL. — The much talked of game between the Granite States of this city and the Sawyers of Dover, will take place to-day at South Berwick. Success to the Granites.

SUNDAY EXCURSION.—We understand that steamer Favorite, Capt. Davidson, will go to Biddeford from this city next Sunday, returning in the evening. Fare for the trip, $1.

☞ We learn that Steamer Favorite, Capt. Davidson, will run regularly between this city and Star Island, hereafter, on the arrival and departure of trains.

ADMIRAL FARRAGUT is a trifle better. He was very sick on Saturday and his son was sent for.

☞ U. S. Steamer Speedwell goes to Boston to-day for naval stores.

☞ Surgeon Thomas W. Leach has been ordered to this Navy Yard.

TIME is money in the Chronicle Office.

☞ A Washington special states our navy is to be placed on a war footing immediately.

THE GIPSIES.—These wandering people with fine wagons and horses encamp on our roads, much to the annoyance of quiet people. They seem given to basket-making, horse-trading, begging and fortune telling; and like the world in the time of Falstaff, some of them seem very much given to lying.

☞ Seabrook has gained sixty inhabitants since the last census, while East Kingston and South Hampton hardly hold their own.

These bonds have 50 years to run, are convertible at the option of the holder into the stock of the company at par, and the payment of the principal is provided for by a sinking fund. The convertibility feature attached to these bonds cannot fail to cause them at no distant day to command a market price considerably above par, besides paying about 9 per cent., currency, interest in the meanwhile. U. S. five-twenties, at present prices only return five per cent.; and we regard the security equally good.

The greater part of the road is already completed, and the balance of the work is rapidly progressing.

The established character of this road, running as it does through the heart of the most thickly settled and richest portion of the great State of Iowa, together with its present advanced condition and large earnings warrant us in unhesitatingly recommending these bonds to investors, as, in every respect, an undoubted security.

TESTIMONIALS.

"I regard Mr. Eddy as one of the most capable and successful practitioners with whom I have had official intercourse. CHARLES MASON, Commissioner of Patents."

"I have no hesitation in assuring inventors that they cannot employ a man more competent and trustworthy and more capable of putting their applications in a form to secure for them an early and favorable consideration at the Patent Office. EDMUND BURKE, Late Commissioner of Patents.

"MR. R. H. EDDY has made for me THIRTEEN applications, in all but ONE of which patents have been granted, and that one is now in form. Every unmistakable proof of great talent and ability on his part leads me to recommend ALL inventors to apply to him to procure their Patents, as they may be sure of having the most faithful attention bestowed on their cases, and at very reasonable charges. JOHN TAGHART."

ARE YOU GOING TO PAINT?
IF SO, SELECT THE BEST, which is the
AVERILL CHEMICAL PAINT.
It has proved itself, West, North and South, to be the best Paint known. It will not peel, crack, nor chalk off, and will last twice as long as the best Lead Paints.

It is cheaper, handsomer and more elastic, than the best of other mixed Paints. It is the most convenient Paint made, being mixed ready for application; it dries rapidly, and retains its shade perfectly, with a beautiful surface and glossy finish, and for years retains its original luster. It is excellent for walls inside, in the place of paper, making a smooth glossy finish, which can be cleaned with hot soap and water.

One Gallon of Mixed Lead Paint weighs 20 lbs. and costs $2.72, and will only cover 16 square yds. 2 coats: while one gallon of the Chemical Paint only weighs 10 lbs., and costs but $2.50, and will cover 20 square yds., 2 coats,—thus making a saving of 22 cts., per gallon, besides covering 4 yards more than Lead Paint, and will last twice as long and look far better.

The Chemical Paint is sold by the gallon in quantities to suit purchasers, in 40 different shades and pure white, and will be supplied by experienced workmen if satisfaction given in every case; or in case of dissatisfaction, at any time after put on, the whole cost of Paint will be refunded.

The sale of these unequalled Paints are daily increasing. Call and examine these ready mixed Paints, both in kegs, and applied to Buildings one year ago, before buying elsewhere, and save your money and money, and beautify your dwelling by using the

LITTLE WASHER, unlike all others, light and portable, weighing only ten pounds, is sold for the small price of five dollars. Adjusts itself to any article from a Pocket-handkerchief to a
LARGE BED SPREAD,
without alteration. Can be fitted to any tub, and removed at pleasure.
If you will use this little common sense washing machine, you will do the work of half a day in 2 hours.
RICHARDSON'S LITTLE WASHER does not tear or wear the clothes, no matter how fine the fabric. Clothes are straightened out, and passed back and forth, between the rollers till clean.
Remember and always have a good strong and hot suds.
Put your Pocket handkerchiefs, Cuffs, Collars, Napkins and Fringes into a sheet or Pillow slip and wash perfectly clean, in two or three minutes. We wash at one time, two or three sheets gathered at the hem, six Pillow slips, six Towels, two or three Cotton Shirts, one pair Heavy Pants or two pairs light ones, one heavy Spread or Blanket, always putting the smaller things inside something larger or longer.
Wherever this Little Washer has been introduced the sale has been unprecedened, having sold upwards of three hundred in Dover, N. H., in less than two months; two thirds of the purchasers had been using large awkward machines costing from five to eighteen dollars; all a failure, one great complaint being that they are heavy and no woman can work them.
Richardson's has taken a Silver Medal in Springfield, Mass., at Mechanic's Fair in 1868, and other places were exhibited.
A Lady who has not washed for three years, told her neighbors she did her washing, with that Little Washer, with ease, consequently they ordered one, and the question all over town is, have you got a RICHARDSON'S LITTLE WASHER?

Morning Chronicle.

Correspondence of the Chronicle and Gazette.

BOSTON, July 26.

From small causes magnificent results are often obtained. Disproportionate endings to small beginnings are, generally, only realized from those things which are useless or really injurious to the welfare of humanity. "How great a matter a little fire kindleth." Your town was well nigh destroyed a half century since, to gratify the spite of a discharged servant girl. One Canada thistle in a field this season, will scatter its seed so as to spring up broadcast over a whole farm next year. On the other hand, people who reap the benefits of the machines for mowing and weaving, for knitting and sewing, seldom calculate what it has cost in brains and money to give these labor saving inventions their present prominence in our every day life.

The day for hiding one's light under a bushel long since went past, and the inventor who to-day calmly folds his hands after having successfully worked out some capital idea, is far from being on the road to good fortune. He has the world to convince of the value of his invention.

A few years since, Mr. Benj. O. Woods, of this city, patented the Novelty Job Printing Press, a portable, cheap and simple press, and one that is capable of doing most excellent work. Realizing that so long as the knowledge of its merits was limited, the invention was of little value to himself or others, he began to advertise his press in a modest way, increasing his outlay in this direction in a ratio equivalent to his receipts.

Having a really excellent press, not only for amateurs, but for business purposes and for country printers, its popularity has grown with its extended introduction, and to-day I am informed that Mr. Woods' monthly bills for the type furnished with his presses, to one concern, (the oldest type foundry in New England,) are equal to the whole sales of that establishment a dozen years since.

Not in America alone are these little presses in demand. A few days since I noticed one packed for Dr. Gould, of the Board of Instruction in the Argentine Republic, to be used in the National Observatory there. The week previous one was sent to the island of Mauritius. From Vienna and other distant points, orders have been received and filled for these presses.

Commendations of this press sufficient to fill your paper many times have been received, from printers, from druggists and from manufacturers, but of them I do not purpose to say more.

I was only led to mention this press at all by the sight of two little papers which had been printed therein. One is the School Reporter, printed by pupils of the High School at Santa Clara, Cal., and the other is issued by students of the University at Northfield, Vt. Made up entirely of matter relating to the seminaries where they are published, these little periodicals will ever be cherished mementoes in the estimation of the pupils. Every school of this class should have its own publication, to preserve memories of a period in life on which most of us look back with pleasure. Aside from this, the pupils who attend to the editing and issuing of the paper are gaining an insight into one of the most popular professions. M.

DICKENS' HOME AT GAD'S HILL.—The spot is one of the lovliest in Kent, and must always be remembered as the last residence of Charles Dickens. He used to declare his firm belief that Shakespeare was specially fond of Kent, and that the poet chose Gad's Hill and Rochester for the scenery of his plays from intimate personal knowledge of their localities. He said he had no manner of doubt but that one of Shakespeare's haunts was the old inn at Rochester, and that this conviction came forcibly upon him one night as he was walking that way, and discovered Charles Wain over the chimney just as Shakespeare has described it, in words put into the mouth of the carrier in King Henry the Forth.

There is no prettier place than Gad's Hill in all England, for the earliest and latest flowers, and Dickens chose it, when he had arrived at the fulness of his fame and prosperity, as the home in which he most wished to spend the remainder of his days. When a boy, he would often pass the house with his father, and frequently said to him, "If ever I have a dwelling of my own, Gad's Hill Place is the house I mean to buy." In that beautiful retreat he has for many years been accustomed to welcome his friends, and find relaxation from the crowded life of London. On the lawn playing at bowls, in the Swiss summer-house charmingly shaded by green leaves, he always seemed the best part of himself. Beautified as the season is in the delightful region where he lived.—Atlantic Monthly for August.

—The Bazar says red hair should be kept as wavy and light as possible.

THE QUILL FRATERNITY.—It is agreeably to the following votes and resolutions, that the Union Meeting of Editors from the Pine Tree State and the Granite State will be holden to-day. At the meeting of the Maine Association, at Portland, last year, the N. H. editors present as guests:

Resolved, That like the Judean Shepherds of old, we have been drawn by the Star in the East, and we are here with our hearts in our hands for your acceptance.

Resolved, That so long as pine trees grow and granite endures, we will cherish the memory of the courtesies we have here received from our fellow-craftsmen of Maine.

Resolved, That as members of the New Hampshire Editors' and Publishers' Association, we tender our hearty thanks to our Maine brethren for this kind invitation to attend their annual meeting, and for their very generous hospitalities and attentions, with the assurance that it will ever be a pleasure to us to welcome them individually to our homes or collectively to our State, as cordially and heartily as they have us on this occasion—more we could not do.

And the verses below very beautifully commemorate the pleasant event:

The Bridal of the Granite and Pine.

BY E. D. BOYLSTON.

The hills of New Hampshire to the valleys of Maine
Repeat their kind greetings again and again;
Delighted her press-gang with yours to combine,
The Granite appears to honor the Pine.

His beautiful rays, like their Author benign,

Old Ocean's proud billows rolling in state,
Alike have our shores, our joint service await;
While the sweet winds of heaven know not the line
That divides from each other the Granite and Pine.

The fleecy clouds gather far up on our hills,
Formed of the amber that feedeth the rills,
And guided by a Hand all-loving, divine, [Pine.
Poor their rich treasures o'er the Granite and

The streams of the mountains run down to the sea,
Rejoicing in blessing, wherever they be;
The Androscoggin, the Saco, both mine and thine,
Born of the Granite and blessing the Pine.

Your lands join the lands of no other state,
Though others as worthy your service await;
Yet thus the Maker would seem to design
To speak of friendship to the Granite and Pine.

True to the teachings of nature and art,
We give to each other a warm hand and heart,
And pledge in true words, 'neath this your vine,
To love and to cherish the Granite and Pine.

—There is a woman in the town of Harmony, Chatauqua county, N. Y., who has not spoken to her husband in twenty-one years. In the year 1849 her husband contradicted her harshly in the presence of company, and she threatened that if he did not behave better toward her she would never speak to him again. He retorted that he wished she wouldn't; and she has not since then spoken to him. They have had during the long silence several children. Everything goes on at their house as usual with farmers. The husband is attentive, and does his conversing with his wife through one of the children. For instance, he will ask a child at the table, "will your mother have some more meat?" Or at another time, "is your mother going to town with me to day?" The family is wealthy, and belongs to the better class of Chatauqua farmers and respectable citizens.—Jamestown Jour.

AYER'S

HAIR VIGOR,

For Restoring Gray Hair to its Natural Vitality and Color.

A Dressing which is at once agreeable, healthy, and effectual for Preserving the Hair. Faded or gray Hair is soon restored to its original color, with the gloss and freshness of youth. Thin hair is thickened, falling hair checked, and baldness often, though not always, cured by its use.

Nothing can restore the hair where the follicles are destroyed, or the roots made shriveled and decayed. But such as remains can be saved for usefulness by this application. Instead of fouling the hair with a pasty sediment, it will keep it clean and vigorous. Its occasional use will prevent the hair from turning gray or falling off, and consequently prevent baldness. Free from those deleterious substances which make some preparations dangerous and injurious to the hair, the Vigor, can only benefit but not harm it.

If wanted merely for a HAIR DRESSING, nothing else can be found so desirable. Containing neither oil nor dye, it does not soil white cambric, and yet lasts long on the hair, giving it a rich glossy lustre and a gradual perfume.

SAM LAWSON ON COURTIN'.—By Harriet Beecher Stowe.—"I 'member I used to lead the singin' in them days, and Miry used to sing counter, so we sot putty near together in the singers' seats; and I used to think Sunday mornin's when she come to meetin' in her white dress and her red cheeks and her bonnet all tipped off with laylock, that 'twas for all the world jest like a June sunrise to have her come into the singers' seats. Them was the days that I didn't improve my privileges, boys," said Sam, sighing deeply. "There was times that ef I'd a spoke, there's no knowin' what might'nt' 'a' happened, 'cause you see, boys, I was better lookin' in them days than I be now. Now you mind, boys, when you grow up, ef you get to waitin' on a nice gal, and you're 'most a mind to speak up to her, don't you go and put it off, 'cause ef you do, you may live to repent it.

Wal, you see from the time that Bill Elderkin come and took the academy, I could see plain enough that it was time for me to hang up my fiddle, Bill he used to set in the singers' seats, too, and he would have it that he sung tenor. He no more sung tenor than a skunk blackbird, but he made b'lieve he did, jest to git next to Miry in the singers' seats, and then they used to be writin' backward and forward to each other till they tore out all the leaves of the hymn-books, and the singin'-books besides. Wal, I never thought that the house o' the Lord was jest the place to be courtin' in, and I used to get consid'able shocked at the way things went on atween 'em. Why, they'd be a writin' all sermon-time; and I've seen him a lookin' at her all through the long prayer in a way that wa'n't right, considerin' they was both professors of religion. But then the fact was, old Black Hoss John was to blame for it, 'cause he never let 'em have no chance to home. Ye see old Black Hoss he was sot ag'in Elderkin 'cause he was poor. You see his mother, the old Widdah Elderkin, she was jest about the poorest, peakedest old body over to Sherburne, and went out to days' work, and Bill Elderkin he was all for books and larnin', and old Black Hoss John he thought it was just shiftfulness; but Miry she thought he was a genius, and she got it sot in her mind that he was goin' to be President o' the United States, or some sich.

Wal, old Black Hoss he wa'n't none too polite to Miry's beaux in gineral, but when Elderkin used to come to see her he was snarlier than a saw; he hadn't a good word for him noways; and he'd rake up the fire right before his face and eyes, and rattle about fastening up the windows, and tramp up to bed and call down the chamber-stairs to Miry to go to bed, and was sort o' aggravatin' every way.

Wal, ef folks wants to get a gal set on havin' a man, that are's the way to go to work. Miry had a consid'able stiff will of her own, and ef she didn't care about Tom Beacon before, she hated him now; and ef she liked Bill Elderkin before, she was clean gone over to him now; and so she took to go-in' to the Wednesday-evening lecture, and the Friday-evening prayer-meetin', and the singing-school, jest as regular as a clock, and so did he; and afterwards they always walked home the longest way. Fathers may jest as well let their gals be courted in the house, peaceable, 'cause if they can't be courted there, they'll find places where they can be: it's jest human natur'."—Atlantic Monthly, August.

A SHORT ROMANCE.—The night was klare without a fog, Mat and I sat on a log. Her ize was cast upon the ski, and her breast did hove with many a sigh. Her hair was black as the blackest cat, and her lips, Jerusalem! hold my hat? My arm was around her little waist, and I got ready her lips to taste; but whenever I do a thing so chaste, I never am in much of a haste.

'Tis sade when yu kiss the Nu York girls, with pretty blue ize and hair that curls, they ask you what you are about, and give you a slap right on the snout. The Western girls tha make no bother, if you kiss them on one cheek tha turn the other. But give me a Vermont girl for kissin'—tha beet all others clean to nothin'. Whenever yu give one on 'em a smack, they purse up their lips and kiss you back.

But to mi story; mi dearest reader, don't get weary; for if I did get off mi track, I've now, without trouble, found mi wa back, and mi way again I'll never lose, as sure as this is poetry or proze.

I pressed Mattie's form tu mine, and looked down in her ize, and as I took her hand in mine, I kuddent breeth fur sighs. Nearer, nearer, mi lips tu hers did sneak; I felt her warm breth on mi cheek; I give her little hand a squeeze, when, raising up her hed, she sed: "Take care, Jeems, till I sneeze!"

—The statistics of the New York Tribune, showing the last vote in New York city in comparison with the population, were erroneous. The figures published were by mistake only partial returns. There is no doubt corruption and illegal voting enough in New York, without exaggerating the statements.

AYER'S CATHARTIC PILLS,
FOR ALL PURPOSES of a LAXATIVE MEDICINE,
Perhaps no one medicine is so universally required by everybody as a cathartic, nor was ever any before so universally adopted into use, in every country and among all classes, as this mild but efficient purgative PILL. The obvious reason is that it is a more reliable and far more efficacious remedy than any other. Those who have tried it, know that it cured them; those who have not, know that it cures their neighbors and friends and all know that what it does once it does always—that it never fails through any fault or neglect of its composition. We have thousands upon thousands of certificates of their remarkable cures of the following complaints, but such cures are known in every neighborhood, and we need not publish them. Adapted to all ages and conditions in all climates; containing neither calomel or any other noxious drug, they may be taken with safety by anybody. Their sugar coating preserves them ever fresh and makes them pleasant to take, while being purely vegetable no harm can arise from their use in any quantity.

They operate by their powerful influence on the internal viscera to purify the blood and stimulate it into healthy action—remove the obstructions of the stomach, bowels, liver, and other organs of the body, restoring their irregular action to health, and by correcting, wherever they exist, such derangements as are the first origin of disease.

Minute directions are given in the wrapper on the box, for the following complaints, which there PILLS rapidly cure:—

For Dyspepsia or Indigestion, Listlessness, Languor and Loss of Appetite, they should be taken as a dinner pill, to stimulate the stomach and restore its healthy tone and action.

For Liver Complaint and its various symptoms, Bilious Headache, Sick Headache, Jaundice or Green Sickness, Bilious Colic and Bilious Fevers, they should be judiciously taken for each case, to correct the diseased action or remove the obstructions which cause it.

For Dysentery or Diarrhœa, but one mild dose is generally required.

For Rheumatism, Gout, Gravel, Palpitation of the Heart, Pain in the Side, Back and Loins, they should be continuously taken, as required, to change the diseased action of the system. With such change those complaints disappear.

For Dropsy and Dropsical Swellings, they should be taken in large and frequent doses to produce the effect of a drastic purge.

For Suppression a large dose should be taken, as it produces the desired effect by sympathy.

As a DINNER PILL, take one or two PILLS to promote digestion and relieve the stomach.

An occasional dose stimulates the stomach and bowels into healthy action, restores the appetite, and invigorates the system. Hence it is often advantageous where no serious derangement exists. One who feels tolerably well, often finds that a dose of these PILLS makes him feel decidedly better, from their cleansing and renovating effect on the digestive apparatus. dawje23ecdm

WAR GOSSIP.—Nine French frigates, under full steam, passed Dover to the eastward Tuesday.

Several French cruisers were reported off Wyck, Scotland, Tuesday.

The Pall Mall Gazette, now that the real designs of the French Emperor are revealed, counsels England to make every preparation for war.

The Prussian authorities, at Bismark's earnest request, will allow newspaper correspondents to follow the army.

The French report another cavalry skirmish near Metz, and claim that the Prussians were beaten and lost three officers.

Persons residing under the walls of Paris have been notified to quit their houses as the space is required for the play of artillery.

Workmen are engaged on the fortifications of Paris. The journal Marseillaise, a peace organ, having been entirely deserted by its patrons, has suspended, and some of its editors and reporters have gone into the French army. The Bank of France will soon suspend specie payments.

The French gunboats to operate on the Rhine and the rivers in Prussia are transported from Marseilles in sections, overland.

Baron Gerolt has received the following despatch from his government: "Public opinion in England is favorable to North Germany, but the government is not favorable. She acts with the neutrality law against North Germany as she did against America with the Alabama."

A battle is said to have occurred Sunday, near Salins, in which 10,000 men were engaged, the Prussians winning, with a loss of 150 men, the French having 200 killed.

The correspondent of the Tribune interviewed General Bazaine and endeavored to accompany the French army. General Bazaine refused to examine his passports and letters from the American Legation, saying that by the Emperor's special desire all corps commanders were to use the greatest vigilance to prevent all persons not belonging to the army from accompanying it to Germany, and especially journalists. Private letters state that no stranger will be respected.

Formal orders have been given to shoot every man attempting to contravene orders against the press.

Correspondence of the Chronicle and Gazette.

YORK, ME., July 27th.

Messrs. Editors:—The Republican County Convention, held at Alfred, Tuesday, July 26th, was organized by the selection of John E. Butler, Esq., of Biddeford, as President, and Seth E. Bryant of Kennebunk and George Getchell of Wells, as Secretaries.

The following nominations were made:—John B. Nealley of South Berwick, Joseph C. Roberts of Waterboro', and Joseph Hobson of Saco, for Senators; John Hall of North Berwick, Treasurer; George C. Yeaton of So. Berwick, County Attorney; Amos L. Allen of Alfred, Clerk of Courts; Edmund Warren of Kennebunk, Sheriff; Cornelius Sweetser of Saco, Albert G. Hussey of Berwick, County Commissioners.

Messrs. Nealley, Roberts, Hall, Yeaton and Allen were nominated by acclamation. Messrs. Hobson and Hussey received all the ballots thrown. Mr. Sweetser was nominated by 7 majority. At the fourth balloting, Edmund Warren received 91 out of 153 ballots thrown.

A disposition was manifested by the members of the Convention to promote harmony, and the following was the only resolution offered by the committee on resolutions, which was unanimously adopted.

Resolved, That we hereby express our confidence in, and pledge our unswerving adherance to the principles of the Republican party.

Two bands of music were in attendance, the South Sealord and Buxton, and added much to the interest of the Convention by their cheering and enlivening strains.

The Convention adjourned sine die, and the delegates returned to their homes well pleased with the result.

Yours, P.

THE RAILROAD CASE.—The weather is too hot for much exciting discussion; but we will say a word or two on the much-mooted Concord Railroad dispute. While only one paper, so far as we know, is outright in favor of the Ring, (and that paper is owned and run by the leader of it,) there are one or two others which delight to shout about bribery, corruption, betrayal of the people's rights, &c., in this connection; but which still say they do not approve the Ring nor desire its success, more than the other side.

Now this is begging the question altogether, for while we may not choose between evils, nor do evil that good may come, still we should, as Jefferson so well said, when we can't do as we would, do the best we can,—and either the ring or the contract must and will be sustained, and he who is not for the contract, is against it.

And since we agree with the able and reliable Committee who examined the matter in the Legislature, and "regard this combination to buy the Road as the introduction of a corrupt and dangerous practice in this State, and believe the success of such a practice cannot fail to be most pernicious in its effect on railroad management and most prejudicial to the rights and interests of the public,"—therefore we were desirous to have the Contract made to prevent this, ratified and strengthened by every legal and moral means. The Committee referred to the fact that the legality of the contract is now being tested before the Courts; and without interfering with these at all, they were in favor of the Great and General Court approving it as far as it had the right and power—and we never heard that it attempted to go a step further than this, nor could it do so.

In any view we could ever take of it, we should oppose the Ring; and even if that is technically legal, and the contract technically illegal — we would give the benefit of the doubt to what we deem the equity of the case, and go in rather for justice without law, than for law without justice.

Gleaned and Ground.

The heat at Philadelphia Monday was intense. Fifteen cases of sunstroke were reported, seven fatal. Several mad dogs were shot. As Mrs. Margaret Seeter was walking on Fifteenth street, some person cried "mad dog." She turned and saw the dog immediately behind her and fell dead from fright.

Despatches received at the Navy Department from Yokohama say the country is at peace and the new government appears to work well, and is rapidly introducing important improvements of Western civilization.

A Young Men's Democratic Club was organized in Cincinnati, Monday night, and the members pleged their opposition to any one for Congress who is not opposed to Chinese immigration.

The petition to Governor Hoffman for a commutation of the sentence of John Real bears a large number of signatures, including those of several Catholic priests and of nearly all the New York common council.

The directors of the Buffalo Driving Park Association offer $2000 as a special premium to the horse that during the August races beats Dexter's time.

Laselle's Butcher Boy died while racing at the Fashion Course, Saturday. Loss $6000.

John Bright's health is improving.

In the British House of Commons, in reply to a question, Mr. Gladstone said that the negotiations for the settlement of the Alabama claims stood where they did a year and a half ago. The United States having declined the offer made by England, the next advance due was from the American government.

Reports from the frontier detail new outrages by the Indians. On the 14th instant Major McClellan, with 50 members of the 6th cavalry, while scouting from Fort Richardson, met 250 Indians, who gave battle, forcing the cavalry back eight miles, killing two and wounding eleven, among whom were Surgeon Hatch. Fifteen Indians were seen to fall. The cavalry was compelled to call for assistance from the fort to get back to their post. The Indians were armed with Spencer rifles and six-shooters, and were commanded by an able chief.

Cuban despatches say that 250 rebels were killed in the late battles in the Holquin or Puerto Principe jurisdiction.

The shore end of the Panama and West India cable was successfully landed at Batabano, Tuesday.

Three companies of artillery left Fortress Monroe Tuesday, for Raleigh, to aid Governor Holden in enforcing the laws in North Carolina. Governor Holden refuses to surrender to Chief Justice Pearson the citizens of Allemance County arrested and held by Kirk through the Governor's orders.

Correspondence of the Chronicle and Gazette.

NEWCASTLE, July 27th.

Messrs. Editors:—When I take a paper and pay for it, I like to read the truth from it, and now for a reply to "Victor" about farming. With no disrespect to Mr. Albee, the stock of this farm consists of one horse and cow; the hay cut this season is less than six tons; the hoed crops, vegetables, corn and potatoes spoken of, not more than one and a half acres; strawberries, &c.,—there were not forty boxes raised in the whole town this season. If such a farm and crops will support hired help and pay a tax of eighty dollars or more, there must be scientific skill about it worth knowing. Although my candlestick is under a bushel somewhat, still I think I know that potatoes don't grow on trees, or pumpkins on grape vines. I think a description of the farms, the condition of the roads, taxes, &c., would be interesting to farmers in the country. If so, in my next (if my tallow don't give out) I will gratify them — If they will loan me some money to pay my taxes. FARMER.

[We hope our correspondent will give his brother farmers the information spoken of, and trust to their generosity for payment of those taxes after he has enlightened them.—Eds. Chron.]

THE CHINESE SUPPLY AND DEMAND. In spite of Senator Cassserly's terrifying statistics of the possible inundation of Chinese immigrants, it appears that the people of California have not yet got enough of them. For the year ending with the 1st of July, at the Labor Exchange of San Francisco, where those wishing laborers and those wishing employment enrol themselves, 19,500 men were wanted, but only 14,662 provided. The supply, therefore, was 5000 short, and it was for skilled rather than crude labor, just such as the Chinese are capable of meeting.

Only 350 blacksmiths replied to 432 demands; 1445 carpenters to 1516 calls, and 1762 farm laborers where 2286 were wanted. It is to be inferred that the demand for household servants was still more urgent. It is no wonder, therefore, that most of the California papers throw cold water on the Memphis project of supplying the South at once with Chinese labor. California must first be served, and so well do the Chinese answer that the demand there is likely to keep ahead of the supply for a long time yet. When her labor wants are fully met it will be time enough for the South and the Northwest to take the surplus of Chinese immigration.

☞ The editor of the Manchester Mirror thinks Hon. Frank Jones is the most likely Democratic candidate for Governor. He says Mr. Jones is a self-made, self-reliant man, independent in his notions, is rich, makes money fast, is kind-hearted, generous, and a man of the people. He would make a strong candidate for a party that starts off every year with fine propects, but gets terribly beaten on the homestretch.

THE BUNCH OF QUILLS, at Rye Beach, Weunesday, was very large, as had been anticipated; and the reunion was the occasion of great pleasure to all. Three cars-loads of visitors came from Massachusetts and Vermont, over the Eastern Railroad, about 50 persons over the Concord road, and ten of the Maine Association by the P. S. & P. road, in the morning trains; and the larger part of the Maine editors, with many others from the interior of this State and from the westward, arrived by the late trains in the afternoon.

STILL ANOTHER.—Boston had another destructive fire on Tuesday morning, which broke out on corner of Hunneman Street and Harrison Avenue, South End. Three children are missing and are supposed to be burned. Loss about $75,000.

SPECIAL NOTICES.

The Blood in Summer.

The blood deteriorates in hot weather. Profuse perspiration deprives it of a portion of its nourishing and reproductive properties. Consequently, in Summer, the flesh loses in some degree its firmness, the muscles lack their usual elasticity and vigor, and the weight of the body diminishes. These are clear indications that the ordinary supply of the life-sustaining principle afforded by the food we eat, is not sufficient to meet the requirements of the system under a high temperature. There is another reason for this, besides the direct influence of the heat, viz: the loss of appetite and the weakening of the digestive powers which it occasions.

Under these circumstances a wholesome invigorant is evidently needed, and the best and safest is HOSTETTER'S STOMACH BITTERS. This admirable vegetable tonic and alterative, acts favorably upon the system in several ways. It increases the appetite and facilitates digestion, thereby instilling the stomach to receive and enabling it to assimilate a due amount of nourishment. It also tones the relaxed secretive organs and the bowels. Under its operation the process of emaciation, occasioned by the drain through the pores is arrested, the whole frame refreshed and invigorated, and the spirits exhilarated. The dyspeptic, the bilious, the nervous, the debilitated, scarcely need to be told that it is precisely the stimulant and corrective they ought to take at this season. Thousands of them know this by their experience. Nothing in the pharmacopeia (or out of it) will supply its place—least of all the trashy local nostrums which some unscrupulous dealers would be glad, for the benefit of their own pockets, to peddle out in its stead.

CURE FOR CONSUMPTION.

What the Doctors Say:

AMOS WOOLLEY, M. D., of Kosciusko County, Indiana, says: "For three years past I have used ALLEN'S LUNG BALSAM extensively, in my practice, and I am satisfied there is no better medicine for lung disease in use."

ISAAC A. DORAN, M. D., of Logan County, Ohio, says: "ALLEN'S LUNG BALSAM not only heals rapidly but gives perfect satisfaction in every case within my knowledge. Having confidence in it and knowing that it possesses valuable medicinal properties, I freely use it in my daily practice and with unbounded success. As an expectorant it is most certainly far ahead of any preparation I have ever yet known."

NATHANIEL HARRIS, M. D., of Middlebury, Vermont, says; I have no doubt it will soon become a classical remedial agent for the cure of all disease of the Throat, Bronchial Tubes and the Lungs.

Physicians do not recommend a medicine which has no merits, what they say about

ALLEN'S LUNG BALSAM,

Can be taken as a fact. Let all afflicted test it at once. Sold by all Medicine Dealers.

BRANDRETH'S PILLS.

Their great value consists in this: They may be used so long as any disease affects any of the body; and by thus persevering in their use the disease will be cured, and the body restored to health, free from every taint and impurity. Their reputation proves their merit.

Thomas Smith, Coroner and Justice of the Peace, Hastings-on-the-Hudson, says BRANDRETH'S PILLS cured him of Dyspepsia and Heartburn, when every other medicine had failed to relieve him. Certificate dated April 2, 1868.

Dr. Turner, of Savannah, Ga., says he has, for nearly forty years, recommended BRANDRETH'S PILLS as a specific in Yellow Fever; that he never knew a patient to die who took them for this malady, being otherwise sound. Their prompt use takes out of the body those matters which feed the fatality of the disease. As a general family medicine he considers them far in advance of all others, and here he speaks from personal experience of their qualities. mh12

PERRY DAVIS' PAIN KILLER

This valuable Family Medicine has been widely and favorably known in our own and foreign countries, upwards of

THIRTY YEARS!

It has lost none of its good name by repeated trials, but continues to occupy a prominent position in every family medicine chest.

It is an External and Internal Remedy. For Summer Complaint, or any other form of bowel disease in children or adults, it is an almost certain cure, and has without doubt, been more successfully used in curing the various forms of CHOLERA than any other known remedy, or the most skillful physician. In India, Africa and China, where this dreadful disease is more or less prevalent, the PAIN KILLER is considered by the natives, as well as European residents in those climates, a sure remedy; and while it is a most efficient remedy for pain, it is a perfectly safe medicine, even in unskillful hands.

LOCAL AFFAIRS.

New Advertisements to-day.

Sunday Excursion—Steamer Favorite.

EXCURSION.—The Steamer Favorite, Capt. Davidson, is advertised to leave this port on Sunday morning next at 8 o'clock, on a trip to Biddeford, returning the same day, before dark. The party will be allowed several hours—all that can be spared and still give the boat time for an early arrival on her return—in Saco and Biddeford; and those wishing to visit those cities, and get a smell of sea air, have a good opportunity to do so on this excursion, at little cost—$1 for the round trip.

☞ A farmer-looking man, sitting in a heavily loaded wagon, attracted some attention Wednesday afternoon, on Market Square, by his unique style of driving; and among others attracted the attention of the police, who considered him more heavily laden than his wagon — for that was able to stand steady and he wasn't—so he was put in the station to get sober. How sacred is liberty! Who dare interfere with any man's inalienable right to sell rum?

Communication.

THE MIDDLE STREET BAPTIST SOCIETY had a picnic at Kittery Point on Tuesday, and enjoyed themselves finely, —thanks to Capt. Clarkston, for the free use of his beautiful grove, which is the best in this vicinity for such parties —to Mr. Keen for transportation to and from the steamer Appledore, which took the party to Fort McClary, and to Mrs. Tobey for tea and coffee, which was superintended by Col. Hadley, and partaken of by about 350 people. Kittery Point is one of the most pleasant places around Portsmouth to go to for a picnic. COMMITTEE.

CHILDREN'S MUSICAL FESTIVAL.—On Tuesday evening, agreeably to request per advertisement, over 200 children met in Congress Hall, to rehearse vocal music under direction of Mr. H. F. Wight, a musical composer and pianist of Boston, preparatory to giving a grand Concert at some day not far distant. The young people were quite enthusiastic, and Mr. Wight was more than satisfied with their performances at this (the first) rehearsal, the chorus mastering six pieces so as to give them with precision and firmness, before the evening was over.

There has always been a large amount of good material for choruses in Portsmouth, and everything which tends to develope the latent musical talent and taste among us is a move in the right direction. We hope—and do not doubt — that Mr. Wight will be completely successful.

BASE BALL.—The Granite State nine went to So. Berwick yesterday, to play the Sawyer Club of Dover. On arriving at Berwick, no courtesies were extended to them, and the game was delayed for two hours, as was afterwards ascertained, for the arrival of three first-class players from a crack club of Massachusetts.

This infringement on the rules of the game, and deception on the part of the Sawyer club, was overlooked by the Granite States, who went into the contest with the odds generally against them, and played a fine game, the final result giving the game to the Massachusetts and Dover nine by the score of 46 to 21.

The G. S. came home in good spirits, although feeling that the Sawyer club were anything but ready to play on the square. They stand ready to play any nine resident in Dover.

A prize bat given by a gentleman of this city for the best score of the G. S, nine was carried off by Dow.

Messrs. Editors:—I was glad to read what you said in your issue of Wednesday in relation to the intolerable stench arising from the Cess Pool at the Creek; and when I am obliged to breathe it night after night during this heated term, or close the windows of my chamber, I am led to exclaim "how long, O Lord, how long" must we endure this abominable stench.

When will the Railroad Co., or somebody else commence to abate it? There has been talk enough—now let us have a real beginning, so that we poor mortals may have some encouragement then that the thing is to be done at some time. And I would suggest that if nothing else can be done, let somebody make a contract with an army of ants to bring one grain of sand each, and deposit it each day, and continue till the nuisance shall be abated. Even this would be preferable to the do-nothing course which has been pursued for the last two or three years. QUILL.

GOOD ORDER, AND MORALS IN THE CITY.—Pakeha deserves commendation for his fearless exposure of evil conduct on board of some of our vessels on the Ocean, as well as for his condemnation of past and present immoral and criminal conduct in this place. From a long residence here, the residence of some of my ancestors, I affirm the truth of his statements of past disorders, so far as they came under my observation. A writer in opposition to our police system, says that twenty or more years ago "no large town in New England was more orderly than Portsmouth." Pakeha wittingly replies—"that is no compliment to the other towns."

Whatever have been the disorders, immoralities, or vices in other places, or this place, in times past, they furnish not so much as an apology for an excuse for such offences, or dissipation here at the present day. That Portsmouth has been noted for dissipation for nearly a century, must be conceded. I hate to admit the fact, and do it only for the purpose of reformation, for as a gentleman said "Portsmouth needs regeneration."

From what we read in our public journals of the multiplication of crimes in all parts of our country, a similar remark may be made against many other populous towns and cities. But I repeat, that is no excuse for us. Perhaps enough has been said in favor of our police system. Prior to the adoption of our city charter, there was not that necessity for it that there has been since. Although the charter has disappointed my expectations in respect to its results, yet should we return to the old Town Government, in which age and long experience could exercise an influence, we should still require a police force as efficient, perhaps more so, should dissipation and vice be on the increase. And its officers should have an annual compensation adequate to their services. The idea that a police officer or constable would devote his time to preserve order, and prevent crime, for the legal fee of serving a criminal or other process, is entirely fallacious. To prevent crime is far better than to punish its occurrence.

It is said, I fear truly, that a majority of our citizens are "in favor of upholding brothels and rum-holes." By rum-holes, I mean those places where disorder, noise, and drunkeness is tolerated, or where drunkards get rum. Now I speak plainly, that if the majority be such, it may invoke the judgement of high Heaven against the city. The innnocent may suffer, and because the virtuous and good neglect to use their combined efforts to put an end to such an awful state of things. The Pulpit may thunder its anathemas against such vices—the lawyers for the sake of fees may issue their precepts, but without the aid and support of the wise and good, but little can be effected, although we hope for much good from the recent moral and religious revival.

Our physicians, too, ought to lend their aid in favor of a reformation, although they may derive an income from those abandoned creatures, the inmates of brothels, who parade our streets in fine apparel, and are the corrupters of many of the other sex. We are aware that some interested in commerce attempt to justify the dens of iniquity on account of sailors in the seaports. We would like to see any of their arguments in print. The truth is that vice is the same, no matter what class is guilty of it. Nor is there any reason why a sailor may not be a good and virtuous man. Now we call upon our police officers to carry the laws of the State into execution, so far as they have authority, and also upon every good citizen to give them aid and support.

But there should be an organized association of citizens, for as Pakeha truly says, it would be dangerous to an individual to be the complainant in criminal processes. By such means we may hope for reformation.

These "whited sepulchres" often come here from Boston and other places to steal away the money of the sailors, and others who visit their dens.

These bonds have 50 years to run, are convertible at the option of the holder into the stock of the company at par, and the payment of the principal is provided for by a sinking fund. The convertibility privilege attached to these bonds cannot fail to cause them at no distant day to command a market price considerably above par, besides paying about 9 per cent., currency, interest in the meanwhile. U. S. Five-twenties, at present prices only return five per cent.; and we regard the security equally good.

The greater part of the road is already completed, and the balance of the work is rapidly progressing.

The established character of this road, running as it does through the heart of the most thickly settled and richest portion of the great State of Iowa, together with its present advanced condition and large earnings warrant us in unhesitatingly recommending these bonds to investors, as, in every respect, an undoubted security.

AYER'S HAIR VIGOR, For Restoring Gray Hair to its Natural Vitality and Color.

A Dressing which is at once agreeable, healthy, and effectual for Preserving the Hair. Faded or gray Hair is soon restored to its original color, with the gloss and freshness of youth. Thin hair is thickened, falling hair checked, and baldness often, though not always, cured by its use.

Nothing can restore the hair where the follicles are destroyed, or the glands atrophied and decayed. But such as remains can be saved for usefulness by this application. Instead of fouling the hair with a pasty sediment, it will keep it clean and vigorous. Its occasional use will prevent the hair from turning gray or falling off, and consequently prevent baldness. Free from those deleterious substances which make some preparations dangerous and injurious to the hair, the Vigor, can only benefit but not harm it.

If wanted merely for a HAIR DRESSING, nothing else can be found so desirable. Containing neither oil nor dye, it does not soil white cambric, and yet lasts long on the hair, giving it a rich glossy lustre and a grateful perfume.

RICHARDSON'S LITTLE WASHER, unlike all others, light and portable, weighing only ten pounds, is sold for the small price of five dollars. Adjusts itself to any article from a Pockethandkerchief to a LARGE BED SPREAD, without alteration. Can be fitted to any tub, and removed at pleasure.

If you will use this little common sense washing machine, you will do the work of half a day in 2 hours.

RICHARDSON'S LITTLE WASHER does not tear or wear the clothes, no matter how fine the fabric. Clothes are straightened out, and passed back and forth, between the rollers till clean.

Remember and always have a good strong and hot suds.

Put your Pockethandkerchiefs, Cuffs, Collars, Napkins and Fringes into a sheet or Pillow slip and wash perfectly clean, in two to three minutes. We wash at one time, two or three sheets gathered at the hem, six Pillow slips, six Towels, two or three Cotton Shirts, one pair heavy Pants or two pairs light ones, one heavy Spread or Blanket, always putting the smaller things inside something larger or longer.

Wherever this Little Washer has been introduced the sale has been unprecedented, having sold upwards of three hundred in Dover, N. H., in less than two months; two thirds of the purchasers had been using large awkward machines costing from five to eighteen dollars; all a failure, one great complaint being that they are heavy and no woman can work them.

Richardson's has taken a Silver Medal in Springfield, Mass., at Mechanic's Fair in 1868, and other places where exhibited.

A Lady who has not washed for three years, told her neighbors she did her washing with this Little Washer, with ease, consequently they ordered one, and the question all over town is, have you got a RICHARDSON'S LITTLE WASHER?

Communication.

THE WAR—AND THE POLICY OF THE UNITED STATES.—The policy of our government will be to adhere to a strict neutrality between the contending powers of Europe. But should the war be long continued, our commercial interests may be involved under the hostile measures of the European government. So far as our sympathies, like those of the English nation, are enlisted in favor of Prussia (and they cannot be otherwise) we shall give offence to the tyrannical rules of France and all who support his unjustifiable aggressions upon the peace of Europe. Should our merchants export our surplus provisions for the benefit of Prussia, or her allies, they would be liable to be captured as contraband of war by the French. Should they be exported to France, or the other nations that have joined her in her unholy struggle for victory and aggrandizement, the same warlike rule would doubtless be followed by Prussia. Thus we may be drawn into retaliatory measures which might lead to hostilities on the ocean. In such a contest, it may be inferred that the English and American naval forces would be united for the protection of the commerce of both countries. Should the war, waged without even the semblance of any justifiable cause, be protected, it is not possible for any nation in Europe, or our nation, long to remain entirely neuter, for the interests of all civilised nations are involved. Our population is larger than that of France, and our territory more extensive than that of all Europe, and since our acquisition of Alaska, than that of Russia.

The United States, can therefore, very properly, and for the protection of commerce, interfere in order to arrest the prosecution of the war, or at least to mitigate its horrors. Think of two armies, a million on each side, meeting in a bloody conflict, to slaughter each other, when personally they have no enmity against each other! When will man cease to be the enemy of his fellow-man? When will the destroying Angel say, it is enough? Why will not an enlightened people rise up and destroy the throne of any blood-thirsty despot, who would wade through a field of blood to gratify his unbridled ambition? Under these and other important considerations, we submit the question, whether it is not the imperious duty of the President of the United States immediately to convoke Congress to take into consideration the present alarming state of Europe, and that Congress should prepare and adopt a powerful remonstrance against the prosecution of the war for which there can be no justification on the part of the French Ruler, or his pliant ministry? Let it not be said that it would be without any effect. Public opinion must have a power, wherever there is a Christian civilization.

There are some minor reasons in favor of convoking Congress. Some business is left unfinished. Congress neglected its duty in not adopting a salutary measure for the resumption of specie payments when it is estimated that there are four hundred millions of specie in the country. In consequence of such neglect, the gold gamblers of New York at once raised the gold premium 8 per cent, and as soon as they heard that war was declared, gold rose to 1.23. It is very evident that had a majority in Congress been wise enough to order a return to specie payments, our paper circulating medium would now be at par with gold. x.

MODERN DEFINITIONS.—Distant Relations—People who imagine they have a claim to rob you if you rich, and insult you if you are poor.

"Belle"—A beautiful, but useless insect, without wings, whose colors fade from being removed from the sunshine.

Heart—A rare article sometimes found in human beings. It is soon, however, destroyed by commerce with the world, or else becomes fatal to its possessor.

Housewifery—An ancient art, said to have been fashionable among young girls and wives but now entirely out of use, or practiced only by the lower orders.

Editor—A poor wretch who every day empties his brain in order that he may fill his stomach.

Wealth—The most respectable quality of man.

Honor—Shooting a friend you love thro' the head, in order to gain the praise of a few others whom you despise and hate.

Laughter—An agreeable and contagious convulsion of the human countenance, on receiving a tailor's bill, or being asked to return an umbrella.

—One of the Beecher girls used to say that she had three rules to guide her in copying her father's MSS.; If a letter was dotted, it wasn't I; if a letter was crossed it wasn't T; and if a word began with a capital letter, it didn't be in a sentence.

THE ARISTOCRACY OF RASCALDOM. Now what is one of the most frightful characteristics of our present mode of doing business? Is it not the building up of great fortunes out of colossal robberies? And the thing is done by a series of sensational addresses to the cupidity of the cheated. High interest notoriously goes with low security; but we have, sir, in this country, a class of rogues who may be called the aristocracy of rascaldom, and who get rich by dazzling and astonishing others into the hope of getting rich.

They are the contrivers of enterprises which propose to develop the wealth of the country, but which commonly turn out to be little more than schemes to transfer wealth already realized from the pockets of the honest into those of the knavish. They are the financial footpads who lure simple people into stock "corners," and then proceed to plunder them. They make money so rapidly, so easily, and in such a splendid sensational way, that they corrupt more persons by their example than they ruin by their knaveries. As compared with common rogues, they appear like Alexander or Cæsar as compared with common thieves and cutthroats.

As their wealth increases, our moral indignation at their metod of acquiring it diminishes, and at last they steal so much that we come to look upon their fortunes as conquests rather than burglaries. Indeed, their operations on Change vie with those of military commanders in the field, and are recorded with similar admiring minuteness of detail. They are the great sensations of the world of trade, and have, therefore, more influence on the imaginations of young men just starting in business than the dull chronicles of the great movements of legitimate commerce.

Now, sir, take the universal American desire to get rich, and combine it with the rapid, rascally way of getting rich now in vogue, and you will find you are breeding up a race of trading sharks and wolves, which will eventually devour us all. Honesty will go altogether out of fashion, and respectability be associated with defect of intellect. Why, the old robber barons of the Middle Ages, who plundered sword in hand and lance in rest, were more honest than this new aristocracy of swindling millionaires.

Do you object that I am getting into a passion? Why, sir, I have purchased dearly enough the right to rail. Didn't I put my modest competence into copper? And to recover my losses in copper, didn't I go madly into petrolem? And didn't the small sum which petroleum was considerate enough to leave me disappear in that last little "turn" in Erie?—Atlantic Monthly, August.

OX LABOR.—The season impresses every farmer with the importance and the necessity, almost, of the labor and strength of the ox. A single horse, or even a good span can hardly take the plough along with so deep a furrow as a heavy pair of oxen, and for some kinds of crops, the cultivation must be deep and thorough to be effective. We would not give much for the prospect of a big root crop with a shallow and imperfect ploughing to begin with. The full strength of a good team is required to secure the highest results.—Massachusetts Ploughman.

JEHIAL SLAB.

ON THE MARRIAGE STATE.

1st. Just married. Destined to linger in clover, new-mown hay, and such like for about the space of nine to twelve months.

2d. Some black, rascally, stormy night, about the close of the above epoch, you are turned out into streets all ponds and mill races, or amid snow eighteen inches deep and drifting like blazes, and told to run for the doctor.

When you get home, a little red-flannel-looking thing, about the size of a big merino potato, undoubtedly awaits you.

They will call it a baby. Packed up with it you will find the first real squalls of married life—you can bet on that.

3d. Paregoric, and soothing syrup, and catnip tea, and long flannel, and diaper stuff, and baby colic, and more squalls—they will come along, too; in fact, will become just as much at home in the house as dinner.

4th. One of these days, in—

"The wee sma' hours ayont the twal'"—

you turn out again. This time you are found barefoot, distractedly rocking that baby back and forth, and bobbing it up and down in a cane-seat chair; a shivering, icy, disconsolate sense of dampness all about you; seat hard, only a cotton shirt, or such a matter, nearer than the bed to keep you warm, roaring musically as a wild bull in a slaughter-yard—

"We're coming, Father Abraham—
Three hundred thousand more."

Baby all the time yelling like mad with a baby pain, while Mary Ann, up to her nose under the warm bed covers, to help out, every now and then impatiently puts in, just at the wrong place—"trot him faster Samuel."

And you trot him, oh how you do trot him! If you could only trot his wind out so far that he never could get any of it back again, or break his back, or neck, or something, you would be immeasurably happy.

But no. The little innocent is tougher than an India rubber car spring.

Just as you are about giving out—concluding that you must freeze—that there will certainly have to be a funeral in the house inside of thirty-six hours, baby wilts from sheer exhaustion, and then, with teeth chattering like a McCormick reaper, you crawl in by Mary Ann again and try to sleep.

5th. Gradually you glide away into a tangled maze of cherry-lips, ice, steam-whistle-voiced babies, dimpled cheeks, more ice, May-flowers, skating weather, chamomile, jockey-club, sleigh-rides, crinoline immense as the old bell at Moscow, Indian ambuscades, chignons like door mats, awful Grecian bends, angels, snow-storms, and forty other cheerful reminiscenses.

6th. A snort, a thrash, a wild throwing upward of little arms and legs, and then, keen and shrill, comes that terrible "Ah-wah! ah-wah!" again. I guess you wake up, don't you?

"Get the paregoric and a tea-spoon, quick!" says Mary Ann, in a sharp, staccato tone, and don't you get it?

In just three-eighths of a second you are a Grecian bend yourself out there on the cold floor, dropping paregoric in a teaspoon.

Hurry! Oh, no; circumstances are not such as to make you hurry any.

Gracious little Peter, he is describing diabolic curves with all the arms and legs he's got, and screaming 100 pounds to the square inch, and Mary Ann, she is rearing around there in the bed, making a rocking-chair of her back, and yelling bye-bye, O, like a wild Camanche on the war-path—that's all.

Nice, ain't it?

And then to think that, as years roll on, there has got to be more and more yet of just such distressed work.

7th. Then come the washing days, too, and the spring cleanings and movings—when your books, and papers, and custard pies, and carpets, and plug hats, and molasses, and feathers, and baby fixings, and pan-cake batter, all get stirred up together; when Mary Ann, dress tucked up, handkerchief around her head, broom in one hand, mop in the other, pretty as a cistern-pole, temper searching as a dose of ipecac, goes about hunting spiders' webs, and dirt, and spots, and grease spots, and such things, while Bridget, the inevitable Bridget, slopping soap suds all over everything, brings up the rear.

8th. Then there is that mother-in-law of yours, and the six or eight female cousins. They have just come over to visit a bit, and each one has brought all her trunks and band-boxes along. And that, too, when you could so easily have spared all but the mother-in-law.

9th. And so I might run on and on. These things are thicker in such places than little toads on a country road after a summer thunder-shower. You can't dodge them. They come with married life just as sure as death and taxes.

Bad! Very bad, my friend. Only one condition in the world much worse that I know of. And that is (I don't mind telling you), that is the single condition.

—There is a Plousville in New York State. That is probably where the pious villains come from.

—A ten cent faro bank for the poor is St. Louis's last charity.

FRIDAY, JULY 29, 1870.

WAR TALK.—An absurd rumor is afloat that the Emperor has quietly left Paris to join the fleet, deeming it the surest and shortest way of reaching Berlin, where he expects to be on the 15th of August, his fete day.

The Duke of Nassau, having been invited by Napoleon to join the French army, replies that his services are pledged to Prussia.

The Times maintains that the publication of the proposed secret treaty between France and Prussia has had one good effect. It has secured the neutrality of Belgium, which without warning would have been liable to violation at any moment.

Count Bismark's organ promises to give on the part of Prussia an immediate explanation of the Franco-Prussian treaty.

The Spanish government demands of the Duke de Gramont an explanation of the assertion made by him in an address to the Corps Legislatif, that the Cortes was to be surprised into voting on Prince Hohenzollern.

Mr. Ollivier, in a letter to a friend, denies the negotiation by France of an alleged secret treaty with Prussia. The French Minister of Foreign Affairs positively denies that France has entertained the idea of annexing Belgium.

The French Tuesday violated the neutrality of Luxemburg. A party numbering one hundred men, from Sierck, crossed to Schleuger, singing the "Marseillaise."

The Prussians have evacuated Weisserbilleg, and at Treyes have only two squadrons of cavalry. They are concentrating at Mayence, where King William arrived last night.

There is a rumor of an engagement Tuesday in which thirty Germans were killed and eighty made prisoners, without loss to the French. No details of the fight or confirmation of the report have yet been received.

France inquired through Russia on what conditions peace might be made. Prussia's reply to Russia was embodied in four words:—"It is too late."

The Berlin correspondence asserts that Prussia, from the magnitude of her defence and the enthusiasm of her people, is prepared to carry the war into France.

The greatest activity is manifested at the great naval depots and arsenals throughout England; great stores of munitions and supplies of all kinds are being accumulated rapidly, indicating a positive policy. During the past few days the government has issued immense orders for war supplies, to be delivered at the various admiralty depots.

The French Journal Officiel publishes a decree conferring the title of regent on the Empress, with authority to exercise the functions of that office during the Emperor's absence from the capital.

Gleaned and Ground.

Captain Shufeldt, it is said, will command the new expedition which is to survey the Nicaragua and Tehuantepec routes for a ship canal, as provided by Congress. The expedition will probably start early in the fall.

A terrible colliery explosion occurred at Llansamlet, in Wales, Tuesday. Nineteen persons were killed and many wounded.

The French prelates who were absent from the Council at the final vote on the infallibility dogma, are now sending in their adhesion to the new article of faith.

Revolutionary intrigue is rife in Rome and Italy in view of the withdrawal of the French troops. A secret deposit of arms has been discovered in Genoa, and a large quantity of guns and ammunition were seized by the government. The Pope is deeply alarmed at the projects of France and the plots of party action.

Havana letters give particulars of several fresh engagements between the Cubans and Spaniards. Over 400 fighting men have been killed. Both sides claim victory. The insurrection appears to be as much alive as ever in the mountain districts of the southeast. Cholera, small-pox, and yellow-fever are devastating the island wherever foreigners are sojourning.

The large brick building of A. W. Mooney & Co. of Newburyport, used for grist mill and grain storage, fell in about ten o'clock Friday forenoon, burying three men under the ruins. The building was filled with corn and the rear wall fell outward without any warning. The loss of building and contents will probably reach $6000 to $7000.

John Real, the New York policeman murderer, is to die on the 5th of August.

A DESPERADO.—A man giving his name as John Smith made a desperate attempt at Cold Springs, N. Y., on Wednesday, to rob Mr. Browning, the teller of the First National Bank of Fishkill, of a carpet bag containing several thousand dollars in money. He threw a handful of red pepper in Browning's eyes, seized the satchel, and ran into Munsell's grounds, near the depot, where Munsell's coachman, Elijah Jones, seized him and threw him to the ground, and recaptured the satchel. The thief then drew a revolver and fired three shots at the coachman, mortally wounding him. The citizens at once seized the thief, and he is now in Carmel jail.

☞ The yachts Cambria and Dauntless, which have been racing across the Atlantic, have arrived at New York, the English yacht an hour and five minutes ahead. The Dauntless lost two men on the passage. It is said that $2,000,000 will change hands on the result of the race, in New York city alone.

☞ Pursuant to the adjournment of the American Institute of Instruction, at Portsmouth, last year, the forty-first annual meeting is held this year in Worcester. It began Wednesday in Mechanics Hall, and closes Friday.

New Hampshire Items.

The house and barn of A. H. Gerrish, at Gorham, were consumed by fire Tuesday. Loss $3000; insured for $2500. The fire communicated with a tract of timber on the opposite side of Androscoggin River, which is still burning.

Michael Rially of Manchester, who killed his wife on Saturday last, was examined on Monday and committed to jail to await the action of the grand jury in September next.

A large fire was raging in Canterbury woods on Tuesday last. It was caused by sparks from an engine on the Montreal Railroad.

The trial of the case State vs. George H. Barnes, charged with manslaughter in the second degree, in the death of Charles W. Clark, engineer on the Northern Railroad on the 13th of July has begun. Lewis W. Clark opened the case, George E. Todd, superintendent, testified to the employment of the accused. Shattuck had been conductor twenty-three years, Barnes fifteen years and the engineers relatively about the same time.

THAT BASE BALL MATCH.—In our mention of the game of ball at S. Berwick, we omitted to speak of some of the ill treatment the Portsmouth club received. While the game was progressing they were constantly in danger of being involved in a conflict, in which fists as well as bats might be called into use. A crowd of rowdies and roughs accompanied the Sawyer club from Dover, with no other apparent intent than to intimidate the Granite States; and they used every means to create confusion and trouble during the game. It was almost a peril to show ones colors; and but for the patience manifested by the Portsmouth club, and their power to "grin and bear it," a fight would have been the feature of the game. The G. S. nine consider that this manifestation of ill feeling could well have been quieted had an effort been made by the Sawyers.

The conduct of the friends of the Dover club was such as might have been expected at a prize fight, but was certainly not looked for at a base ball match by the Granite States, who treated the Sawyers with every courtesy when they were down here to play, and on this occasion had given up the right to which they were entitled as the challenged party, to choose the ground for the match. There was an evident determination on the part of the Sawyers and their friends, that the Portsmouth club should not win, no matter how well they played; but their defeat under such circumstances is far more honorable than the victory of those who descended to such means to win it.

The Granite States would recommend to any clubs anticipating a contest with the patched-up nine of Dover, that they go armed both with weapons of defence and a good supply of food, as they will find both quite useful—certainly the latter, as no refreshments are given by the Sawyers.

THE WORK-SHOP. — The winter affords time to work a good deal at repairing tools, making and mending articles, and if one has a room which may be warmed and lighted, and with a good work-bench, furnished with common carpenter's tools, a soldering iron, a little kit of saddler's tools, some leather, rivets, etc., it will be found a very attractive place for the boys; and not only would there be a good deal of good work done, but good habits formed, and skill gained, worth a great many dollars more than an extensively fitted up work-shop would cost.

—The Texas Senate has passed the Southern Pacific Railroad bill over the Governor's veto.

NAVAL.—The steamer Shenandoah, ten guns, recently fitted out at Boston Navy Yard, will go to the West Indies to relieve the Tuscarora, now at that station.

CRICKET.—The Alpha second eleven, of Salem, Mass., defeated at Portsmouth, on Tuesday, the Rockingham first eleven, by 48 runs.

Correspondence of the Chronicle and Gazette.

YORK, July 28.

The store of Messrs. S. W. & C. H. Junkins was entered on the night of July 26th by forcing open a window shutter, and goods consisting of boots, shoes, Atwell's Bitters, figs, tobacco, cigars, together with the coppers in the drawer (about six dollars) amounting in all to about fifty dollars, stolen.

A coat, piece of harness, some tobacco and half a bottle of bitters were found in a field near by, where a horse was turned to forage while the depredation was committed. The burglars have not yet been discovered.

Mr. Daniel C. Norton of Kittery, Me., has been appointed Quarterman Ship Fastener, by order of the Navy Department. Mr. N. entered upon his duties Wednesday the 27th inst. and his appointment gives general satisfaction in this vicinity as he was proscribed during the "Johnson Policy" for his outspoken sentiments. Mr. N. is a worker, and has only received what his many warm friends have long desired.

Yours, P.

Father Cowlan, a fashionable young lady of New York, was arrested Wednesday for murdering her illegitimate child.

—St. Louis had a fatal case of hydrophobia on Monday. There was another case of the same malady, which it was thought would result fatally.

BE WISE TO-DAY. 'Tis madness to neglect a cough or cold, however slight. Consumption may follow, and though Dr. Wister's Balsam of Wild Cherry has frequently cured this much dreaded disease, it almost invariably relieves the primary diseases of the throat, lungs and chest, where other remedies fail.

NO HUMBUG.—We do not wish to inform you, reader, that Dr. Wonderful, or any other man, has discovered a remedy that cures all diseases of mind, body or estate, and is designed to make our sublunary sphere a blissful Paradise, to which Heaven itself shall be but a side show, but we do wish to inform you that Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy has cured thousands of cases of catarrh in its worst forms and stages, and the proprietor will pay $500 for a case of this loathsome disease that he cannot cure. It may be procured by mail for sixty cents, by addressing R. V. Pierce, M. D., 133 Seneca street, Buffalo, N. Y. A pamphlet free. Sold by druggists. Look out for imposters attempting themselves as Dr. Sage; Dr. Pierce, whose private Government Revenue Stamp is on every package of the genuine, is the only man living who can manufacture the Original Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy. jy28TuThSa

A NEW ADVERTISING DODGE.—Every time a lady who uses fragrant SOZODONT opens her mouth, she advertises the article. The state of her teeth is a certificate of its excellence. No spot darkens their surface, no impurity clings to them, the cushions in which they are set are rosy, and her breath that exhales through them is sweet as the breeze of June.

"SPALDING'S GLUE," useful in every house.

TOO MUCH TRUTH often attaches to the remarks made in regard to uncivil hotel clerks. At the AMERICAN HOUSE, BOSTON, the employees take pleasure in ministering to the wants of guests.

AYER'S CATHARTIC PILLS, FOR ALL PURPOSES of a LAXATIVE MEDICINE,

Perhaps no one medicine is so universally required by everybody as a cathartic, nor was ever any before so universally adopted into use, in every country and among all classes, as this mild but efficient purgative PILL. The obvious reason is that it can be relied on and far more effectual remedy than any other. Those who have tried it, know that it cured them; those who have not, know that it cures their neighbors and friends and all know that what it does once it does always—that it never fails through any fault or failure of its composition. We have now before us upon thousands of certificates of their remarkable cures of the following complaints, but such cures are so well known, and the medicine so well tried, that we do not publish them. Adapted to all ages and conditions in all climates; containing neither calomel or any deleterious drug, they may be taken with safety by anybody. Their sugar coating preserves them ever fresh and makes them pleasant to take, while being purely vegetable no harm can arise from their use in any quantity.

They operate by their powerful influence on the internal viscera to purify the blood and stimulate the living principle to remove the disease from any of the stomach, bowels, liver, and other organs of the body, restoring their irregular action to healthy, and correcting, wherever they exist, such derangements as are the first origin of disease.

Minute directions are given in the wrapper on the box, for the following complaints, which these PILLS rapidly cure:—

For Dyspepsia or Indigestion, Listlessness, Languor and Loss of Appetite, they should be taken moderately to stimulate the stomach and restore its healthy tone and action.

For Liver Complaint and its various symptoms, Bilious Headache, Sick Headache, Jaundice or Green Sickness, Bilious Colic and Bilious Fevers, they should be judiciously taken for each case, to correct the diseased action or remove the obstructions which cause it.

For Dysentery or Diarrhœa, but one mild dose is generally required.

For Rheumatism, Gout, Gravel, Palpitation of the Heart, Pain in the Side, Back and Loins, they should be continuously taken, as required, to change the diseased action of the system. With such change those complaints disappear.

For Dropsy and Dropsical Swellings, they should be taken in large and frequent doses to produce the effect of a drastic purge.

For Suppression a large dose should be taken, as it produces the desired effect by sympathy.

As a DINNER PILL, take one or two PILLS to promote digestion and relieve the stomach.

An occasional dose stimulates the stomach and bowels into healthy action, restores the appetite, and invigorates the system. Hence it is often advantageous where no serious derangement exists. One who feels tolerably well, often finds that a dose of these PILLS makes him feel decidedly better, from their cleansing and renovating effect on the digestive apparatus. dawje16od4m

SPECIAL NOTICES.

The Blood in Summer.

The blood deteriorates in hot weather. Profuse perspiration deprives it of a portion of its nourishing and reproductive properties. Consequently, in Summer, the flesh loses in some degree its firmness, the muscles lack their usual elasticity and vigor, and the vital of the body diminishes. These are clear indications that the ordinary supply of the life-sustaining principle afforded by the food we eat, is not sufficient to meet the requirements of the system under a high temperature. There is another reason for this, besides the direct influence of the heat, viz: the loss of appetite and the weakening of the digestive powers which it occasions.

Under these circumstances a wholesome invigorant is evidently needed, and the best and safest is HOSTETTER'S STOMACH BITTERS. This admirable vegetable tonic and alterative, acts favorably upon the system in several ways. It increases the appetite and facilitates digestion, thereby inclining the stomach to receive and enabling it to assimilate a due amount of nourishment. It also tones the relaxed secretive organs and the bowels. Under its operation the process of emaciation, occasioned by the drain through the pores is arrested, the whole frame refreshed and invigorated, and the spirits exhilarated. The dyspeptic, the bilious, the nervous, the debilitated, scarcely need to be told that it is precisely the stimulant and corrective they ought to take at this season. Thousands of them know the fact by experience. Nothing in the pharmacopœia (or out of it) will supply its place—least of all the frothy local nostrums which some unscrupulous dealers would be glad, for the benefit of their own pockets, to peddle out in its stead.

CURE FOR CONSUMPTION.

What the Doctors Say:

AMOS WOOLLEY, M. D., of Kosciusko County, Indiana, says: "For three years past I have used ALLEN'S LUNG BALSAM extensively, in my practice, and I am satisfied there is no better medicine for lung disease in use."

ISAAC A. DORAN, M. D., of Logan County, Ohio, says: "ALLEN'S LUNG BALSAM not only sells rapidly but gives perfect satisfaction in every case within my knowledge. Having confidence in it and knowing that it possesses valuable medicinal properties, I freely use it in my daily practice and with unbounded success. As an expectorant it is most certainly far ahead of any preparation I have ever yet known."

NATHANIEL HARRIS, M. D., of Middlebury, Vermont, says; I have no doubt it will soon become a classical remedial agent for the cure of all diseases of the Throat, Bronchial Tubes and the Lungs.

Physicians do not recommend a medicine which has no merits, what they say about

BRANDRETH'S PILLS.

Their great value consists in this: They may be used so long as any disease affects any of the body; and by thus preserving in their use the disease will be cured, and the body restored to health, free from every taint and impurity. Their reputation proves their merit.

Thomas Smith, Coroner and Justice of the Peace, Hastings-on-the-Hudson, says BRANDRETH'S PILLS cured him of Dyspepsia and Heartburn, when every other medicine had failed to relieve him. Certificate dated April 2, 1868.

Dr. Turner, of Savannah, Ga., says he has, for nearly forty years, recommended BRANDRETH'S PILLS as a specific in Yellow Fever; that he never knew a patient to die who took them for this malady, being otherwise sound. Their prompt use takes out of the body those matters which feed the fatal fury of the disease. As a general family medicine he considers them far in advance of all others, and here he speaks from personal experience of their qualities. mh12

It is an External and Internal Remedy. For Summer Complaint, or any other form of bowel disease in children or adults, it is an almost certain cure, and has without doubt, been more successful in curing the same than any other remedy, or the most skillful physician. In India, Africa and China, where this dreadful disease is more or less prevalent, the PAIN KILLER is considered by the natives, as well as European residents in those climates, a sure remedy; and while it is a most efficient remedy for pain, it is a perfectly safe medicine, even in unskillful hands.

LOCAL AFFAIRS.

THE EDITORAL REUNION.

The editors, publishers and printers, and their invited guests have come and gone. The rush to the beach was heavy. Everybody wanted to see the M. P's, and the fraternity reciprocated the feeling. Rye Beach was the centre of attraction for two days and those two days will always be remembered with satisfaction by all who were present to enjoy the occasion.

A meeting of the Maine Association was held at 4 o'clock, Major Shaw, of the Oxford Democrat, presiding. The following officers were elected:—President, J. A. Homan, Augusta; Vice-Presidents, Alden Sprague, Augusta; J. M. Adams, Portland; F. E. Shaw, Paris; E. H. Elwell, Portland. Corresponding Secretary, G. O. Bailey, Gardiner. Recording Secretary, M. N. Rich, Portland. Treasurer, B. Thurston, Portland. Executive Committee, J. E. Butler, Biddeford; N. B. Nutt, Eastport.

A resolution was passed that advertising agents be hereafter paid but 20 per cent., instead of 25 per cent. as has been the rule.

The New Hampshire Association held its meeting in the Ladies' Parlor at half-past 3 o'clock, John M. Hill, of the Concord Patriot, in the chair. The following officers were elected for the ensuing year:—President, John M. Hill, of Concord. Vice-Presidents, A. C. Wallace, of Canaan; A. J. Hoyt, of Exeter; J. T. S. Libby, of Dover. Recording Secretary, C. F. Livingston, of Manchester. Corresponding Secretary, Geo. E. Jenks, of Concord. Treasurer, O. C. Moore, of Nashua. Executive Committee, G. H. Sturtevant, of Concord; J. C. French, of Pittsfield; J. M. Campbell, of Manchester.

The following gentlemen were made active members of the N. H. Association:—J. M. Campbell, Manchester; Moses B. Goodwin, Franklin; Abraham Q. Jones, Concord; L. R. Burlingame, Dover; Calus C. Scott, Keene; Chas. W. Purmort, Canaan; Geo. W. Marston, Portsmouth; L. W. Brewster, Portsmouth; Geo. F. Gray, Dover; H. G. Carlton, Newport; Josiah B. Sanborn, Concord; Edward Aiken, Amherst; H. R. Wheeler, Nashua; A. A. Rotch, Amherst; D. J. Vaughan, Portsmouth; I. P. Miller, Portsmouth; H. P. Whitcomb, Hanover; Edw. L. Goddard, Claremont; Henry H. Everett, Hanover; Jos. H. Smith, Dover; S. C. Merrill, Manchester; Thos. C. Rand, Keene; Geo. W. Guppy, Portsmouth; Wm. M. Thayer, Portsmouth; Wm. E. Moore, Manchester; Louis N. Fredericks, Dover; J. E. Pecker, Concord; Paul A. Stackpole, Dover; Clark M. Langley, Nashua.

The following honorary members were voted in:—Rev. Chas. A. Downs, Lebanon; Jas. W. Towne, New York; Benj. H. Penhallow, Lowell; John H. Goodale, Northfield; Chas. P. Danforth, Nashua; C. C. Coffin, Mass.; Thos. W. Knox, New York; Edw. N. Fuller, New Jersey; J. W. Moore, Manchester; Joel Taylor, Manchester; Israel Hunt, Nashua; Geo. C. Gorham, Milton Lower Mills, Mass.; Leonard Huntress, Lowell.

The Association passed resolutions on the death of Rev. T. H. Miller of the Portsmouth Chronicle, and arranged for a business meeting in the fall, which will probably be held at Concord.

A motion to recommend the expulsion of all cuts and large type from advertisements was defeated by six majority.

The Dover Cornet Band, J. W. Newell leader, enlivened the twilight hour by appearing in front of the Ocean House and performing a liberal selection of choice pieces of music, in a highly creditable manner. They were listened to by crowds, and received much well deserved applause.

At a few minutes before 9 o'clock the company assembled in the large hall of the hotel, completely filling it in every part. Mr. Hill, of Concord, called the company to order and introduced Maj. Shaw, of the Maine Association, who welcomed the company in a brief speech. A piece entitled "The Union of the Granite and Pine," written by E. D. Boylston, of the Amherst Cabinet, and set to music by M. Keller, was then sung by Mr. Barnabee's quartette and was loudly applauded. Hon. James G. Blaine was then introduced, and, after stating that he had no formal address to make, proceeded to speak of the influence of the press, particularly of that of the country, claiming that upon all questions of public policy its influence was more potential than that of the metropolitan press, and that all the leading editors of the country, such as Horace Greeley, Henry J. Raymond and Charles G. Greene, received their education and early training in the country printing office. His remarks were brief and well received. B. P. Shillaber, Esq., then read a poem, written for the occasion, which abounded in wit and humor and was received with shouts of laughter and applause, Gov. Stearns responded to a call in a brief speech, after which the company separated to witness a display of fireworks in front of the hotel.

Shortly after ten o'clock dancing was commenced in the dining hall, and continued for several hours. The ladies were out in full force, and very many elegant toilets were seen in all parts of the hall. The dance was a fitting close to a day that had been full of pleasure to the entire company.

Thursday forenoon, those who wished (and there were hundreds) took passage from the Beach for a short sea voyage, and afterwards landed at the Sagamore and partook of one of the Messrs. Peirce's nice dinners. A feast of reason and flow of soul kept the large company seated for three hours. Toasts were proposed and responded to by Hons. J. H. Ela, A. F. Stevens, Ichabod Goodwin, Frederick Smyth of New Hampshire, A. H. Sargent of California, John A. Poor, Nelson Dingley jr. of Maine, Messrs. Benj. Perley Poore, and C. C. Coffin of Massachusetts, E. A. Walton of Vermont, Geo. W. Ball of Buffalo, Thos. W. Knox of New York, Hon. Wm. Clapp, Congressional Printer, F. B. Sanborn of Mass., and others. Geo. A. Marden, of the Lowell Courrier, read a witty poem called the "Editors On a Bender," which made wide the openness of his auditors' jaws.

Barnabee, the inimitable, "spoke a piece," and the excellent quartet under his charge sang some nice selections. Wm. Boylston of Amherst recited the "Wedding of The Granite and the Pine" and the Marine Band closed with Auld Lang Syne, the audience joining. The party came to Portsmouth in the Favorite and returned home in the evening trains. The whole affair was a grand success.

Much regret was expresssed that the intended visit to the Navy Yard had to be omitted; but the great interest of the afternoon exercises wore away the time so rapidly, that before the party was ready to embark the day was so far spent as to render the omission of the proposed inspection imperative, in order to enable the visitors from a distance to catch the last trains. We particularly regret this, for we should have liked to have had this Navy Yard thoroughly examined—believing that its arrangements will stand an examination as well as those of any station owned by the United States.

POLICE.—On Wednesday, Officers Barsantee and Entwistle picked up a man who was too drunk to keep his seat in his wagon, and locked him up till evening, when he was sober enough to be discharged.

Marshal Johnson found a man near the Spring Market, too drunk to walk, but not drunk enough to keep his tongue still. The man's brother was unable to quiet him or get him to his boat; the officer took him in charge, and shipped him off to Eliot, where he hails from.

Officers Barsantee and Stearns arrested a man for fighting on the corner of Market and Deer Streets. Locked up.

Julia Gregory, a common drunkard and vagrant, was found in a state of intoxication by Officer Mortimer, and taken into custody.

Officers Taylor and Rand found a sailor making night hideous on Long Wharf, and put him on board his vessel. Drunk, of course.

On Thursday, one Nell Moulton, sent to the House of Correction about a fortnight ago to serve three months for being a common drunkard, and recently deserted, was retaken by the City Marshal and returned to custody.

☞ Hon. John Lynch, U. S. Representative from the 1st Congressional District of Maine, and Hon. A. H. Sargent of California, will visit the Navy Yard to-day.

☞ The Alleghanians are coming, and will be here August 6th.

J. EDGAR THOMPSON, CHARLES L. FROST, } Trustees.

These bonds have 50 years to run, are convertible at the option of the holder into the stock of the company at par, and the payment of the principal is provided for by a sinking fund. The convertibility privilege attached to these bonds cannot fail to cause them at no distant day to command a market price considerably above par, besides paying about 9 per cent. currency, interest in the meanwhile. U. S. Five-twenties, at present prices only return five per cent.; and we regard the security equally good.

The greater part of the road is already completed, and the balance of the work is rapidly progressing.

The established character of this road, running as it does through the heart of the most thickly settled and richest portion of the great State of Iowa, together with the present advanced condition and large earnings warrant us in unhesitatingly recommending these bonds to investors, as, in every respect, an unincumbered security.

AYER'S HAIR VIGOR,

For Restoring Gray Hair to its Natural Vitality and Color.

A Dressing which is at once agreeable, healthy, and effectual for Preserving the Hair. Faded or gray Hair is soon restored to its original color, with the gloss and freshness of youth. Thin hair is thickened, falling hair checked, and baldness often, though not always, cured by its use.

Nothing can restore the hair where the follicles are destroyed, or the glands atrophied and decayed. But such as remains can be saved for usefulness by this application. Instead of fouling the hair with a pasty sediment, it will keep it clean and vigorous. Its occasional use will prevent the hair from turning gray or falling off, and consequently prevent baldness. Free from those deleterious substances which make some preparations dangerous and injurious to the hair, the Vigor, can only benefit but not harm it.

If wanted merely for a HAIR DRESSING, nothing else can be found so desirable. Containing neither oil nor dye, it does not soil white cambric, and yet lasts long on the hair, giving it a rich glossy lustre and a grateful perfume.

AMERICAN & FOREIGN PATENTS.

R. H. EDDY, SOLICITOR OF PATENTS,

Late Agent of the United States Patent Office, Washington, under the Act of 1837,

No. 78 STATE ST., OPPOSITE KILBY ST., BOSTON,

After an extensive practice of upwards of twenty years, continues to secure patents in the United States; also in Great Britain, France and other foreign countries. Caveats, Specifications, Bonds, Assignments, and all papers or drawings for Patents, executed on reasonable terms with dispatch. Researches made into American and Foreign works, to determine the validity and utility of Patents or inventions, and legal and other advice rendered on all matters touching the patent law. Copies of the claims of any patent furnished, by remitting one dollar. Assignments recorded in Washington.

No Agency in the United States possesses superior facilities for obtaining Patents or ascertaining the patentability of inventions.

During eight months the subscriber, in the course of his large practice, made on twice rejected app lications, SIXTEEN APPEALS, EVERY ONE of which was decided IN HIS FAVOR by the Commissioner of Patents.

TESTIMONIALS.

"I regard Mr. Eddy as one of the most capable and successful practitioners with whom I have had official intercourse. CHARLES MASON, Commissioner of Patents."

"I have no hesitation in assuring inventors that they cannot employ a man more competent and trustworthy and more capable of putting their applications in a form to secure for them an early and favorable consideration at the Patent Office. EDMUND BURKE, Late Commissioner of Patents.

"MR. R. H. EDDY has made for me THIRTEEN applications, in all but ONE of which patents have been granted, and that one is now pending. Such unmistakable proof of great talent and ability on his part leads me to recommend ALL inventors to apply to him to procure their Patents, as they may be sure of having the most faithful attention bestowed on their cases, and at very reasonable charges. JOHN TAGHART."

RICHARDSON'S

LITTLE WASHER, unlike all others, is light and portable, weighing only ten pounds, is sold for the small price of five dollars. Adjusts itself to any article from a Pocket handkerchief to a

LARGE BED SPREAD,

without alteration. Can be fitted to any tub, and removed at pleasure.

If you will use this little common sense washing machine, you will do the work of half a day in 2 hours.

RICHARDSON'S LITTLE WASHER does not tear or wear the clothes, no matter how fine the fabric. Clothes are straightened out, and passed back and forth, between the rollers till clean.

Remember and always have a good strong and hot suds.

Put your Pocket handkerchiefs, Cuffs, Collars, Napkins and Fringes into a sheet or Pillow slip and wash perfectly clean, in two to three minutes. We wash at one time, two or three sheets gathered at the hem, six Pillow slips, six Towels, two or three Cotton Shirts, one pair heavy Pants or two pairs light ones, one heavy Spread or Blanket, always putting the smaller things inside something larger or longer.

Wherever this Little Washer has been introduced the sale has been unprecedented, having sold upwards of three hundred in Dover, N. H., in less than two months; two thirds of the purchasers had been using large awkward machines costing from five to eighteen dollars; all a failure, one great complaint being, that they are heavy and no woman can work them.

Richardson's has taken a Silver Medal in Springfield, Mass., at Mechanic's Fair in 1868, and other places not called to mind.

A Lady who has not washed for three years, told her neighbors she did her washing, with that Little Washer, with ease, consequently they ordered one, and the question, all over town is, have you got a RICHARDSON'S LITTLE WASHER?

TERRAPIN WANTED, my23 At the Rockingham House.

Morning Chronicle.

AN INDICTMENT. — The history of King Alcohol is a history of shame and corruption, of cruelty, crime, rage, and ruin.

He has taken the glory of health from off the cheek and placed there the reddish hue of the wine cup.

He has taken the lustre from the eye and made it dim and bloodshot.

He has taken beauty and comeliness from the face and left it ill-shaped and bloated.

He has taken strength from the limbs and made them weak and tottering.

He has taken firmness and elasticity from the step and made it faltering and treacherous.

He has taken vigor from the arm and left flabbiness and weakness.

He has taken vitality from the blood, and filled it with poison and with seeds of disease and death. He has transformed this body, fearfully and wonderfully made, God's masterpiece of animal mechanism, into a vile, loathsome, stinking mass of humanity.

He has entered the brain—the temple of thought — dethroned reason, and made it reel with folly.

He has taken the beam of intelligence from out of the eye, and exchanged for it the stupid stare of idiocy and dullness.

He has taken the impress of ennobled manhood from off the face, and left the mark of sensuality and brutishness.

He has bribed the tongue to utter madne s and cursing.

He has turned the lips to songs of ribaldry and revelling.

He has taken cunning from the hands and turned them from deeds of usefulness to become instruments of brutality and murder.

He has broken the ties of friendship, and planted the seeds of enmity.

He has made the kind, indulgent father a brute, a tyrant, a murderer.

He has transformed the loving mother into a very fiend of brutish incarnation.

He has made obedient and affectionate sons and daughters the breakers of hearts, and the destroyer of homes.

He has stripped backs of their broadcloth and silk, and clothed them with rags.

He has taken luxuries from off the table, and has compelled men to cry on account of famine, and to beg for bread.

He has stolen men's palaces, and given them wretched hovels in exchange.

He has taken away acres, and given not even a decent burial place in death.

He has filled our streets and ways with violence and lawlessness.

He has complicated our laws and crowded our courts.

He has filled to overflowing our houses of correction and penitentiaries.

He has peopled with his multitude our poor houses.

He has straitened us for room in our insane asylums.

He has filled our world with tears and groans, with poor and helpless, with wretchedness and want.

He has taken away faith, and hope, and charity, yea, and all that is lovely and of good report, and given despairs infidelity, enmity, and all the motion, and deeds of wickedness.

He has banished Christ from the heart, and created a hell within.

He has wrecked and enfeebled the bodies, shattered and destroyed the minds, imperiled and damned the souls of our fellow men.

These are the counts of our indictment. Let the world judge of the truth.

FAT AND LEAN FOLKS.—Fat Man. Doctor, see how I waddle, and hear me wheeze! Can anything be done to remove this load? I should weigh 160 pounds whereas I weigh 240 pounds.

Doctor.—If you will observe for one year these rules, you will come down to the 160 pounds, and enjoy better health, with increased cheerfulness and activity; Reduce the quantity of your food one quarter, and increase the proportion of animal food. At the end of three months reduce the quantity another quarter. Rise early, sleeping little and walking an hour before breakfast. Exercise into a profuse perspiration at least once a day.

Lean Man.—But, Doctor, what can be done for me? I should weigh 160 pounds, but I can only just turn 130!

Doctor.—Nothing is easier, if you observe a few simple rules; Eat freely of oat meal and Graham mush, cracked wheat and stewed fruit. Retire at nine o'clock, or if you are in a hurry to become young and plump, go to bed at eight o'clock, and rise when you get ready. Cultivate jovial fellows, and do your share of the laughing.—Dio Lewis.

AYRSHIRE COWS.—As a means of improving our stock, I wish to suggest that we have a few Ayrshire calves imported. This might be done by having a club select a man and send him to bring the pure breed.

I was raised right where the Ayrshires were bred. I can say they are a great deal ewer milkers than the cows here. I was astonished when I came here to see one cow give 25 quarts of milk, and perhaps half a dozen more in the same herd that would not give more than 10 or 12 quarts. The Ayrshire cows will average from 20 to 25 quarts of milk for the first three months. We used to consider that we had a good cow if we got a pure Ayrshire.

You will sometimes find a cow here that is about as good as the Ayrshires. I once owned a cow that would come up to the above average, and raised three heifers from her; not one of them would do more than half as well. Such as these are not known among the Ayrshires.—PETER N. THURSTON in Western Farmer.

—The price of California wine has gone up. Wine always had an elevating tendency.

—The New York Evening Post evidently labors under the impression that the Massachusetts legislature is still in session. It says that a silver set of eleven pieces will be presented to Hon. A. A. Burnham, the Speaker of the House of Representatives, by the members of the Massachusetts legislature at the close of the present session. As the legislature adjourned over a month ago, and Hon. A. A. Burnham was not Speaker, it looks as if the Post had got adrift.

—A countryman, walking the streets of New York, found his progress stopped by a close barricade of lumber. "What is that for?" said he to a person in the street. "That's to stop the cholera," "Ah! I have often heard of the board of health, but I never saw one before."

—The New York Evening Mail has been informed of a remarkably quiet and unpretending marriage which took place on the 14th inst., at Portland, between Signor Brignoli and Miss McCulloch.

—The Commercial Advertiser says: "The new Press Association displays much more energy and enterprise than Napoleon. It has already given us one naval battle, two infantry engagements, and a French victory."

ARE YOU GOING TO PAINT?
IF SO, SELECT THE BEST, which is the
AVERILL CHEMICAL PAINT.

It has proved itself, West, North and South, to be the best Paint known. It will not peel, crack, nor chalk off, and will last twice as long as the best Lead Paints.

It is cheaper, handsomer and more elastic, than the best of other Paints. It is the most convenient Paint made, being mixed, ready for application; it dries rapidly, and retains its shade perfectly, with a beautiful surface and glossy finish, and for years retains its gloss and beauty. It is excellent for walls inside, in the place of paper, making a smooth glossy finish, which can be cleaned with hot suds without injury.

One Gallon of Mixed Lead Paint weighs 20 lbs. and costs $2.72, and will only cover 16 square yds, 2 coats; while one gallon of the Chemical Paint only weighs 10 lbs., and costs but $2.50, and will cover 32 square yds., 2 coats,—thus making a saving of 22 cts., per gallon, besides covering 4 yards more than Lead Paint, and will last twice as long and look far better.

The Chemical Paint is sold by the gallon in quantities to suit purchasers, in 40 different shades and pure white, and will be applied by experienced workmen and satisfaction given in every case or the money will be refunded on your payment for the paint, on the whole cost of Paint will be refunded.

The sale of these unequalled Paints are daily increasing. Call and examine these ready mixed Paints, both in kegs, and applied to Buildings one year ago, before buying elsewhere, and save your money and money, and beautify your dwelling by using the

THE POTATO ROT may be prevented by slacking a cask of lime, (mixing it with ashes and a small quantity of salt is judicious), and then, even while the lime is warm, sprinking at the first hoeing less than a gill over the potato top. The odor drives off the insect that feeds on the leaves. Otherwise it lays its eggs under the leaf, and when hatched, they eat into the heart of the stalk, and poison the juice. There is a circulation of the saccharine juice, or sap, as in all vegetables, from the top of the tubers.

I discovered the above remedy many years ago, and while my potatoes did not rot, those of my near neighbors did. I afterwards annually applied the same remedy, sometimes with lime only. Published accounts stated that in sections of the country where lime is one constituent of the soil, there was no rot. It is not a singular fact, that an insect or fly should feed upon and perforate the potato leaf. What vegetable, even to the tobacco plant, is not infested with some kind of a fly, bug or insect?

WHEN TO SKIM MILK.—When milk is allowed to sour before it is skimmed, the layer of cream appears more bulky and of greater consistency, but it does not produce so much nor so good a quality of butter as cream properly raised and skimmed from milk before it sours. On this point we possess some interesting experiments by Sannet, who put aside two equal quantities of milk, of which the first, skimmed after thirty hours, yielded thirty pounds of butter; and the second, skimmed after a lapse of sixty hours, only twenty-seven pounds of butter.

In another experiment, two equal quantities of milk yielded—the one, when skimmed after thirty hours, thirty-one pounds of butter; and the other, after sixty hours, twenty-nine pounds of butter. In both experiments, in which the milk was skimmed after thirty hours standing, the skimmed milk was still sweet, and the cream not so thick and less in bulk than that which was thrown up after sixty hours standing.

The cream which rises first is always richer in butter than that which is thrown up later, and it also possesses more of that peculiar aroma which gives to butter that rich, nutty flavor and smell which imparts so high a degree of pleasure in eating it. When proper regard has been had to keeping the milk at the right temperature while the cream is rising, and the proper appliances are had in the diary, all the cream that will rise at all will rise to the surface in about twenty-four hours. Some claim that they can get it all up in less time. Of one thing we may be assured—the quicker cream can be made to rise the better its quality; for cream, like all perishable substances, does not preserve its original properties for any great length of time.

The best as well as the highest priced butter that now goes into the London market, comes from the continent of Europe, where the greatest attention is paid to butter making. In Holstein, one of the points considered most essential in butter making is to skim the milk just at the proper moment; and this must always take place before the milk can become sour. Choice, keepable butter can only result when the milk has been kept sweet, as the sourring develops curds. The Orange country butter makers observe this principle; and the experience of the best butter makers, both in this country and in Europe, appears to have settled down upon this principle as the correct one to practice. But while the cream should be taken from the milk before it is sour, the cream, on the contrary, is allowed to have a pleasant acid taste before churning.

It appears to be the general opinion of butter makers, both in this country and in Europe, that better results are obtained by allowing the cream to acquire a slightly acid taste than to churn it sweet; but this acid condition of the cream must not be confounded, however, with sourness, which is altogether different, and arises from different causes, such as standing too long, or from a close atmosphere, or from badly cleaned utensils, or from a general want of care and cleanliness.—X. A. WILLIARD, in Rural New Yorker.

HENS.—Boards, about four inches wide, are better adapted for roosts than round poles, as the fowls sitting on them can cover their feet with their feathers and protect them from the frost. Old hens are not worth feeding; they should be got rid of and young and vigorous ones substituted. When more than three years old, hens are usually not worth keeping.

Abundant food should be given in winter, as without it very few eggs will be obtained. Every poultry house should be furnished with boxes for the hens to lay in, so arranged that they cannot roost over them. Food and water should be given with regularity, and a supply of lime, gravel, crushed bones and charcoal should be always available.

—Two certificates of death in the San Francisco coroner's office read: "Ded from rapture of the head," and "Suffrocated from eating poison."

—"Shoo Fly" is sung nightly at the London Strand.

H. T. HELMBOLD'S CONCENTRATED FLUID EXTRACT BUCHU,

THE GREAT DIURETIC.

The proprietor trusts that his Remedies, from the fact of their being advertised, may not be classed as Patent Medicines.

HELMBOLD'S FLUID EXTRACT BUCHU is a pharmaceutical preparation. The proper name is given, and it is the most active which can be made. It is endorsed as a cure by all medical works for such diseases as recommended by the proprietor. It is pleasant in its taste and odor, free from all injurious properties, and is taken by adults and children. It is tonic, diuretic, blood-purifying, and invigorating. Enfeebled and delicate constitutions of both sexes will find it far more strengthening than any of the preparations of bark or iron.

See medical properties contained in Dispensatory of the United States, of which the following is a correct copy:—

BUCHU.—Its odor is strong, diffusive, and somewhat aromatic; its taste is bitterish, and analogous to that of mint. It is given chiefly in complaints of the urinary organs such as gravel, chronic catarrh of the bladder, morbid irritation of the prostate gland, and retention or the inconvenience of urine, from a loss of tone in the parts concerned in its evacuation. It has also been recommended in dyspepsia, chronic rheumatism, cutaneous affections, and dropsy.

TESTIMONY.

Cure of Gravel of Five Years Standing. Stone Passed and to be Seen.

SAVANNAH, TENN., May 14, 1869.

Dr. H. T. Helmbold,

DEAR SIR: I introduced your "Fluid Extract Buchu" in this county about eight months ago, and are happy to state that it is meeting with universal favor. We wish to inform you of one instance (among many) where your "Buchu" has worked wonders. A man in our county, named J. E. Reid, had been suffering about five years with gravel.

About six weeks ago he bought of us one bottle of your "Buchu," and before he was through with one bottle he passed a gravel that weighs eight grains, which we now have on exhibition in our drug store. He says that he will never be without the "Buchu" in his house again. Your preparations are gaining favor every day.

Very respectfully yours, &c.,

ECCLES & HINKLE, Druggists.

Cure of Bladder and Kidney Affection of long Standing. Stone Passed and to be Seen.

WESTPORT, CONN., Sept. 9, 1869.

H. T. Helmbold, Esq.,

DEAR SIR: I commenced taking your "Extract of Buchu" about two weeks since for an affection of the bladder and kidneys. I have suffered by spells very much for a few days past. But yesterday relief came through the effect of your "Buchu." A stone passed from my bladder about the size of a large pea, and I now feel perfectly well and entirely free from the pain that I have suffered with 'so hard.' I attribute my cure to your medicine entirely, and would recommend all persons similarly affected to try it. I have great faith in its curative powers.

Yours truly, THOMAS J. BENNETT.

Cure of Kidney and Bladder Affection of a Patient Seventy-eight years of Age. Thanks to Mr. Helmbold.

GIRARD, PA., March 31, 1869.

Editor Cosmopolite: I desire, as an unsolicited tribute to the merits of Helmbold's Buchu, and for the benefit of those similarly afflicted as myself, to say that after consulting many eminent physicians and trying nearly all the best advertised Remedies, in the vain hope of finding relief from aggravated kidney and bladder diseases, from which I have suffered excessively for many years, good fortune finally suggested to me Helmbold's Buchu, which I commenced using with little faith, and no apparent beneficial results for about a month.

At the expiration of that time, however, I thought I could perceive its effects, though I recommended to experience slight relief, which encouraged me to persevere in its use, and now, at the expiration of four months, although I am an invalid man, nearly 78 years of age, and consequently medicines cannot be expected to favorably affect me as they otherwise would, I have found such unspeakable relief and permanent benefit from Mr. Helmbold's valuable discovery, that I feel I ought to publicly record the fact, as an acknowledgment to him, and a valuable suggestion to the public. Yours respectfully,

D. M. LAREN.

DR. KEYSER

is a physician of over thirty years' experience, and a graduate of the Jefferson Medical College, and of the University of Medicine and Surgery of Philadelphia. Hear him:

Mr. H. T. Helmbold:

DEAR SIR: In regard to the question asked me as to my opinion about Buchu, I would say that I have used and sold the article in various forms for the past thirty years. I do not think there is any form or preparation of it I have not used, or known to be used, in the various diseases where such medicate agent would be indicated. You are aware, as well as myself, that it has been extensively employed in the various diseases of the bladder and kidneys, and the reputation it has acquired, in my judgment, is warranted by the facts.

I have seen and used, as before stated, every form of Buchu—the powdered leaves—tincture, fluid extracts—and I am not cognizant of any preparation of that plant at all equal to yours. Twelve years' experience ought, I think, to give me the right to judge of its merits; and, without prejudice or partiality, I give yours precedence over all others.

I value your Buchu for its effect on patients. I have cured with it, and seen cured with it, more diseases of the bladder and kidneys than I ever seen cured with any other Buchu or any other proprietary compound of whatever name.

Respectfully yours, &c.,

GEO. H. KEYSER, M. D.,
149 Wood Street, Pittsburgh, Penn.

August 11, 1865.

GREAT SALT LAKE CITY, UTAH, Jan. 28, 1869.

Mr. H. T. Helmbold,

DEAR SIR: Your communication requesting our terms for your Buchu was duly received, but from a prejudice I had formed against advertising "cures for secret diseases," it was left unanswered. During an accidental conversation in a drug store the other evening, my mind was changed on the character of your Buchu. It was then highly commended for other diseases by two physicians present. Inclosed please find our rates o advertising. Yours, T. B. H. STENHOUSE,
Ed'r and Prop'r of Telegraph.

TESTIMONIALS.

A Permanent Cure of Gravel of twelve Years' Standing. Stone Passed and to be Seen.

BURNSIDE, CONN., Dec. 15, 1869.

Dr. Helmbold,

DEAR SIR: It is with much pleasure that I write you upon facts respecting myself. I do not know hardly how to express myself. I have been for the last ten or twelve years the greatest sufferer man could be and live; but more sometimes than others. The complaint was the "Kidneys" and "bladder." I have been sometimes from twelve to fourteen hours, and wanted to make water every minute, but could not. Have consulted doctors, both in Massachusetts and this State, and taken pills, I may say by the quart, also liquored medicine, but found no relief from any, and got worse the last six months. I was so that I could scarcely get about, I could not rest night or day.

It would soon have been "all up" with me if I had not seen your advertisement headed "Kidneys." I read it through and thought I would try it. I purchased a bottle, but, mind you, had not much faith in it. Why should I, when I had been trying so many things that cost me so much? Well, I began taking it, and before I had taken the first bottle I felt bad; but I finished it and got another. By the time I took half of the second I still got worse (apparently.) When I walked it seemed as if my right kidney was falling from its place, and I felt really bad. I felt so, before I had finished the second, that I had madeup my mind it was of no use trying any more—and all this time the "Buchu" was doing its work, but I did not know it, so I gave it up and went to Hartford on Saturday to one of the best doctors in the city. He said it was the neck of the bladder, and I should have to undergo an operation. He gave me medicine, and I went home quite downhearted.

On Sunday I was unable to go to church. I had not taken any of the medicine, but on my return continued using the "Buchu," and in the afternoon I had a desire to make water, but could not. About one hour passed, when I felt the same result; but the next time I took the vessel it was the same as turning a faucet and stopping it off quick. I took for bed "Buchu," and the third time there was something came through the passage and struck against the side of the vessel. I examined it, and it is the ugliest stone or gravel you ever covered over with little pieces which collected together. It looks the color of a mud turtle, and is as hard as flint. So you see the "Buchu" was doing its work, although I was feeling so badly. I procured another bottle, thinking there might be some more behind; but since that time, which is but eight weeks ago last Sunday, I have been as well as ever I was in my life. I have the stone securely wrapped, and those who have seen it in this place are surprised.

I cannot tell you all, but this is a true story of my case, and you are welcome to make such use of my name as you think proper. I am pretty well known in Windham and all over Connecticut. The advertisement saved me. Why not publish more? If any one wishes to see this wonder, they can do so. I could write all day, but I think I have said enough this time, so I remain your ever well-wisher, EDWARD L. HOWARD,

(A Home and School for the Sons of Deceased Soldiers.)

Dr. H. T. Helmbold,

Two bottles only of the package of your valuable Buchu have proved to the Institute have been used by the children, and with perfect success. In the case of our little Lieutenant A. J., his pride is no longer mortified, and he is free from the daily morning anathemas of the chamber-maid who has charge of his bedding.

I feel a knowledge of the benefit of our use of your Buchu with the children under our charge may save many a Superintendent and Matron of Boarding Schools and Asylums a great amount of annoyance; and many a poor child suffering more from Weakness than from habit, may be spared punishment, that is not knowing it is a weakness instead of a bad habit; most unjustly inflicted upon them. Thanking you on behalf of the children, and hoping other men may be alike benefitted, I am respectfully yours,

COL. YOUNG, General Sup't and Director.

A Case of Twenty Years Standing.

PHILADELPHIA, PENN., June 25, 1867.

H. T. Helmbold, Druggist.

DEAR SIR: I have been a sufferer for upwards of twenty years with gravel, bladder, and kidney affections, during which time I have used various medicinal preparations, and been under the treatment of the most eminent physicians, experiencing but little relief.

Having seen your preparations extensively advertised, I consulted my family physician in regard to using your Extract Buchu.

I did this because I had used all kinds of advertised Remedies and had found them worthless, and some quite injurious; in fact, I despaired of ever getting well, and determined to use no Remedies hereafter unless I knew of the ingredients. I was this that prompted me to use your Remedy. As you advertised that it was composed of Buchu, cubebs, and juniper berries, it commended to me and my physician as an excellent combination; and, with his advice, after an examination of the cubebs, and consulting a friend with the Druggist, I concluded to try it. I commenced to use it about eight months ago, at which time I was confined to my room.

From the first bottle I was astonished and gratified at the beneficial effect, and after using it three weeks was able to walk out. I felt much like writing to you at that time, but thought, as the time, but thought my improvement might only be temporary, and therefore concluded to defer, and see if my good effects would be lasting; feeling that it would be of greater value to you and more satisfactory to me.

I am now happy to report that a cure is effected after using the remedy for five months. I have not used any now for three months, and feel as well in all respects as I ever did.

Your Buchu being devoid of any unpleasant taste and odor, a nice tonic and invigorator of the system, I do not mean to be without it whenever occasion may require its use in such affections.

SATURDAY, JULY 30, 1870.

WAR TALK.—A despatch from London, dated midnight, Thursday, says everything indicates that a great battle will be fought within three days. The Prussian army 400,000 strong, is getting into possession between Treves and Merseburg. The French force numbers about 300,000.

Napoleon and the Prince Imperial left Paris Wednesday for the front.

The excitement concerning Napoleon's alleged schemes of aggrandizement continues. The Berlin Press and Count Bismark are discovering other plots besides that for the acquisition of Belgium.

Reports are published in Paris that Russia is growing more favorable to France and more hostile to Prussian pretensions. It is also reported that France has made a conditional alliance with Italy, one of the contingent results of which will be making Rome the Italian capital.

In the Danubian Principalities there is great commotion, and Turkey is arming to repress any insurrectionary movements.

Belgium still assumes to be alarmed lest her neutrality may be violated.

In the English Parliament the ministry made some statements concerning the efforts for peace, and declared that England's policy was one of strict neutrality. To a question as to whether government was putting the army and navy on a war footing, the Secretary of War declined to reply.

Prussia has complained because England is supplying coal to France.

Prussia in accepting the Paris declaration, exempts from seizure the enemy's merchantmen not carrying contraband of war.

The French employ American agents to buy arms at Liege, under the pretence that they are intended for the United States.

Abd el Kader has volunteered to serve in the French army.

Old blockade runners are being sold for service in the Baltic.

All warlike demonstrations either in favor of Germany or France have been forbidden in Liverpool.

A French cruiser is off the Isle of Wight, and said to be boarding all merchantmen.

A Prussian royal decree has been issued, calling for volunteer marines to protect the coast. Premiums of various grades, some as high as 50,000 thalers, have been offered for the destruction of hostile vessels.

The Russian force in Poland has been increased to 200,000 men, including the regiments of the Imperial Guard.

The feeling of the Spanish government is secretly in favor of France, based on the satisfaction because Prussia and not Spain was attacked. The republican newspapers denounce this tendency, and warn the government that the people will not endure base submission to a French alliance under such circumstances.

The Independance Belge publishes a letter which throws new light on the secret treaty proposed to Prussia by France. The correspondent says he has seen the original draft of the treaty in the archives of the War Office at Berlin, and certifies to the accuracy of the copy recently printed by the London Times. France has repeatedly demanded this document from the Prussian government, through her representative at Berlin, Count Benedetti, but in all cases has been refused; and now that she is satisfied that its recovery is impossible, she assumes a hostile attitude towards Prussia.

The French squadron destined for operations on the northern coast of Prussia, entered the Baltic sea on Wednesday night.

The Gaulois reports a rumor that an American legion of 500 men are organizing in Paris under command of French officers. The report is regarded as doubtful.

The French military correspondent writes that the famous citadel of Antwerp is uninhabitable and indefensible.

All the French organs represent that the secret treaty was not seriously proposed by France, but rather as an attempt to test Bismarck.

It having been reported that several American officers desire to follow the French army in the campaigns against Prussia for the purpose of making observations for the use of the American Government, petitions were lately filed with the Government for the necessary permission. The request was declined, the highest military authority of the Empire repeating that no foreign officer, however high his rank, would be permitted near the army.

A French troop consisting of three companies of infantry and eighty horsemen, attacked half a Prussian regiment of infantry at Voskinger. The French were repulsed with the loss of one officer and eight men. One Prussian soldier was wounded.

A dispatch received in New York on Friday at 1:30 P. M., announces a battle on the Rhine, in which the Prussians were victorious.

Gleaned and Ground.

The Maine Sons of Temperance had a meeting Thursday.

Prices Beef Cattle—Extra $13 00 @ $13 50; first quality $12 25 @ $12 75; second quality $11 25 @ $12 00; third quality $9 50 @$10 75; poorest grade of coarse Oxen, Bulls, &c., $7 00 @ $9 00 ℔ cwt, (the total weight of hides, tallow and dressed beef.)

Brighton Tallow 6¼ @ 7c per lb; Country Tallow 6 @ 6½c ℔ lb.

Sheep and Lamb Skins 23 @ 50c each; Calf Skins 16 @ 17c ℔ lb.

The market for all kinds of live stock has been dull, and prices have declined from 50c @ $1 ℔ cwt from our last quotations. A few Cattle, which came in on the last of the week, were sold at 14½ ℔ lb, 20 per cent. shrink. The quality of the Western Cattle was not so good as that of last week. There were but few Cattle sold yesterday for more than 13c ℔ lb. From Maine the supply was large, and there were many good Beeves among them, for which the drovers said they could not get home prices offered. The trade for Working Oxen and Store Cattle still continues dull.

Store Cattle—Yearlings $15 @ $25: two year olds $25 @ $45; three year olds $45 @ $65 ℔ head. Most of the small Cattle that are in a fair condition are bought up to slaughter. Prices depend much upon their value for Beef.

Sheep and Lambs—The trade for Sheep and Lambs has been dull, and prices were lower than those of last week. We quote extra lots at $3 50 @ $5 ℔ head; ordinary lots at $1 50 @ $3 ℔ head; Lambs from $3 @ $5 50 ℔ head, or from 3¼ @ 5½c ℔ lb.

Swine—Store Pigs—None in market. Spring Pigs 15c ℔ lb; retail 15 @ 18c ℔ lb. Fat Hogs—$200 at market; prices 10¼ @ 10½c ℔ lb.

SPECIAL NOTICES.

Be on Your Guard.

The unexampled success which for twenty years has accompanied the use of HOSTETTER'S STOMACH BITTERS provokes the envy of ignorant nostrum-mongers in all parts of the country, and the counterfeiting business having been measurably played out in consequence of the numerous suits instituted against the offenders, a new system of tactics has been adopted. In the South and West especially, a legion of "Bitters," prepared from worthless materials and bearing a variety of names, have been got up by irresponsible adventurers with the hope of substituting them to some extent for the Standard Tonic of the Age.

In some cases country druggists are the concoctors and proprietors of these unscientific and trashy compounds, which are warmly recommended by the venders, who endeavor to palm them off upon the credulous in lieu of the great specific which has never yet had a successful competitor either among proprietory preparations or the medicines prescribed in private practice. This notice is intended to put the public on their guard against persuasions of parties engaged in the attempt to substitute mere rubbish for the most efficient stomachic and alterative at present known.

At this season of the year when debility and complaints arising from a lack of vital energy so generally prevail, it is of the greatest consequence that no tricks should be played with depressed and enfeebled systems. Ask, therefore, for HOSTETTER'S STOMACH BITTERS, the great vegetable invigorant and alterative, and reject, with deserved contempt, the worse than useless medicines offered in its place. It is as important to the public as to the proprietors of the famous restorative, that this advice should be heeded.

CURE FOR CONSUMPTION.

What the Doctors Say:

AMOS WOOLLEY, M. D., of Koscinsko County, Indiana, says: "For three years past I have used ALLEN'S LUNG BALSAM extensively, in my practice, and I am satisfied there is no better medicine for lung disease in use."

ISAAC A. DORAN, M. D., of Logan County, Ohio, says: "ALLEN'S LUNG BALSAM not only sells rapidly but gives perfect satisfaction in every case within my knowledge. Having confidence in it and knowing that it possesses valuable medicinal properties, I freely use it in my daily practice and with unbounded success. As an expectorant it is most certainly far ahead of any preparation I have ever yet known."

NATHANIEL HARRIS, M. D., of Middlebury, Vermont, says: I have no doubt it will soon become a classical remedial agent for the cure of all diseases of the Throat, Bronchial Tubes and the Lungs.

Physicians do not recommend a medicine which has no merits, what they say about

ALLEN'S LUNG BALSAM,

Can be taken as a fact. Let all afflicted test it at once. Sold by all Medicine Dealers.

BRANDRETH'S PILLS.

Their great value consists in this: They may be used so long as any disease affects any of the body; and by thus persevering in their use the disease will be cured, and the body restored to health, free from every taint and impurity. Their reputation proves their merit.

Thomas Smith, Coroner and Justice of the Peace, Hastings-on-the-Hudson, says BRANDRETH'S PILLS cured him of Dyspepsia and Heartburn, when every other medicine had failed to relieve him. Certificate dated April 2, 1868.

Dr. Turner, of Savannah, Ga., says he has, for nearly forty years, recommended BRANDRETH'S PILLS as a specific in Yellow Fever; that he never knew a patient to die who took them for this malady, being otherwise sound. Their prompt use takes out of the body those matters which lead the fatality of the disease. As a general family medicine he considers them far in advance of all others, and here he speaks from personal experience of their qualities. mh13

Time tests the Merits of all Things.

☞ FOR THIRTY YEARS! ☜

PERRY DAVIS' PAIN KILLER

This valuable Family Medicine has been widely and favorably known in our own and foreign countries, upwards of

THIRTY YEARS!

It has lost none of its good name by repeated trials, but continues to occupy a prominent position in every family medicine chest.

It is an External and Internal Remedy. For Summer Complaint, or any other form of bowel disease in children or adults, it is an almost certain cure, and has without doubt, been more successful in curing the various kinds of CHOLERA than any other known remedy, or the most skillful physician. In India, Africa and China, where this dreadful disease is more or less prevalent, the PAIN KILLER is considered by the natives, as well as European residents, as the great, a sure remedy; and while it is a most efficient remedy for pain, it is a perfectly safe medicine, even in unskillful hands.

THE "CESS POOL"—Mr. Editor.—We wish to inform the citizens of Portsmouth through your columns, that we are not responsible for the nuisance at the Creek, known as the Cess Pool. We consider this slough of filth a disgrace to our city, and injurious to the public health: but we can act in this matter only by direction of the board of Mayor and Aldermen. (See Ordinance No. 4 Sec. 12 City Ordinances.) Last year parties responsible for this nuisance were notified by the Board of Health to abate it; they paid no attention whatever to the notices, and the Health officers were not authorized by the board of Mayor and Aldermen to take any further steps. Last fall, several indictments were found against parties for allowing this nuisance, and the Health Officers assured that it would be abated, but summer is almost past and still its foul stench is in our midst. Decisive action should be taken by the proper authorities at once. We are ready and willing to act in all cases where we have authority.

ALDERMEN. — Thursday Evening. Ald. Miller reported that the heirs of the Cutter estate would accept $500 and a new sidewalk, for land proposed to be taken to widen Congress Street. After discussion, on motion of Ald. Nowell, voted to offer $300 and the new walk.

Com. on School houses were authorized to make repairs on the Cabot St., and the High and Haven Schools.

Com. on Gas Lights were empowered to paint the gas posts.

The Cess-Pool, which is cussed so much out doors, was discussed a good deal here, and the Mayor authorized to settle the matter between the parties and abate the nuisance.

The Police were talked about a little, and the Board voted not to re-instate Mr. Shannon.

Communication.

Messrs. Editors:—I was glad to read an article in your issue of Thursday, in relation to brothels and rum-holes in this city. I think it is about time (for the morals of both sexes) to put a stop to such places. Here is, for instance, the North end of Market Street,—one of the most public streets in the city—which has got to be so disgusting that it is not safe for a respectable female to venture along there after dark, or for that matter not in the day-time—for fear of being insulted. Lewd women are to be seen at all times, stretched out of windows, in almost a nude state, and their language is fairly sickening. Sailors are enticed into dens there and made beastly drunk, then thrust into the street, and finally get dragged off to the station house,—while the keepers of the houses are tolerated.

This is not all. The rum-shops are kept open all day Sunday for the accommodation of our young clerks, and have secret passages inside to lead to those lewd women, who occupy the tenements above. It is not much wonder that so many young men rob their employers, when such places are allowed to be open Sundays to receive them. I hope you will give this space in your columns,—it may be the means of helping to abate such nuisances.

AN OBSERVER.

POLITICS IN MISSOURI.—The State of Missouri, which sent Benton to the United States Senate for thirty years, and was so thoroughly democratic that a candidate of the opposite faith was rarely elected to any office, is now so thoroughly regenerated that the democracy have taken the back seats, where in imitation of the prudence of Capt. Scott's coon, they are willing to come down without being fired at. Or, as a democratic cotemporary puts it, they "intend to abstain from the nomination of a State ticket, and thus to protest against the cowardly despotism which decides beforehand that no such ticket shall be elected." Such protests are always open to the minority, but none but a party who deserve to be outvoted, and know that they deserve it, and will be sure to receive their deserts, are accustomed to file them in advance.

For the Chronicle and Gazette.

ANTI-TEMPERANCE IN THE CONGREGATIONALIST. — Some time since the Congregationalist had a slap at temperance, quoting the sentiment expressed smartly, but without anything that I suspected was meant for wit, of a "thoughtful and observant clergyman." You published my comment on it, in the Gazette of the 16th. In reply, the Editor of the Congregationalist makes himself more obtuse than I trust he really is. He says:—

We have heard of people who could not get a joke into their head without a surgical operation. We are afraid that "P. P." of the N. H. Gazette, belongs to that class, as he writes quite an earnest and serious article upon the [observant and thoughtful] clergyman to whom we lately referred as "fearing the Bible is not quite up to the [temperance] sentiments entertained in certain quarters!"

I do not see the "joke" yet. I understand the wit of obscenity and of profanity when put into the lips of the lost man that would utter them. There is something which some call wit in the idea of H. Ward's fanning himself in the pulpit, and saying it is as hot as Hell! but I do not see it so. To aid the Boston Herald in casting "firebrands, arrows and death" from a vantage ground within the Prohibition camp, and then say "Am I not in sport?" is a "joke" which, I confess, is not likely to get into my head without a trephine. If this aid and comfort to the rum party was unintentional, I wish the Congregationalist would publish my "quite earnest and serious article," as well as comment on the thickness of my skull.

Yours, P. P.

OUR CONSUL AT LIVERPOOL.—We copy the following merited compliment to our Consul at Liverpool, from the New York Mail:

Should Mr. Frelinghuysen, the newly appointed Minister to England, go abroad, he will derive great advantage in his management of the Alabama Claims question from the presence and assistance of Hon. Thomas H. Dudley, our Consul at Liverpool, who is more familiar with the whole question, perhaps, than any American in England. Mr. Dudley has resided in Liverpool since 1861, and it was upon information furnished by him that all protests against the construction and equipment of Anglo-rebel cruisers in British ports were based. Mr. Dudley organized and maintained during the whole period of war a corps of secret agents, who kept him constantly advised of every movement relating to a violation of British neutrality. So odious did he become on account of his vigilance and outspoken Americanism, that even his children on their way to school were frequently insulted in the streets, while the door of society was almost everywhere shut in his face. The counsel of one so thoroughly informed as to all the facts in the Alabama business cannot but be highly valuable to the new Minister. The two are old friends, having practised together for years in the New Jersey Courts.

YOUNG LADIES' SCHOOL.—One of the most delightful places in New England is what was the old town of Dorchester, (now the 16th Ward of Boston,) and no location is pleasanter than that of the Codman School, advertised in our columns, which has taken its place in the front rank for the education of young ladies.

PROPOSALS FOR MATERIALS

TO BE SUPPLIED TO THE NAVY YARDS, UNDER THE COGNIZANCE OF THE BUREAU OF CONSTRUCTION AND REPAIR.

NAVY DEPARTMENT,
BUREAU OF CONSTRUCTION AND REPAIR,
WASHINGTON, D. C., July 14, 1870.

Sealed proposals to furnish Timber and other materials for the Navy for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1871, will be received at this Bureau until 12 o'clock, M., of the 16th of August next, at which time the proposals will be opened.

The proposals must be addressed to the Chief of the Bureau of Construction and Repair, Navy Department, Washington, and must be endorsed, "Proposals for Timber, &c., for the Navy," that they may be distinguished from other business letters.

Printed schedules for such classes as parties deal in and intend to bid for, together with instructions to bidders, giving the forms of proposals of guarantee, and of certificate of guarantors, with printed forms of offer, will be furnished to such persons as desire to bid, on application to the Commandants of the respective Navy Yards, and those of all the yards on application to the Bureau.

The Commandant of each Navy Yard and the purchasing paymaster for each station, will have a copy of the schedules of the other yards, for examination only, in order that persons who intend to bid may judge whether it is desirable to make application for any of the classes of timber.

The proposals must be for the whole of a class, and all applications for information or for the examination of samples, must be made to the commandants of the respective yards.

The proposals must be accompanied by a certificate from the Collector of Internal Revenue for the district in which the bidder resides, that he has a license to deal in the articles for which he proposes; and, by direction of the Department, bids or offers will be received only from parties who are bona fide dealers in, or manufacturers of, the articles they offer to furnish. The guarantors must be certified by the Collector of Internal Revenue for the district in which they reside.

The contract will be awarded to the person who makes the lowest bids and gives the guarantee required by law, the Navy Department, however, reserving the right to reject the lowest bid, or any which it may deem exorbitant.

Sureties in the full amount will be required to sign the contract, and their responsibility must be certified to the satisfaction of the Navy Department.

As additional security twenty per centum will be withheld from the amount of the bills until the contracts shall have been completed, and eighty per centum of the amount of each bill; approved in triplicate by the Commandant of the respective yards, will be paid by the Paymaster of the station designated in the contract within ten days after the warrant for the same shall have been passed by the Secretary of the Treasury.

Proposals for Naval Material.

NAVY DEPARTMENT,
BUREAU OF EQUIPMENT & RECRUITING.
July 11, 1870.

SEALED PROPOSALS to furnish material for the Navy for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1871, will be received at this Bureau until 10 o'clock A. M. of the 5th of August next, at which time the proposals will be opened.

The proposals must be addressed to the "Chief of the Bureau of Equipment and Recruiting, Navy Department, Washington," and must be indorsed "Proposals for Materials for the Navy," that they may be distinguished from other business letters.

Printed schedules for any class, together with instructions to bidders, giving the forms of proposal, of guarantee, and certificate of guarantors, will be furnished to such persons as desire to bid, on application to the commandants of the respectively navy-yards, and those of all the yards on application to the Bureau.

The Commandant of each navy-yard and the purchasing Paymaster of each station will have a copy of the schedules of the other yards, for examination only, in order that persons who intend to bid may judge whether it is desirable to make application for any of the classes of those yards.

The proposals must be for the whole of a class, and all applications for information or for the examination of samples must be made to the Commandants of the respective yards.

The proposal must be accompanied by a certificate from the Collector of Internal Revenue for the district in which the bidder resides that he has a license to deal in the articles for which he proposes, and he must further show that he is a manufacturer of, or a regular dealer in the articles which he offers to supply. The guarantors must be certified by the Assessor of Internal Revenue for the district in which they reside.

The contract will be awarded to the person who makes the lowest bid and gives the guarantee required by law, the Navy Department, however, reserving the right to reject the lowest bid or any which it may deem exorbitant.

Sureties in the full amount will be required to sign the contract, and their responsibility must be certified to the satisfaction of the Navy Department.

As additional security, twenty per centum will be withheld from the amount of the bills until the contract shall have been completed, and eighty per centum of the amount of each bill, approved in triplicate by the Commandant of the respective yards, will be paid by the Paymaster of the station designated in the contract in funds or certificates, at the option of the Government, within ten days after the warrant for the same shall have been passed by the Secretary of the Treasury.

OILING HARNESS.—Having seen numberless processes in your valuable paper for preserving and cleaning harness, I would like to add my experience to the list, if worthy of space it occupies.

In the first place, I subject the harness to one or two coats (as the leather may need) of lampblack and castor oil, warmed sufficient to make it penetrate the stock readily. Then I make about two quarts of warm soap-suds, and with a sponge wash the harness. When dry, rub it over with a mixture of oil and tallow, equal parts, with sufficient lampblack to give it color, or, what is better, Prussian blue, which gives it a new fresh look. This compound should be applied sparingly, and well rubbed in, which can be quickly done, and will leave a smooth and clean surface.

The advantages I claim for this process are these:

First. By saturating the stock in the first place with oil, the soap and water are prevented from penetrating it in the process of washing. When leather is permitted to absorb water or soap, it has an ultimate tendency to harden it.

Second. When the harness is washed first, (as is generally the case) the water repels the oil; consequently in the one case you have the oil inside of the stock, and in the other you have the soap and water.

Third. By oiling first, it softens the dirt, so that it can be washed off in at least one half the time required when washed before oiling, and also saves the "scraping" process, which defaces the grain of the leather.

Fourth. It remains soft much longer from the fact of its being penetrated with oil.

Fifth. The whole process can be accomplished without the delay of waiting for it to dry.

Consequently the harness can be oiled and cleaned in much less time, will remain soft longer, wear longer, and look better than when cleaned by the old method. And I consider these reasons of sufficient importance for every one having a harness to give this method a fair trial.—Scientific American.

GROUND HAY FOR CATTLE.—Joseph S. Kirk writes to the New York Farmer's Club as follows:

For some time past I have been making observations and experiments in animal food, and obtaining what I believed to be an improvement, and I take the liberty of communicating to your club the results. Grass being the natural food for live stock, it is easily and properly masticated, and as a consequence its nutrition easily extracted. With hay, however, the case is different, and when fed in sufficient quantities the animal, especially if its teeth have become flattened by age, attempts to satisfy itself by selecting the leaves and tender branches. To obviate this difficulty and prevent waste, cutting hay in short lengths has to an extent become general, and is, no doubt, a step in the right direction. My belief is that we should go still further and grind the hay as we now grind oats and corn. It is thought that owing to its glutinous nature hay could not be reduced to a state of meal, or, if so reduced, the expense attending would not justify. To test this, I constructed a cutter and crusher on new principles, and the result was beyond my most sanguine expectations. Ten tons a day can be ground with one machine, at a cost not to exceed one dollar per ton. Ground in this manner, hay is not unlike ground oats, save in color, its weight being from 32 to 36 pounds per bushel. Mixed with chopped feed, such as corn or oats, it makes an excellent food. Thus we effect by mechanical means what the hard-working or decrepid animal is incapable of doing—perfect mastication.

EFFECT OF CHARCOAL ON FLOWERS. A correspondent of the Revue Horticole says that not long ago he made a bargain for a rose bush of magnificent growth and full of buds. He waited for them to blow, and expected roses worthy of such a noble plant and of the praises bestowed upon it by the vender, but when it bloomed, all his hopes were blasted. The flowers were of a faded hue, and he discovered that he had only a middling multiflora, stale colored enough. He therefore resolved to sacrifice it to some experiments which he had in view.

His attention had been directed to the effects of charcoal, as stated in some English publications. He then covered the earth in the pot in which the rose bush was about half an inch deep with pulverized charcoal. Some days after he was astonished to see those which bloomed of as fine a lively rose color as he could wish. He determined to repeat the experiment, and therefore when the rose bush had done flowering, he took off the charcoal and put fresh earth about the roots, and waited for the next spring impatiently to see the result of this experiment. When it bloomed, the roses were at first pale and discolored; but by applying the charcoal as before, they soon assumed their rosy red color.

He then applied the powdered charcoal in large quantities upon petunias, and found that both the white and violet colored flowers were equally sensitive to its action. It always gave great vigor to the red or violet colors of the flowers, and the white petunias became veined with red or violet tints; the violets became covered with irregular spots of a bluish or almost black tint. Many a person who admired them thought they were choice new varieties from the seed. Yellow flowers seem to be insensible to the influence of charcoal.

—Lacrosse still flourishes in Canada.

Robert Barrott, of Haverhill, Mass., and Patrick Kelleher, of Lawrence, Mass., had a so-called prize fight at Salem on Monday, July 18th. The fight, however, was a rough-and-tumble affair. For more than an hour a large crowd beheld this brutality without effort to separate the boasts. Unfortunately, the physicians say, there is no danger that either will die. Both were arrested on charge of having left the State of Massachusetts for the purpose of fighting a prize fight; and one Barry, for being present and abetting therein. Barry was stakeholder. The principals were committed in default of $5000 bail each, and Barry went free on $1000 bail.

THE CHARGES AGAINST GENERAL HOWARD.—The majority of the committee appointed to investigate the charges against General Howard, in connection with the Freedmen's Bureau, made a report before the close of the session, declaring in conclusion that all the charges were utterly groundless, and that Gen. H. has been a devoted, honest, and able public servant. They find that his great trust has been performed wisely, disinterestedly, economically, and most successfully, and they declare that if there be anything in the conduct of the affairs of the Freedmen's Bureau which could excite a suspicion even in the breast of partizan or personal hate, it is owing to the fact that Gen. Howard, conscious of his own purity, intent on his great work, has never stopped to think of the appearances, which men of less conscious integrity much more carefully regard. They consequently recommended to the House the passage of a resolution not only acquitting Gen. Howard, but recording its judgement that in successfully organizing and administering with fidelity, integrity and ability the Freedmen's Bureau, which has contributed so much to the accomplishment of the first of these great ends, he is deserving of the gratitude of the American people.

—If one wants to raise seedless water melons he will, after the vine is about two feet long, cover it at the point intermediate between the root. After it has taken root where it is covered, divide the vine between the old and the new root, and the result will be that the melons will be seedless, without impairing their quality.—Ex.

"IT IS I."

BY HARRIET M'EWEN KIMBALL.

"It is so hard!" I said,
And sat within and told my troubles o'er;
A hand fell softly on my bowed head,
Yet no one passed my door.

"A fancy!" then I said;
"But Oh! to feel that touch for evermore!
Methinks, indeed, I could be comforted!"—
And sorrowing as before.

"No other heart can know!"
Broke out my grief again with bitter cry;
"And God is far—so far my faith lets go
Her hold on Heaven, to die!"

Then some one stooped low,
His heart full-throbbing, as with tears, close by:
"Lord! is it Thou so moved by my woe?"
He answered: "It is I."

New Hampshire Items.

The 18th annual Cheshire County Musical Convention will be holden at Keene, August 22, and continue five days, under direction of Carl Zerrahn and C. M. Wyman.

The consecration of Rev. Dr. Niles, the Bishop elect of New Hampshire, has been postponed until the 21st of September.

A fire was discovered in Concord, Thursday night, in a large three story building near the Northern Railroad, but was extinguished with slight damage. The fire was evidently the work of an incendiary, as a partially burned cigar box, filled with cotton and saturated with tallow, was found.

The stables of H. B. Varrell, in Laconia, were partially destroyed by fire Wednesday night. Its early discovery prevented an extensive conflagration in the business part of the place.

Mrs. W. B. Handy, living on Fayette Street, Concord, on going to her room Friday morning, found a man under her bed, who escaped by jumping from the window. He was seen in his flight by several persons, who gave information to the police that caused his arrest. He proved to be a negro in the employ of E. P. Prescott & Co., and confesses to this act and a previous attempt at burglary.

THE MADDENING MECHANISM OF THOUGHT.—Our brains are seventy-year clocks. The Angel of Life winds them up once for all, then closes the case, and gives the key into the hand of the Angel of the Resurrection. Tic-tac! tic-tac! go the wheels of thought; our will cannot stop them; they cannot stop themselves; sleep cannot still them; death alone can break into the case, and seizing the ever-swinging pendulum, which we call the heart, silence at last the clicking of the terrible escapement we have carrried so long beneath our wrinkling forehead. If we could only get at them, as we lie on our pillows and count the dead beats of thought after thought and image after image jarring through the overtired organ! Will nobody block these wheels, uncouple that pinion, cut the string that holds these weights, blow up the infernal machine with gun-powder?

What a passion comes over us sometimes for silence and rest—that this dreadful mechanism, unwinding the endless tapestry of time, embroidered with spectral figures of life and death, could have but one brief holiday? Who can wonder that men swing themselves off from beams in hempen lassos?—that they jump off from parapets into the swift and gurgling waters beneath?—that they take council of the grim fiend who has but to utter his one peremptorous monosyllable, and the restless machine is shivered as a case that is dashed upon a marble floor? Under that building which we pass every day there are strong dungeons, where neither hook, nor bar, nor bed-cord, nor drinking vessel from which a sharp fragment may be shattered, shall by any chance be seen. There is nothing for it, when the brain is on fire with the whirling of its wheels, but to spring against the stone wall and silence them with one crash. Ah, they remembered that—the kind city fathers—and the walls are nicely padded, so that one can take such exercise as he likes without damaging himself. If anybody would really contrive some kind of a lever that one could thrust in among the works of this horrid automaton and check them, or alter their rate of going, what would the world give for the discovery?

Men are very apt to try to get at the machine by some indirect system or other. They put on the brakes by means of opium, they change the maddening monotony of the rhythm by means of fermented liquors. It is because the brain is locked up and we cannot touch its movements directly, that we thrust these coarse tools in through any crevice by which they may reach the interior, alter its rate of going for a while, and at last spoil the machine.—Oliver Wendell Homes.

MONDAY, AUGUST 1, 1870.

Gleaned and Ground.

The internal revenue receipts for July were over twenty millions.

Bangor has had a heavy rain.

Anna Cora Mowatt is dead.

Fremont is in Boston.

Senator Fenton of New York declines to help divide the Republican party in that State.

Dr. Livingstone is alive once more and has been heard from.

Further rumors are in circulation to the effect that the Catholics of Austria will embrace Protestantism unless the declaration of Papal infallibility is considerably qualified.

The yacht race for the Queen's cup, now held by the America, in which that vessel wins the Cambria, Dauntless, Sappho and many of the fastest and most famous yachts will participate, is finally fixed for Monday, August 8. It is reported that the yacht Maria, which beat the America badly twenty years ago, will also be in trim and enter the race. Measures are to be taken for the relief of the families of the men washed overboard from the Dauntless on her late voyage.

One night last week, as the fishing schooner, Island Belle, of Provincetown, Mass., was anchored in the harbor at the Saco Pool, a little son of the Captain, who is accustomed to night walking, jumped from his berth, and ran on the deck, shouting—the vessel's on fire; and immediately leaped overboard. The frightened crew hurried to the deck and succeeded in rescuing the boy, who was asleep when got on deck.

War Talk.—Prussia is said to be dissatisfied with England's course.

Count Albert de Bernstorff, Prussian ambassador to England, makes public the statement that France in 1866 offered to lend Prussia 300,000 men to use against Austria, if Prussia would surrender to France the territory between the Rhine and Moselle. The rejection of this proposition awoke the Emperor's sympathy with Austria. These offers which Napoleon now finds it convenient to repudiate, have been repeated since 1866.

The British government is quietly but actively preparing to meet any emergency. All of the dock-yards and arsenals are busy day and night.

The North German Gazette says of English neutrality: — "England supplies France with cartridges with which to slaughter Germans."

England's violation of her neutrality in supplying articles contraband of war to France is bitterly complained of.

Jealousy and Murder.—A young man by the name of Joseph Mooney of Boston, but who formerly resided in Manchester, was shot Friday at a public house on Union street in Manchester, by a girl named Bessie Milford. The shot was fired from a revolver; the ball entered the right breast and passed under the collar bone. The wounded man died Friday night. The girl was arrested. Jealousy is given as the cause of the homicide.

Mr. Mooney was well known to many persons here, having been employed as a driver in a number of races at the Rockingham Park and elsewhere in this vicinity, last summer; he left this city three or four months ago. On Wednesday last he drove Mr. W. Locke's horse in the race at Great Falls.

☞ Our old friend G. H. Jenness, ("Buggins" of old,) may still be found at his neat little temperance saloon at Rye Beach, which is just the place for parties to stop at and be refreshed. Mr. Jenness has the best bowling alley in these parts, and his saloon is a popular resort for the gentlemen and lady visitors at the Beach and from Portsmouth, who cultivate their muscle at this establishment and pass many an hour pleasantly and profitably. We are glad the genial proprietor is meeting with signal success.

☞ The extremely warm weather is accompanied by a drought. For weeks there has been no rain in this city sufficient to lay the dust, which blows about in clouds. There were heavy showers at Hampton, Newington and South Berwick on Friday, and we noticed far out at sea an equally copious shower travelling eastward. The growing fruit is perishing, young trees are dying and the leaves of shade trees are falling. Let us have rain!

☞ The Dover Cornet Band went to the Shoals on Saturday and returned home in the evening. They have delighted the visitors at Rye Beach and our citizens by their nice music. Hope they'll come again.

OLD TIMES CHRONICLES, No. 11.

BY UNCLE JOSEPH.

Lane Family at Chester and Raymond.—The first Lane in this country was Sampson. He was at Piscataqua in 1631. This was at Portsmouth or vicinity. One named Andrew was in Hingham, Mass., in 1639. Farmer thinks he went to Portsmouth.

Years later there were Lanes in Rye. They probably descended from the above, but we have no account of their geneslogy.

John Lane of Rye was the ancestor of a branch of the Lane family, that has been for more than a century in Chester and Raymond. His father was John Lane of Rye. He went to sea and never returned. It is not known, we think, what became of him. This John Lane had a commission of Cornet in the Militia. It is still preserved in the family of Col. Isaac Lane, a grandson, on the old homestead in Chester. The following is a copy.

"Province of New Hampshire, Benning Wentworth, Esq., Captain-General and Governor-in-Chief in and over his Majesty's Province of New Hampshire in New England, &c. To John Lane, Gentleman, Greeting.

By virtue of the power and authority in and by his Majesty's Royal Commission to me granted to be Captain-General, &c., over this his Majesty's Province of New Hampshire aforesaid, I do (by these presents,) reposing special trust and confidence in your loyalty, courage and good conduct, constitute and appoint you, the said John Lane, to be Cornet of the Ninth Troop in the First Regiment of horse within the Province aforesaid, of which Regiment John Downing, Esq., is Colonel.

You are therefore carefully and diligently to discharge the duty of a Cornet in leading, ordering and exercising said Troop in arms, both inferior officers and soldiers, and to keep them in good order and discipline, hereby commanding them to obey you as their Cornet, and yourself to observe and follow such orders and instructions as you shall from time to time receive from me or the Commander-in-Chief for the time being, or other your superior officers for his Majesty's service, according to Military Rules and Discipline, pursuant to trust reposed in you.

Given under my hand and seal at arms at Portsmouth, the 17th day of September in the 28th year of the reign of his Majesty King George the Second, Anno Domini 1754. B. Wentworth.

By his Excellency's Command, Theodore Atkinson, Sec., Province of New Hampshire, Sept. 17, 1754.

Then Cornet John Lane appeared and took the oath aforesaid and subscribed.

S. Wiland, D. Downing, } Commissioners.

Cornet John Lane purchased a tract of and in what is now the north west part of Chester, and the south west of Raymond. He moved to Chester about 1749. He had married a Miss Lamprey, who died at Rye after having two children. He then married Miss Knowles. In all he had eleven children. Four of his sons were settled in Raymond and one on the homestead in Chester. He gave those in Raymond 50 acres of land each with buildings, except one, Jonathan, whom he gave 100 acres without buildings. Ezekiel of Raymond was killed in the battle at Bennington in 1777. Nathan, also of Raymond, died in the army.

The descendants of Cornet Lane live in the neighborhood still, and are industrious and respectable. There are three families in Chester and six in Raymond. Several descendants help make up other families. There are two other Lane families in Raymond living at the Village. These sprung from a Lane family at Poplin, now Fremont, and Epping. These originated at Hampton and possibly were connected with the Lanes at Rye.

York County.—Hon. Charles A. Shaw of Biddeford declines the honor of being again run down for Representative to Congress in the 1st Maine District. He don't like being Lynched; and we advised him not to submit himself to the operation the first time.

Capt. Nathaniel L. Thompson of Kennebunkport is building a three-decked ship, about 2000 tons, which is well advanced, and David Clark is rebuilding the brig P. M. Tinker, of Boston, at his yard.

Capt. George A. Hanscom, (brother of John Hanscom of Saco,) commander of British Screw Steamer Neera, was recently presented with a gold medal and diploma by the Emperor Napoleon, for saving the crew of the French lugger L'Auguste.

The hotels at Old Orchard, Saco, are crowded. There are over three hundred guests at the Old Orchard House, and the new Ocean House and Russell Houses also are full. Among distinguished visitors at the Old Orchard are "Fanny Fern" and Carl Zerrahn.

☞ The Appledore Laightons must be peculiarly happy about this time. Their hotel has been packed full of visitors, and a hundred or more additional went thither in steamer Appledore on Saturday.

New Publications Received.

The Lady's Friend for August, contains a steel plate, the Child on the Beach, the usual fashion plates, and a spirited sea shore sketch. The music is a Scotch song—"Bonnie Annie Lee." The numerous wood-cuts for dress and lady's fancy-work are handsome as well as useful. The literary matter, as usual, is fresh and entertaining. Deacon & Peterson, 319 Walnut Street, Philadelphia, publishers. $2.50 per year.

Old and New, for August, Roberts Bros., 143 Washington Street, Boston. It has a very large amount of varied, useful and entertaining reading matter. $4 per year.

Good Health, for August. Entertaining and instructive, as usual; containing many invaluable hints on the preservation or recovery of health, by assisting nature to do her work.

Origin of the Bismarck Policy; or, the Hohenzollern doctrine and maxims, described and defined by the most eminent Monach of the Prussian dynasty, Frederic the Great; his opinions on religion, justice, morals, politics, diplomacy, statesmanship, the German people, &c., &c. Written by himself expressly for the use of his successor to the throne. Carefully translated from an Authentic Copy of the Original MS., by M. C. L. Crosby & Damrell, 100 Washington Street, Boston. Price, 30 cents. A very singular and instructive book. J. H. Foster has it.

'Rah!—The $18,000 White Stocking base ball club of Chicago have been beaten on their own grounds by the Harvards. Score, Harvards 11, White Stockings 6. The White Stockings got 4 of their 6 runs in the 9th inning. The Chicago Tribune says that were it not for errors the score would have been, Harvards 1, White Stockings 0.

☞ Mr. C. C. Whittemore of this city, having received a new appointment in the Boston Custom House, Mr. W. N. Ilsley is now engaged in the Insurance business with Mr. John S. Harvey.

BUSINESS NOTICES.

A New Advertising Dodge.—Every time a lady who uses fragrant Sozodont opens her mouth, she advertises the article. The state of her teeth is a certificate of its excellence. No spot darkens their surface, no impurity clings to them, the cushions in which they are set are rosy, and the breath that swells through them is sweet as the breeze of June.

"Spalding's Glue," useful in every house.

The Venerable Archdeacon Scott, of Durham, Canada East, says that he suffered from Dyspepsia more than twenty-five years, but that three weeks, use of the Peruvian Syrup and Iron Toulou, has benefitted him so wonderfully that he can hardly persuade himself of the reality, and people who know him are astonished at the change.

A Good Turn is done our readers when we commend to them the American House, Boston. The same judicious management is continued which has rendered it so popular in the past.

SPECIAL NOTICES.

Be on Your Guard.

The unexampled success which for twenty years has accompanied the use of HOSTETTER'S STOMACH BITTERS provokes the envy of ignorant nostrum-mongers in all parts of the country, and the counterfeiting business having been unsuccessfully played out in consequence of the numerous suits instituted against the offenders, a new system of tactics has been adopted. In the South and West especially, a legion of "Bitters," prepared from worthless materials and bearing a variety of names, have sprung up by irresponsible adventurers with the hope of substituting them to some extent for the Standard Tonic of the Age.

In some cases country druggists are the concoctors and proprietors of these unscientific and trashy compounds, which are warmly recommended by the venders, who endeavor to palm them off upon the credulous in lieu of the great specific which has never yet had a successful competitor either among proprietory preparations or the medicines prescribed in private practice. This notice is intended to put the public on their guard against persistent efforts of parties engaged in the attempt to substitute mere rubbish for the most efficient stomachic and alterative at present known.

At this season of the year when debility and complaints arising from a lack of vital energy so generally prevail, it is of the greatest consequence that no tricks should be played with depressed and enfeebled systems. Ask, therefore, for HOSTETTER'S STOMACH BITTERS, the great vegetable invigorant and alterative, and reject, with merited contempt, the worse than useless nauseous offered in its place. It is as important to the public as to the proprietors of the famous restorative, that this advice should be heeded.

CURE FOR CONSUMPTION

What the Doctors Say:

AMOS WOOLLEY, M. D., of Kosciusko County, Indiana, says: "For three years past I have used ALLEN'S LUNG BALSAM extensively, in my practice, and I am satisfied there is no better medicine for lung disease in use."

ISAAC A. DORAN, M. D., of Logan County, Ohio, says: "ALLEN'S LUNG BALSAM not only sells rapidly but gives perfect satisfaction in every case within my knowledge. Having confidence in it and knowing that it possesses valuable medicinal properties, I freely use it in my daily practice and with unbounded success. As an expectorant it is most certainly far ahead of any preparation I have ever yet known."

NATHANIEL HARRIS, M. D., of Middlebury, Vermont, says: I have no doubt it will soon become a classical remedial agent for the cure of all diseases of the Throat, Bronchial Tubes and the Lungs.

Physicians do not recommend a medicine which has no merits, what they say about

ALLEN'S LUNG BALSAM,

Can be taken as a fact. Let all afflicted test it at once. Sold by all Medicine Dealers.

BRANDRETH'S PILLS.

Their great value consists in this: They may be used so long as any disease affects any of the body; and by their persevering in their use the disease will be cured, and the body restored to health, free from every taint and impurity. Their reputation proves their merit.

Thomas Smith, Coroner and Justice of the Peace, Hastings-on-the-Hudson, says BRANDRETH'S PILLS cured him of Dyspepsia and Costiveness, when every other medicine had failed to relieve him. Certificate dated April 2, 1868.

Dr. Turner, of Savannah, Ga., says he has, for nearly forty years, recommended BRANDRETH'S PILLS as a specific in Yellow Fever; that he never knew a patient to die who took them for this malady, being otherwise sound. Their prompt use takes out of the body those matters which feed the fatality of the disease. As a general family medicine he considers them far in advance of all others, and here he speaks from personal experience of their qualities. mh12

Perry Davis & Son, Proprietors, 1840. Providence, R. I. 1870.

Time tests the Merits of all Things.

☞ FOR THIRTY YEARS ☜

PERRY DAVIS' PAIN KILLER

This valuable Family Medicine has been widely and favorably known in our own and foreign countries, upwards of

THIRTY YEARS!

It has lost none of its good name by repeated trials, but continues to occupy a prominent position in every family medicine chest.

It is an External and Internal Remedy. For Summer Complaint, or any other form of bowel disease in children or adults, it is an almost certain cure, and has effected more cures, and been successful in curing the various kinds of CHOLERA than any other known remedy, or the most skillful physician. In India, of Cholera and Cholera Morbus the dreadful disease is more or less prevalent, the Pain Killer is considered by the natives, as well as European residents in those climates, a sure remedy; and while it is a most efficient remedy for pain, it is a perfectly safe medicine, even in unskillful hands.

Curious Pamphlet—Joseph H. Foster.
Temple—The Alleghanians.
Independent Insurance Company.

THE CESS POOL.—This matter is not one so easy of settlement as many folks seem to imagine, however desirable and important it may be to abate the nuisance. To be sure, the City would probably not be prevented from spending $1500 in filling up land, which would then belong to private individuals; but how would this suit the taxpayers—especially it, as we firmly believe, the stench outside the railroads after the filling up, will be as great as that inside now, so long as the brewery drains run above the ground or above even low water mark, or perhaps so long as they empty their slimy doze short of the rushing river itself.

The fact is, that the Railroads charge the stench on the breweries, and the brewers lay the responsibility on the Roads, in checking the flow of the water in the Pond; and all being indicted, with the City, an agreement was made, on a basis suggested by the Attorney General, that each of the four parties, the City, Eastern Railroad, and Messrs. Jones and Eldredge & Co., pay one fourth of the filling-up, which it was guessed $500 would do, but which on actual estimate it is found will cost $1500. The Eastern Railroad don't like to expend this on land which when made will belong to Messrs. Eldredge & Co., nor will the latter sell at a price which the Road deems reasonable.

So the matter hangs, until now the Mayor has the power from the Aldermen to fill up the hole, if he will assume the responsibility. But we have no doubt many of those who sniff the strongest and blow the loudest at the pool, will help growl if the City pays $1000 or half of it, to stop it up—more especially, as we believe, with Ald. Miller and Fernald, that it will do little if any good, for there will soon be, and in fact is now, one or more pools on the other side of the railroads, just about as bad, on a small scale, as this; and always will be, until the drains of the breweries shall be sunk far below the surface of the water or the earth.

Our own opinion is that the Railroads are little if any responsible for the filthy state of things—inasmuch as the Millponds are filling up very fast all along their shores, and especially in view of the fact above stated, which can readily be seen on the spot, that the sickening debris is now accumulating outside the Railroads, where the water has full opportunity to exercise all its power. We certainly wish the infernal stink might be abated; we devoutedly hope and trust it will be, but we do not regard it so clear and simple a case as many seem to—and some residents at the South End are of the opinion that the slaughter-house on South Road is equally a nuisance with the cess-pool. F.

A GREAT MUSICAL TREAT.—The celebrated Alleghanians, vocalists and Swiss bell-ringers, lately returned from a tour around the world, are coming here, and will appear at the Temple on Saturday evening, August 6th. Rev. J. Griffith Dunn, Rector of St. Paul's Church, writes to a friend concerning their performances, as follows:—

The pieces selected were chaste, as are all the pieces performed by these artists, and the sentiments of a pure and elevating character. Above all other popular amusements, music should receive the liberal patronage of every community. It prepares the recipient alike for religious devotion and for the more refined enjoyments of social and domestic life. In this light the Alleghanians pre-eminently command the respect and patronage of the public.

POLICE.—Minnie Webster, an "unfortunate" and an unmitigated nuisance, gave a brawl and tumult exhibition on Water Street, Friday evening, which was interrupted by Officers Barsantee and Stearns, who locked up the performer. She was brought before the Police Court (she had been there before) on Saturday, and ordered to pay $9.90, having damaged the peace of Water Street to that amount. In default of payment she was sent to the House of Correction.

A man calling himself Wm. Bean, found loafing about the streets late Friday night, and not any too sober, was put in the lock-up by Officer Mortimer, to keep him from doing or receiving harm. He was turned out in the morning, quite refreshed.

ENCOURAGING.—Six yoke of oxen drew the stump of a large tree to the Creek cess-pool on Saturday. The inhabitants of that section believe it an indication of coming relief, and are satisfied that this is not the root of all evil. Carry up your roots.

☞ Messrs. Barnabee and Winch, Mrs. H. M. Smith and Miss Addie Ryan gave a fine concert at the Farragut House, Rye Beach, Friday evening, and had a very full attendance.

THE CHRONICLE.—Last Saturday's issue concluded the 18th year of the Daily Chronicle, the paper having been established August 1st, 1852. The present senior proprietor is the only person left who has been connected with it from the start, if we except Mr. Newman the newsman, who has always sold more or less copies daily, and a considerable number of original subscribers, as well as advertisers, who have constantly remained our patrons, and we hope will long so continue.

Eighteen years is comparatively a long term of business life in one position. We wonder, though not troublously, where the close of another such will find us? We believe Messrs. H. H. Ham and C. E. Laighton are the only parties now in business in the block, who were there when the writer hereof commenced; and the style of both their trade names, has been changed at least once each, as well as our own; though Mr. Laighton has only added his son as partner, and Mr. Ham is alone now.

The Chronicle and the Gazette grow stronger and stronger with increased age; and are generally regarded, (to judge from their full columns,) as we regard them,—as the best advertising medium in the County. We have rather a desire to fill out our 20 or 25 years with the Chronicle; but hardly expect to continue for double our past term of service, pleasant in the main, and reasonably profitable, though it has been,—thanks to all our friends. F.

☞ The most beautiful and extensive display ever seen in Rye, and one of the finest ever witnessed anywhere, was the Ocean House and grounds, decorated and illuminated for the Editors' Convention, Wednesday evening. The enterprising and public-spirited landlords, Messrs. Job Jenness & Son, were awarded the most enthusiastic praise on all hands, for their unbounded liberality. The scene presented when the fireworks were being let off, was charming indeed; and under the star-lit sky, by the side of the sounding sea, the like will rarely be looked upon again. The Sagamore House and grounds, with the great Tent and all the flags and streamers, presented a lovely spectacle, and also the scene inside was inspiring indeed.

☞ We should judge by an item in the Portsmouth Journal, that Rev. Geo. H. Hepworth, now of Appledore, has arrived at an encouraging state of extenuated robustitude, that Chang, the Chinese giant, will soon be in a great state of jealousity, and that the benignantivity effervescing continually on the countenancial extremativeness of the reverend enjoyist of Oscar and Cedric's land and water, will ere the elapsication of the pleasure season developticate to such an excalugrious extent that his first New York effulgiousness will be eclipsified by the futurifying eliminacity which he shall reflectuate upon the hearquescents who sit under his kerflaptuation.

A CESS POOL LAW SUIT.—We hear that Mr. Wm. Sladen, the keeper of a grocery, built in connection with a house he occupies on the verge of the Creek Cess Pool recently, is about to sue Hon. Frank Jones, on the ground that Mr. Jones' brewery causes the gathering of the foul matter which throws off such a poisonous odor.

The cable connecting France with Algeria has been successfully landed.

AYER'S HAIR VIGOR, For Restoring Gray Hair to its Natural Vitality and Color. A Dressing which is at once agreeable, healthy, and effectual for Preserving the Hair. Faded or gray Hair is soon restored to its original color, with the glossy and freshness of youth. Thin hair is thickened, falling hair checked, and baldness often, though not always, cured by its use. Nothing can restore the hair where the follicles are destroyed, or the glands atrophied and decayed. But such as remains can be saved for usefulness by this application. Instead of fouling the hair with a pasty sediment, it will keep it clean and vigorous. Its occasional use will prevent the hair from turning gray or falling off, and consequently prevent baldness. Free from those deleterious substances which make some preparations dangerous and injurious to the hair, the Vigor, can only benefit but not harm it. If wanted merely for a HAIR DRESSING, nothing else can be found so desirable. Containing neither oil nor dye, it does not soil white cambric, and yet lasts long on the hair, giving it a rich glossy instre and a grateful perfume. Prepared by Dr. J. C. RICHARDSON'S LITTLE WASHER, unlike all others, is light and portable, weighing only ten pounds, is sold for the small price of five dollars. Adjusts itself to any article from a Pockethandkerchief to a LARGE BED SPREAD, without alteration. Can be fitted to any tub, and removed at pleasure. If you will use this little common sense washing machine, you will do the work of half a day in 2 hours. RICHARDSON'S LITTLE WASHER does not tear or wear out any clothes, no matter how fine the fabric. Clothes are straightened out, and passed back and forth, between the rollers till clean. Remember and always have a good strong and hot suds. Put your Pockethandkerchiefs, Cuffs, Collars, Napkins and Fringes into a sheet or Pillow slip and wash perfectly clean, in two to three minutes. We wash at one time, two or three sheets gathered at the hem, six Pillow slips, six Towels, two or three Cotton Shirts, one pair heavy Pants or two pairs light ones, one heavy Spread or Blanket, always putting the smaller things inside something larger or longer. Wherever this Little Washer has been introduced it has been unprecedented, having sold upwards of three hundred in Dover, N. H., in less than two months; two thirds of the purchasers had been using large awkward machines costing from eight to eighteen dollars apiece, one great complaint being that they are heavy and no woman can work them. Richardson's has taken a Silver Medal in Springfield, Mass., at Mechanic's Fair in 1868, and other places where exhibited. A Lady who has not washed for three years, told her neighbors she did her washing, with that Little Washer, with ease, consequently they ordered one, and the question all over town is, how you got a RICHARDSON'S LITTLE WASHER?

TERRAPIN WANTED. my25 At the Rockingham House.

Morning Chronicle.

BOSTON, July 28.

Given, ninety-seven ideas in one head, and none of them well elucidated, and the result will be: just about such a letter as the following.

The latest dodge here to gull the unwary, including the tenderest of the unwary, is "prize candy." We have "Prize Fruit Candy," "Flexible Prize Candy," &c., to the end of the chapter. I trust the dealers have flexible consciences or their slumbers will be more fitful than even our hot weather and attendant mosquitos would seem to justify. As for the poor purchasers, some old dolt has written, "Sweet are the uses of adversity"—(I don't know weather it was What's-is-name or Pickle Emmons,)—but adversity is the only prize I've yet seen drawn from one of these Pandora's boxes which adorn the Common in common with the balance of our public places. Pandora's box did have hope remaining in the bottom when all the ills flew out, but these prize candy boxes do not hold out that fallacy when their contents are exhausted.

We've all heard of "glass eyes" and eyes-in-glass, but neither of these have much to do with a most interesting study which may be made on any city street. Phrenologists locate the organ of language near the orb of sight. The eye tells much, and the student of his species will find full play for his experience, forecast or imagination in watching the eyes of those he passes.

Here comes an old man, his lackluster eyes proclaim hope dead, life a failure, futurity an unsolved problem. That young girl, with magnetic sparkle and flash in her optics, takes a different view—for her the soft breezes blow, for her the sun shines, life would be too bright were it not that anticipation opened a still brighter world. See this woman with eyes deep sunken and leaden: care, sorrow and sickness have well done their work—weary, sad, enfeebled, she only awaits her call to rest "under the daisies." Out of your saloon comes a party of gay bloods—laughing, jesting, crowding. The drooping lid, the leaden eye of one proclaims the mastery which drink obtains over most men who tamper therewith, a blaze, a glare, in the eye of another, tells the dangerous passions that fiercy fluids have aroused; what a comical twinkle in the eye of the third, he will be the life of that party until his fictitious exuberance of spirits has evaporated. The fourth carries a lurking devil, a spirit of mischief and kindness, combined in his eye; he makes friends with horses, dogs and cats, as he passes down the street; he saucily nods to ladies he never saw before, he gives something to the poor one-armed musician who supplies the motive power to the hurdy-gurdy; he bothers the news boys, he jostles the men, whom he meets: ah, well! 'tis a capacity for something better, misspent. He will be true to all friends but himself, he will be kind to all but those who love him, he will be merciful to everything that is defenceless—but his very qualities of truth, kindness and mercy, when joined to his nature, craving sociability and excitement shall prove his ruin.

What a mournful face, and the great eyes stare beseechingly out from the gaunt countenance, telling of poverty, of want, of actual suffering; while the neat, clean, much patched and darned dress speaks as strongly of the struggle to keep up an appearance of respectability. God help her to keep pure while her fallen sisters flaunt by gaudy in rich raiment, showing the marks of pampered livers in their faces. Eyes moist with tears, telling of the loved and lost; tearless eyes, hard and strained, telling a sadder tale, of the heart that may break, but which cannot bend, of the loss of the benificent boon of tears; stony, pitiless eyes;—horror, dread, hate, pain, anxiety, passion, and every other passion,—all, all may be read in the eyes of those who pass us. It may not be a pleasing study, but 'tis one that has no equal in variety.

In a Louisville paper I find this advertisement of the "Lion Garden," for the opening of the summer season:

Every Sunday afternoon Sacred Concert, given by the Philharmonic Orchestra, under the leadership of Prof. Fredigam. The best of Cincinnati lager beer, pure wines, fine eatables and Havana Cigars, always on hand. Persons wishing to spend a Sunday afternoon well should not forget to visit the Lion Garden. Anton Ehret, Proprietor.

Isn't this the kind that goeth up and down the earth seeking whom he may devour? Seriously, though, these beer gardens are repugnant to Americans, there is much to commend them. They cater to a large European class of our population whose education has been essentially different from our own, they are as a rule conducted in the most orderly manner; they keep a man and his family together in the most instances, and thus make firmer the holiest bond under which man is placed upon earth. The riot and outbreak to which they are occasionally the unwilling witness, in most cases is caused by turbulent spirits bred and raised under the strict teachings of American life.

The Golden Dustman might reap a golden harvest in this city just at present, if there were any market value upon dust at all. The smoke of Pittsburg was never more penetrating than the dust of Boston at present. Doors, windows, screens, all are powerless to arrest the gritty shower which falleth alike on the just and the justice of the peace, giving neither any peace of mind if at all inclined to cleanliness. A gentleman in one of the suburban towns took me to-day that upon making a deep excavation in order to set out a shrub he found the ground as dry at the depth to which he dug as at the surface.

All talk of reducing our fire department is now "voice and nothing more." The extensive conflagrations in East Boston and the city proper the present week have given a final blow to the carpers who wish to ride into office by eternally calling for "retrenchment," no matter how or where directed. 'Tis on a par with those who wish to abolish the police system in your own city:—the prevention of crime is far more desirable than its punishment, and as a taxpayer I am in favor of having my assessment doubled, rather than abate one of the safeguards which public service can throw around the lives and property of the people. Personally, 'tis not much matter to me, as I've lived where every man was a policeman, not only to protect himself from wild beasts, but from the wilder Indians, who knew no law but that of rapine and bloodshed; and I've lived in cities where a large part of the male population went secretly armed, answering insult (real or fancied) with knife or pistol—but I do feel that in our New England towns every precaution against theft, violence, or insult, is an institution worth preservation. M.

THE CENSUS.—Salem, Mass., has increased in population since 1860 nearly three thousand. Worcester will have by the new census nearly 40,000 inhabitants, an increase of 10,000 over the State census of 1865. The population of Bath, Me., for 1870 is 7316. The census in 1860 showed 8076. This is a decrease within the past ten years of 760.

AYER'S CATHARTIC PILLS,

FOR ALL PURPOSES of a LAXATIVE MEDICINE,

Perhaps no one medicine is so universally required by everybody as a cathartic, nor was ever any before so universally adopted into use, in every country and among all classes, as this mild but efficient purgative PILL. The obvious reason is that it is a more reliable and far more effectual remedy than any other. Those who have tried it, know that it cured them; those who have not, know that it cures their neighbors and friends and all know that what it does once it does always—that it never fails through any fault or neglect of its composition. We have thousands upon thousands of certificates of their remarkable cures of the following complaints, but such cases are known in every neighborhood, and we need not publish them. Adapted to all ages and conditions in all climates; containing neither calomel or any deleterious drug, they may be taken with safety by anybody. Their sugar coating preserves them over fresh and makes them pleasant to take, while being purely vegetable no harm can arise from their use in any quantity.

They operate by their powerful influence on the internal viscera to purify the blood and stimulate it into healthy action—remove the obstructions of the stomach, bowels, liver, and other organs of the body, restoring their irregular action to health, and by correcting, wherever they exist, such derangements as are the first origin of disease.

Minute directions are given in the wrapper on the box, for the following complaints, which these PILLS rapidly cure:—

For Dyspepsia or Indigestion, Listlessness, Languor and the Low Spirits that they should be taken moderately to stimulate the stomach and restore its healthy tone and action.

For Liver Complaint and its various symptoms, Bilious Headache, Sick Headache, Jaundice or Green Sickness, Bilious Colic and Bilious Fevers, they should be judiciously taken for each case, to correct the diseased action or remove the obstructions which cause it.

For Dysentery or Diarrhœa, but one mild dose is generally required.

For Rheumatism, Gout, Gravel, Palpitation of the Heart, Pain in the Side, Back and Loins, they should be continuously taken, as required, to change the diseased action of the system. With such change those complaints disappear.

For Dropsy and Dropsical Swellings, they should be taken in large and frequent doses to produce the effect of a drastic purge.

For Suppression a large dose should be taken, as it produces the desired effect by sympathy.

As a DINNER PILL, take one or two PILLS to promote digestion and relieve the stomach.

An occasional dose stimulates the stomach and bowels into healthy action, restores the appetite, and invigorates the system. Hence it is often advantageous where no serious derangement exists. One pill is a dose for ordinary cases, often finds that a dose of these PILLS makes him feel decidedly better, from their cleansing and renovating effect on the digestive apparatus. dawjeNeodim

FREEMAN'S IRON MANDRAKE SYRUP,

It excels all other Iron preparations in the combination with Mandrake and Vegetable Tonics, so that the Liver is acted on to remove bile and impurities from the system, while the vegetable tonics strengthen the stomach and prepare the digestion of Iron with the food and its absorption into the blood. It renovates the system and is the best medicine.

MANDRAKE is the Great Vegetable substitute for calomel to act on liver. In FREEMAN'S IRON MANDRAKE SYRUP it is combined with Iron and Vegetable Tonics, and forms the most perfect medicine. It renovates the blood and imparts IRON to it. It acts on the Liver and removes foul humors from the body. NELLIE'S GRAVE.

Suggested By "Fy" Obituary Notice.

BY GEORGE B. GRIFFITH.

At the quiet eventide
Friends will stand her grave beside,
Little Nellie's grave;
Warblers trill a twilight hymn,
As the western glories dim,
Yet they'll love to linger here,
By the spot that holdeth dear,
So very dear,
Memory's pure and holy tear!

Gentle breezes seem to sigh,
"'Tis the lot of all to die,"
And a whisper gives reply
Floating in the ether high;
But the spirit will above
Dwell in everlasting love,
Heavenly love,
Rest for ev'ry wounded dove!

Nightly shadows lower near,
And the starry host appear;
With a dreamy, quiet spell
Evening settles o'er the dell—
Musing still they'll long remain
At the grave where she is lain,
Forever lain,
Free from earthly care or pain;
Darling, darling little Nell!

Summer spreads with gentle grace
Beauty round her resting place,—
May cold winter's cheerless gloom
Flower's dispel with rare perfume!
Waning trees oft bud again,—
Higher come, O! fragrant rain,
Reviving rain,—
May your sweetest balm remain
O'er the spot where Nellie's lain.

Early blossoms! may they fall
O'er the mound that hideth all
Of the loveliness we gave
To the cold, relentless grave!
Hallowed there be ev'ry thought,—
May the mourning heart be taught,
There be taught,
Joys below are few and short!
Darling Nellie's grave.

LOTHAIR, a weak boy, the heir of immense English estates, is sedulously approached and seduced by a "ring" of Catholic ecclesiastics, who, when he is recovering from a wound, all but bring him under the dominion of the Roman Church. They have two women on their side. On the side of his Protestant friends are two women also. One of these is killed in battle. Her influence survives her, however; and she and the other woman prove stronger than the two Roman Catholic ladies. Lothair remains in the English communion. This is the story.

The Roman Catholic critic says, very truly, that it shows, if it shows anything, that the English Established Church has no firm hold on anybody, or anything. The nominal victory of that Church is, in this case, due merely to the charms of a lovely woman, who succeeds where an English bishop and all his dependants have failed. Precisely does the book show this, and it is one of two things which it is written to show. So much the worse for the English Church. A deep-seated consciousness of such integral weakness is one more cause of the bitterness with which English critics regard it. Never did the English establishment appear to less advantage; for never, so far as we know, has it been sketched so cleverly in so few lines.

On the other hand, when the novel, with consummate art, describes the spider-toils with which this silly fly is wound up in the Roman web, the innocent and amiable criticism of Catholic critics is, "But you know bishops and priests do not do such things." That is precisely what needs to be proved.

But why make Lothair a fool, or a weak boy? Why not make him a strong, rugged, well-disciplined man? That is another question of the critics. To which we reply, "Why not make him a Sandwich Islander, or a sailor seeking the North Pole?" Of this particular book, the object is to show what Roman prelates do with weak young noblemen. It is not its object to show what vigorous, rugged, well-disciplined men of sense do with Roman prelates. It will be a very good thing when somebody writes that novel,—perhaps Mr. D'Israeli. But that novel is not this novel. Just at this moment, Mr. D'Israeli thought this novel was the more needed. For our own part, we agree him.—Old and New.

—A little boy, just learning to say his evening hymns, surprised his devotional parents by an original version, not found in the canon, thus:—"Now I lay me down to sleep, I pray the Lord to gives a good pleasant day to-morrow, so mother and I can go to the picnic." Then turning to his astonished papa asked, "There, father, how is that for high?"

—"I hope this hand is not counterfeit," said a lover, as he was toying with the fingers of his lady-love. "The best way to find out, is to ring it," was the neat reply.

—Newport boasts of three hundred cottages and villas, worth from $15,000 to $200,000 each, and one worth $800,000, which are occupied only in the summer.

—An Eastern editor, speaking of a brother contemporary, says that he must be a believer in hydropathy, for he lies in wet sheets.

H. T. HELMBOLD'S
CONCENTRATED
FLUID EXTRACT BUCHU,

THE GREAT DIURETIC.

The proprietor trusts that his Remedies, from the fact of their being advertised, may not be classed as Patent Medicines.

HELMBOLD'S FLUID EXTRACT BUCHU is a pharmaceutical preparation. The proper name is given, and it is the most active which can be made. It is endorsed as a cure by all medical works for such diseases as recommended by the proprietor. It is pleasant in its taste and odor, free from all injurious properties, and is taken by adults and children. It is tonic, diuretic, blood-purifying, and invigorating. Enfeebled and delicate constitutions of both sexes will find it far more strengthening than any of the preparations of bark or iron.

See medical properties contained in Dispensatory of the United States, of which the following is a correct copy:—

BUCHU.—Its odor is strong, diffusive, and somewhat aromatic; its taste is bitterish, and analogous to that of mint. It is given chiefly in complaints of the urinary organs, such as gravel, chronic catarrh of the bladder, morbid irritation of the prostate gland, and retention or the incontinence of urine, from a loss of tone in the parts concerned in its evacuation. It has also been recommended in dyspepsia, chronic rheumatism, cutaneous affections, and dropsy.

Cure of Gravel of Five Years Standing. Stone Passed and to be Seen.

SAVANNAH, TENN., May 14, 1869.

Dr. H. T. Helmbold,

DEAR SIR: We introduced your "Fluid Extract Buchu" in this county about eight months ago, and are happy to state that it is meeting with universal favor. We wish to inform you of one instance (among many) where your "Buchu" has worked wonders. A man in our county, named J. B. Estell, had been suffering about five years with gravel.

About six weeks ago he bought of us one bottle of your "Buchu," and before he was through with one bottle he passed a gravel that weighs eight grains, which we now have on exhibition in our drug store. He says that he will never be without the "Buchu" in his house again. Your preparations are gaining favor every day.

Very respectfully yours, &c.,
ECCLES & HINKLE, Druggists.

Cure of Bladder and Kidney Affection of long Standing. Stone Passed and to be Seen.

WESTPORT, CONN., Sept. 9, 1869.

H. T. Helmbold, Esq.,

DEAR SIR: I commenced taking your "Extract of Buchu" about two weeks since for an affection of the bladder and kidneys. I have suffered by spells very much for a few days past. But yesterday relief came through the effect of your "Buchu." A stone passed from my bladder about the size of a large pea, and I now feel perfectly well and entirely free from the pain that I have suffered with "so hard." I attribute my cure to your medicine entirely, and would recommend all persons similarly affected to try it. I have great faith in its curative powers.

Yours truly, THOMAS J. BENNETT.

Cure of Kidney and Bladder Affection of a Patient Seventy-eight years of Age. Thanks to Dr. Helmbold.

GIRARD, PA., March 31, 1869.

Editor Cosmopolite: I desire, as an unsolicited tribute to the merits of Helmbold's Buchu, and for the benefit of those similarly afflicted as myself, to say that after consulting many eminent physicians, and trying nearly all the best advertised remedies, to no purpose, and finding relief from aggravated kidney and bladder diseases, from which I have suffered excessively for many years, good fortune finally suggested to me Helmbold's Buchu, which I commenced using with little faith, and no apparent beneficial results for about a month.

At the expiration of that time, however, I thought I commenced to experience slight relief, which encouraged me to persevere in its use, and now, at the ripe old age of seventy-eight, although I am an infirm old man, nearly 78 years of age, and consequently medicines cannot be expected to favorably affect me as they otherwise might, I have found such unspeakable relief and permanent benefit from Mr. Helmbold's valuable discovery, that I feel it my duty to publicly record the fact, as an acknowledgment to him, and a valuable suggestion to the public. Yours respectfully,

D. M. LAREN.

DR. KEYSER

is a physician of over thirty years' experience, and a graduate of the Jefferson Medical College, and of the University of Medicine and Surgery of Philadelphia. Hear him:

Mr. H. T. Helmbold.

DEAR SIR: In regard to the question asked me as to my opinion about your "Fluid Buchu," I say that I have used and sold the article in various forms for the past thirty years. I do not think there is any form or preparation of it I have not used, or known to be used, in the various diseases where such medicate agent would be indicated. You are aware, as well as myself, that it has been extensively employed in the various diseases of the bladder and kidneys, and the reputation it has acquired, in my judgment, is warranted by the facts.

I have seen and used, as before stated, every form of Buchu—the powdered leaves—tincture, fluid extracts—and I am not cognizant of any preparation of that plant as all equal to yours. Twelve years' experience ought, I think, to give me the right to judge of its merits; and, without prejudice or partiality, I give yours precedence over all others.

I value your Buchu for its effect on patients. I have cured with it, and seen others cured with it, more diseases of the bladder and kidneys than I have ever seen cured with any other Buchu or any other proprietary compound of whatever name.

Respectfully yours, &c.,
GEO. H. KEYSER, M. D.,
140 Wood Street, Pittsburgh, Penn.
August 11, 1865.

GREAT SALT LAKE CITY, UTAH, Jan. 28, 1868.

Mr. H. T. Helmbold,

DEAR SIR: Your communication requesting our term for advertising was duly received, but from a prejudice I had formed against advertising "cures for secret diseases," it was left unanswered. During an accidental conversation in a drug store the other evening, my mind was changed on the character of your Buchu. It was then highly commended for other diseases by two physicians present. Incosed please find our rates o advertising. Yours, T. I. B. H. STENHOUSE,

HELMBOLD'S BUCHU.

TESTIMONIALS.

A Permanent Cure of Gravel of twelve Years' Standing. Stone Passed and to be Seen.

BURNSIDE, CONN., Dec. 15, 1869.

Dr. Helmbold,

DEAR SIR: It is with much pleasure that I write you upon facts respecting myself. I do not know hardly how to express myself. I have been for the last ten or twelve years the greatest sufferer man could be and live; but more immediate than others. The complaint was the "Kidneys" and "Bladder." I have been sometimes from twelve to fourteen hours, and wanted to make water every minute, but could not. Have consulted doctors, both in Massachusetts and this State, and taking pills, I may say by the quart, also liquored medicines, but found no relief from any, and got worse the last six months. I was so that I could scarcely get about, I could not rest night or day.

It would soon have been "all up" with me if I had not seen your advertisement headed "Kidneys." I read it through and thought I would try it. I purchased a bottle, but, mind you, had not much faith in it. Why should I, when I had been trying so many things that cost me so much? Well, I began taking it, and before I had taken the first bottle I felt bad; but I finished it and got another. By the time I took half of the second I still got worse (apparently). When I walked it seemed as if my right kidney was falling from its place, and I felt really bad. I felt so, before I had finished the second, that I had made up my mind it was of no use trying any more—and all this time the "Buchu" was doing its work, but I did not know it, so I gave it up and went to Hartford on Saturday to one of the best doctors in the city. He said it was the neck of the bladder, and I should have to undergo an operation. He gave me medicine, and I went home quite downhearted.

On Sunday I was unable to go to church. I had not taken any of his medicine, but on my return continued using the "Buchu," and in the afternoon I had a desire to make water, but could not. About one hour after this I tried again, with the same result; but the next time I took the vessel it was the same as turning a faucet and stopping it off again. It was so for three times, and the third time there was something came through the passage and stuck against the side of the vessel. I examined it, and it is the ugliest stone or gravel you ever saw, covered over with little pieces which collected together. It looks the color of a mud turtle, and is as hard as flint. So you see the "Buchu" was doing its work, although I was ignorant of it. I procured another bottle, thinking there might be some more behind; but since that has passed, which is eight weeks ago last Sunday, I have been as well as ever. I was so that I have the stone securely wrapped, and there who have seen it in this place are surprised.

I cannot tell you all, but this is a true story of my case, and you can do as you please to make such use of my name as you think proper. I am pretty well known in Berkshire; also in Connecticut. The advertisement led me to. Why not publish more? If any one wishes to see this wonder, they can do so. I could write all day, but I think I have said enough this time. Corner of 5th av. and 76th st., Central Park.
(A Home and School for the Sons of Deceased Soldiers.)

Dr. H. T. Helmbold,

Two bottles only of the package of your valuable Buchu presented to the Institute have been used by the children, and with perfect success. In the case of our little Lieutenant A. J., his pride is no longer mortified, and he is free from the daily morning anathemas of the chambermaid who has charge of his bedding.

I feel that a knowledge of the result of our use of your Buchu with the children under our charge may save many a Superintendent of Orphan or Boarding Schools and Asylums a great amount of annoyance; and many a poor child suffering from weakness that from habit, may be spared punishment, that is (not knowing it as a weakness instead of a bad habit) most unjustly inflicted upon him. Thanking you on behalf of the children, and hoping others may be also benefitted, I am respectfully yours,

COL. YOUNG, General Sup't and Director.

A Case of Twenty Years Standing.

PHILADELPHIA, PENN., June 25, 1867.

H. T. Helmbold, Druggist.

DEAR SIR: I have been a sufferer for upwards of twenty years with gravel, bladder, and kidney affections, during which time I have used various medicinal preparations, and been under the treatment of the most eminent physicians, experiencing but little relief.

Having seen your preparations extensively advertised, I consulted my family physician in regard to your valuable "Fluid Buchu."

I did this because I had used all kinds of advertised Remedies and had found them worthless, and some quite injurious; in fact, I despaired of ever getting well, and determined to use no Remedies hereafter unless I knew of the ingredients. It was this that prompted me to use your Remedy. As you advertised that it was composed of Buchu, cubebs, and juniper berries, it occurred to me and my physician as an excellent combination; and he, after an attentive examination of the article, and consulting again with the Druggist, I concluded to try it. I commenced to use it about two months ago, at which time I was confined to my room.

From the first bottle I was astonished and gratified at the beneficial effect, and after using it three weeks was able to walk out. I felt much like writing to you a full statement of my case at the time, but thought my improvement might only be temporary, and therefore concluded to defer, and see if it would effect a perfect cure, knowing that it would be of greater value to you and more satisfactory to me.

I am now able to report that a cure is effected after using the remedy for five months. I have not used any now for three months, and feel as well in all respects as I ever did.

Your Buchu being devoid of any unpleasant taste and odor, a nice tonic and invigorator of the system, I do not mean to be without it whenever occasion may require its use in such affections.

Miss Helen M. Smith, who was supposed to have committed suicide at Belfast, Me., really died from the effect of an arsenical preparation to improve her complexion.

A resident of East Bridgewater, Mass., finds apples on his trees baked by the intense heat of the sun, during the past few days, to the depth of half an inch!

An order was received in St. Louis, Saturday, by a prominent mercantile firm, from the French authorities, to purchase 50,000 tons of hay for the French army.

A large number of Germans have applied to the German National Executive Committee of Cincinnati, O., to be forwarded to Germany to join the Prussian forces.

The total amount contributed to the general relief fund for the sufferers by the Richmond Capitol disaster is a little over $78,000. Much of this has been distributed to provide for the immediate necessities of the sufferers and their families.

Additional troops have been sent to North Carolina to preserve the peace on Thursday, election day.

The Alaska Commercial Company has been awarded the fur seal contract. The contract requires the payment to Government of a rental of $55,000 per year and $2.62 for each skin, of which they are allowed to get $100,000 a year. The company also agrees to give 50 cents a gallon for all oil obtained, of which it may perhaps take 50,000 gallons. It also agrees to make certain donations and furnish certain supplies to the natives.

Secretary Boutwell orders the sale of five millions of gold, and the purchase of six million of bonds, in August.

A terrific storm passed over Louisville on Saturday. Houses were unroofed and trees uprooted, goods in the stores were damaged by water, and the steamers sunk or driven ashore. The dry dock was forced from its moorings and driven eight miles up the river. The total damage is about $200,000.

RYE BEACH.—The Ocean House, Rye Beach, is the most spacious and elegant hotel on this coast. It has been rigidly refurnished this season, and Elliott's Band of 10 pieces is constantly found there, discoursing fine music, day and evening. Social Hops are held here every Wednesday and Saturday Evening, for the guests and friends of the House. The Ocean has a long list of first-class company on its Register; but being very capacious, has more rooms yet. The proprietors, Messrs. Job Jenness & Son, deserve well of the community, for their public spirit and indomitable enterprise; and the town of Rye especially, is indebted to them very largely, for all its success as a summer resort. Job Jenness should have been voted the freedom of the town long ago, and never should have been taxed a single cent.

The four buildings of the Farragut and Atlantic Houses, are full. Harlow's Marine Orchestra, from this city, furnishes the music for the regular Saturday evening Hops. The proprietors, J. C. Philbrick & Son, also stand prominent among those who have developed the capacities of Rye, and should ever be regarded and considered as such.

The Sea View House of Mr. Lougee has a good run of company, as also has the Sagamore House. The Boarding Houses, perhaps from being more numerous, are not so full this year as usual, one of the largest and best being entirely without company, and another not half full. The public, especially the travelling portion of it, are very fickle and very uncertain customers.

On one side of Rye Beach, Hampton, and on the other, the Shoals, are more fully patronized than ever before.

WAR TALK.—The French attacked Saarbracken with a largely superior force, but were vigorously repulsed. The French lost a gun and twenty men. The Prussians lost ten men.

On Saturday, the Emperor assumed the commandership-in-chief of the army. The Prince Imperial visited the camps and was received with great enthusiasm.

Fighting between the French and Prussians forces has begun in Baden.

The Journal Officiel publishes Benedetti's explanation of the secret treaty affair. It is well known that Bismark made France an offer, both before and after the war with Austria, the substance of which was that France should take Belgium as a compensation for the aggrandizement of Prussia. The Emperor in all cases declined the proposition. The very moment the treaty of Prague was concluded, Bismark again betrayed his desire to restore the equilibrium, and made several proposals, looking to the combinations affecting the integrity of the States bordering on France; and during one of these conversations Bismark dictated to Benedetti this secret treaty project which has just been made public, and which Bismark has kept ever since. This accounts for his handwriting. Benedetti gave notice of the contents of the proposed treaty to the Emperor's government at the time, but the proposition was promptly rejected. Benedetti adds that the King of Prussia was not favorable to Bismark's plan.

An alliance has been formed between France and Italy, the terms of which are as follows: Italy to assist France if pressed during the war with Prussia; France to withdraw her troops from Rome; Italy to issue a plebiscitum to the Pontifical States, and if a majority are in favor of the plebiscitum, Italy acquires a control of those States; France to pay Italy a subsidy of sixty millions of francs.

The skirmish on the 26th gave some idea of the comparative merits of the needle gun and the Chassepot, though owing to the shortness of the affair the test was not complete. The Prussians commenced to fire at a distance of 800 metres, and their fire fell short of 100 metres. The French fired almost simultaneously, and some of the Prussians were killed. During the recent skirmishes the Prussians were able to fire quicker than the French.

The French railway at Betsch has been destroyed and the viaduct blown up, by the Prussians.

It is said that the French troops will not evacuate the Roman territory until the September convention between Italy and France (for the protection of the independence of the Pope) is re-established.

Dispatches from France state that the Emperor's headquarters are at St. Avolt, near the frontier. This indicates that a general engagement is close at hand.

King William has left Berlin for the front.

England will take action to defend Belgium.

Fifteen ships laden with stone are moored in the Elbe below Hamburg, ready to be sunk on the approach of the French fleet.

The French Mediterranean fleet has arrived at Brest. It will go north and join the Baltic fleet.

It is reported from Paris that the Prussian main army is advancing upon Mulhausen, a town of France, sixty miles S. S. W. of Strausbourg, and will attack the French army in the rear, which it is expected will be forced to evacuate Saarbruck and fall back upon Nancy. Skirmishing along the lines has continued throughout the day, but as yet no general engagement has taken place.

It is also reported that the French army has been attacked by the Prussians at Saarbruck and driven back to Saarlouis, an important border fortress, thirty miles south-southeast of Treves, but that all details are concealed.

A telegram from Paris states it is reported that Marshals Bazaine and McMahon with their divisions have crossed the Rhine.

HARD.—A young man near Centre, Alabama, was bitten several times in his wooden leg, the other day, by a snake, which was subsequently killed.

PISCATORIAL.—A man who went fishing in a private pond complains that he only got one bite, and that was from a dog whose master owns the pond.

☞ The Newmarket Band was in attendance at the Methodist Picnic at Newmarket Junction, last Wednesday, and discoursed excellent music.

EDUCATIONAL.—All but two per cent of the Prussian army can read and write.

Boston has a Mormon church of sixteen members.

NAVAL.—Bids were made Friday for the building of two revenue cutters; one is to be a side-wheeler of wood, 250 tons, for the Pacific coast, and the other a screw propeller for the Atlantic coast, 350 tons. The latter is to be of wood or iron, as the Secretary may decide. There were seven bids for the side-wheel propeller, ranging from $45,000 to $85,000, and three bids for the screw propeller, the lowest being $44,000. The bids for the former have been referred to a special commission of the officers of the Revenue Marine.

The U. S. sailing frigate Sabine is now lying alongside of the sheers at the navy yard, Charlestown, and will be dismantled.

It is reported that the monitor Miantonomoh and most of new vessels now at the navy yards, are badly affected with dry rot.

Chief Engineer Barry and 1st Asst Eng't Sprague are ordered to U. S. S. California.

☞ After holding two or three joint meetings for consideration of the matter, the Rockingham (Exeter) Agricultural Society officers have come to the conclusion that it is not advisable to hold their Fair in Portsmouth this year; although the Piscataqua (Portsmouth) Society offered them the use of their grounds, track and buildings without charge, but the latter declined to agree to hold no Fair, unless the Exeter folks would pay them $500, which would be very low rent for the use of the Piscataqua Grounds. The Portsmouth Society also offered the Exeterians $110 to give up their Fair, which is the sum they claim to have realized last year. We think the probabilities are for holding a Fair in Exeter Sept. 14, 15 and 16, and in Portsmouth early in October.

☞ A growing feeling that vaccination for small pox is productive of worse diseases than the small pox, is manifesting itself strongly in London. No legislation, it is said, can make it certain that pure vaccine matter will be used; and great numbers of people are protesting against the laws which make vaccination compulsory. Moreover, the remonstrants say that vaccination is by no means a sure preventive of the disease—but that it is an active dissemination of ineradicable and loathsome humors.

☞ Havana correspondence gives a sequel to the famous Oviedo-Bartlett diamond wedding. The senor died leaving no will, and his American widow gets nearly $1,000,000, while $3,000,000 is divided among his 44 children; most of them are illegitimate and free persons of color. How the illegitimate children are to get their money without a will, the correspondence does not say.

☞ Anna Dickinson and Kate Field are summering at Newport. Kate swims and rows in her own boat, for amusement; while the redoubtable Anna rides horseback for her hobby.

Communication.

Dear Chronicle:—Will you please inform me what our Health Officers are chosen for? CESS POOL.

[To promote cleanliness and health, and prevent or remove nuisances, so far as they can; but they have very limited law powers.—Eds. Chron.]

☞ The City having cleared up Market Street thoroughly, we hope the clerks there will now assist in keeping it decent, by sweeping all the dirt in heaps for removal each Friday afternoon, as was done last year.

There were riots in Kentucky between whites and blacks, Monday, previous to election.

NO HUMBUG.—We do not wish to inform you, reader, that Dr. Wonderful, or any other man, has discovered a remedy that cures all diseases of mind, body or estate, and is designed to make our sublunary sphere a blissful Paradise, to which Heaven itself shall be but a side show, but we do wish to inform you that Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy has cured thousands of cases of catarrh in its worst forms and stages, and the proprietor will pay $500 for a case of this loathsome disease that he cannot cure. It may be procured by mail for sixty cents, by addressing R. V. Pierce, M. D., 133 Seneca street, Buffalo, N. Y. A pamphlet free. Sold by druggists. Look out for men representing themselves as Dr. Sage; Dr. Pierce, whose private Government Revenue Stamp is on every package of the Genuine, is the only man living who can manufacture the Original Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy. jy28TuThSa

SPECIAL NOTICES.

Be on Your Guard.

The unexampled success which for twenty years has accompanied the use of HOSTETTER'S STOMACH BITTERS provokes the envy of ignorant nostrum-mongers in all parts of the country, and the counterfeiting business having been measurably played out in consequence of the numerous suits instituted against the offenders, a new system of tactics has been adopted. In the South and West especially, a legion of "Bitters," prepared from worthless materials and bearing a variety of names, have been got up by irresponsible adventurers with the long out substitutions them to some extent for the Standard Tonic of the Age.

In some cases country druggists are the concoctors and proprietors of these unclassific and trashy compounds, which are warmly recommended by the venders, who endeavor to palm them off upon the credulous in lieu of the great specific which has never yet had a successful competitor either among proprietory preparations or the medicines prescribed in private practice. This notice is intended to put the public on their guard against persuasions of parties engaged in the attempt to substitute more rubbish for the most efficient stomachic and alterative at present known.

At this season of the year when debility and complaints arising from a lack of vital energy so generally prevail, it is of the greatest consequence that no tricks should be played with depressed and enfeebled systems. Ask, therefore, for HOSTETTER'S STOMACH BITTERS, the great vegetable invigorant and alterative, and reject, with merited contempt, the worse than useless nostrums offered in its place. It is as important to the public as to the proprietors of the famous restorative, that this advice should be heeded.

CURE FOR CONSUMPTION

What the Doctors Say:

AMOS WOOLLEY, M. D., of Kosciusko County, Indiana, says: "For three years past I have used ALLEN'S LUNG BALSAM extensively, in my practice, and I am satisfied there is no better medicine for lung disease in use."

ISAAC A. DORAN, M. D., of Logan County, Ohio, says: "ALLEN'S LUNG BALSAM not only sells rapidly but gives perfect satisfaction in every case within my knowledge. Having confidence in it and knowing that it possesses valuable medicinal properties, I freely use it in my daily practice and with unbounded success. As an expectorant it is most certainly far ahead of any preparation I have ever yet known."

NATHANIEL HARRIS, M. D., of Middlebury, Vermont, says; I have no doubt it will soon become a classical remedial agent for the cure of all diseases of the Throat, Bronchial Tubes and the Lungs.

Physicians do not recommend a medicine which has no merits, what they say about

ALLEN'S LUNG BALSAM,

Can be taken as a nut. Let all afflicted test it at once. Sold by all Medicine Dealers.

BRANDRETH'S PILLS.

Their great value consists in this: They may be used so long as any disease affects any of the body; and by thus preserving in their use the disease will be cured, and the body restored to health, free from every taint and impurity. Their reputation proves their merit.

Thomas Smith, Coroner and Justice of the Peace, Hastings-on-the-Hudson, says BRANDRETH'S PILLS cured him of Dyspepsia and Heartburn, when every other medicine had failed to relieve him. Certificate dated April 5, 1868.

Dr. Turner, of Savannah, Ga., says he has, for nearly forty years, recommended BRANDRETH'S PILLS as a specific in Yellow Fever; that he never knew a patient to die who took them for this malady, being otherwise sound. Their prompt use takes out of the body those matters which fend to the fatality of the disease. As a general family medicine he considers them far in advance of all others, and here he speaks from personal experience of their qualities. mh12

PAIN KILLER.

Perry Davis & Son, Proprietors,

1840. PROVIDENCE, R. I. 1870.

Time tests the Merits of all Things.

☞ FOR THIRTY YEARS! ☜

PERRY DAVIS' PAIN KILLER

This valuable Family Medicine has been widely and favorably known in our own and foreign countries, upwards of

THIRTY YEARS!

It has lost none of its good name by repeated trials, but continues to occupy a prominent position in every family medicine chest.

It is an External and Internal Remedy. For Summer Complaint, or any other form of bowel disease in children or adults, it is an almost certain cure, and has without doubt, been more successful in curing the various kinds of CHOLERA than any other known remedy, or the most skillful physician. In India, Africa and China, where this dreadful disease is more or less prevalent, the PAIN KILLER is considered by the natives, as well as European residents in those climates, a sure remedy; and will it is my opinion, be universally for pain, it is a perfectly safe medicine, even in unskillful hands.

LOCAL AFFAIRS.

New Advertisements to-day.

Baker's Harmony—Oliver Ditson & Co., Boston.
A Column of Varieties on the 4th page, from the Advertising Agency, of Dauchy & Co., N. Y.

☞ Tenty-one or two years ago, Aaron A. Sargent, Charles H. Woodwell, and Frank W. Miller were among the half-dozen apprentices in the Newburyport Herald office. Now Mr. Sargent is Representative in Congress from California, Mr. Woodwell a publisher of the Worcester Gazette, and Mr. Miller of this Chronicle. The three met, for the first time since leaving the Herald office, at the Printers' Convention at Rye Beach last week, and Mr. Sargent spent a night at Lincoln Hill, with his old comp.

On Friday, Hon. Mr. Sargent, Hon. John Lynch, and Hon. J. H. Ela, in company with Messrs. Knowlton of the Portland Press, Jenks of the Concord Statesman, and Miller of this Chronicle, (every one of the six being now or having been a newspaper man,) and Postmaster Pierce and others, visited the Navy Yard, and were most courteously received, and shown over the premises by Com. Pennock, Capt. Fairfax and other officers. Mr. Sargent, who is a member of the House Naval Committee, was much gratified with the appearance of the Yard, and especially with the purchase of Seavey's Island; and after spending the morning very pleasantly, Messrs. Lynch and Sargent accepted the invitation of Gen. M. F. Wentworth to dinner, and both proceeded to Portland by the evening train, for a day or two. Mr. Sargent spent Sunday with his mother, who resides at Newburyport.

The law is his profession of late years, though he started the third paper in California, in Nevada, where he now resides. He formed many new acquaintances here, and left many whom he may hereafter count among his friends, who will be glad to greet him again.

THE KEARSARGE AND ALABAMA.—A spirited representation of these noted ships in close action, can be seen for a day or two in the show window of Mr. E. A. Joy's music store, Exchange Buildings. It is a splendid specimen of marine painting, artistic and full of life, and represents the early part of an engagement, the result of which is one of our navy's greatest triumphs. This is the second picture of the great naval duel which Mr. Thos. P. Moses has painted in oil, and is much larger than the first, which represented the sinking of the Alabama, after the battle; we should think it would be readily taken up at a large price.

We understand that the first painting was purchased by Col. J. W. Peirce, and hear also that Mr. Moses is about to commence a similar representation of the celebrated steamship battle, on a large scale (18 by 32 feet), for a drop curtain at the Temple. We shall look with interest for the completion of so large a historical painting for the public eye.

☞ Among the attendants at the Printers' Convention, were Messrs. George W. Bazin of Boston, and Thomas Spinney of South Boston, both of whom are long past three score and ten years. Mr. Bazin is 76, and is yet connected with a Boston printing office as type-setter. He was an apprentice in the Portsmouth Oracle office, as was Mr. Spinney, in 1809; and Mr. Bazin afterwards, in the office of Mr. Samuel Whidden, first placed a composing stick in the hands of the late T.H. Miller, and taught him to set type, and thus stood godfather to Uncle Toby. Both Mr. Bazin and Mr. Spinney are yet hale and tolerably hearty—and Mr. S. offered the following volunteer toast at the Convention:

The Editors, Publishers and Printers' Association—May temperance be their guide, and "Go ahead" their motto.

The Printers—may they never be short of copy; the Publishers and Editors—May they always have it in their power to give them a good fat take.

THE SUNDAY EXCURSION to Biddeford was enjoyed by about 175 people. The Favorite not being a fast boat, the party stopped only 40 minutes and then did not arrive home until about midnight. We hear that steamer Appledore has been engaged for an excursion to Newburyport or Wells Beach, next Sunday, by the same managers.

☞ The Drought in this vicinity is becoming fearful. It is said to be the most severe experienced for 40 years. Crops are parching and curling up as if from frost, and shade and fruit trees are becoming as bare of leaves as in winter. And still the wind blows, and the sun glares, and the hot air parches, and all nature is desolated.

☞ The Atlantic House, Wells Beach, is meeting with unusual success this season.

DEATH OF DEACON JOHN KNOWLTON.—After a lingering illness of months, Deacon John Knowlton breathed his last at his residence on Islington Street between the hours of 5 and 6 o'clock, Monday afternoon, at the age of 75 years and 8 months. He was one of the most respected of our citizens, had filled important city and national offices and was for 40 years deacon of the North Church. He was a very prominent Mason, having joined the fraternity in 1821, was Passed Master of St. John's Lodge and for 25 years Treasurer of the M. W. Grand Lodge. His funeral will probably take place on Wednesday, and many distinguished Masons are expected to be in attendance.

☞ Messrs. Davis Brothers of this city, photographers, visited the Ocean House during the gala occasion of the Printers' Convention, and took several beautiful views; but did not succeed in getting one which fully portrays the grandeur of the display,—on account of the numerous trees near, we presume. The attempt by others, at the Sagamore House, was equally unfortunate.

FOUR GIRL BABIES.—The rare circumstance of four girl babies being born in one week, in this neighborhood, wakes up a new poet, who muses thusly:

See what a harvest in a week,
And say it's been too dry;
What greater blessings do you seek?
What trump beats this for high?
—Antioch Ledger.

☞ Mr. J. L. Hatlinger, the live Agent for the sale of the Little Washer, has disposed of over 200 machines here already, and is selling others at the rate of from 15 to 20 per day. The merits of the machine are fully up to the Agent's statements.

LAGER BEER.—Mr. Wm. Chandler, at his saloon next the Post Office, has Pfaff's celebrated Lager for sale, in bottles, for family use or otherwise. It is a lighter drink than the stock, and is much liked by many for a summer drink.

☞ We owe acknowledgements to Messrs. Hennessey & Grogan, manufacturers of pop beer, for the sample of their cooling and pleasant beverage sent in to the Chronicle.

MOONLIGHT EXCURSION.—Steamer Appledore will run to the Shoals and return on Wednesday or Thursday evening. Music by the Portsmouth Cornet Band.

IT CAN'T BE DONE.—Orders have been received at the Navy Yard to have the Narragansett ready for service August 20, and the California August 25.

☞ A collection of $75 was taken in the Methodist church, Sabbath afternoon, to aid a Society in Methuen, Mass., in the erection of a new church.

—A country chap told the hotel waiter, who handed the bill of fare, that he would defer reading until after dinner.

These bonds have 50 years to run, are convertible at the option of the holder into the stock of the company at par, and the payment of the principal is provided for by a sinking fund. The convertibility privilege attached to these bonds cannot fail to cause them at no distant day to command a market price considerably above par, besides paying about 9 per cent., currency, interest in the meanwhile. U. S. Five-twenties, at present prices, only return five per cent.; and we regard the security equally good.
The greater part of the road is already completed, and the balance of the work is rapidly progressing.
The established character of this road, running as it does through the heart of the most thickly settled and richest portion of the great State of Iowa, together with its present advanced condition and large earnings warrant us in unhesitatingly recommending these bonds to investors, as, in every respect, an undoubted security.

AYER'S
HAIR VIGOR,
For Restoring Gray Hair to its Natural Vitality and Color.
A Dressing which is at once agreeable, healthy, and effectual for Preserving the Hair. Faded or gray Hair is thus restored to its original color, with the gloss and freshness of youth. Thin hair is thickened, falling hair checked, and baldness often, though not always, cured by its use.
Nothing can restore the hair where the follicles are destroyed, or the glands atrophied and decayed. But such as remains can be saved for usefulness by this application. Instead of fouling the hair with a pasty sediment, it will keep it clean and vigorous. Its occasional use will prevent the hair from turning gray or falling off, and consequently prevent baldness. Free from those deleterious substances which make some preparations dangerous and injurious to the hair, the Vigor can only benefit and not harm it.
If wanted merely for a HAIR DRESSING, nothing else can be found so desirable. Containing neither oil nor dye, it does not soil white cambric, and, yet lasting all the hair, giving it a rich glossy lustre and a grateful perfume.

RICHARDSON'S
LITTLE WASHER, unlike all others, is light and portable, weighing only ten pounds, is sold for the small price of five dollars. Adjusts itself to any article from a Pocket handkerchief to a
LARGE BED SPREAD,
without alteration. Can be fitted to any tub, and removed at pleasure.
If you will use this little common sense washing machine, you will do the work of half a day in 2 hours.
RICHARDSON'S LITTLE WASHER does not tear or wear the clothes, no matter how fine the fabric. Clothes are straightened out, and passed back and forth, between the rollers till clean.
Remember and always have a good strong and hot suds.
Put your Pocket handkerchiefs, Cuffs, Collars, Napkins and Fringes into a sheet or Pillow slip and wash perfectly clean, in two to three minutes. We wash at one time, two or three sheets gathered in the form of a Pillow slip, six Towels, two or three Cotton Shirts, one pair heavy Pants or two pairs light ones, one heavy Spread or Blanket, always putting the smaller things inside something larger or longer.
Wherever this Little Washer has been introduced the sale has been unprecedented, having sold upwards of three hundred in Dover, N. H., in less than two months; two thirds of the purchasers had been using large awkward machines costing from five to eighteen dollars; all a failure, one great complaint being that they are heavy and it requires two to work it.
Richardson's has taken a Silver Medal in Springfield, Mass., at Mechanic's Fair in 1868, and other places where exhibited.
A Lady who has not washed for three years, told her neighbors she did her washing, with that Little Washer, with ease, consequently they ordered one, and the question all over town is, have you got a RICHARDSON'S LITTLE WASHER?

Nashua is erecting a $25,000 brick engine-house.

A hod carrier, a few days since, on a wager, carried from the sidewalk a barrel of flour on his shoulder up to the third story of a building, on a ladder, and then returned it to the sidewalk, and sold it for eight dollars.

The Wolfeborough News says, "Joseph Taylor, son of a coachman who works for one of the Pavilion boarders, fell and broke his arm. A city physician stopping at the house set the broken limb, for which little job, as report says, he charged the sum of $25. Rather steep for the country." We think so, and this would not have been the case, if Dr. Hall, now of this city, but who practiced in Wolfeborough for twenty-five years, and who is one of the best practitioners anywhere—had been there to attend to the case.

A lad, Georgie Drew, of Dover, while fishing, accidentally flung his hook into the eye of Charles Griffis, his companion, causing a total loss of vision in the injured eye.

A Lodge of Knights of Pythias, to be known as the Rising Sun Lodge, No. 7, was instituted at Rochester last week.

Mr. P. H. Peavey, was before the Dover Police Court on the charge of fast driving. He was fined $3 and costs. Appealed.

Mr. Edw. P. Ackerman of Keene has commenced an action for libel against the proprietors of the New Hampshire Sentinel.

Ally Calef, a boy eight years old, caught a pickerel in the river, near the bridge at Rochester, that weighed nearly three pounds. As the boy is quite small and the fish a large one, the fish looked almost as large as the boy. Fishing is carried on to a great extent by the boys on the Cocheco.

Austin Academy, which is so named in honor of Rev. Daniel Austin, is situated on a beautiful ridge of land at Centre Strafford, commanding a fine view of the surrounding country. The citizens of Strafford take pride in their academy, and render all the assistance in their power to keep up its reputation. A. N. Marston, a graduate of Bates College, will have charge of the school, and his assistants are amply qualified. The summer term commences Aug. 20.

Mr. David Murray relates in the News Letter, that fifty years ago, in the small school district of Packer's Falls, in Durham, there lived Solomon Pendergast, now of Minnesota, and twenty-six other youngsters, all of whom were within one year of the age of said Pendergast, and all attended the district school there together. These young men, with one exception, were all of temperate and steady habits; and the first death that occurred among them was about twenty years after the time they first attended the said school. The most remarkable fact, however, in regard to this school is, that now, after a lapse of fifty years, a sufficient length of time to sweep off one and one-half generations, twenty of the twenty-seven are still living and in good health and circumstances. Probably there is not a parallel case to be found under the sun. Verily, temperance, good example and instruction did great things for that little school district. The names of the twenty-seven are given, and among them we find that of Alfred T. Joy.

The ladies of Christ Church, Exeter, intend having their annual Fair at Weld Hall, Rye, on Tuesday, August 9th.

Mr. Moses Stuart, whose death occurred some time since at Newport, Me., was born in Kingston, and died at the ripe age of 85. He belonged to a family remarkable for longevity, his mother living to be nearly one hundred years old. She was of Scotch origin, and claimed relationship to Mary, Queen of Scots. In early life Mr. Stuart was a school teacher. At one time he taught in Hallowell, Me., and after the term closed he walked home, a distance of 150 miles. It is said that he assisted Mr. Oliver Welch in the compilation of his arithmetic. The larger half of his life was spent in Maine, where he was a highly respected member of society and a deacon of the church.

Ha! Ha!—By an oversight, the last appropriation bill contained no provision for the salaries of janitors at any of the post-offices or court-houses, and the Secretary of the Treasury has sent out a notice of this fact. Inquiry was made from several quarters whether these persons could not be paid from some other appropriation, but the Secretary replied that under the new law he could not transfer funds in any case. So hereafter post-masters and judges will have to do their own sweeping and build their own fires, until Congress can remedy their troubles next winter.

CONGRESS AND OUR PITIFUL NAVY. The New York Herald is right in the opinion that "the world has not for many generations seen a more bewildering, confounding spectacle of imbecility, of downright inability to comprehend and grasp a simple thought—than that shown by the United States Congress in refusing to aid American shipping interests." Although the suggestions of the President were timely, and his reasons such as might have convinced the most thick-skulled, Congress treated the subject with the utmost flippancy, and talked against time to defeat the proposition. Such mis-representatives will soon see the last of their Congressional honors. We never saw anything to occur which stirred up the feeling of the people like the incomprehensible conduct of the members of the National House of Representatives on the last day of the late session.

"Theirs"—the New York Standard says—"is a culpable and criminal disregard of the public interests. Congress has no right to dishonor the American people before the world. President Grant and the Secretary of the Navy repeatedly urged the passage of liberal appropriations to place and keep our war vessels in an efficient condition, but the howl of economy in the national expenditures swept away all sense and reason. This is an expensive economy, which we cannot afford to practise. The true way to prevent war is to be always ready for it, or at least to be in a position not to fear it."

BASE BALL.—A person would naturally think that this intensely hot weather would take the kink out of base ballists; but if anything, they play the harder. A game between a Gonic and an East Rochester club was brought to a sudden termination by a serious accident to a member, a young man named Horace Horne. He and another person both ran to catch a "fly ball," and were so intently watching the ball that they ran together with tremendous force, and young Horne was knocked senseless. He bled profusely from the nose, and fears were entertained that his brain was seriously injured; but we learn he is getting well, though he was badly hurt.

A young gentleman of Rochester came into our office the other morning, with his finger in his mouth, uttering the most lamentable cries of agony. On being asked the cause of such an unseemly disturbance, he replied mournfully, "you see this finger?" As it was swelled to twice its natural dimensions, and being originally of no small size, we replied without the slightest hesitation, that we did. "Well, that thing got hit last night by a base ball; out," he continued, seeing our disapprobation of the game in our face, "base ball is a glorious game." JES-SO.—Rock. Cour.

☞ The Boston Advertiser's Washington correspondent says:—

The Pension Office thinks it will make out a case of forgery against Roderick R. Butler, the cadetship-selling Congressman from Tennessee. In one case the papers show that he received a check for $473, payable to a widow in North Carolina, for whom he was acting as attorney, endorsed her name thereon, drew the money, and has paid over but a small part of it to her. There has been a good deal of correspondence about the matter, and Butler's explanations are not satisfactory. An agent has been sent for him, and he will be arrested unless he makes a better showing than he has yet done.

It has proved itself, West, North and South, to be the best Paint known. It will not peel, crack, nor chalk off, and will last twice as long as the best Lead Paints.

It is cheaper, handsomer and more elastic, than the best of other Paints. It is the most convenient Paint made, being mixed, ready for application; it dries rapidly, and retains its shade perfectly, with a beautiful surface and glossy finish, and for years retains its gloss and beauty. It is excellent for walls inside, in the place of paper, making a smooth glossy finish, which can be cleaned with hot suds without injury.

One Gallon of Mixed Lead Paint weighs 20 lbs. and costs $2.72, and will only cover 16 square yds, 2 coats: while one gallon of the Chemical Paint only weighs 10 lbs., and costs but $2.50, and will cover 20 square yds., 2 coats,—thus making a saving of 22 cts., per gallon, besides covering 4 yards more than Lead Paint, and will last twice as long and look far better.

The Chemical Paint is sold by the gallon in quantities to suit purchasers, in 40 different shades and pure white, and will be applied by experienced workmen and satisfaction given in every case; or in case of dissatisfaction in one year after put on, the whole cost of Paint will be refunded.

The sale of these unequalled Paints are daily increasing. Call and examine these ready mixed Paints, both in kegs, and applied to Buildings one year ago, before buying elsewhere, and save your money and money, and beautify your dwelling by using the

During eight months the subscriber, in the course of his large practice, made on twice rejected app lications, SIXTEEN APPEALS, EVERY ONE of which was decided IN HIS FAVOR by the Commissioner of Patents.

TESTIMONIALS.

"I regard Mr. Eddy as one of the most capable and successful practitioners with whom I have had official intercourse. CHARLES MASON, Late Commissioner of Patents."

"I have no hesitation in assuring inventors that they cannot employ a man more competent and trustworthy and more capable of putting their applications in a form to secure for them an early and favorable consideration of the Patent Office. EDMUND BURKE, Late Commissioner of Patents.

"MR. R. H. EDDY has made for me THIRTEEN Patent Rights, in all but ONE of which patents have been granted, and that one is now pending. Such unmistakable proof of great talent and ability on his part leads me to recommend ALL inventors to employ him to secure their Patents, in the way they be sure of having the most faithful attention bestowed on their cases, and at very reasonable charges. The Chronicle.

☞ No less authority than Dr. Jas. R. Nichols, editor of the Boston Journal of Chemistry, strongly opposes and denounces the use of water in furnaces and on stoves, to moisten the air for breathing; and also, more astonishing yet, the use of galvanized iron pipes for conducting water for culinary purposes. He gives the scientific, chemical reasons for the faith that is in him relative to these matters; and says the zinc lining of the iron pipe will very soon all come off and rise on the water in the teakettle, &c. Who shall decide when Doctor's disagree? Common sense and experience.

And after all said about water-pipes, we have seen plenty of men, who were a good deal more afraid of bad water than bad rum or tobacco—though we could never see why it were not as well to die of oxide of lead or zinc, as of logwood or nicitine; and we rather regard lead disease as a more desirable death than delirium tremens, and a good deal less frequent.

☞ There promises to be some extraordinary developments soon before a Washington court. It appears that Mr. B. D. Whitney, the private secretary of General Butler, last January made a written contract with Horatio Ames, by which, for a consideration of $5000, he was to secure a cessation of General Dyer's opposition to the payment of Mr. Ames' claims on a gun contract, when Mr. Ames was to withdraw his charges before Congress against General Dyer. Some hitch in carrying out the programme has caused the case to get into the courts. Mr. Ames says that although Whitney's name was signed to the contract, he understood that in point of fact General Butler was the other party.

THE VIRTUES OF BORAX.—The washing woman of Holland and Belgium, so proverbially clean and who get up their linens so beautifully white, use refined borax as washing powder instead of soda, in the proportion of a large handful of borax powder to about ten gallons of boiling water; they save in soap nearly half. All the large washing establishments adopt the same mode. For laces, cambrics, &c., an extra quantity of the powder is used, and for crinolines (requiring to be made stiff) a strong solution is necessary.

Borax being a neutral salt, does not in the least injure the texture of the linen; its effect is to soften the hardest water, and therefore it should be kept on the toilet table. To the taste it is rather sweet, is used for cleaning the hair, is an excellent dentrifice, and in hot countries is used in combination with tartaric acid and bicarbonate of soda as a cooling beverage.

REMEDY FOR SUN STROKE. — Now that frequent cases of sun stroke are in order, it is well to remember the following directions:—

"Place the patient immediately in a shady place, with the head well elevated; loosen everything about the neck and waist; keep the whole head wet with ice-cold water (if some common spirits are added to it, all the better); apply mustard poultice to pit of the stomach and legs and feet, keeping them warm; also to the wrists. Give him the benefit of air, keeping the crowd away; tablespoonful doses of brandy and water about once in fifteen minutes. Keep the patient quiet until a physician can be obtained."

A REFRESHING SUMMER DRINK.—We have made trial of the following and can recommend it as the heading above indicates, a refreshing summer drink: Take two ounces of Tartaric acid, two pounds of refined sugar, one and one-half pints boiling water mix, and boil in porcelain-lined kettle ten minutes; when cool beat the whites of three eggs with half a teacup flour, and add half an ounce of any palatable essence or the same of extract of lemon, and bottle. When used put about a tablespoonful to a tumbler of cold water, add a quarter of a teaspoon of soda, stirring to foam and drink. Shake the bottle well before using.

—The Calais Advertiser tells of a timid man who was overtaken on the road by a clergyman and invited to ride. The clerical gentleman asked his companion "if he was prepared to die?" whereupon he leaped from the wagon and fled to a place of safety, doubtless considering this question synonymous with "your money or your life."

—A Philadelphia doctor says that washing horses in the morning in water in which one or two onions are sliced, will keep all flies at a distance.

—Anna Dickinson will deliver an address on the occasion of the annual State Fair in Kansas.

WAR TALK.—The negotiation between Italy and France, for the withdrawal of the French troops from Italian soil, have been brought to a satisfactory conclusion. The Italian government has guaranteed the preservation of order in Rome, and the French troops have evacuated the city.

The alliance to secure the neutrality of England, Austria and Italy, has nearly been completed by those powers.

Important dispatches have been received from the Hague announcing that a desperate naval battle has been fought off the German coast, resulting in the loss of a Prussian cruiser.

WHALE'S BACK LIGHT.—We understand that Gen. Duane, U. S. Engineers, is to commence to-day, to build a new light-house on Whale's Back rocks, in this harbor. It is to be of the same character and dimensions as the present tower and lantern, and will also be furnished with a steam-fog whistle. It will be located a little to the east of the old house—which has long been deemed dangerous to the occupants.

PUBLIC DEBT STATEMENT.—The public debt statement for July shows a reduction during the month of $17,084,128; decrease since March 1, 1870, $69,004,001; coin in Treasury, $102,930,206; currency, $38,068,623; debt less amount in Treasury, $2,367,324,476.

SUICIDE.—Paymaster's Clerk Chas. B. Harvey, of the U. S. S. Vandalia, died on board that vessel on Tuesday. He came here from Wilmington, Illinois, a few weeks since. It is said he poisoned himself.

☞ We trust the Portsmouth Cornet Band will have a big benefit, on their moonlight excursion, to-morrow evening. Tickets only 50 cents. See advertisement.

☞ The Democrats of the First Maine District have nominated Hon. Wm. P. Haines of Biddeford, for member of Congress.

ARITHMETICAL.—The cylinder Carpet question published in the Chronicle, has been answed by S. C., J. H. and J. B. D. Result 49 3-4 yards nearly. The smallest number of figures by J. B. D. of Taunton, Mass. TYRO.

☞ A Boston paper says the trunk business of Boston has assumed elephantine proportions. We cannot say as to the business, but judging from the appearance of baggage from that city, the trunks have not only assumed, but maintain such proportions.

WATER FOR ANIMALS.—For humanity's sake see to the watering places for cattle, for in many small ponds a master cow will take her fill, and then stand up to her knees and hocks for hours, preventing the greater part of the herd from drinking, and in shallow streams, running but a short distance in a field, much injury may occur because many of the weaker cattle cannot take their turn to drink till the water is made muddy. Doubtless if the origin of many diseases could be traced, they would be found to run back to the injury sustained by the constitution in suffering for want of water in hot or dry weather.

—While a Mr. Baker of Clymer, N. Y., was mowing down a pitch, the tongue of the machine shoved through the neck-yoke, and the cutting bar struck the off horse; severing both hind legs.

CHINESE LABOR.—Some of the democratic papers storm savagely at the introduction of Chinese labor to a Massachusetts workshop; and one leading democratic sheet in this State urges the Massachusetts laboring men to hurl the republican party from power, and replace them with the democracy, as the only means by which the working class can ever hope to get fair play. This attempt to make political capital for the democracy to trade on is decidedly rich, when considered in connection with the fact that the introduction of Chinese labor east of the Mississippi was a democratic idea, and that it was first proposed and attempted to be carried out by the creme de la creme of the democracy — the unreconstructed ex-slaveholders of the South.

The grand "convention of southern gentlemen" by whom the importation of Chinamen was proposed and decided on, was a democratic unit; and the object of that convention was to devise means for procuring some cheap service to compete with the free labor of the country. At the time the project was first ventilated, the republican press generally gave it an earnest opposition; but so far as we remember, not a single democratic sheet openly disapproved the scheme. What has occasioned their vision to become suddenly so clear, that they now see that the only way to prevent this democratic scheme (of importing cheap foreign labor) from harming the working men and the country, is to turn the republican party out in the cold?

THE FRENCH MITRAILLEUR, is as yet untried in practical warfare, but is considered by the French as the most destructive military weapon known. Recently, 300 wretched horses, already condemned to the poleax, were purchased at the rate of four or five francs each, and ranged at a considerable distance. Two mitrailleuses were brought to play on them, and in three minutes after two discharges, not one of the animals remained standing. On a second occasion, 500 horses were brought down at a single trial. This formidable weapon is constructed as follows:

It is a light 37-barrelled gun, arranged so that its barrels may be discharged simultaneously, or consecutively. The 37 cartridges intended for one charge are contained in a small box. A steel plate, with corresponding holes, is placed on the open box, which is then reversed, and the cartridges fall point foremost into their respective holes. They are prevented from falling thro' by the rims at their bases.

The loaded plate is then introduced into the breech-slot, and when the breech is closed by a lever, a number of steel pins, pressed by spiral springs, are only prevented from striking the percussion arrangement in the cartridges by a plate in front of them. When this case is moved slowly by the handle, the cartridges are fired one by one. If the plate be withdrawn rapidly, they follow each other so quickly that their discharge is all but simultaneous. The invention seems very well adapted for use in ports or other permanent places of defense or offense, but its carriage and management in the field would present many and insuperable obstacles to its general use.

UP GOES ANOTHER MISSISSIPPI STEAMER.—A terrible disaster occurred at Pacific Place, 30 miles above Memphis, at 12 o'clock Sunday night. The stern wheel steamboat Silver Spray, from New Orleans for Cincinnati, with a barge in tow, exploded her boilers, killing and wounding a number of her crew and passengers; the boat then took fire. Four were fatally wounded, seven severely, and many were saved by the steamer City of Cairo. It is believed that 26 lives were lost. Nothing was left for the survivors but to plunge into the river and swim three hundred yards, to the nearest shore. Owing to the darkness it was impossible to render assistance to the wounded.

Mr. Hooper was a Portsmouth boy and always takes special pains to suit his patrons from this vicinity. We have within a few days seen an elegant parlor suit, which was selected from this establishment.

The Cabinet Maker is the title of a new, handsome and able quarto paper, devoted to this specialty, recently started in Boston. The third number has a good sized engraving of Beal & Hooper's Furniture Manufactory at East Cambridge.

Correspondence of the Chronicle and Gazette.

RYE, Aug. 1st.

The drought is getting severe, and some wells have given out, unless rain falls soon, serious injury will be done to the growing crops; corn curls badly and vegetation of all kinds is suffering for want of moisture. Last week was a busy and eventful one, at the Beach. The Editors' Convention, Brass Band, Hops, Excursions and Concerts, made things lively enough. The Dover Band furnished lots of good music for the people, and their efforts were highly complimented, as they deserved to be. They left Saturday, having had a fine time generally at the Beach.

Barnabee, with Mr. & Mrs. Smith, Miss Ryan and Mr. Winch, gave an entertainment to the guests of the Farragut House, in Farragut Hall on Thursday evening, which gave such immense satisfaction that they were prevailed upon to give a concert the following evening, which was a success pecuniarily and otherwise. Mr. Barnabee proposes giving another concert at the same Hall, about the 12th of August, in which he will be assisted by eminent talent.

There were hops at the Farragut, Sea View and Ocean Houses Saturday night, all well attended, and very enjoyable.

Episcopal service has been held in Farragut Hall on the past two Sundays, Rev. Mr. Welsh of Philadelphia officiating. They were well attended, and a fine quartette assisted in singing in a highly creditable manner.

An old boatman who went off to the steamer Appledore, when she came over from the Shoals at the time of the Editors' Convention, says the surf was not high at the time, but the reason why the party did not land, was because they were so sea-sick, that it was deemed prudent to return to the Shoals as quick as the boat would take them there.

A temperance lodge has been organized in town, and hold their meetings at the residence of Mr. Levi T. Walker.

The following is the "bona fide" direction on a letter which safely reached the individual it was intended for, a few days since: Mrs. L. Lumax, Farget House, New Hampis, Mass. R.

☞ Mr. Joseph Mooney, who was shot in the breast on Friday last by a girl in Manchester, is not dead, as reported, but is still in a critical condition. His pulse is high, but the symptoms are not alarming. Bertie Milford, the girl who fired the shot, is under arrest, awaiting the result of the wound.

SPECIAL NOTICES.

Be on Your Guard.

The unexampled success which for twenty years has accompanied the use of HOSTETTER'S STOMACH BITTERS provokes the envy of ignorant nostrum-mongers in all parts of the country, and the counterfeiting business having been measureably played out on account of the numerous suits instituted against the offenders, a new system of tactics has been adopted. In the South and West especially, a legion of "Bitters," prepared from worthless materials and bearing a variety of names, have been got up by irresponsible adventurers with the hope of substituting them to some extent for the Standard Tonic of the Age.

In some cases country druggists are the concoctors and proprietors of these unscientific and trashy compounds, which are warmly recommended by the venders, who endeavor to palm them off upon the credulous in lieu of the great specific which has never yet had a successful competitor either among proprietory preparations or the medicines prescribed in private practice. This notice is intended to put the public on their guard against personations of parties engaged in the attempt to substitute mere rubbish for the most efficient stomachic and alterative at present known.

At this season of the year when debility and complaints arising from a lack of vital energy so generally prevail, it is of the greatest consequence that no tricks should be played with depressed and enfeebled systems. Ask, therefore, for HOSTETTER'S STOMACH BITTERS, the great vegetable invigorant and alterative, and reject, with deserved contempt, the nauseous and useless medleys offered in its place. It is as important to the public as to the proprietors of the famous restorative, that this advice should be heeded.

What the Doctors Say:

AMOS WOOLLEY, M. D., of Koeciusko County, Indiana, says: "For three years past I have used ALLEN'S LUNG BALSAM extensively, in my practice, and I am satisfied there is no better medicine for lung disease in use."

ISAAC A. DORAN, M. D., of Logan County, Ohio, says: "ALLEN'S LUNG BALSAM not only sells rapidly but gives perfect satisfaction in every case within my knowledge. Having confidence in it and knowing that it possesses valuable medicinal properties, I freely use it in my daily practice and with unbounded success. As an expectorant it is most certainly far ahead of any preparation I have ever yet known."

NATHANIEL HARRIS, M. D., of Middlebury, Vermont, says; I have no doubt it will soon become a classical remedial agent for the cure of all diseases of the Throat, Bronchial Tubes and the Lungs.

Physicians do not recommend a medicine which has no merit, what they say about

ALLEN'S LUNG BALSAM,

Can be taken as a nut. Let all afflicted test it at once. Sold by all Medicine Dealers.

BRANDRETH'S PILLS.

Their great value consists in this: They may be used so long as any disease affects any of the body; and by thus persevering in their use the disease will be cured, and the body restored to health, free from every taint and impurity. Their reputation proves their merit.

Thomas Smith, Coroner and Justice of the Peace, Hastings-on-the-Hudson, says BRANDRETH'S PILLS cured him of Dyspepsia and Costiveness, when everything else failed and he could find no relief. Certificate dated April 2, 1868.

Dr. Turner, of Savannah, Ga., says he has, for nearly forty years, recommended BRANDRETH'S PILLS as a specific in Yellow Fever; that he never knew a patient to die who took them for this malady, being otherwise sound. Their prompt use takes out of the body those matters which feed the fatality of the disease. As a general family medicine he considers them far in advance of all others, and here he speaks from personal experience of their qualities. mh12

THE PRINTERS' CONVENTION. — We have already made brief allusions to the chief features of this unique gathering, as they passed before us; but shall, at our convenience, refer to a few prominent points of the proceedings at the Ocean House and elsewhere, of especial local interest.

We have already stated that Messrs. Jenness went far ahead of their agreement, or of the expectations of their visitors, in catering for the occasion. Besides accommodating all the invited guests, to the number of nearly 100, gratuitously, they charged the Maine and N. H. Associations but $1.50 per day each, when the terms of the Ocean House are well known as $4 per day. And besides this, the extensive, beautiful and costly decorations and illuminations of the House and grounds, with the fireworks, and the splendid Ball, were exclusively the voluntary contributions of Messrs. Jenness, and given by them in honor of the occasion. None go before these famous landlords, in their appreciation of the Press; nor do we believe that the press ever received an ovation more magnificent than this. An old correspondent of the New York press, tells us he never saw anything superior to it, even in Saratoga, at its best.

At the business meeting, about thirty new members were admitted to the association, and a dozen honorary members elected. The following resolution on the death of the late Rev. T. H. Miller, was adopted.

Resolved, That by the death of Rev. Tobias H. Miller of the Portsmouth Chronicle, this association has lost an honored member, whose genial character endeared him to all his acquaintances, and whose life of uprightness and devotion to duty is worthy of imitation by all.

Rev. Mr. Miller was the orator of the day last year, and was then desired by the Association to prepare a History of the Press in Rockingham County. After his death, Rev. J. Fullonton of Raymond was invited by the Executive Committee to prepare such a paper; and he did so, but time pressing, it was voted without reading, to print the same in the Report of the Convention. Rev. Mr. Fullonton was voted the thanks of the Association for his services, and was made an honorary member.

It is only justice to the lavish hospitality of the Ocean House, to state that the proprietors expected and agreed for the Convention a week earlier, when there was little other company; they could have had almost the entire premises, and the whole fraternity been seated at one time in the spacious dining rooms, and none would have gone out of the House to sleep.

And the same should be said for mine hosts at Sagamore, where the excellent and abundant tent dinner, ready at 12, waited for the company till 2, and then the house waiters being required indoors, could not attend at the tent; and also, the committee, in their own generosity, and that of the Messrs. Peirce, opened too wide the doors, so that eager outsiders filled the 312 seats, to the exclusion of a few desired guests.

As to names,—it was our idea at the formation of the N. H. Association of the craft, to christen it, the Printers' Society. And on this point, the very intelligent correspondent of the Boston Daily News remarks:

The term printer, includes others besides the man who sticks type. Especially he who foots the bills, takes the risks, and pockets the losses, should come in; and as an act of justice or mercy, or both, the man who furnishes the brains, or who makes the ideas into a shape that the reader can understand. So the publisher and editor may justly be called printers, even in those instances in which they have never held the composing-stick. It is by a pleonasm, then, that the Printers' Association of Maine and New Hampshire are named "Publishers, Editors and Printers' Association."

From the same spicy writer, we also copy a few extracts:

After the too brief address of Mr. Blaine, (in which he conceded more power and greater influence to the country press, than to that of the metropolis,) came a poem by Mr. Shillaber, which, though just as we expected, caused many sudden explosions of laughter. Next was an illumination, with music, an immensity of lanterns, and fireworks. Next was a ball. We looked for "the light fantastic toe," but "couldn't see it." There were something fantastic in ladies of moderate stature attempting to dance in skirts for which the Cardiff Giant had been measured; and all parties succeeded admirably in concealing the annoyance they caused.

We did not discover where Mrs. Jenness keeps her flies. Not one of them was on duty at the table, nor as an affectionate visitor to our couch at early morn.

Of going to Sagamore, and Little Harbor, he says "it is so easy to enter, that Capt. Davidson, though on this coast for but a week, declined the offer of a pilot; but it is useless, because one of the best harbors of the world is not a cannon-shot off."

Of course the "Rye" came in for its share of puns, and was served to us in every form but one; we saw no instance of any man's having gone contrary to the most stringent tee-total pledge, except in the matter of tobacco, the fumes of which were almost all-pervading. The apparent teetotalism of the Convention was alike a credit to the age and the profession.

☞ Of the literary exercises at the Editors' Convention at Rye Beach, Mr. Shillaber's Poem was the chief feature at the Ocean House, and we thought it was one of his best efforts, and delivered as well as we ever heard him render any of his productions. It was both humorous and witty, and while mostly sinking the shop and all its technicalities, abounded in local hits at Rye and Mr. Jenness, the sumptuous hosts of the occasion. The poet's form has grown rotund, and his face beams with genial good nature; and when he alluded to "Job of Uz as Job of ours," told of the time "when Job was boiled," and said there was "little Rye for so much water," we rather think the welkin rang again.

Numerous applications were made to Mr. Shillaber for copies of the poem for publication; but he preferred it to appear first in the official record of the Convention, though we hope he will reconsider this decision, and let the press generally disseminate the jolly yet not idle effusion of his mirth-tipped pen.

☞ The Steamer Favorite has removed her quarters to Rollins' Wharf, near foot of State St., as more convenient to the public. She announces trips from Dover on Thursday morning, and each following morning, until Monday, to Portsmouth and the Shoals, and return to Dover same evening. She will go up on Wednesday afternoon. Fare to Dover only 25 cents. The Captain had intended to make regular daily trips to Dover, but is unable to do so except at full tide; and is also obliged to forego his desire of touching at the Sagamore House.

The correspondent of the Boston News, writing of the Printers' Convention, says, "The only spite we have against Portsmouth, is for robbing Boston of Capt. Davidson of the Favorite. We haven't many of that kind to spare." And from personal knowledge, we can state, that both Capt. Davidson, and Mr. Greenwood, the owner of the boat, are very pleasant and agreeable gentlemen.

THE LAWS.—We present our readers in an Extra this morning, all the laws of the late Session of our Legislature, believing they will be glad to see them while fresh, and thus learn what the legislators did. Every man should read them, or at least examine and see what acts he is interested in, both as a matter of general information and often of personal importance.

A NICE BUGGY—The one made for Dr. Sargent, of Rochester, by G. B. & S. W. Came, of Portsmouth. It is a neat, cosy affair, with a high back, and a finish not surpassed by any other manufacturer in New England. Every body who has examined this carriage, pronounces it just the thing for the Doctor.—Rochester Currier.

☞ The Funeral services of the late John Knowlton will take place at the North Church, this (Wednesday) afternoon, at 2 o'clock. The Grand Lodge of Free and Accepted Masons of the State of New Hampshire will have charge.

☞ Workmen are engaged blasting rocks in front of Jackson's Express office, on Congress Street; and a premature discharge about 10 o'clock, Tuesday forenoon, sent the debris against the office window.

☞ Dr. Wm. Laighton is making great improvements upon the estate corner of Austin and Summer Streets, recently purchased by him for a residence.

☞ Orders have been received at the Navy Yard to fit the U. S. steamers Monongahela and Wyoming for sea, immediately.

NAVAL.—Lieut. Comd'r Yates and Lieut. Ryan are detached from the Navy Yard and ordered to the California.

AYER'S
HAIR VIGOR,
For Restoring Gray Hair to its Natural Vitality and Color.
A Dressing which is at once agreeable, healthy, and effectual for Preserving the Hair. Faded or gray Hair is soon restored to its original color, with the gloss and freshness of youth. Thin hair is thickened, falling hair checked, and baldness often, though not always, cured by its use.
Nothing can restore the hair where the follicles are destroyed, or the glands atrophied and decayed. But can as remains can be saved for usefulness by this application. Instead of soiling the hair with a pasty sediment, it will keep it clean and vigorous. Its occasional use will prevent the hair from turning gray or falling off, and consequently prevent baldness. Free from those deleterious substances which make some preparations dangerous and injurious to the hair, the Vigor, can only benefit but not harm it.
If wanted merely for a HAIR DRESSING, nothing else can be found so desirable. Containing neither oil nor dye, it does not soil white cambric, and yet lasts long on the hair, giving it a rich glossy lustre and a grateful perfume.

RICHARDSON'S
LITTLE WASHER, unlike all others, is light and portable, weighing only ten pounds, is sold for the small price of five dollars. Adjusts itself to any article from a Pockethandkerchief to a
LARGE BED SPREAD,
without alteration. Can be fitted to any tub, and removed at pleasure.
If you will use this little common sense washing machine, you will do the work of half a day in 2 hours,
RICHARDSON'S LITTLE WASHER does not tear or wear the clothes, no matter how fine the fabric. Clothes are strongly rubbed out, and passed back and forth, between the rollers till clean.
Remember and always have a good strong and hot suds.
Put your Pockethandkerchiefs, Cuffs, Collars, Napkins and Fine Frames into a sheet or Pillow slip and wash perfectly clean, in two to three minutes. We wash at one time, two or three sheets gathered at the hem, six Towels, two or three Cotton Shirts, one pair heavy Pants or two pairs light ones, one heavy Spread or Blanket, always putting the smaller things inside something larger or longer.
Wherever this Little Washer has been introduced the sale has been unprecedented, having sold upwards of three hundred in Dover, N. H., in less than two months; two thirds of the purchasers had been using large awkward machines costing from five to eighteen dollars; all a failure, one free complaint being that they are heavy and no woman can work them.
Richardson's has taken a Silver Medal in Springfield, Mass., at Mechanic's Fair in 1868, and other places where exhibited.
A Lady who has not washed for three years, told her neighbors she did her washing, with that Little Washer, with which she consequently they ordered one, and the question all over town is, have you got a RICHARDSON'S LITTLE WASHER?

Morning Chronicle.

REMARKS OF HON. J. H. ELA, AT THE EDITORS' CONVENTION. — Mr. President:—I had considerable dread about coming here, lest I might be called on for a speech; and I will occupy but a moment of your time, which more properly belongs to others. There has been almost a complete revolution in the newspaper business, since I first stood at the case and assisted in the work of publication.

You Editors no longer report the feats of Capt. Walker, Joel Conkey and Sam Gale, in getting the old New York Commercial with the President's Message into Concord, to be reprinted and taken by the Mansers and Billy French to Haverhill, before it got up over the River lines from Hartford.

And the newspaper man is no longer the butt of ridicule for his noted poverty; but keeps his carriage, has an income, and growls about paying taxes, like other people.

Not content with speaking to the people, newspaper men have taken to being their Representatives, and enough are in the House to compel the yeas and nays upon aby and every question. To tell how well they do their work, might not be modest in the presence of one now here from the Pacific slope, who with the chairman, also an Editor, on the Appropriation Committee, hold the purse-strings of the nation; and more especially in the presence of your Orator from down East, who having become Speaker for the Representatives of the people, can speak for himself as well, and who has a habit of making other speakers shut up and the House keep still, by making more noise than any other member.

Their ambition has penetrated even the honorable and grave Senate, and the representatives of the Press sit here, from the rockbound Atlantic to the Golden Gate of the Pacific; while with marked dignity and ability, another of the Press-gang presides over them. Where else they may attempt to go, or what do next, no mortal can tell; for with all their honor and glory, there is always more or less of a Devil goes with the Press.

With this increase of wealth, power and influence to the Press, has come the concentration of half a dozen minds upon one journal, instead of upon half a dozen, with expenses that would have appalled the most enterprising publisher of a quarter of a century ago, and with returns which would then have been considered fabulous and incredible. With a great increase of readers, there are less papers and a vastly wider range of circulation and influence. Go to Concord and enquire for the Congregational Journal, the Baptist Register, the Balm of Gilead, the Farmers' Monthly Visitor, the Parents' Monitor, the Herald of Freedom, and White Mountain Torrent, to say nothing of political papers; and the answer is, they have gone up where the woodbine twineth.

This greater concentration of power and influence, brings with it graver responsibilities, especially at a time like this, when parties and institutions, and principalities and kingdoms and empires seem in the throes of dissolution. New men and new measures, new parties and new dynasties are coming, if not already here, which will demand your closest attention and most skillful guidance.

I have an almost unbounded faith in democratic institutions and the possibilities of a free people, when they are guided by the Independent, the Statesman, and Patriot,—when the Morning Star assists the Couriers and Enquirers, in seeking the moral good of the People—when venerable Gazettes and staid Journals are not behind the Times and News, as standing Monitors and Sentinels of a Free Press—while Daily Telegraphs show the enterprise which fills Cabinets of Democrats and Reporters, and Mirrors show forth a Transcript of events, also Chronicled in the States and Union—while the News Letter, busy as a Bee, looks after Northern Advocates who are not up to its Standard, and the Eagle is ready to sound its note of danger, that will be heard by the Republic and Republicans of Coos and the Upper Coos.

LIEUT. ELA.—Fred P. Ela has been stationed at Washington, and his friends are glad to know that he has been transferred to the Navy Yard at Portsmouth, where he is to do duty. Fred is one of the best fellows alive, in any situation, and his friends in this village are glad to know that he makes an excellent officer, and is the favorite with all his companions.—Roch. Cour.

☞ The Biddeford Journal says there is a probability that a steam whistle will soon be placed on Wood Island at the mouth of the Saco River.

Correspondence of the Chronicle and Gazette.

PORTLAND, ME., Aug. 1.

Eds. Chronicle:—The political situation in Maine is somewhat condensed into three facts; the Democracy demoralized, the independent movement gone up, and the Republican cause more promising than a month ago. Perham for Governor is gaining, a few only of the ultra wing of the Temperance section persisting in being obstinate, but the majority of them "falling in" and supporting Perham. The Hersey wing give Perham their support without much trouble and although the vote in September will be light, the Republican majority will be a good one.

Messrs. Gosse, Newhall & Co., are getting up at their printing office, a capital map of Portland, giving streets, harbor, public buildings and the name of every business in its proper place. The design of the streets in the centre will be 15x18 inches. The entire map will be 28x42 inches. Advertisements will form the border. Some 2000 copies will be issued.

The first section of the Portland & Ogdensburg road is fast approaching completion. Portland to Lake Sebago 16 miles. By the last of this month cars will be running over the road to the Lake. The steamer Oriental runs upon the Lake to Harrison, North Brignton and Brighton. The route is a new a delightful one to the White Mountains.

The Ottawa House, Cushing's Island, Ocean House, Cape Elizabeth, Atlantic and Kirkwood Houses, Scarboro Beach, Old Orchard and Wells Beach houses are full, and the Seaside is in full glory.

New Hampshire Items.

Mr. John C. Gerrish, a proprietor of the Exeter News Letter, in its early days, died on the 26th inst., at the age of 71 years.

We learn that the County Commissioners have purchased the Ladd farm in Brentwood, at a cost of $5000. This farm is about one half mile distant from the County farm proper. The farm contains about 160 acres, 60 acres of which is covered with heavy wood and timber. We regard this as a good purchase for the county.

Mr. Joseph Tilton of Exeter, 89 years of age, was caught building a load of hay last week while his son pitched it on. The old gentleman has cleared an acre of second growth pines within a year, and now has growing thereon a fine field of corn. The work was all done by himself.

Gov. Stearns officially announces that Brig. Gen. Natt Head, having tendered his resignation as Adjutant-General of the State, is honorably discharged from the military service of the State, July 11th. And he very fittingly adds that "in accepting the resignation of General Head, I desire to express my high appreciation of the valuable and faithful services he has rendered the State of New Hampshire for the past six years, in collecting, compiling and preserving a record of the part taken by the State in the suppression of the Rebellion." The appointment of Lt. John M. Haines to the position is also promulgated.

The residence of Abner Hall, in Tilton, was consumed by fire on Sunday last. Hardly anything was saved. There was an insurance of $1200. The fire caught from a defective chimney.

Mr. Willard Hamilton, from Worcester, Mass., who had been stopping in Warren with his family for a few days, while on a pleasure ramble among the wilds of Hurricane Brook, last week, had the misfortune to lose his footing, and was precipitated down a precipice, a distance of one hundred feet, where he caught upon a tree that had blown down, and was thus saved from instant death.

A man in Concord has in his possession a biscuit which was set upon the table at the collation given on Lafayette's visit to that city in 1825. It is of oblong shape, has stamped upon it the words, "Welcome, Gen. Lafayette," and many of the letters can be still distinguished.

Four members of the Dartmouth scientific college recently made a daring exploration of the remarkable cave in the side of Mount Willard, known as "The Devil's Den," a feat which has only once before been accomplished. Lowering themselves over the precipice by ropes about 150 feet, they swung themselves into the cave, which they found to be about 15 feet high and broad, and 25 deep.

Manchester is building a new hotel of brick—dining room up one flight—and expects now to accomodate royally all the visitors to the New England Fair.

While Mr. Jacob C. Whidden, of Fisherville, was driving into his field, Thursday morning, his horse became frightened by the whistle of a passing train on the Northern Railroad. He was thrown out and caught between the whiffletree and the crossbar, and died before he could be rescued.

AYER'S CATHARTIC PILLS,

FOR ALL PURPOSES of a LAXATIVE MEDICINE.

Perhaps no one medicine is so universally required by everybody as a cathartic, nor was ever any before so universally adopted into use, in every country and among all classes, as this mild but efficient purgative Pill. The obvious reason is that it is a more reliable and far more effectual remedy than any other. Those who have tried it, know that it cures them; those who know not, know that it cures their neighbors and friends and all know that what it does once it does always—that it never fails through any fault or neglect of its composition. We have thousands upon thousands of certificates of their remarkable cures of the following complaints, but such cases are known in every neighborhood, and we need not publish them. Adapted to all ages and conditions in all climates; containing neither calomel or any deleterious drug, they may be taken with safety by anybody. Their sugar coating preserves them ever fresh and makes them pleasant to take, while being purely vegetable no harm can arise from their use in any quantity.

They operate by their powerful influence on the internal viscera to purify the blood and stimulate it into healthy action—remove the obstructions of the stomach, bowels, liver, and other organs of the body, restoring their irregular action to health, and by correcting, wherever they exist, such derangements as are the first origin of disease.

Minute directions are given in the wrapper on the box, for the following complaints, which they PILLS rapidly cure:—

For Dyspepsia or Indigestion, Listlessness, Languor and Loss of Appetite, they should be taken moderately to stimulate the stomach and restore its healthy tone and action.

For Liver Complaint and its various symptoms, Bilious Headache, Jaundice and Green Sickness, Bilious Colic and Bilious Fevers, they should be judiciously taken for such cases, to correct the diseased action or remove the obstructions which cause it.

For Dysentery or Diarrhea, but one mild dose is generally required.

For Rheumatism, Gout, Gravel, Palpitation of the Heart, Pain in the Side, Back and Loins, they should be continuously taken, as required, to change the diseased action of the system. With such change those complaints disappear.

For Dropsy and Dropsical Swellings, they should be taken in large and frequent doses to produce the effect of a drastic purge.

For Suppression a large dose should be taken, as it produces the desired effect by sympathy.

As a DINNER PILL, take one or two PILLS to promote digestion and relieve the stomach.

An occasional dose stimulates the stomach and bowels into healthy action, restores the appetite, and invigorates the system. Hence it is often advantageous where no serious derangement exists. Those who feels tolerably well, often finds that a dose of these PILLS makes him feel decidedly better, from their cleansing and renovating effect on the digestive apparatus. dawjeiledcm

TOO MANY DOGS. — The following ought to be true of a good many cases in this city—but it isn't yet.
Selected.

A gentleman in this village is just a "dorg" short. The following is very appropriate to his death—the dorg's:

No dorg to love, none to karess!
How can I ever my sadness express?
Spring is defuncted, ded as a nail,
Hushed is his barkin and still is his tale.
Oh, such a tale,—white on the end,
Oght did he chase it with wiggle and bend,
Chased it like blazes, till twisting around,
He got tired out, and reposed on the ground.
Now he's extinct, ded as a nale,
Where am his bark, and the wag of his tale?

In dreams alone poor Spring I see,
Swigging his milk, or in search of a flea.
But 'tis only a dream, and waking I weep,
For under two feet of ground does he sleep.
Oh, beautiful pup, wunce full of pla,
Haven't I fed you day by day;
Given you milk, given you bread,
Given you many a pat on the hed?
Now you're extinct, ded as a nale,
Where am the bark, and the wag of your tale?

No dorg to love, none to karess,
Vainly I strive the sad tears to repress;
Sadly I roam—joyless my squeel,
Oh, you were killed by the omnibus wheel;
No waggin tail, no beamin eye,
Answers a question, or gives a reply.
It wasn't a fit, or a stoppage of breth,
Nor eatin 2 much the sad cause of his deth—
But not a word, ded as a nale,
Dim are his eye, still forever his tale.
—Selah.

ADVENTURES OF A NOTED CRIMINAL. The ups and downs of noted criminals are worthy of study. One Jas. Morse, a thief of thirty years' standing, was brought before the New York Court of Special Sessions, on the charge of stealing four yards of flannel from a Broadway store. The man bore the appearance of one who had had a hard life of it. His black eyes were deeply sunken. He was very pale, and looked haggard and completely worn out. Justice Dowling recognized him at once as a burglar who had spent many years in prison, but who had never before stooped to such a puny crime as that for which he was now arraigned. His feeble condition procured for him a short sentence.

Morse is a Scotchman by birth, and came to this country after the perpetration of three first-class burglaries, which yielded him thirty thousand dollars. His last exploit, before his departure from England, was blowing open a banker's safe, and abstracting therefrom money enough to defray his expenses across the Atlantic. He made his debut in New York by a $15,000 silk robbery, followed soon after by another of $10,000, from the same store. A third attempt resulted in his arrest and committal to the State Prison for five years. No sooner did he return than he commenced a series of daring burglaries, the like of which had never been heard of. He would break into a store on West Street one night, and the next night South or Canal Street would be visited. The police, however, soon had him in their hands, and he was returned to Sing Sing.

At the conclusion of his imprisonment, he loafed around a well known bank in Greenwich Street, and kept an eye to all that was going on. One day he saw a lady descend from a carriage which was well loaded with trunks. He instantly made up his mind that the lady was going on a long journey, and came to replenish her purse. He was not mistaken, for the lady informed the cashier of the bank that she was going to Europe, and presented her check for $10,000. The money was counted out to her and she left.

When she reached the carriage, a gentleman with a pen behind his ear accosted her, said that he was a clerk in the bank, that some mistake had been made in counting the money, and that she must give it to him to be recounted. The lady, not suspecting anything, complied with the bank clerk's request, and handed him the package of bills, adding that she had not touched it since she had received it. The bank clerk left. The lady waited, and she still waits. The bank clerk was no other than our friend Morse, who went in at one door and out at another, $10,000 in pocket. Numerous similar exploits are narrated. Finally, Morse settled down in Moyamensing prison, from which he was released a few weeks ago.

DEATH IN JUTE.—The first case in this State of death resulting from the sen of jute switches, which has come to our knowledge, happened to a young lady in West Waterville last week. The unfortunate girl had been showing signs of disease for some time, and complained of her head. She gradually grew worse and became so sick that she could not leave her bed. Dr. Holmes was called, and suspecting the trouble, examined her scalp with a microscope. He found it literally alive with vermin. All remedies failed and the girl died. At the autopsy, the skull was found perforated by these insects and the brain much eaten away. The young lady was employed in the shirt factory in that town.—Portland Adv.

The Daily Chronicle.

Portsmouth, N. H.

THURSDAY, AUGUST 4, 1870.

FIGHTING AT LAST.—A French official despatch from Metz announces that at 11 o'clock Tuesday morning, the French had a serious engagement with the Prussians. The French army took the offensive, crossed the frontier, and invaded the territory of Prussia. In spite of the numbers and position of the Prussians a few battalions were sufficient to carry the heights which command Sarrbruecken, and the French troops soon drove the Prussians from the town. The impetuosity of the French troops was so great that their losses were slight. The engagement ended at one. The Emperor assisted at the operations, and the Prince Imperial, who accompanied him, was everywhere received on the first field of battle—his baptism of fire—with intense enthusiasm. His presence of mind and sang froid in danger were observable.

The Figaro announces the death of Gen. Ganjal, who was commanding a subdivision at Strasbourg.

The Prussian Government has summoned a levy en masse, to defend the coasts.

The Journal Officiel declares that the present war is not against Germany, nor against King William, but against Bismarck.

A London rumor says that Weissembourg, a town in Palatinate, on the border, has been stormed by the French.

The whole German armies have moved from the second line on the Rhine to the first line on Saar.

Gleaned and Ground.

The Georgia Senate has passed a resolution against holding any State election this fall.

Pomeroy's New York Democrat has been sold to Gideon J. Tucker, an ex-surrogate of New York.

The Central National Bank of Brooklyn has suspended payment.

For the Chronicle and Gazette.

THE WAR IN EUROPE.—It is stated that July 30 the French Minister had quite a long interview with the Secretary of the Navy, and his object was to purchase on behalf of the French Government some of the iron-clad monitors for which our Government has no use. The result of the conference is not known. But should our Government agree to any such sale, or the sale of anything else to give aid to France, in order to conquer Prussia, it would be a violation of our neutral policy.

Although the monitors may be of no use, at present, it would be better to sink these in the ocean, than sell them to France, now engaged in a war which has not even a plausible justification. Napoleon who declared it, and his subalterns who succumbed to his despotic will, deserve the execration of the civilized world. Prussia has now nearly a million of brave soldiers massed on or near the Rhine, and we may daily expect to hear of one of the most bloody battles of which there is any historic record.

The two armies, generally, have no personally enmity against each other, nor do they know of any cause for slaughtering each other, except that the Prussians feel patriotic and justified in repelling the hostile tread of the French army from their soil. It requires no prophetic vision to foresee that should this war not be brought to a speedy close, all the European Powers would be, more or less, engaged in it. For it concerns their vital interests, and they cannot long remain neutral.

France will contend for aggrandizement and supremacy in Europe; so did the first Bonaparte. But a majority at least, will contend to preserve the balance of power in Europe, as in past time, and in that they have strong motives of interest. France intends to increase her naval force,—and conquer that of Prussia, and next that of any nation that will not submit to her imperial domination.

English statesmen are looking on the conflict of arms with the most intense solicitude. The greatest activity is required, it is said, "by day and night" in all their ship-yards and docks. They well know that should France become the greatest naval Power in the world, the little British Isle in the Ocean would not be free from danger. England cannot therefore long preserve a strict neutrality.

Nor can the United States be perfectly neutral, should the war be protracted, because our commerce is extensive with the civilized world, nor would we consent to have our merchandise confiscated by the orders and decrees of either of the contending parties. X.

PROGRESS.—Collector Selden, of the third district of Connecticut, has been instructed to suspend the collection of all taxes upon ship-builders' sales under the act of March 31.

Correspondence of the Chronicle and Gazette.

BROOKLYN, N. Y. July 29th.

Sitting in the easiest of your easy chairs, in the coolest corner of your cool office; with, perhaps your pedestals elevated in true philosopical position on the back of a chair; sitting thus, with your mind engaged in scanning the moral, mental, political, criminal and other horizon; you will no doubt be much surprised to be informed that in Gotham over the river no murder has been committed for over twenty-four hours.

At first sight, you may think Gotham reforming, but you must recollect New Yorkers are "cheerful." If unable to bring about a little "mill" between belligerents, by which one or the other can be made a subject for the coroner, they are sure to be engaged in some other amusement quite as playful. For instance: Cruel business obliged me to ride up town in a Third Avenue car. Third Avenue Railroad management is peculiar. Policemen and detectives are not allowed to ride, pickpockets and lice are. Between the two, passengers stand little chance.

I got on board one of these menageries and we started. At the same time twenty young men with loud cravats, immaculate bosoms, valuable diamond pins, and broad cloth suits crowded the rear platform.

Presently the car was hailed by a stout old gent, with heavy fob chain, with a bon vivant air.

Six young men step down.

Old gent puffs and blows and attempts to get in.

No go.

Turns around in disgust to go back when:

Six young men make a rush for car, accidentally knocking old gent down insensible.

Tableau. Car starts off amid condolence of twenty young men in immaculate bosoms.

I suppose you have heard of the murder of two Orangemen by the Catholics in New York.

Did you ever hear of any murder of Catholics, by Orangemen on St. Patrick's day?

It's becoming unsafe, for we uncivilized Protestants, and unless we bow the knee to the infallible Pope, un-Pius, we shall be compelled to take down our "tents, like the Arabs, and silently hook away" westward where the course of empire take its way.

Elm Park is up town.

Thither a party of Orangemen took their way, to have a little amusement, dispose of condemned whiskey, or whiskey that should be condemned, and enjoy themselves in a like Hibernian manner.

On the same day, a couple of centuries ago, in Ireland was fought a battle, between the natives and English.

The natives came out second best.

And soothed their feelings in a quarteen can.

Their feelings, like an alderman's after dinner, were to deep to be soothed.

Accordingly from that day, whenever they have caught one of their enemies, alone and unarmed, they have valiantly assaulted him, and rival a crowd of N. Y. roughs on election day, in the ferocity of their attacks.

On the same day of the Orangemen's picnic, a party of Cork catholics, previously engaged in industriously excavating a sewer, figuratively buried their clay pipes of peace, and dug up the tomahawk, which happened to be a shovel and pick in this case, and prepared for war by rolling up their shirt sleeves, and divesting themselves of all superfluous clothing, taking up a line of march of Elm Park.

But why repeat the tale.

They met, in accordance with the philosophical principle, that, when one body is at rest, and another body in motion towards it, they must meet, and dire the conflict proved.

Two fruit-men were killed outright, and a number wounded.

A number of the infallible's subjects proved quite fallible and received cracked pates; but being better armed, and taking their enemy unawares, and prudently retreating when their opponents rallied, they came off comparatively harmless.

The battle field presented a sad scene.

Scattered around promiscuously were old crownless hats, stove-pipe dittos, not quite so crownless; empty bottles; here lay a bloody and gory half an arm—of a coat; there, reeking in blood a foot—of an old half soled boot, having, however, more sole than its owner, unless he had them for dinner.

Laying on a wooden table, under the trees, guarded by policemen, covered with an old blanket, lay one of the victim's, dead.

Poor fellow! In the midst of his family, in health and strength, with a promise of a couple score of years before him, unguarded he is struck down.

Truly in the midst of life is death.

The two were buried in Greenwood three days after.

Two hundred policemen with loaded revolvers escorted the procession to the grave.

Perhaps you imagine the murderers will be hung.

Not a bit of it.

Especially if they have money.

And they will have.

For every mother's son of their friends will contribute, until they raise a hundred thousand dollars, if necessary, and buy every judge around town.

Prince Fisk owns a judge.

Why should not others?

Money makes the mare go. And mares make the money go, particularly fast goers. F. D. W.

TURNIPS. — The very remarkable, long-continued drouth and hot weather, such as has not been within the present century, may be the cause of a failure of the expected large potatoe crop. It may therefore be judicious for farmers to turn their attention to raising Turnips, which may be grown in great abundance with little labor and expense. They are excellent for the table, and healthy, and it is said they are a good substitute for potatoes for feed for stock. From an acre, eight hundred bushels of turnips may be raised, if they do well, while the yield of potatoes would not be more than one-half as much. The round flat English turnip, so called, is preferable. When the seed is sown the latter part of August or first part of September, after the soil is moistened by rains, the taste of the turnip will be much sweeter, as farmers well know. A farmer said that it did not cost him more than three cents per bushel to raise turnips, and where there is a failure in part of the potatoe crop, turnips will sometimes sell as high as potatoes. T.

For the Chronicle and Gazette.

HISTORIC. — Messrs. Editors :—In your last Weekly number, "Uncle Joseph" makes Rev. Samuel McClintock graduate in 1751, and then study theology with Rev. J. McGregore of Londonderry, whom Farmer & Moore make died March 5, 1729, when McClintock was only three years old. In the N. E. Hist. and Geneological Register for July, 1847, page 249, it is stated that he had fifteen children by his first wife and one by his last. His father, a farmer, is stated to have had four wives and nineteen children, and died at 90 years of age.

I have also noticed within a few days that Merrill's New Hampshire's Gazetteer makes the same Rev. J. McGregore preach the sermon on day of settlement, April 11, 1818, instead of same day 1819, evidently a slip of pen or type. Also that the New American Cyclopaedia makes John Wheelwright pastor in Salisbury, N. H., about an hundred years before it was settled. It should have been Mass., where I am not sure as to his pastorship. The same Clyclopaedia, forgetting Lafayette, makes Sumter the only living general of the revolution alive at Stark's death in 1822. Lafayette lived till 1834, while Sumter died two years before, or in 1832. L.

Mr. Dicken's will was executed May 12, 1869, and has a codicil dated June 2d, of the present year. His personal property is under £8000. His principal bequests were £8000 to his "dear sister-in-law," Miss Georgia Hogarth; the annual interest of £8000 to his wife; £1000 to his daughter, Mary, and an annuity of £300 while unmarried, and £1000 to Miss Ellen Lawlers Ternan. In the document Mr. Dickens mentions the fact that he has allowed his wife six hundred pounds a year since their separation.

SPECIAL NOTICES.

Be on Your Guard.

The unexampled success which for twenty years has accompanied the use of HOSTETTER'S STOMACH BITTERS provokes the envy of ignorant nostrum-mongers in all parts of the country, and the counterfeiting business having been measureably played out in consequence of the numerous suits instituted against the offenders, a new system of tactics has been adopted. In the South and West especially, a legion of "Bitters," prepared from worthless materials and bearing a variety of names, have been got up by irresponsible adventurers with the hope of substituting them to some extent for the Standard Tonic of the Age.

In some cases country druggists are the concoctors and proprietors of these unscientific and trashy compounds, which are warmly recommended by the venders, who endeavor to palm them off upon the credulous in lieu of the great specific which has never yet had a successful competitor either among proprietory preparations or the medicines prescribed in private practice. This notice is intended to put the public on their guard against persuasions of parties engaged in the attempt to substitute more rubbish for the most efficient stomachic and alterative at present known.

At this season of the year when debility and complaints arising from a lack of vital energy so generally prevail, it is of the greatest consequence that no tricks should be played with depressed and enfeebled systems. Ask, therefore, for HOSTETTER'S STOMACH BITTERS, the great vegetable invigorant and alterative, and reject, with deserved contempt, the worse than useless medleys offered in its place. It is as important to the public as to the proprietors of the famous restorative, that this advice should be heeded.

CURE FOR CONSUMPTION

What the Doctors Say:

AMOS WOOLLEY, M. D., of Kosciusko County, Indiana, says: "For three years past I have used ALLEN'S LUNG BALSAM extensively, in my practice, and I am satisfied there is no better medicine for lung disease in use."

ISAAC A. DORAN, M. D., of Logan County, Ohio, says: "ALLEN'S LUNG BALSAM not only sells rapidly but gives perfect satisfaction in every case within my knowledge. Having confidence in it and knowing that it possesses valuable medicinal properties, I freely use it in my daily practice and with unbounded success. As an expectorant it is most certainly far ahead of any preparation I have ever yet known."

NATHANIEL HARRIS, M. D., of Middlebury, Vermont, says; I have no doubt it will soon become a classical remedial agent for the cure of all diseases of the Throat, Bronchial Tubes and the Lungs.

Physicians do not recommend a medicine which has no merits, what then they say about

BRANDRETH'S PILLS.

Their great value consists in this: They may be used so long as any disease affects any of the body; and by thus persevering in their use the disease will be cured, and the body restored to health, free from every taint and impurity. Their reputation proves their merit.

Thomas Smith, Coroner and Justice of the Peace, Hastings-on-the-Hudson, says BRANDRETH'S PILLS cured him of Dyspepsia and Constipation, when every other medicine had failed to relieve him. Certificate dated April 2, 1868.

Dr. Turner, of Savannah, Ga., says he has, for nearly forty years, recommended BRANDRETH'S PILLS as a specific in Yellow Fever; that he never knew a patient to die who took them for this malady, being otherwise sound. Their prompt action takes out the body those matters which feed the fatality of the disease. As a general family medicine he considers them far in advance of all others, and here he speaks from personal experience of their qualities. mh12

PAIN KILLER.

Perry Davis & Son, Proprietors, 1840. PROVIDENCE, R. I. 1870.

Time tests the Merits of all Things.

☞ FOR THIRTY YEARS! ☜

PERRY DAVIS' PAIN KILLER

This valuable Family Medicine has been widely and favorably known in our own and foreign countries, upwards of

THIRTY YEARS!

It has lost none of its good name by repeated trials, but continues to occupy a prominent position in every family medicine chest.

It is an External and Internal Remedy. For Summer Complaint, or any other form of bowel disease in children or adults, it is an almost certain cure, and has without doubt, been more successful in curing the various kinds of CHOLERA than any other known remedy, or the most skillful physician. In India, Africa and China, where this dreadful disease is more or less prevalent, the PAIN KILLER is considered by the natives, as well as European residents in those climates, a sure remedy; and while it is a most efficient remedy for pain, it is a perfectly safe medicine, even in unskillful hands.

☞ Directions accompany each bottle. Price 25 cts., 50 cts., and $1.00 per Bottle. 1mdawly8

THE REPUBLICAN LEDGER. — We have before us a copy of a dingy brown four-column newspaper, with this title, "printed at Portsmouth, N. H., by Nutting & Whitelock, Mulberry Lane, adjoining Rousselet's Museum," Nov. 17, 1801. It has for its motto, the verse, "Nothing extenuate, &c." This is No. 13, of Vol. 3, and the price is $1.50 per year. The Ledger is little more than half as large as the Daily Chronicle. It is well filled with advertisements and good reading, and is a very creditable specimen of a newspaper of that day. It contains the death of Mr. Alexander Salter of Rye; and belongs to a grandson of his, from the interior of this State, who is now boarding with our old friend Mr. G. C. Berry of Rye.

The Ledger heads its Marriages the "Temple of Hymen," and the Deaths, "Mortality." Among the advertisements, are notices of "John Marble, Stone-cutter, from Quincy;" Edward Parry, Dry Goods; James Rundlett, Carpetings, &c.; Benjamin Brierly, dry goods; Charles Peirce, books; Joshua Blake, varieties; E. J. Pierce, European goods; Washington Peirce, books, and others.

The Firewards request citizens to supply themselves with ladders and buckets; to put candles in their windows in case of fire; and notify venders of powder not to keep more than 12 lbs. of the article on hand.

Governor John Taylor Gilman issues his Thanksgiving Proclamation therein, and the Revenue Cutter Schooner Gov. Gilman is offered at auction by Alex'r Ewen.

The Ledger is well filled with news, literature, and politics; but, as usual in those days, has never a local item.

☞ The citizens living between Market Square and the Creek had some more sniffs of the Cess Pool on Tuesday night. The smells from the breweries are as delightful perfume in contrast with it. Some people think a dozen cart loads of dirt carefully spread will lessen the evil to a great extent.

P. S.—We learn that there is a prospect that this fathomless pit will be filled up ere long, as County Solicitor Small and Ex-Mayor Jones are working earnestly together in this direction, and we think will effect the desired result, with the aid of the Eastern Railroad and the City.

THE PORTSMOUTH CORNET BAND advertise a moonlight excursion to the Shoals this Thursday evening in Steamer Appledore, and the price of tickets is low enough for any reasonable person—50 cents for the trip. We have no doubt there will be enough citizens who wish to encourage the Band, and give them a benefit. They deserve a rouser, and we hope their locker will be fuller than ever when they reckon up expenses and receipts.

☞ We learn that Mr. William Henderson of Boston is to open a wig-making establishment and ladies' hair dressing saloon, in connection with that of Mr. David Rodrick, opposite the Kearsarge House on Congress Street. The only additional improvement we have to suggest is that "Gus" and "Walter" doff those large table-cloth aprons and donate them to some hotel waiters, or loan them to the Postmaster for extra jibs for his nice new yacht.

THE APPLEDORE HOUSE at the Shoals is so full that, on Tuesday night, a large party of new comers were obliged to sleep out on the piazza. We hear that Messrs. Laighton will double their accommodations for next season. The present season is probably the most profitable they ever had. A grand hop came off on Wednesday evening, Harlow's Band furnishing the music. A large party were in attendance from this city.

EXTREMES MEET.—An Irish Democrat was seen walking one evening this week with a large female fifteenth amendment, on one of our principal streets. Both seemed in agreeable company as they went marching along.

ANOTHER GOOD ONE.—Mr. H. H. Ham, Jr., of this city, has been appointed Store Clerk in the Equipment department at this Navy Yard, at a salary of $1140 per annum. A merited promotion.

☞ Uncle Toby's Address on the early Printers of Portsmouth, which we commence this morning, will be read with much interest by all.

"WE LIVE IN HOPES."—The traditional sign of rain has come—a load of laddors passed through this city on Wednesday.

Reported for the Chronicle and Gazette.

☞ The Funeral of Deacon John Knowlton took place from the North Church, (of which he had been for more than fifty years a member,) on Wednesday afternoon, and was largely attended, — the Masons and the Mechanic Association having matters in charge. Rev. Dr. Whiting, now of Illinois, a former pastor, officiated.

☞ The Mechanic Association are talking of having one of their old-fashioned Celebrations this Fall,—procession, address, dinner, &c., as formerly —and from which they have of late years been debarred by lack of a suitable dining hall. The new Rockingham House can accommodate them.

☞ The Dover Cornet Band are to have an excursion to the Shoals on Friday, in steamer Favorite, leaving Dover at 7 1-2 A. M., and touching at Rollins wharf,—foot of Court Street, for passengers from this city. Fare for the trip, 50 cents. A police force on board will secure order.

NAVAL.—It is Lieut. Yates, late of U. S. S. Oneida, and not Lieut. Comd'r Yates of this Station, who is ordered to U. S. S. California. The California is to be Admiral Lee's flag ship in the West India squadron. The Narragansett has been calked in the dry dock.

☞ The Police force are to make a raid on the unlicensed dogs next week; all owners of such can in the meantime insure them at the City Marshall's office by taking out a license.

☞ The House of Mr. M. Fisher, advertised at auction with the Furniture, &c., will be a very desirable purchase for somebody who desires an eligible and genteel residence.

☞ The rain which has been wanting in England and France as well as in the United States, this summer, has all gone to Russia; Egypt and Asia Minor, where it has fallen in extraordinary amounts.

The Nathan murder in New York continues as much as ever a mystery, so far as the general public knows.

AYER'S
HAIR VIGOR,
For Restoring Gray Hair to its Natural Vitality and Color.
A Dressing which is at once agreeable, healthy, and effectual for Preserving the Hair. Faded or gray Hair is soon restored to its original color, with the gloss and freshness of youth. Thin hair is thickened, falling hair checked, and baldness often, though not always, cured by its use.
It can not restore the hair where the follicles are destroyed, or the glands atrophied and decayed. But such as remains can be saved for usefulness by this application. Instead of soiling the hair with a pasty sediment, it will keep it clean and vigorous. Its occasional use will prevent the hair from turning gray or falling off, and consequently prevent baldness. Free from those deleterious substances which make some preparations dangerous and injurious to the hair, the Vigor, can only benefit but not harm it.
If wanted merely for a HAIR DRESSING, nothing else can be found so desirable. Containing neither oil nor dye, it does not soil white cambric, and lasts long on the hair, giving it a rich glossy lustre and a grateful perfume.

RICHARDSON'S
LITTLE WASHER, unlike all others, is light and portable, weighing only [illegible] pounds, is sold for the small price of five dollars. Adjusts itself to any article from a Pocket-handkerchief to a
LARGE BED SPREAD,
without alteration. Can be fitted to any tub, and removed at pleasure.
If you will use this little common sense washing machine, you will do the work of half a day in 2 hours.
RICHARDSON'S LITTLE WASHER does not tear or wear the clothes, no matter how fine the fabric. Clothes are thus fastened out, and passed back and forth, between the rollers till clean.
Remember and always have a good strong and hot suds.
Put your Pocket handkerchiefs, Cuffs, Collars, Napkins and Fringes into a sheet or Pillow slip and wash perfectly clean, in two to three minutes. We wash at one time, two or three sheets peeled at the same time, six Pillow slips, six Towels, two or three Cotton Shirts, one pair heavy Pants or two pairs light ones, one heavy Spread or Blanket, always putting the smaller things inside something larger or longer.
Wherever this Little Washer has been introduced the sale has been unprecedented, having sold upwards of three hundred in Dover, N. H., in less than two months; two thirds of the purchasers had been using large awkward machines costing from five to eighteen dollars, all a failure, one great complaint being that they are heavy and no woman can work them.
Richardson's has taken a Silver Medal in Springfield, Mass., at Mechanic's Fair in 1868, and other places where exhibited.
A Lady who has not washed for three years, told her neighbors she did her washing, with that Little Washer, which was, consequently, they ordered one, and the question all over town is, have you got a RICHARDSON'S LITTLE WASHER?

Morning Chronicle.

EARLY PORTSMOUTH PRINTERS.

AN ADDRESS DELIVERED BY T. H. MILLER,

At the N. H. Editors' Convention at Plymouth, July 15th, 1869.

Ladies and Gentlemen:—It was with pleasure I received an invitation to address my brother printers and fellow-editors, on the occasion of their Annual Meeting in New Hampshire, for mutual benefit and friendly greeting.

The invitation was promptly accepted; for though the time for preparation was very short, yet the performance was to be read to a company of friends, at their request, for their entertainment chiefly, though if any scraps of information, or curious facts should happen to fall in our way, they might be welcome, somewhat as we gather a few flowers, or pick a few berries by the wayside, as we take a walk.

I propose to notice, in a half hour's free talk, the increase of knowledge, and some of the changes of business and business men, within the last hundred years,—chiefly in our own profession, and in our own State.

The increase of knowledge in an individual, is not accomplished by throwing away all that he has learned up to to-day, and beginning anew to-morrow, —but by remembering all he has learned hitherto, and making additions. The same principle holds good in families, churches, communities, nations; and therefore the history, in other words, the experience of the past, is valuable.

Knowledge, also, is increased not only by addition, but by diffusion. What one man knows, he can teach, orally, to his family, to a school, to a congregation. And the author, or editor, aided by the printer, can teach thousands now, and untold thousands hereafter. The art of printing has been termed the "Art Preservative of all the Arts." Truly,—and of the Sciences no less,—and it is also in this country, and in the newspapers especially, the chief instrument of diffusing and thereby increasing general knowledge among all the people.

The increase of knowledge in the whole community during the hundred years and a little more, since the Press was first set up in the Province of New Hampshire, in 1756, has been very great, as all allow; and it gives me pleasure to be able to say, that New Hampshire printers, publishers, and editors, have had a considerable agency in this increase.

My own apprenticeship to the business of printing and editing newspapers, which began at the age of thirteen and is not yet quite finished,* renders me a connecting link between the present editors and printers, and those who finished their course and passed off the stage long ago. And as the present year (1869) is the 55th year of my employment in this business, it will be seen that my acquaintance with it, and with the men who have carried it on, covers nearly one-half of all the time since printing was first attempted in New Hampshire.

I perceive by the printed record of your meeting last year, that Mr. Ide, a printer somewhat older than myself, gave an account of the changes in the business in his part of the State, and in his own varied experience; and it will be natural for me to take up a similar thread of events in my part of the State, and especially in my native town, where the printing began with the publication of the New Hampshire Gazette, with which I am now connected, and which is the oldest paper now living, not only in New Hampshire, but on this side of the Atlantic.

I am aware that a similar claim is made by a paper in Rhode Island, that was, as its owner says, begun at a later date, but which he says was never suspended, while assertion is made that the Gazette has been suspended. But it is certainly not true that any such suspension ever took place, as to destroy or weaken its identity or continuity.

Thomas, in the History of Printing, more than half a century ago, said, "The New Hampshire Gazette is the oldest paper in New England." It is very certain that it was not since become any younger. In Farmer & Moore's Gazetter, (1823), it is said the New Hampshire Gazette and Historical Chronicle was commenced October 7, 1756, by Daniel Fowle, who continued to publish it until 1784, with the exception of one year, commencing May 25, 1776. On the 25th of May, 1776, it assumed the title of Freeman's Journal or New Hampshire Gazette, and retained the title about a year, after which it was called The New Hampshire Gazette, or State Journal and General Advertiser.

Now it is plain from this authentic statement, that there was no suspension, but only a slight change of title; and that while other titles were changed, that of New Hampshire Gazette always remained throughout.

The Gazette took revolutionary grounds; and the material was once removed to Exeter for safety, and in consequence the paper did not appear for one week; but no one ever considers such an interruption as destroying identity.

We have plenty of modern instances of the same sort. We name only one.

There is a paper in the eastern part of Maine (far down east, as we used to say), called The Sunrise, which has been published several years. The editor, when the late civil war broke out, wishing to show his colors on the side of the United States, called his paper the Loyal Sunrise. And when the war was over he took off the word Loyal, and the paper has its old name, The Sunrise, only. Was there, then, no sunrise, because the word Loyal, was there? Or was there a total eclipse all through the war? If there was no eclipse, then there was a sunrise every day. And if being a Freeman's Journal or Gazette for a year, in the Revolution, did not destroy the Gazette, then there was a Gazette all the time.—The printer thought there was a Gazette, for they numbered the papers and volumes right on,—and the subscribers thought so too, for they took it, and paid and advertised the same as ever.

Daniel Fowle was undoubtedly a true patriot, an honest and faithful man, a very fair and tolerably correct printer. The materials were not new when he began business in New Hampshire, and at the close of his career they were very much worn out. Nevertheless, he made a good living, accumulated a good property, and as his wife died before him and he left no children, he gave his property, his business and office, to his faithful apprentice and workman, John Melcher, whom he adopted as his son, encumbered only by the care and maintenance of his old negro pressman, Primus, generally called Prime, and two female slaves, who were then deemed personal property.

Prime was a negro slave' who never learned to read, nor even knew the letters, but who was taught presswork and became a very good pressman; and as he was a pressman only, and all others in the office could set type, he was often, and indeed generally, working at what was called half-press, i. e., he beat and pulled, working alone. He must certainly have his rank among our illustrious predecessors, the early printers of New Hampshire. It is presumed there are no printers in the State now who cannot read; but I had a fellow pressman in a neighboring State, fifty years ago, a white native too, who it was said could not read, and certainly I never saw him read, or try to read a line in a paper or a book.

Prime, though a black slave, whose rights no white man was bound to respect, had a peppery temper, and sometimes a fiery tongue, while Fowle, his master, seems to have been, though a firm man, very mild and smooth. When Mrs. Fowle died, the negroes of the family, as the custom was in those days, walked at her funeral, paired up with the whites; and as the custom was, Prime walked with his master, but got on the right hand, which was not the custom. Mr. Fowle, in a low voice said, "Go t'other side;" Prime did not move. Mr. F. spoke again, a little louder, "Go t'other side." Prime now spluttered out, loud enough to be heard across the street, "Go tudder side ye self, ye mean jade." And sure enough he went, answering the same purpose as if Prime had obeyed,—to the amusement of the bystanders, from one of whom I had the story.

Prime's long experience at the press, bowed his frame down into a form something like the modern Grecian bend, only more so; and after he was too far advanced in years and infirmities to do any work, he used to sun himself by sitting on the door-steps in Paved Street, now Market Street, bent down as usual. The boys used to offer him a copper to stand up straight, and he would always make the trial, with many grimaces, but of course he could not succeed; yet to the credit of the boys of that day, they used to give him the copper. Prime lived to be over ninety years old; and for more than fifty years, in Boston first and then in Portsmouth, he was a pressman.

The printers of to-day in this State, doubtless have much more knowledge than Prime, or even his master; and the school boys of to-day are advanced in knowledge beyond those of seventy or eighty years ago; but perhaps they have not made equal advances in honesty, integrity, and faithfulness.

To be continued to-morrow.

*NOTE.—Our eminent and worthy friend and brother, Rev. TOBIAS HAM MILLER, printer, editor, minister, who delivered this Address, died at his residence in Portsmouth, March 30th, 1870, aged 68 years. He was widely known and highly esteemed, and his death caused much sorrow. —Rec. Sec. N. H. Ed. Assoc'n.

AYER'S CATHARTIC PILLS,

FOR ALL PURPOSES of a LAXATIVE MEDICINE,

Perhaps no one medicine is so universally required by everybody as a cathartic pill, and none ever any before so universally adopted into use, in every country and among all classes, as this mild but efficient purgative pill. The obvious reason is that it is a more reliable and far more effectual remedy than any other. Those who have tried it, know that it cured them; those who have not, know that it cures their neighbors and friends and all know that what it does once it does always—that it never fails through any fault or negligence of its composition. We have thousands upon thousands of certificates of their remarkable cures of the following complaints, but such cures are known in every neighborhood, and we do not publish them. Adapted to all ages and conditions in all climates; containing neither calomel or any deleterious drug, they may be taken with safety by anybody. Their sugar coating preserves them ever fresh and makes them pleasant to take, while being purely vegetable no harm can arise from their use in any quantity.

They operate by their powerful influence on the internal viscera to purify the blood and stimulate it into healthy action, rousing the digestive organs of the stomach, bowels, liver, and other organs of the body, restoring their irregular action to healthy, and by correcting the disease of which such derangements are the first origin of disease.

Minute directions are given in the wrapper on the box, for the following complaints, which these Pills rapidly cure:

For Dyspepsia or Indigestion, Listlessness, Languor and Loss of Appetite, they should be taken moderately to stimulate the stomach and restore its healthy tone and action.

For Liver Complaint and its various symptoms, Bilious Headache, Sick Headache, Jaundice or Green Sickness, Bilious Colic and Bilious Fevers, they should be judiciously taken for each case, to correct the diseased action or remove the obstructions which cause it.

For Dysentery or Diarrhœa, but one mild dose is generally required.

For Rheumatism, Gout, Gravel, Palpitation of the Heart, Pain in the Side, Back and Loins, they should be judiciously taken, as required, to change the diseased action of the system. With such change those complaints disappear.

For Dropsy and Dropsical Swellings, they should be taken in large and frequent doses to produce the effect desired.

For Suppression a large dose should be taken, as it produces the desired effect by sympathy.

A SUGAR COATED PILL, one or two PILLS to promote digestion and relieve the stomach.

An occasional dose stimulates the stomach and bowels into healthy action, restores the appetite, and invigorates the whole system. Hence it is often advantageous where no serious derangement exists. One who feels tolerably well, often finds that a dose of these PILLS makes him feel decidedly better, from their cleansing and renovating effect on the digestive apparatus. dawjel leod8m

PENELOPE.

(SIMPSON'S BAR, 1858.)

So you've kem 'per agen,
And one answer won't do?
Well, of all the derned men
That I've struck, it is you.
O Sal! 'ver's that derned fool from Simpson's, cavortin' round 'yer in the dew.

Kem in, of you will,
Thar—quit! Take a cheer.
Not that; you can't fill
Them theer cushings this year—
For that cheer was my old man's, Joe Simpson, and they don't make such men about 'yer.

He was tall, was my Jack,
And as strong as a tree.
Thar's his gun on the rack—
Jest you heft it, and see.
And you come a courtin' his widder. Lord! where can that critter, Sal, be!

You'd fill my Jack's place?
And a man of your size—
With no baird to his face,
Nor a snap to his eyes—
And nary—Sho! thar! I was foolin—I was, Joe, for sartain—don't rise.

Sit down. Law! why, sho!
I'm as weak as a gal.
Sal! Don't you go, Joe,
Or I'll faint—sure, I shall.
Sit down—anywhere, where you like, Joe—in that cheer, if you choose—Lord, where's Sal!
—[F. BRET HARTE, in Overland Monthly.

A RHINOCEROS ON A RAMPAGE.—We learn from the Lake Village Times, that while Bailey & Co.'s menagerie was exhibiting at Ossipee, on the 26th, the huge rhinoceros attached to the show, a monster of full two tons' weight, manifested signs of most unusual ferocity. On the close of the evening exhibition at O., the procession set out for Laconia, and by daylight, when near Shellback Pond, a furious storm burst upon it. The thunder and lightning produced various emotions in the different beasts, arousing the rhinoceros so that his cage swayed about from the violence of his efforts to escape.

The terrified driver leaped from his seat, and, an instant after, the cage and its occupant rolled down the bank to the very edge of the pond. The train was instantly halted, and the elephants brought back from the front. The cage had landed upon its side, and its maddened and frightened inmate made furious efforts to pry apart the iron bars with his horn. They were two stout even for him, and a snort of pain, as the animal fell on his side, announced that his horn had become partially detached from the flesh, into which it grows like that of a deer.

The monster immediately became quiet, and the cage, with the aid of the elephants, was quickly righted. It was decided that the horn, being loose, could not be otherwise than an annoyance to its owner, and the latter, being then quite tractable, was securely confined with ropes. The veterinary surgeon connected with the establishment then entered the cage, and removed the horn with a few sharp cuts. Since then the rhinoceros has been one of the quietest animals in the whole collection.

A POT OF FAT TO SELL.—Biddy, said her mistress, when the fat man comes along, I wish you to call him in. Yes Mum, I will. Biddy kept a sharp look out, carefully watching all the men as they passed by in the street. At last she espied a tall, portly looking gentleman, who appeared to her very fat, and she quickly ran out and accosted him. Sir, my mistress wishes to see you. The gentleman turned and followed her, and she conducted him into the parlor and requested him to be seated.

She then ran to her mistress and told her the fat man was in the parlor. As the lady entered, the gentleman rose and politely bowed, and said, your servant girl informed me that you wish to see me. The lady somewhat confused, made an explanation and apologised, upon which they both had a hearty laugh, and the gentleman did not cease from laughing, until he got some distance from the house.

MOSQUITOES are bred in stagnant water, but for what purpose we know not, except to be tormentors. As the season has arrived for their activity, we give a South Carolina prescription. Take of gum camphor a piece about one-third the size of an egg, and evaporate it by placing it in a tin vessel and holding it over a lamp or candle, taking care that it does not ignite. The smoke will soon fill the room, and expel the mosquitoes. Let a door or window be left open for their escape and none will be found in the night or next morning.

Another prescription we know has the desired effect. Fill the room full of wood smoke, and the tormentors will at once escape through a door or window.

—A countryman stopped at the Maxwell House, Nashville, for dinner. The waiter inquired what he would have, and was told by the countryman to bring something of what he had. The waiter brought him a regular dinner upon small dishes, as is the usual form, and set them around his plate. The countryman surveyed them carefully for, a moment, and then broke out, "Well, I like your samples, now bring me dinner."

Gleaned and Ground.

It is said that Mdlle. Nilsson is paid £25,000 sterling for six months' contract to sing in the United States. She is to receive £5000 as a gift on starting for America.

The explosion of a shell at Fortress Monroe, Wednesday, killed four men and set fire to several buildings in which shells were stored.

A despatch from West Point says the congressional committee investigating the alleged ill-treatment of the colored cadet, Smith, have ordered the offending cadets to be reprimanded.

All the despatches which come to hand from Kentucky, indicate that Monday's election was the occasion of terrible rioting and much bloodshed.

The San Francisco printers are on a strike again.

THE WAR. — When the heights of Saarbruck were occupied, a battery of Miltrailleurs played upon the position. The Emperor ordered the officer in charge not to fire unless it was necessary, but afterwards a detachment of the enemy was seen near the railway, at a distance of 1600 metres, and was fired at, and half their number were left on the field. A second detachment met the same fate, after which the enemy was forced to retire. Prisoners taken confess to the superiority of the French guns. The Chassepot carried 1300 yards, and the Miltrailleur over 2000 yards.

Advices from a private source attribute the delay in opening the campaign, after the armies are ready on both sides, to the renewal of Napoleon's proposals for peace, and which were finally refused by Bismark.

A new revolving cannon has been tried at Valence, and is said to be a great success. A correspondent describes it as a terribly destructive weapon at 5000 yards.

Horses are said to be scarce in both Germany and France. The Germans need them for cavalry and the French for artillery.

Berlin officers of the Union Club have accepted a wager, offered by William Thomas of Paris, that the French will be in Berlin on August 15.

Dr. Nelaton joins the army as a special attendant upon the Emperor, the state of whose malady does not permit him to dispense with his most trusted physician.

The Prussian reserve of 100,000 men is encamped in front of Berlin. Forage is scarce in the Rhine provinces, and the Prussian cavalry are suffering severely.

The Danish Government still struggles hard to preserve neutrality, but the popular excitement is intense. The ungovernable sympathy for France among all classes is very marked.

The heights taken by the French at Saarbruck form the key to the railway approaches to Treves.

Substitutes for the French army are quoted at $1500 in gold in Paris.

Correspondence of the Chronicle and Gazette.

YORK, Aug. 4th.

About two o'clock, P. M. Wednesday, fire was discovered in the woods owned by Mr. Richard H. Walker, near this village, and raged with tremendous fury. For two hours the flames held complete sway burning some thirty acres of heavy growth, and it was only by the most persevering and untiring efforts of a large number of the calm and considerate citizens, that the fire stayed in its destructive course. Men never labored better, each seemed to be impressed with the idea that upon his own efforts depended the saving of hundreds of acres of valuable growth, as well as the entire village, which was most certainly in limited danger.

The pasture of Mr. Walker was set on fire by boys, either carelessly or wilfully. P.

FIRES IN WELLS.—On the night of the 28th ult., the barn of Ellison Hill, in Wells, was consumed by fire, the contents, four tons of hay and a carriage, belonging to Christopher Littlefield, of Wells, whose loss is about $150. Another suspected incendiarism. No insurance. Also, on the 31st ult., in the afternoon, the barn of Chas. W. Boston, with all its contents, was laid in ashes. It contained upwards of 25 tons of hay, and was not insured. Careless use of matches is supposed to be the cause. Loss about $800.

☞ The girl who shot Joe Mooney at Manchester, is held in $3000 till next Wednesday, to await the result of the wound. Mooney is thought to be a little better, but with a pistol-shot in his breast, or stomach, or lungs, of course is not out of danger.

Correspondence of the Newark Daily Jour.

LETTER FROM PORTSMOUTH. — July 27th.—Luckily, the wind has shifted to the East, and we are favored with cool ocean breezes this morning. If there be a cool spot on the coast, it is Portsmouth; but the people have been bitterly complaining of the fierce heat of the last two weeks, and the beaches could boast of no relief, although the people have crowded to them to get the ocean breezes, which have failed to respond.

Thirteen years have elapsed since the writer left Portsmouth, where he had resided for six years as editor of a Democratic paper; and it is surprising to mark how little progress has been made in this ancient, respectable and well-ordered city. Then it had about 10,00 inhabitants; now it has but few more. The streets are the same, and the buildings generally unaltered; though the places of many of the old settlers, who have passed away, have been filled up with new men, yet most of the active business men of twenty years ago are to be seen on the streets, the only change perceptible being in the whitening of their locks and the somewhat subdued air which years impart to the human frame.

The ranks of the newspaper men here have been sadly thinned, two of the oldest and most experienced having died within a few years, Charles W. Brewster, of the Journal, and Rev. Tobias H. Miller, of the Chronicle, both of whom made their mark upon the press of New England. Mr. Foster, of the Daily Times, who for several years published and edited the Democratic paper here, has recently removed to New Haven, Ct., having purchased one-half of the Daily Lever from Judge Wright, who is Gov. English's private secretary. Mr. Foster is a writer of uncommon vigor; but his place is well filled in the Times by Messrs. Thayer & Guppy.

The Daily Chronicle is owned and edited by Messrs. Frank W. Miller and George W. Marstog. Frank was formerly a compositor on the Gazette, while we edited it, and was perhaps the most remarkable printer and indefatigable workman in New Hampshire. He was a very fast compositor, and would work day and night, if necessary. He started the Chronicle in 1852, and for many years would leave the office late at night and start up at 3 o'clock in the morning to work off his paper, which has now attained a comparatively large circulation and positive influence in the State. Frank is an Alderman and a member of the Legislature, and has one of the finest villa residences in this neighborhood, and always keeps three or four fast horses. Blood and Yankee perseverance will tell.

The country around Portsmouth is fine, artistically, agriculturally and otherwise. There is the ocean within breathing distance, the beaches and the Isles of Shoals, good fishing and very fair hotels. Most everybody comes here at least once in their lifetime, and are pretty sure to repeat the experiment. There are a great many descendants of old families among the residents, who are happy to be regarded as old fogies, and scout the idea that the fast manners and so-called progress of the age are essential to individual happiness.

A few enterprising men here might have turned a portion of the current of trade and commerce to this excellent harbor, at any time within the last thirty years; but the city has almost stagnated, while Boston has been rapidly making itself the centre of New England industry and commerce, and Portland is also ambitious to take a leading commercial position by making direct communications with New York.

Perhaps in the coming centuries Portsmouth may in her turn revive and become practically what it is now only theoretically, the seaport of New Hampshire. At any rate she will always be the centre of a large Summer travel, because her surroundings are unrivalled and her islands and beaches unsurpassed in many respects.

There are a great many queer people at Portsmouth, characters which can be found only in an ancient city like this; but I have no time to-day to write of them. E. N. F.

THE DISTANCES IN THE OCEAN YACHT RACE.—From the logs of the yachts Cambria and Dauntless, are compiled the table of distances made by each yacht for every day of the race. The New York Herald says the footing up shows a difference of one hundred miles in the length of the courses taken, and represents that the Cambria had that much less distance to sail on her line. The American Yacht Dauntless took what is called the Middle or Southern course, and sailed 2963 miles; and was beaten only an hour or two by the English Cambria, which on the Northern course sailed 2861 miles. It seems incredible as stated that the Cambria should have made but thirty-six miles on her last day, while the Dauntless made one hundred and eighty. It is known that when the Dauntless was boarded by a pilot she was informed that the Cambria was twelve hours ahead. This was only thirty hours from the lightship, and in that time, therefore, the Dauntless gained over ten hours on her competitor; but even this does not account for the disparity. The greatest distance made for any single day was by the Dauntless, two hundred and twenty-five miles. Next to this was the Cambria's run, two hundred and twenty miles

DIED.—In Washington, N. H., Rev. WILLIAM CLAGGETT, at the age of 74, a distinguished clergyman. He was the son of Wentworth Claggett, a native of this city, who moved from Litchfield to Newport, N. H. Wentworth was the son of the late Wyseman Claggett, who emigrated from London, and settled in this town prior to the Revolution of 1775. Rev. W. C. is the brother of Rev. Erastus B. Claggett, the clergyman of Lyndeborough, N. H., and of Rufus Claggett, who was a student at law three years in the office of W. Claggett of this city, and is now in the practice of law in the city of New York. Rev. W. C. was formerly settled in Westmoreland, and was married to a daughter of Dr. Merrill of Concord. In each place of his residence he was revered and beloved for his amiable traits of character by a large circle of his acquaintance. The three brothers, and another, Clifton, a physician deceased, were all graduated at Dartmouth College.

☞ It is reported from Canton, Ill., that a terrible pestilence among the fish is spreading in the Illinois River, in that vicinity, and for a long distance the river bank is covered with thousands of dead fish decaying in the sun and the stream itself is full of them. River men think this mortality is caused by the burning of 3000 barrels of whiskey on the river during the great fire at Peoria, which destroyed the oxygen so that the fish could not live. The stench is so great that families living on the river banks have been compelled to move away. It feared that much sickness will follow.

THE LADDERS DID IT.—The "traditional sign of rain," a load of ladders on Market Square, appeared there on Wednesday; and sure enough, a heavy shower occurred next day. The Philharmonic Society will have to give it up; for they did fail to bring rain once, but the load of ladders was never yet known to miss fire. The Cornet Band flatter themselves that they brought the shower by announcing an excursion; but there can be no doubt that 'twas the ladders did it.

☞ Mr. Harlow, whose two sons are leader and prompter in the Marine Band, has removed to this city from Milford, Mass., and purchased the Cooperage business of Mr. Hall Varrel; and the family design locating here permanently. Both father and sons appear to be gentlemen.

☞ Dispatches to Boston papers have stated that James W. Emery, Esq., of this city, is very sick. It should be Mr. James H. Emery, a young man residing at the South End of the city, and not the prominent legal and business gentleman first named.

THE VENERABLE ARCHDEACON SCOTT, of Durham, Canada East, says that he suffered from Dyspepsia more than twenty-five years, but that three weeks, use of the Peruvian Syrup and Iron Tonlou, has benefitted him so wonderfully that he can hardly persuade himself of the reality, and people who know him are astonished at the change.

SPECIAL NOTICES.

Be on Your Guard.

The unexampled success which for twenty years has accompanied the use of HOSTETTER'S STOMACH BITTERS provokes the envy of ignorant nostrum-mongers in all parts of the country, and the counterfeiting business having been measureably played out in consequence of the numerous suits instituted against the offenders, a new system of tactics has been adopted. In the South and West especially, a legion of "Bitters," prepared from worthless materials and bearing a variety of names, have been got up by irresponsible adventurers with the here of substituting them to some extent for the Standard Tonic of the Age.

In some cases country druggists are the concoctors and proprietors of these unscientific and trashy compounds, which are warmly recommended by the venders, who endeavor to palm them off upon the credulous in lieu of the great specific which has never yet had a successful competitor either among proprietory preparations or the medicines prescribed in private practice. This notice is intended to put the public on their guard against persuasions of parties engaged in the attempt to substitute mere rubbish for the most efficient stomachic and alterative at present known.

At this season of the year when debility and complaints arising from a lack of vital energy so generally prevail, it is of the greatest consequence that no tricks should be played with depressed and enfeebled systems. Ask, therefore, for HOSTETTER'S STOMACH BITTERS, the great vegetable invigorant and alterative, and reject, with deserved contempt, the worse than useless medleys offered in its place. It is as important to the public as to the proprietors of the genuine restorative, that this advice should be heeded.

CURE FOR CONSUMPTION

What the Doctors Say:

AMOS WOOLLEY, M. D., of Koeciusko County, Indiana, says: "For three years past I have used ALLEN'S LUNG BALSAM extensively, in my practice, and I am satisfied there is no better medicine for lung disease in use."

ISAAC A. DORAN, M. D., of Logan County, Ohio, says: "ALLEN'S LUNG BALSAM not only sells rapidly but gives perfect satisfaction in every case within my knowledge. Having confidence in it and knowing that it possesses valuable medicinal properties, I freely use it in my daily practice and with unbounded success. As an expectorant it is most certainly far ahead of any preparation I have ever yet known."

NATHANIEL HARRIS, M. D., of Middlebury, Vermont, says; I have no doubt it will soon become a classical remedial agent for the cure of all diseases of the Throat, Bronchial Tubes and the Lungs.

Physicians do not recommend a medicine which has no merits, what they say about

It has lost none of its good name by repeated trials, but continues to occupy a prominent position in every family medicine chest.

It is an External and Internal Remedy. For Summer Complaint, or any other form of bowel disease in children or adults, it is an almost certain cure, and has without doubt, been more successful in curing the various kinds of CHOLERA than any other known remedy, or the most skillful physician. In India, Africa and China, where this dreadful disease is more or less prevalent, the PAIN KILLER is considered by the natives, as well as European residents in those climates, a sure remedy; and while it is a most efficient remedy for pain, it is a perfectly safe medicine, even in unskillful hands. 1mdawjy8

LOCAL AFFAIRS.

New Advertisements to-day.

Notice—To Owners of Dogs.
Varieties—Moses Lord.
Notice—Eben Lord.

☞ The Lord rains — the earth rejoices.

☞ How short the days grow! So do some people.

☞ Thanks to our old veteran friend R. K. Oxford for early pears and apples, refreshing and toothsome.

☞ It is reported that the Franklin House in this city has been sold to Mr. Alfred Stavers, whose wife was one of the heirs to the estate.

☞ Rainy weather, however desirable, does not make steamboat excursions run smoothly. Water parties are especially averse to being watery parties—they neither go in for sprinkling nor immersion, nor even the laying on of wet hands ever so gently by the fog.

☞ The Dover Cornet Band's excursion to the Shoals in Steamer Favorite, takes place to-day. The boat will touch at Rollin's wharf for passengers, and will stop several hours at the Shoals. The music is good, as many who have heard the Band play can testify. Fare 50 cents.

☞ To-morrow night, at the Temple, the famous Alleghanians will give an entertainment. They need no introduction to the citizens of Portsmouth; and there will probably be but little spare room in the Temple Saturday evening. The price of admission is set low,—35 cents to all parts of the house.

☞ Our severe drought was broken by a heavy thunder shower, Thursday afternoon; but not in season to prevent great damage to grass, trees and fruit. It is very uncommon to have such dry, hot weather so early in the season. The face of nature looks more like October than the first of August, and cattle are better off in the barn than the pasture.

THE MOONLIGHT EXCURSION in steamer Appledore, for the benefit of the Portsmouth Cornet Band, (who have chartered the boat,) which was to have come off Thursday evening, was postponed on account of the weather; and the Appledore will leave Pier Wharf this (Friday) evening at 8 o'clock, if the weather is favorable. Fare 50 cents. The Band should have a real "benefit;" and this excursion gives all a chance to assist them, and at the same time have a pleasant trip and listen to good music.

Communication.

"BEAUTY is a part of the eternal capital of the soul," says that man of big heart, and mighty in the scriptures, Rev. A. P. Peabody. I will now say that beauty is also a great item in the capital of a city—and every avenue that may be opened for the display of this beauty, is so much (an inestimable amount) added to that capital. I therefore thank and praise our City Fathers for the wisdom they have displayed in opening the Road to Freeman's Point, and making the new Road running westerly from Woodbury Street — the latter protecting existing beauty from spoilation, for there is not lacking a temptation to mar and obliterate any or all of the attractive outlines of our two beautiful ponds, upon so miserable and mean a pretext as City lots.

If one-half the amount of the barbarous energy in this direction, could only be devoted to devising and carrying out some scheme for keeping these ponds clean, another item of real capital would be gained. I have the disposition to put on my thick boots, and give my spare time in any part of such a work, pay or no pay, as the case may require.

Having a desire to see the results of the late expenditures of the public money, I took better half, with as many others, little and big, as would fill the coach, and made a tour of inspection over the line above indicated; and came back with the impression that Portsmouth people have no great need to go from their homes on account of either hot or cold weather, or to find pleasing variety and needful recreation. We may well say of our outline of beauty, keep it entire—allow no inroads upon or spoliation of it; only keep it free from pollution, and then let it alone.

Going one step further, we may say that this strengthening our ideas of material beauty, might lead to the suggestion of that moral and spiritual beauty which would result, if we would keep our water fountains free from all and every manner of qualifying, but let them flow purely, as they now do freely, to human lips.

In case any one should wish to second the suggestion for a pond-cleaning force, I give you, Messrs. Editors, without disguise, my name. J.

THE COMING RAIN.

Midsummer sleeps upon the hills,
And high in heaven the red sun glows;
The languid wind scarce moves the scent
Of clover and belated rose.

The panting pine adown the air
Hls hot balsamic fragrance flings;
Upon the meadow swaying reed
The scarlet-shouldered blackbird sings.

The shimmering fields are faint for rain;
The dust-cloud marks the hillside road;
The shrivelling leaf and puny bud
Show where the rose and lily glowed.

Far in the amber-heavened south,
A long-low, slumberous shadow lies;
Like cloud and mountain softly blent,
And softly mingling with the skies.

It is the rain! A subtle touch
Lies in the south wind's languid palm;
A subtle prophecy floats down
The pine-tree's fervid breath of balm.

With closing eyes, I hear the drip
Of raindrops in the forest shades;
The ringing laugh of brooks that leap
The mossy stairway of the glades.

I breathe perfume, honey-sweet,
Of meadow blooms and vine-roofed bower;
The rich, moist incense of the woods,
The scent of new-born leaf and flower.

And see the sick fields growing green,
The lily-cups all brimming o'er,
The daisies dancing wild with glee,
Beneath the low cloud's steady pour.

And know that when the morrow comes,
We, too, shall laugh to greet the rain—
To hear the mountains whisper praise,
And all the vales rejoice again.

New Hampshire Items.

The hay crop of Deerfield is about two-thirds of the average amount. It is mostly of good quality, and now well harvested. The meadows are better than usual. The drought has shortened the grain, and the corn and potatoes are beginning to suffer; still the fruit promises a great crop.

The 27th ult. was a lovely day. Sabbath Schools met according to appointment, on the old camp ground near Newmarket Junction. Rev. James Pike presided. Prayer was offered by Rev. Mr. Hewes of Gosport, Isles of Shoals. Interesting remarks were made by Rev. Mr. Dinsmore of Portsmouth.

Mr. Charles Ham, of Dover, had six valuable sheep destroyed by dogs on Sunday night.

H. F. Bean of Rochester had a horse and carriage stolen from the Gt. Falls Riding Park, Thursday.

Dr. Bemis of Boston is building a handsome granite house at White Mt. Notch, to cost about $60,000. He is evidently not afraid of land slides. The Willey house still stands, and the course of the slide that buried the Willey family can be seen.

Mr. Henry Sawyer had a narrow escape in Dover. He was riding by the City Hall, when his horse became unmanageable, and striking another carriage, he was thrown to the ground over the front of the wagon he was in, which passed over him. The concussion started horse No. 2, which also ran over him, and he crawled out from under the second wagon with some slight bruises and a deep cut in his forehead. It is remarkable that he escaped with his life, under the circumstances.

The Wolfeborough News says that while on the way from Union with passengers, the drivers of two stages, one running through Ossipee and the other through Effingham to Conway, got running their teams to see which should first have the road. A six-horse team driven by one Crawford becoming unmageable, he jumped from from the box. The coach was upset, and several passengers were injured—one lady quite severely. Such recklessness deserves severe punishment. We understand that the driver's name was Marston.

☞ Mr. Moses Lord, one of the best of mechanics, announces to do all kinds of Carriage repairing. He has also a few very nice Shifting Carriage Poles for sale very cheap.

These bonds have 50 years to run, are convertible at the option of the holder into the stock of the company at par, and the payment of the principal is provided for by a sinking fund. The convertibility privilege attached to the bonds cannot fail to cause them at no distant day to command a market price considerably above par, besides paying about 9 per cent., currency, interest in the meanwhile. U. S. Five-twenties, at present prices only return five per cent.; and we regard the security equally good.
The greater part of the road is already completed, and the balance of the work is rapidly progressing.
The established character of this road, running as it does through the heart of the most thickly settled and richest portion of the great State of Iowa, together with its present advanced condition and large earnings warrant us in unhesitatingly recommending these bonds to investors, as, in every respect, an undoubted security.

AYER'S
HAIR VIGOR,
For Restoring Gray Hair to its Natural Vitality and Color.
A Dressing which is at once agreeable, healthy, and effectual for Preserving the Hair. Faded gray Hair is even restored to its original color, with the gloss and freshness of youth. Thin hair is thickened, falling hair checked, and baldness often, though not always, cured by its use.
Nothing can restore the hair where the follicles are destroyed, or the glands atrophied and decayed. But such as remains can be saved for usefulness by this application. Instead of fouling the hair with a pasty sediment, it will keep it clean and vigorous. Its occasional use will prevent the hair from turning gray or falling off, and consequently prevent baldness. Free from those deleterious substances which make some preparations dangerous and injurious to the hair, the Vigor, can only benefit but not harm it.
If wanted merely for a HAIR DRESSING, nothing else can be found so desirable. Containing neither oil nor dye, it does not soil white cambric, and yet lasts long on the hair, giving it a rich glossy lustre and a grateful perfume.

LARGE BED SPREAD,
without alteration. Can be fitted to any tub, and removed at pleasure.
If you will use this little common sense washing machine, you will do the work of half a day in 2 hours.
RICHARDSON'S LITTLE WASHER does not tear or wear the clothes, no matter how fine the fabric. Clothes are straightened out, and passed back and forth, between the rollers till clean.
Remember and always have a good strong and hot suds.
Put your Pockethandkerchiefs, Cuffs, Collars, Napkins and Fringes into a sheet or Pillow slip and wash perfectly clean, in two to three minutes. We wash at one time, two or three sheets gathered at the hem, six Pillow cases, six Towels, two or three Cotton Shirts, one pair heavy Pants or two pairs light ones, one heavy Spread or Blanket, and as many pieces of smaller things inside something larger or longer.
Wherever this Little Washer has been introduced the sale has been unprecedented; having sold upwards of three hundred in Dover, N. H., in less than two months; two thirds of the purchasers had been using large awkward machines costing from five to eighteen dollars; all a failure, one great complaint being that they are heavy and no woman can work them.
Richardson's has taken a Silver Medal in Springfield, Mass., at Mechanic's Fair in 1868, and other places where exhibited.
A Lady who has not washed for three years, told her neighbors she did her washing, with that Little Washer, with ease, comfortably; they ordered one, and the question all over town is, have you got a RICHARDSON'S LITTLE WASHER?

Morning Chronicle.

EARLY PORTSMOUTH PRINTERS.

AN ADDRESS DELIVERED BY T. H. MILLER, At the N. H. Editors' Convention at Plymouth, July 15th, 1869.

The last number of the New Hampshire Gazette that bears the imprint, Published by Daniel Fowle, (in the volume to which I have access), is dated December 17, 1784, and the paper of December 31, 1784, in the same file, is headed Fowle's New Hampshire Gazette, printed and published by Melcher & Osborn. The paper which should bear date December 24, is missing, and that probably contained the notice of Mr. Fowle's resigning his business to his successors. He died in 1787; age not recorded, but far advanced. As he went into business for himself in Boston, in 1740, he was probably then 21 years old, at least, and this would make him 68 years old in 1787. From this it will be seen that Mr. Fowle published the Gazette about 28 years. He had also done a moderate amount of other printing, as the province laws, pamphlets and sermons, and kept a bookstore. The building which was first used as a printing office in Portsmouth, by Mr. Fowle, is still standing, and a cut of it is shortly to be engraved.

John Melcher, his successor, remaining in partnership with Osborn only about a year, afterwards published in his own name. His term of publication in the whole was eighteen years, as we shall see by and by that he sold out in 1802.

My acquaintance with him was long, intimate, and pleasant. I was an apprentice to one of his apprentices (Samuel Whidden), and thus I am (not in the Apostolic succession exactly, but in the succession of New Hampshire printers), only the third step below Daniel Fowle, the white printer, and Prime, the black pressman. And although Mr. Melcher was the owner of the office where I worked, and old enough to be my grandfather, he was always a companion, and in the latter part of his life we seemed to feel no disparity of years. From him I have heard much of Mr. Fowle, and not a little of other business men of former days, and with his own energy and success I feel fully acquainted, as I do also with his character and life. I honor his memory, and it gives me pleasure therefore to dwell a little on his history.

John Melcher was born in the year 1759, in Portsmouth, of a respectable family, neither rich nor poor. In his boyhood he was active, intelligent, and orderly; a good scholar in the famous school of Maj. Hale. Dr. Hall Jackson wished him to study medicine with him; and Dr. John Jackson wished to make him, like himself, an apothecary. He studied Latin to qualify himself for one of these places, probably the latter. But when about leaving school, Daniel Fowle offered to receive him into his family (where a ladylike maiden sister presided), care for him as for a son, teach him his business, and at or before his own decease, endow him with all his property. The offer was accepted, and the promises were fulfilled in spirit and to the letter; and the arrangement proved satisfactory to both parties.

When Mr. Melcher became of age, Mr. Fowle gave the lead of the business to him, and at the close of 1784 (as we have seen), Melcher, with Geo. Jerry Osborn (another apprentice of Fowle's), took the Gazette and printed it for a year, elegantly, as the bound file shows to-day. Then Mr. Melcher took the Gazette alone, and resumed at the same time, the bookstore of Mr. Fowle, where he much enlarged the stock and improved the business, which became quite lucrative, as he had most of New Hampshire and part of Maine for his market; and especially he imported from London, in connection with D. West of Boston, many valuable books for the wealthiest families. He also enlarged and improved the printing office, and imported an excellent font of pica type, on which he printed the laws of New Hampshire. I have now in my possession two nicely fitted racks which contain twelve cases each, and kept this font of type free from dust; I have also several of the cases,—and a portion of the type is in the office of the Portsmouth Journal.

Mr. Melcher was a keen-sighted, (near-sighted), accurate, and careful proof-reader, reading everything by copy; an excellent pressman, and one of the neatest and nicest of men in his clothing and personal habits; he hated slovens and their works. I have heard him say to a careless pressman, "Why, I've seen a negur, who didn't know a letter in a book, that always did better work than that."

In the days of Fowle and Melcher, editors were not generally great writers. Some one has said, the scissors did the most part of the work, but this is not literally true; for most of the copy used to be either set from a marked paper folded up, or cut out with a pen-knife, as almost every one used to have one in his pocket. There were some writers who used to furnish communications occasionally; many of their productions, earnest enough then, provoke a smile now when read. One writer in '84, thought the Country was "going to the dogs," because Congress was so extravagant; and another saw ruin close ahead, because mechanics, such as hatters and cabinet makers, wore fine broadcloth and silk stockings, and women wore silks, muslins and laces. One writer, about the year '84, congratulated himself and the public on the assurance that hereafter there would be, but one paper printed in New Hampshire, and gave as a reason for his joy, that the owners of lands which were advertised for taxes, would not be troubled to know which paper contained the notices!

Mr. Melcher was an exact accountant, and a strict and rigid economist in things great and small; yet in his personal appearance and providence for his family, always appropriate and comfortable, generally elegant. As a successful man, who constantly gained in business, he had the reputation of being shrewd and sharp at a bargain, and truly he was a man not easily deceived or cheated. But his treatment of me, as a printer's boy, was so strictly honest and honorable, every way, that I hold his memory in high estimation. Whenever he wished to send me on an errand, he would take my stick and copy, and always set a little more type for me in my absence than I should have done if present, and never left an error for me to correct.

His reputation for shrewdness came partly from his skillful action in the office of coroner, which he held for many years. He was called upon several times to serve precepts on criminals or debtors who eluded or successfully resisted the sheriffs and deputies, and he generally got his prisoners. In one case where a reckless and obstinate debtor in the country had driven off a pooce, and used to keep a loaded gun near him in house and field, threatening to shoot any one that came near to arrest him, Mr. M. rode up in a chaise to the fence of the field where the man and gun were close together, but took no arms, not even a whip or cane, and approached the man, who did not fear him; but when within a few feet of each other, Mr. M. suddenly drew from his pocket a round paper inkstand, aimed it at the man, and in an instant made him a prisoner, before he had time to think.

But he acquired the cap-sheaf of this reputation for sharpness, by a successful sale of real estate in Portsmouth, shortly after the great fire of 1802, just previous to which he had sold the Gazette. He owned a lot of land on the corner of Market Street and the Parade (now Market Square). A number of persons owning the several lots from High Street via the Parade to Ladd St., were desirous to build an elegant block of brick stores, four stories high, which stand there now. Mr. Melcher did not wish to build in that manner, but would sell his lot at a certain price. They would not pay that. He prepared and begun to put up a wooden frame. They sent a messenger, to offer him now, the price he had asked before. He wished $500 more, and the messenger went back. In a day or two the buyers got up to the $500 line, but then he put on $100 more,* which the messenger could not pay; and this process was repeated one or twice, till finally, one messenger was bright enough to say, when he heard the price: Will you give me till to-morrow to make up my mind? Certainly sir, was the courteous answer, and I would have done the same thing any day before, if any one had made the request. But when a price named is not accepted, nor secured, it is of course declined, and there is no bargain. The purchasers felt a little sore, and unwisely showed it; but I see nothing wrong in such transaction between sharp men on both sides, as they certainly were in this case. That Mr. Melcher, being a very decided man, generally acted up near to his own convictions of right and duty, I do not doubt; and of this I give one striking instance. He was naturally gifted with a skillful mechanical hand, and had a good knowledge of practical chemistry, for his day.

*These figures, put down from memory, may not be exactly correct, but I think are nearly so.

Concluded to-morrow.

Ki Chow a little pigtail had,
Which down his back hung low,
And everywhere that Ki Chow went,
The pigtail it would go;
While sitting in the school one day
It reached unto the floor,
When naughty children, fond of play,
Fast tied it to the door.
The teacher just then coming in
To hear the children spell,
Yanked poor Ki Chow up by the roots
With a demoniac yell;
And then the children gathered round,
And the teacher to them said,
Behold the tale-bearer's sad fate
In Ki Chow there, stone dead.

NOTES ON THE PRINTERS' REUNION. We desire to make proper acknowledgment of the services of Job Jenness & Son of the Ocean House, in making the Printers' Reunion the great success it was. Their spacious house was placed completely at the service of the Associations and guests, and no effort was spared for the general comfort and accommodation. The natural attractions of the place were augmented by beautiful decorations, and even fireworks and a complimentary ball were offered as further gratifying and adding to the pleasure of the occasion.

The sun on the patience of the proprietors, great as it was, was cheerfully borne, and all who can, even in a measure, appreciate the extent of preparation and subsequent effort entailed by such a festival, will ever bear in grateful memory the exertions of the Messrs. Jenness. Of the many places of summer resort on our coast, we know of none that is in any respect to be chosen over the well-kept Ocean House.

There is another matter that we rejoice to record, as displaying eminent thoughtfulness and old-time hospitality. We mean the throwing open of the cottages of Lewis Downing, jr., and Capt. William Walker of Concord, and Messrs. Straw, Adams and Cheney of Manchester. These gentlemen did much to ensure the success of the meeting. Their carriages, their residences and even pecuniary aid were freely tendered. Such kind offices will not soon be forgotten.

Mr. Barnabee, Mr. Winch, Mr. and Mrs. Smith, and Miss Ryan, whose fine taste and artistic execution the "Hub" cannot surpass, added in no small measure to the enjoyment of all. The quartette is sure to win praise wherever their music finds an auditor.—Patriot.

DR. H. T. HELMBOLD, who has, with his family, been spending a few weeks in Saratoga, has left for Long Branch. Doct. Helmbold illustrates in the very highest degree, what may be achieved by enterprise, strict integrity and the use of printer's ink. Commencing life poor, the Doct. is now ranked among our millionaires, while his fame as "the great druggist," is world-wide.

Swain, Townsend, Brandreth and others who amassed fortunes from advertising liberally, were but neophytes when compared with Helmbold, who advertises in nearly three thousand papers and who pays the printers over $400,000 per year. It is not to be wondered at that the sale of Doct. Helmbold's medicines amount to millions of dollars yearly, and that he is amassing a collossal fortune, as printer's ink "will tell."

Doct. Helmbold is one of the most genial men with whom we have ever met, and has the happy faculty of making friends of all whom he comes in contact with.

The Doctor's six-in-hand turn out, with coachman and footmen in livery, gold plated harness, &c., far surpasses any ever seen at Saratoga, and we have never seen it go by, without soliliquizing,—great is printer's ink, and Helmbold is its Profit!

We trust the Doctor many live many years, and that when he is about to "shuffle off this mortal coil," he may—remember us in his will!—Saratoga Chronicle.

FREE RUM FOR ALL.—One cannot walk through the business streets of Boston, with open eyes, without being convinced that there is no real interference with the liquor traffic. Liquor and beer casks blockade sidewalks, fill express wagons, stand in rows, in stores with open doors and windows, and plain signs announcing the occupants as liquor dealers.

If we remember correctly, there is a law prohibiting this traffic, and there was a force whose duty it was to suppress it. What has become of this force we do not know; the chief is supposed to have gone on a long pilgrimage in search of an "open bar," having anxiously and vainly sought for such an institution throughout the Commonwealth. So it seems the State is given over to rum, from which at present there seems no deliverance,—certainly none from the whine and cant of the State Constable.—Boston Daily News.

A sad state of things; but it is hard to kick against the pricks of public opinion, which in Boston as in Portsmouth, approves and demands free rum and open brothels.

Colonel Jonathan Merriam, of Tazewell country, was nominated for Congress by the republicans of the 8th Illinois district, on the 186th ballot.

H. T. HELMBOLD'S
CONCENTRATED
FLUID EXTRACT BUCHU,
THE GREAT DIURETIC.

The proprietor trusts that his Remedies, from the fact of their being advertised, may not be classed as Patent Medicines.

HELMBOLD'S FLUID EXTRACT BUCHU is a pharmaceutical preparation. The proper name is given, and it is the most active which can be made. It is endorsed as a cure by all medical works for such diseases as recommended by the proprietor. It is pleasant in its taste and odor, free from all injurious properties, and is taken by adults and children. It is tonic, diuretic, blood-purifying, and invigorating. Enfeebled and delicate constitutions of both sexes will find it far more strengthening than any of the preparations of bark or iron.

See medical properties contained in Dispensatory of the United States, of which the following is a correct copy:—

BUCHU.—Its odor is strong, diffusive, and somewhat aromatic; its taste is bitterish, and analogous to that of mint. It is given chiefly in complaints of the urinary organs, such as gravel, chronic catarrh of the bladder, morbid irritation of the prostate gland, and retention or the incontinence of urine, from a loss of tone in the parts concerned in its evacuation. It has also been recommended in dyspepsia, chronic rheumatism, cutaneous affections, and dropsy.

Cure of Gravel of Five Years Standing. Stone Passed and to be Seen.

SAVANNAH, TENN., May 14, 1869.

Dr. H. T. Helmbold,

DEAR SIR: We introduced your "Fluid Extract Buchu" in this county about eight months ago, and are happy to state that it is meeting with universal favor. We wish to inform you of one instance (among many) where your "Buchu" has worked wonders. A man in our county, named J. B. Estell, had been suffering about five years with gravel.

About six weeks ago he bought of us one bottle of your "Buchu," and before he was through with one bottle he passed a gravel that weighs eight grains, which we now have on exhibition in our drug store. He says that he will never be without the "Buchu" in his house again. Your preparations are gaining favor every day.

Very respectfully yours, &c.,

Cure of Bladder and Kidney Affection of long Standing. Stone Passed and to be Seen.

WESTPORT, CONN., Sept. 9, 1869.

H. T. Helmbold, Esq.,

DEAR SIR: I commenced taking your "Extract of Buchu" about two weeks since for an affection of the bladder and kidneys. I have suffered by spells very much for a few days past. But yesterday relief came through the effect of your "Buchu." A stone passed from my bladder about the size of a large pea, and I now feel perfectly well and entirely free from the pain that I have suffered with so hard. I attribute my cure to your medicine entirely, and would recommend all persons similarly affected to try it. I have great faith in its curative powers.

Yours truly, THOMAS J. BENNETT.

Cure of Kidney and Bladder Affection of a Patient Seventy-eight years of Age. Thanks to Mr. Helmbold.

GIRARD, PA., March 31, 1869.

Editor Cosmopolite: I desire, as an unsolicited tribute to the merits of Helmbold's Buchu, and for the benefit of those similarly afflicted as myself, to say that after consulting many eminent physicians and trying nearly all the best advertised Remedies, in the vain hope of healing relief from aggravated kidney and bladder diseases, from which I have suffered excessively for many years, good fortune finally suggested to me Helmbold's Buchu, which I commenced using with little faith, and no apparent beneficial results for about a month.

As the expiration of that time, however, I thought I commenced to experience slight relief, which encouraged me to persevere to the end, and now, at the expiration of four months, although I am an infirm old man, nearly 78 years of age, and consequently medicines cannot be expected to favorably affect me as they otherwise would, I have found such unspeakable relief and permanent benefit from Mr. Helmbold's valuable discovery, that I feel I ought to publicly record the fact, as an acknowledgment to him, and a valuable suggestion to the public. Yours respectfully,

D. M. CAREN.

DR. KEYSER
is a physician of over thirty years' experience, and a graduate of the Jefferson Medical College, and of the University of Medicine and Surgery of Philadelphia. Hear him:

Mr. H. T. Helmbold.

DEAR SIR: In regard to the question asked me as to my opinion about Buchu, I would say that I have used and sold the article in various forms for the past thirty years. I do not think there is any form or preparation of it I have ever used, or known to be used, in the various diseases where such medicate agent would be indicated. You are aware, I will add, that Buchu has been extensively employed in the various diseases of the bladder and kidneys, and the reputation it has acquired, in my judgment, is warranted by the facts.

I have seen and used, as before stated, every form of Buchu—the powdered leaves—tincture, fluid extracts—and I am not cognizant of any preparation of that plant at all equal to yours. (Twelve years' experience ought, I think, to give me the right to judge of its merits; and, without prejudice or partiality, I give yours precedence over all others.

I value your Buchu for its effect on patients. I have cured with it, and seen cured with it, more diseases of the bladder and kidneys than I have ever seen cured with any other Buchu or any other proprietary compound of whatever present.

Respectfully yours, &c.,
GEO. H. KEYSER, M. D.,
140 Wood Street, Pittsburgh, Penn.
August 11, 1865.

GREAT SALT LAKE CITY, UTAH, Jan. 28, 1868.

Mr. H. T. Helmbold,

DEAR SIR: Your communication requesting our terms for advertising was duly received, but from a prejudice I had formed against advertising "cures for secret diseases," it was left unanswered. During an accidental conversation in a drug store the other evening, my mind was changed on the character of your Buchu. It was then highly commended for other diseases by two physicians present. Inclosed please find our rates of advertising. Yours, T. B. H. STENHOUSE,
Ed't and Prop'r of Telegraph.

TESTIMONIALS.

A Permanent Cure of Gravel of twelve Years' Standing. Stone Passed and to be Seen.

BURNSIDE, CONN., Dec. 15, 1869.

Dr. Helmbold,

DEAR SIR: It is with much pleasure that I write you upon facts respecting myself. I do not know hardly how to express myself. I have been for the last ten or twelve years the greatest sufferer that ever lived to be and live; but more sometimes than others. The complaint was the "Kidneys" and "Bladder." I have been sometimes from twelve to fourteen hours, and wanted to make water every minute, but could not. Have consulted doctors, both in Massachusetts and this State, and taken pills, I may say by the quart, also liquored medicines, but found no relief from any, and got worse the last six months. I was so that I could scarcely get about, I could not rest night or day.

It would soon have been "all up" with me if I had not seen your advertisement headed "Kidneys." I read it through and thought I would try it. I purchased a bottle, but, mind you, had not much faith in it. Why should I, when I had been trying so many things that cost me so much? Well, I began taking it, and before I had taken the first bottle I felt bad; but I finished it and got another. By the time I took half of the second I still got worse (apparently.) When I walked it seemed as if my right kidney was falling from its place, and I felt really bad. I felt so, before I had finished the second, that I had madeup my mind it was of no use trying any more—and all this time the "Buchu" was doing its work, but I did not know it, so I gave it up and went to Hartford on Saturday to one of the best doctors in the city. He said it was the neck of the bladder, and I should have to undergo an operation. He gave me medicine, and I went home quite downhearted.

On Sunday I was unable to go to church. I had not taken any of the medicine, but on my return continued using the "Buchu," and in the afternoon I had a desire to make water, but could not. About one hour after this I tried again, with the same result; but the next time I passed the vessel it was the same as turning a faucet and stopping it off again. It was so for three times, and the third time there was something came through the passage and struck against the side of the vessel. I examined it, and it is the ugliest stone or gravel you ever saw, covered over with little pieces which collected together. It looks the color of a mud turtle, and is as hard as flint. So you see I did not stop doing the work, although I was feeling so badly. I procured another bottle, thinking there might be some more behind; but since that has passed, which is eight weeks ago last Sunday, I have not seen the equal of ever I was in my life. I have the stone securely wrapped, and those who have seen it in this place are surprised.

I cannot tell you all, but this is a true story of my case, and you are welcome to make such use of my name as you think proper. I am pretty well known in Berkshire; also in Connecticut. The advertisement cured me. Why not publish more? If any one wishes to see this wonder, they can do so. I could write all day, but I think I have said enough this time. I remain your ever well-wisher, EDWARD L. HOWARD,

Corner of 5th av. and 76th st., Central Park.
(Home and School for the Sons of Deceased Soldiers.)

Dr. H. T. Helmbold,

Two bottles only of the package of your valuable Buchu presented to the Institute have been used by the children, and with perfect success. In the case of our little Lieutenant A. J., his pride is no longer mortified, and he is free from the daily morning anathemas of the chamber-maid who has charge of his bedding.

I feel that a knowledge of the result of our use of your Buchu with the children under our charge may save many a Superintendent and Matron of Boarding Schools and Asylums a great amount of annoyance; and many a poor child suffering more from Weakness than from habit, may be spared punishment, that is (not knowing it as a weakness instead of a bad habit) most unjustly inflicted upon them. Thanking you on behalf of the children, and hoping others may be alike benefitted, I am respectfully yours,

COL. YOUNG, General Sup't and Director.

A Case of Twenty Years Standing.

PHILADELPHIA, PENN., June 25, 1867.

H. T. Helmbold, Druggist.

DEAR SIR: I have been a sufferer for upwards of twenty years with gravel, bladder, and kidney affections, during which time I have tested various medicinal preparations, and been under the treatment of the most eminent physicians, experiencing but little relief.

Having seen your preparations extensively advertised, I consulted my family physician in regard to using your Extract Buchu.

I did this because I had used all kinds of advertised Remedies and had found them worthless, and you can quite believe, I was not a little out of over getting well, and determined to use no Remedies hereafter unless I knew of the ingredients. It was this that recommended me to use your Remedy. As you advertised that it was composed of Buchu, cubebs, and juniper berries, it occurred to me and my physician that it was a combination; and, with his advice, after an examination of the article, and consulting again with the Druggist, I concluded to try it. I commenced to use it about eight months ago, at which time I was confined to my room.

From the first bottle I was astonished and gratified at the beneficial effect, and after using it three weeks was able to walk out. I felt much like writing to you a full statement of my case at the time, but thought my improvement might only be temporary, and I determined to wait a longer time, and see if it would effect a perfect cure, knowing that it would be of greater value to you and more satisfactory to me.

I am now able to report that a cure is effected after using the remedy for five months. I have not used any for the last two months, and feel as well in all respects as I ever did.

Your Buchu being devoid of any unpleasant taste and odor, and being tonic and invigorator of the system, I do not mean to be without it wherever occasion may require its use in such affections.

SATURDAY, AUGUST 6, 1870.

A PRUSSIAN VICTORY.—There was hard fighting at Wissenbourg, Wednesday. On Thursday a large force of Prussians advanced between Wissenbourg and Lauterbourg, ten miles into the French territory, driving the advanced post of the enemy and destroying a mile of railroad between Lauterbourg and Strasbourg, along which it is supposed McMahon was preparing to advance. The French loss was heavy, including many prisoners.

The special correspondent of the Tribune telegraphs from the Prussian headquarters that the French were driven off the field and the Prussians now occupy the French camp. Several hundred French soldiers were taken prisoners. The Prussian loss is considerable.

The Prussian victory at Wissenbourg was decisive. Wissenbourg, and Gers Hill, in the rear of that town, were carried at the point of the bayonet, after an obstinate resistance. The general who commanded the French, in the absence of General Douay, was killed, with two officers of his staff.

The French encampment, one piece of artillery, 500 wounded prisoners, including many Turcos, fell into the hands of the Prussians. On the German side, General Kirchbach was wounded, and the Grenadier Guard and 5th Regiment suffered severely.

Another fight is reported at the town of Gersweiler. A detachment of French crossed the line and took possession of the village. The Prussians then attacked the French and dislodged them from their position, when they retired with a loss of nine killed.

M. Gramont declares that it was M. Bismark who advised France to annex Belgium.

Later despatches received concerning the action at Saarbruck, fully corroborate the previous reports of the terrible destructiveness of the new French arm. The decimation wrought upon the ranks of the Prussian detachments, which attempted to cross the railroad embankment in the face of the terrible shower of bullets rained from the mitrailleuse, is said to have been frightful. The deadly effects of this arm at long range have produced a great impression upon the morals of the Prussian service.

It is unofficially reported in Paris that the French forces have taken Saarlouis after a great battle.

HUSKING.

And now, the corn-house fill'd, the harvest home,
To invited neighbors to the Husking come;
A frolic scene, where work and mirth and play
Unite their charms, to chase the hours away.

Where the huge heap lies centered in the hall,
The lamp suspended from the cheerful wall,
Brown corn-fed nymphs and strong hard-handed Alternate rang'd, extend in circling rows, (beaux
Assume their seats, the solid mass attack;
The dry husks rattle, and the corn-cobs crack;
The song, the laugh, alternate notes resound,
And the sweet cider trips in silence round.

The laws of Husking every wight can tell,
And sure no laws he overleaps so well;
For each red ear a gen'ral kiss he gains,
With each smut ear he amuts the luckless swains;
But, when to some sweet maid the prize is cast,
Red as her lips, and taper as her waist,
She walks the round and calls some favor'd beau,
Who leaps the luscious tribute to bestow.

Various the sports, as are the wits and brains
Of well pleas'd lasses and contending swains,
Till the vast mound of corn is swept away,
And he that gets the last ear wins the day.

MILK, WATER AND RUM.—The New York Metropolitan Board of Health report that the cities of New York and Brooklyn have paid four millions of dollars for water mixed with milk; and five milkmen have been convicted for mixing water with milk. Two of them were sentenced to the penitentiary, and three others to the city prison for twenty days, all with fines of $50 each and costs.

Now a man who will mix water with milk, one-fourth part, ought to be punished and fined; but those cities pay forty times that amount for an article that is watered, (the more water the better, pity it wasn't all water,) which causes a vast amount of trouble and crime; and all cities and most towns do the same. Many a man has been put in prison, and some have lost their lives, trying to rid the community of the curse and evils of watered rum. There are men in this town who say that a pump is the best cow, but think it wise to pay ten cents, five or six times a day for whiskey. What folly is this?—Cor. Wolfeborough News.

—There is so little water in the Garden of Plants it has become necessary to take the hippopotamus to the river to give it the daily bath required. He goes in state to the Seine, being in a cage drawn by two horses; he has a collar around his neck to which is a long chain. The keeper holds the end of this chain, and upon being liberated from his cage the hippopotamus is allowed to indulge in all the luxuries of a swim. The other day a link of the chain broke, and the animal, delighted to recover liberty, made for the little omnibus steamboat which was then passing, and which he could at once have upset; crew and passengers yelled at him, and he quitted the steamboat for a floating laundry, which he tipped and shook; the washerwomen shrieked in great terror, but were too panic-striken to flee. He then made for a floating swimming-school; as soon as his snout was turned towards it, it was instantly deserted. He was at last caught and caged.

TURNIPS.—It is surprising that the round flat—commonly called English—turnip, so palatable and nutritive, is so seldom found on many of our farmer's tables. It must be the farmer does not understand their worth and the small cost of raising them; and we recently heard a farmer say that they did not cost him more than three cents per bushel; and as a feed for stock, that they are fully equal to potatoes, and from an acre you can get eight hundred bushels of turnips, if they do well, while the yield of potatoes would not be more than one half as much. The white turnip may be a successful crop after wheat has been cut, sowed among the corn, as is adopted by some farmers, but is not favored by me, as it prevents the corn ripening and filling out. Cor. Ger. Telegraph.

ELDERBERRY WINE.—Get ripe berries, put them in something to scald them, as the juice can be got easier and quicker. Put a little water in to keep the berries from burning; then extract the juice and put one lb. of granulated to a quart, and set it near the stove to keep warm and work; it will work in two or three weeks. Put in nothing but the sugar and a little water. After it is ready for the sugar, heat some of the juice and stir the sugar in so that it will be all dissolved; it will work itself. The scum should be taken off, and when it is done working, turn it off carefully and bottle. For twenty quarts of juice, two or three quarts of water should be used.

A FEW MINUTES' WORK.—It is not generally known that many of the myriads of pestiferous flies which haunt our houses and fields, torturing man and beast, may be prevented from breeding by giving a little labor to the drains and privies. The eggs of many of the flies are deposited in human excrement, and if dry soil and lime be thrown occasionally down the vaults, the insects will have to seek for other breeding places. Again, if the drains are covered and the water suffered to fall into a closed cess-pool, another breeding place is destroyed. A little labor will diminish these plagues wonderfully.—Mass. Ploughman.

FUN AHEAD!—Two muffin nines are to have a base ball match at the Plains one afternoon next week. Those who have been selected as players on the great occasion are requested to leave their names with Mr. M. M. Miller. It is proposed to play on Thursday afternoon. There will be sport enough to last all the ladies and gentlemen who wish to see it. An audience of 2000 is desired.

—A base ball club called the Red Foxes, are said to be awful on "fouls."

For the Chronicle and Gazette.

THE RENEWING OF PASTURES.—Is there any way to renew the old stony pastures, in the hilly regions of New Hampshire? There were many such, 50 or 80 years ago, would have fed four oxen, where four sheep now can hardly live. Thousands of acres are growing up to bushes; and it would be better for the county, if thousands more were covered with wood. The man who discovers any way to renew the fertility of these, without expending more than they will be worth, will be a great benefactor to New England. If the pastures can be renewed, there will be little difficulty in renewing the fields. At present, there seems to be no better way than to raise bushes and trees where the grass won't grow and the plow can't go. But it is a long and tedious process of renewing the soil.

J. C.

CANNING TOMATOES.—In the Syracuse Union we find the following:—"The most thorough and reliable mode of canning tomatoes is as follows: They are just sufficiently steamed, not cooked, to scald or loosen the skin, and are then poured upon tables and the skin removed, care being taken to preserve the tomato in as solid a state as possible. After being peeled, they are placed in large pans, with false bottoms perforated with holes, so as to strain off the liquid that emanates from them. From these pans they are carefully placed by hand into the cans, which are filled as solidly as possible—in other words, all are put in that the cans will hold. They are then put through the usual process and hermetically sealed. The cans, when opened for use, present the tomato not only like the natural vegetable in taste and color, but also in appearance; and moreover, when thus sealed, they are warranted to keep in any climate, and when opened, will taste as natural as when just plucked from the vine."

—One morning after the campaign of Dresden, Napoleon observed Prince de Talleyrand at his levee, and bade him remain, as he wished to talk privately with him. After the company had gone, he went up to Talleyrand and he said, "What have you come here for? To show me your ingratitude? You give the public to believe that you belong to a party in opposition! You think, I dare say, that were I to die you would be President of the Council of Regency. Now, mark my words. Were I so much as dangerously ill, the first thing I should do would be to have you shot." Prince de Talleyrand, with the grace and quiet of a courtier who had just received new favors, bowed low and respectfully as he replied: "I did not require, Sire, such a warning, to address most fervent prayers to Heaven to vouchsafe health and long life to your Majesty."

PULL THE WEEDS.—Although the hoe and cultivator have done good work, there are still left in many places great numbers of weeds. The corn is now too tall for the working of the cultivator, and the potatoes are too far advanced. The growth of weeds at this season is perfectly astonishing; one can almost see them stretch out their stems and increase their foliage; the amount of nutrition they absorb is very great, and growing crops feel their presence sadly. Hand pulling is the only remedy, and this should be thoroughly done; persistent growers, such as parsley and witch grass, will even with this treatment throw up new shoots from the roots broken off from the plant and left in the soil. Every spare moment should be devoted to a war of extermination against these pests.—Mass. Ploughman.

TO DESTROY BED BUGS AND COCKROACHES.—Wet a piece of cotton cloth with kerosene oil, and rub it over where the bugs may be found. This is said to be a certain remedy.

Another remedy never fails. Take a teakettle full of scalding water, and pour it on where the bugs may be found. This will destroy the nits. It would avail but little to kill the bugs without the nits. Is it not marvelous that any woman should suffer such tormentors, even worse than mosquitoes, to live and multiply, when they can so easily be destroyed by hot water?

☞ About the coldest and most delicious water we ever tasted, is that from the spring on South Summer Street, not far from South street. Pure pump, and dipper there, under the willows, as well as the tub, are much patronized by visitors in that locality. The drought has not visibly shrunk the supply at all.

NO HUMBUG.—We do not wish to inform you, reader, that Dr. Wonderful, or any other man, has discovered a remedy that cures all diseases of mind, body or estate, and is designed to make our sublunary sphere a blissful Paradise, to which Heaven itself shall be but a side show, but we do wish to inform you that Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy has cured thousands of cases of catarrh in its worst forms and stages, and the proprietor will pay $500 for a case of this loathsome disease that he cannot cure. It may be procured by mail for sixty cents, by addressing R. V. Pierce, M.D., 1?3 Seneca street, Buffalo, N. Y. A pamphlet free. Sold by druggists. Look out for men representing themselves as Dr. Sage; Dr. Pierce, whose private Government Revenue Stamp is on every package of the Genuine, is the only man living who can manufacture the Original Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy. jy28TuThSa

SPECIAL NOTICES.

The Life Sustaining Principle.

The vital and the muscular systems are entirely distinct from each other. A man may have the brawn of a Hercules, but if he is deficient in vital energy he will not wear as well, be as long, or be as healthy and happy while he does last, as the man of ordinary, or even slender build, who possesses a larger share of this animating principle. One of the greatest recommendations of that pure vegetable invigorant, HOSTETTER'S STOMACH BITTERS, is that it increases the vital force of the system. No medicine can double the volume of a man's muscle, or thicken and vulcanize his thews and sinews; but Hostetter's Bitters has an effect much more important. Its use promotes constitutional vigor.

It reinforces the life-power, of which bone and nerve and muscle are merely the instruments, holding the same relation to it that machinery does to steam. Let the slight and apparently fragile take heart, they may have more stamina, though far less physical strength, than the broad shouldered athletes they regard with envy. To restore, to sustain, to increase this staminal principle, which, when in full supply, is the source of health and the best guarantee of longevity, is a special property of the famous restorative. It is not only a specific for dyspepsia, biliousness, intermittent fevers, constipation, &c., and a preventive of all diseases of a malarious character, but the best of all medicines for strengthening the constitution and awakening the powers of nature, from whatever cause they may have become lethargic. aug6dawlw

☞ FOR THIRTY YEARS! ☜

PERRY DAVIS' PAIN KILLER

This valuable Family Medicine has been widely and favorably known in our own and foreign countries, upwards of

THIRTY YEARS!

It has lost none of its good name by repeated trials, but continues to occupy a prominent position in every family medicine chest.

It is an External and Internal Remedy. For Summer Complaint, or any other form of bowel disease in children or adults, it is an almost certain cure, and has without doubt, been more successful in curing the various kinds of CHOLERA than any other known remedy, or the most skillful physician. In India, Africa and China, where this dreadful disease is more or less prevalent, the PAIN KILLER is considered by the natives, as well as European residents in those climates, a sure remedy; and while it is a most efficient remedy for pain, it is a perfectly safe medicine, even in unskillful hands. 1mdawjy8

New Advertisements to-day.

Moonlight Excursions—Steamer Appledore.
Domestic Wanted—Mrs. Lyman.
Notice—I. O. O. F.

THE MOONLIGHT EXCURSION of the Cornet Band in Steamer Appledore, Friday evening, was a grand success in numbers, sight-seeing, music and enjoyment generally.

☞ Boys fond of gunning, are warned that the law forbids the shooting of all the small birds, at any time of year. And gentlemen resident in the suburbs, should see to it that offenders are punished and the law enforced.

Communication.

Dear Chronicle:—Thanks for your answer to my question. I still defy Railroads, Breweries, City Government, Health Officers, Citizens, neighbors, and olfactory nerves generally. I am stronger than they all.

CESS POOL.

A LARGE EXCURSION PARTY from Dover visited the Shoals in steamer Favorite on Friday, the Dover Cornet Band being in attendance. The trip out and back was a very enjoyable one and the music was of the nice kind usually issued by the Dover Band. The Appledore also had a large crowd out and back.

THE ALLEGHANIANS offer an entertainment at the Temple this (Saturday) evening; and their reputation will be sufficient to fill the building, without a doubt. The names of the known and favorite artists are on their bills, and we need not say that the entertainment will be of their best order. Their advertisement may be seen in another column.

DIED, in this city, Thursday night, August 4th, Mr. JAMES H. EMERY, aged 31 years, 9 months, youngest son of Mr. Thatcher Emery. He volunteered during the rebellion, served in the Portsmouth Company of the N. H. 16th Regiment, under Capt. Thacher; and was a member of Storer Encampment, G. A. R., and Osgood Lodge I. O. of O. F., of this city.

IN THE ALDERMEN, Thursday Evening, the Joint Com. on City Lands and Buildings reported in favor of selling the 79 acres of land of City Farm, west of Creek Road, at auction, in lots of from 5 to 30 acres, the minimum prices to be $200 and $300 per acre. Laid on the table for one week.

Petition of L. C. Lydston, and others, for widening of Fleet Street between Hanover St. and Lydston's premises, was referred to Com. on Sts., to report.

In being reported that the Cutter heirs decline to accept the $300 for land and expenses to widen Congress St. at Middle,—it was voted to notify a legal hearing on the petition in the case.

Petition of Mrs. Sherburne, for Gas Light near High School, was referred to Com. on Gas Lights, to decide.

Mr. De Merritt, of School Committee, asked for repairs of school-houses in Ward One. Referred to Com. on School Houses, to decide.

Ald. Nowell introduced a resolution to reduce the Night Watch to 4 instead of 6, and urged the reduction on the score of economy. This, and another recommending that Officer Entwistle be appointed Captain of the Watch, was laid over for a week.

POLICE.—John Holland, for assaulting Mrs. Jarvis, on Bow Street, was arrested by City Marshal Johnson, Wednesday, and had to pay $11.90 fine and costs.

Officers Johnson and Mortimer arrested James Domerdy, drunk and helpless on Penhallow St., Wednesday. Discharged Thursday morning.

Officer Mortimer picked up two suspicious looking men on Congress St. about 2 o'clock Thursday morning, and locked them up. They gave their names as Alfred Knights and Jas. Doane, and were let out Friday morning.

"Major" Willis and Wm. Shaw were put out of the Franklin House for being drunk and ugly, Thursday evening. Officers Taylor and Rand attended to their wants, and lodged them in the lockup.

James Sherburne, for making a brawl and tumult on Water Street, and a fool of himself generally, Thursday evening, was locked up by Officers Barsantee and Stearns. Discharged.

Alfred Knights was picked up on Penhallow Street, speechless drunk, Thursday evening, by Officer Mortimer, who bagged him to the station.

The City Marshal and Officer Entwistle arrested James Domerdy Thursday evening; reason, he was helplessly drunk.

BASE BALL BASENESS.—We notice in the Dover Enquirer of a recent issue a very unfair statement regarding the base ball match which came off at South Berwick recently, between the Sawyer and Clipper clubs (of Dover and Lowell) and the Granite States of this city. The article is so far from the truth that we suspect the local editor of the Enquirer must have been imposed upon by some interested person not having any regard for the truth.

Some months since, the Granites had been to Dover to play with the Sawyers, who could not be found for hours after the arrival of the Portsmouth club. The rain stopped the play and then the hospitable Sawyers scattered for home. The Granites, on their return, resolved that they would teach them a lesson in civility. They invited the Sawyers to come to Portsmouth and received them with great attention, furnishing them a nice dinner at the National House, and transportation to the grounds, the Granite States winning the game by a score of 40 to 11. The visitors were taken around town and were well attended to during their stay, the Granite States going with them to the wharf and waving them adieux until they were out of sight.

Shortly afterwards, the Sawyers challenged any club in the State to play them for the championship, and although the Granites had no idea of claiming the championship, they accepted the challenge promptly, and the Sawyers squirmed about for three weeks before they would set a day or name a place to play. Finally, they offered to play at Great Falls or South Berwick, July 27, and the game came off at S.B. on the day named.

The game was commenced, the Granites noting that there were three strange players with the Sawyers. When protested against, the Sawyer players stated they were of the regular Sawyer nine. The score at the close was Sawyers 46, Granites 21. Now it turns out that those three players were and are three of the first nine of the well-known Clipper club of Lowell, Mass., and the challenge from the Sawyers was to play by the rules of the Massachusetts Association, which would prevent these three from playing in the game.

Two of these players, Conway and Whitney, were hired (paid cash) by the Sawyer club to play with them, and the third, (2d baseman,) came with them. So much for the Clippers; so much for honesty and truth telling among the Dover Sawyer base ball club.

The charge of incivility towards the Sawyers during their trip to Portsmouth is a false one; worthy of the ingrates who fed from the bounty the Granite States provided. The insinuation that the Portsmouth nine contained two "crack" Newburyport players is as absurd as untrue. There is no player in Newburyport who could take a position in the Granite State nine, and fill it more acceptably than any of the present nine. The nine players against the Clipper-Sawyer nine were every one Portsmouth boys and all members of the Granite State club. The boys are proud of their nine and they don't borrow or buy players from neighboring States or towns to do their playing. Whether they can play better in the field than on paper, is immaterial; they have played one game with the Dover Sawyers, and got away with them in a ratio of about four to one.

We notice too that some anonymous correspondent of the Boston Herald declares that the Sawyer club of Dover "can clean out the Granite States in one day's notice." Judging from their former action we should say that their cleaning out is confined principally to plates of food the Granites furnish.

The contrast between the courtesy extended to the Dover boys while here and the abuse and ficticuffs offered the Granite States at South Berwick, is sufficient to warn all base ball players not to imagine for an instant that in dealing with the Sawyers they are dealing with gentlemen. And we are of opinion that it will be a long day and several dark nights before a decent club will consent to play again with such boors as the Sawyers and their rowdy friends.

The greater part of the road is already completed, and the earnings from the finished portion are already more than sufficient to pay operating expenses and interest on the bonds. The balance of the work is progressing rapidly, in time for the movement of the coming grain crops, which, it is estimated will double the present income of the road.
The established character of this line, running as it does through the heart of the most thickly settled and richest portion of the great State of Iowa, together with its present advanced condition and large earnings warrant us in unhesitatingly recommending these bonds to investors, as, in every respect, an undoubted security.
These bonds have 20 years to run, are convertible at the option of the holder into the stock of the company at par, and the payment of the principal is provided for by a sinking fund. The convertibility privilege attached to these bonds cannot fail to cause them at no distant day to command a market price considerably above par, besides paying about 7 per cent., currency, interest in the meanwhile. U. S. Five-twenties, at present prices only return five per cent.; and we regard the security equally safe.

AYER'S
HAIR VIGOR,
For Restoring Gray Hair to its Natural Vitality and Color.
A Dressing which is at once agreeable, healthy, and effectual for Preserving the Hair. Faded or gray Hair is soon restored to its original color, with the gloss and freshness of youth. The hair is thickened, falling hair checked, and baldness often, though not always, cured by its use.
Nothing can restore the hair where the follicles are destroyed or the scalp otherwise disorganized. But such as remains can be saved for usefulness by this application. Instead of fouling the hair with a pasty sediment, it will keep it clean and vigorous. Its occasional use will prevent the hair from turning gray or falling off, and consequently prevent baldness. Free from those deleterious substances which make some preparations dangerous and injurious to the hair, the Vigor, can only benefit but not harm it.
If wanted merely for a HAIR DRESSING, nothing else can be so desirable. Containing neither oil nor dye, it does not soil white cambric, and yet lasts long on the hair, giving it a rich glossy lasting perfume.

RICHARDSON'S
LITTLE WASHER, unlike all others, light and portable, weighing only ten pounds, is sold for the small price of five dollars. Adjusts itself to any article from a Pocket handkerchief to a
LARGE BED SPREAD,
without alteration. Can be fitted to any tub, and removed at pleasure.
If you will use this little common sense washing machine, you will do the work of half a day in 2 hours.
RICHARDSON'S LITTLE WASHER does not tear or wear the clothes, no matter how fine the fabric. Clothes are straightened out, and passed back and forth, between the rollers till clean.
Remember and always have a good strong and hot suds.
Put your Pocket handkerchiefs, Cuffs, Collars, Napkins and Fringes into a sheet or Pillow slip and wash perfectly clean in from two to three minutes. We wash at one time, two or three sheets gathered at the hem, six Pillow slips, six Towels, two or three Cotton Shirts, one pair Heavy Pants or two pairs light ones, one heavy Spread or Blanket, always putting the smaller things inside something larger or longer.
Wherever this Little Washer has been introduced the sale has been unprecedented, having sold upwards of three hundred in Dover, N. H., in less than two months; two thirds of the purchasers had been using large awkward machines costing from five to eighteen dollars; all a failure, one great complaint being that they are heavy and no woman can work them.
Richardson's has taken a Silver Medal in Springfield, Mass., at Mechanic's Fair in 1868, and other places where exhibited.
A Lady who had been washed for three years, told her neighbors she did her washing, with that Little Washer, with ease, consequently they ordered one, and the question all over town is, have you got a RICHARDSON'S LITTLE WASHER?

Morning Chronicle.

EARLY PORTSMOUTH PRINTERS.

AN ADDRESS DELIVERED BY T. H. MILLER,

At the N. H. Editors' Convention at Plymouth, July 15th, 1869.

Concluded from Yesterday.

At a time, many years after he had done with his Gazette, and with the store he kept afterwards, he had a small distillery in the rear of his dwelling, where he made cordials, which he sold to the retailers, and made large profits. One day as he was near my stand in the little office which he owned and let out, a gentleman inquired if he had any cordial for sale? No! was the answer. Are you going to make any soon? No, sir; never, any more. Why not? Because I perceived three or four of my friends, particularly my cousin ———, as they visit my place, are doing injury to themselves by it, and I am not willing to be the instrument of injuring them or others; therefore I make no more. Here was a man who drank a little spirit himself, who made no pretension to be a reformer, and who had probably never heard of a temperance society; dropping a lucrative trade because he deemed it injurious, so silently that no one knew it in the streets, and I know it only by accident. If this did not show a sound principle and a good conscience, I am no judge of ethics or character.

Mr. Melcher was not a busy nor a noisy politician, but he was a decided Federalist. He supported the administration of Washington and Adams in his paper, and no doubt voted for Adams in 1800, when he was not elected. But Mr. Jefferson came into power, with a Republican Congress, in 1801; and a paper called the Republican Ledger was begun by Geo. Jerry Osborn, in 1799 (really owned by some leading Republicans of Portsmouth). Besides this, Charles Peirce had commenced the Portsmouth Oracle (a Federal paper), in 1793. As a prudential matter, therefore, Mr. Melcher sold the Gazette, and printing materials partly sufficient to print it with, to N. S. & W. Peirce, who made it a Republican paper, supporting Mr. Jefferson's administration.

Mr. Melcher's habits were regular, even exact; his constitution was excellent; his life active, but not too laborious; his manner of living abstemious rather than luxurious; his pecuniary circumstances easy; and he lived in prime health and spirits up to his ninetieth year. Completing that, he died, nineteen years since (June 9, 1850), and sleeps with his fathers.

Let us look over the list of these ancient printers, to see if they were short lived. Fowle lived to be 68, probably 70, working about 50 years; Prime to be over 90, working more than 50 years; Melcher to be 90, working 25 or 30 years; Whidden to be 70, working 55 years; my own age 68, working 55 years.

Another very successful printer in Portsmouth, whom I knew very well, was Charles Peirce. He was a native of Kittery, a son of Dr. Daniel Peirce, and an apprentice to John Melcher, whose service he left and went to Philadelphia, from which place he sent back the prospectus of a Federal paper called the Oracle of the Day, for which Deacon Brown gathered a list of ninety subscribers. With this list he began to publish the paper, in 1795, but gained rapidly, as he was fond of writing; attended to a great variety of little matters, and made good selections of matter from papers and books, and in a very few years he became an extensive and eminent book-seller, and a considerable publisher of books. Among his publications, was a volume called Cases of Conscience, and another called the Arts and Sciences, of which he was the compiler, and which was a good school book. He had, for years, one of the most complete assortments of books of all kinds to be found on this side the Atlantic; and they were arrayed in a brick store with open gallery, so as to show rows of books fourteen or fifteen feet in height. It was his rule, when any book not on his shelves was enquired for, to send for two copies of it, and if it could be found, sell one to the customer, and put the other on his shelves. He, like other book-sellers of that day, sold lottery tickets, playing cards, and patent medicines, which last at that period, apothecaries generally did not sell.

In 1801, Mr. Peirce sold the Oracle newspaper and printing office to Wm. Treadwell, and the paper was, after passing through other hands, called the Portsmouth Journal, by N. A. Haven, jr., Esq., who became the editor in 1821, and gave it a new and more literary character; but when, in 1825, he passed it over to Miller & Brewster, he said I have made it less and less what I first intended, — but more and more like other papers, — and nearer what the public demands. Mr. Peirce continued his bookselling, for which he was admirably fitted, made a handsome property, retired to Germantown, Penn., and died September 21, 1851, aged eighty-one.

Wm. Treadwell (and Brother) while owning the Oracle, published several works; among them, a heavy edition of Rollin's Ancient History, in 8 vols. Charles Tappan, at a later date published some books; so did Gray & Childs, T. H. Miller, and C. W. Brewster; but book publishing, except something local, has nearly disappeared from Portsmouth; yet the place has not become less literary, but much more so. But business of all kinds has changed, and this with the rest.

We have given sketches of two or three successful men; and of two old papers, that have lived, for this country, a long life. But neither of these papers ever enjoyed a long monopoly of support, even from one party. Before the year 1800, eight different papers competed with the Gazette; since that time, at least twenty of all sorts, have begun and ended. So of the men; besides the three mentioned, there have been a few others, successful in a pecuniary sense; among them the late Mr. C. W. Brewster, whose long and useful service is known to you all, and whose death you noticed with such respect at your last meeting; but the large majority were not successful. It must not, however, be concluded, that these last did not add to the stock of knowledge, for some of them were very fine story writers and able men. But it is no less true now than it was in Solomon's day,—that the race is not (always or uniformly) to the swift,—nor the battle to the strong,—neither yet bread to the wise,—nor yet riches to men of understanding,—nor yet favor to men of skill,—but time and chance happeneth to them all!

Our own Ben: Franklin puts the same thought in another shape. After advising a young mechanic to exercise industry, economy, and fidelity, he declares that this course of life will ensure wealth, or at least competence, "unless the Almighty Disposer of events should otherwise determine." He leaves the matter where we also have to leave it, in the Divine Providential hand.

The Oracle and Journal throughout have had able writers. The Gazette, from the time Mr. Wm. Weeks took it in 1805, always had active writers, and not a few quite able; and it passed through many hands, till it fell into ours, at the beginning of the rebellion. There have generally been three weekly papers in Portsmouth for the last eighty years; there are now three, and two dailies.

Knowledge has undoubtedly increased; so perhaps has wisdom; but this is not certain. I hope, and believe, however, we have not fallen off either in wisdom or virtue, but on the contrary, gained; and it is my wish and prayer that we may all continue to become wiser and better, and, finishing up our course on earth with joy, enter some of those many mansions of the Heavenly state, where is fulness of joy, and be seated at the right hand of the Father, where are pleasures evermore.

TOP-DRESSING MEADOWS.—An agricultural correspondent, Mr. D. R. Sperry, of the Chicago Tribune, says:

"The best time to top-dress the meadow (upland mowing) is immediately after the crop of hay is taken off, more especially in a dry season like the present. But then we do not always know the time to do the work. In that case the winter will answer a good purpose. Last winter I top-dressed several acres, hauling out the manure from the stable once or twice a week. The result is two or two and a half tons of hay to the acre, against less than half that amount on that not thus treated. Then again, the hay is early, the last going into the barn and stack yesterday. I shall expect a heavy after-math for soiling during October and November. Ten acres of meadow top dressing will turn more hay than twenty without it. Will owners of small farms please make a note of this?"

LEMONADE.—Those who live where fresh lemons cannot be obtained whenever wanted, will find a very nice substitute for lemonade can be made by dissolving a small portion of citric acid in water, flavored with good essence of lemon, and sweetened to taste. A quarter of a pound will make gallons of lemonade, and is much preferable to tartaric acid, being made from lemons themselves. It will also take the place of lemon juice in making lemon pies.

"I have no hesitation in assuring inventors that they cannot employ a man more competent and trustworthy and more capable of putting their applications in a form to secure for them an early and favorable consideration at the Patent Office. EDMUND BURKE, Late Commissioner of Patents.

"MR. R. H. EDDY has made for me THIRTEEN applications, in all but ONE of which patents have been granted, and that one is now pending. Such unmistakable proof of great talent and ability on his part leads me to recommend ALL inventors to apply to him to procure their Patents, as they may be sure of having the claims fairly and ably bestowed on their cases, and at very reasonable charges. JOHN TAGHART."

AYER'S CATHARTIC PILLS,

FOR ALL PURPOSES of a LAXATIVE MEDICINE,

Perhaps no one medicine is so universally required by everybody as a cathartic, nor was ever any before so universally adopted into use, in every country and among all classes, as this mild but efficient purgative PILL. The obvious reason is that it is a more reliable and far more effectual remedy than any other. Those who have tried it, know that it cures them; those who have not, know that it cures their neighbors and friends and kindred; and that what it does, it does in ways—that it never fails through any fault or neglect of its composition. We have thousands upon thousands of cases of its cures, but such cures of the following complaints, but such cures are known in every neighborhood; and we need not publish them. Adapted to all ages and conditions in all climates, containing neither calomel or any deleterious drug, they may be taken with safety by anybody. Their sugar coating preserves them ever perfect and makes them pleasant to take, while being purely vegetable no harm can arise from their use in any quantity.

They operate by their powerful influence on the internal viscera to purify the blood and stimulate it into healthy action—remove the obstructions of the stomach, bowels, liver, and other organs of the body, restoring their irregular action to health, and by correcting, wherever they exist, such derangements as are the first origin of disease.

Minute directions are given in the wrapper on the box, for the following complaints, which these PILLS rapidly cure:—

For Dyspepsia or Indigestion, Listlessness, Languor and Loss of Appetite, they should be taken moderately to stimulate the stomach and restore its healthy tone and action.

For Liver Complaint and Dyspepsia symptoms, Bilious Headache, Sick Headache, Jaundice or Green Sickness, Bilious Colic and Bilious Fevers, the effect should be judiciously taken for each case, to correct the diseased action or remove the obstructions which cause it.

For Dysentery or Diarrhœa, but one mild dose is generally required.

For Rheumatism, Gout, Gravel, Palpitation of the Heart, Pain in the Side, Back and Loins, they should be continuously taken, as required, to keep the blood and system of the system. With such change those complaints disappear.

For Dropsy and Dropical Swellings, they should be taken in large and frequent doses to produce the effect of a drastic purge.

For Suppression a large dose should be taken, as it produces the effect by sympathy.

As a DINNER PILL, take one or two PILLS to promote digestion and relieve the stomach.

An occasional dose stimulates the stomach and bowels into healthy action, restores the appetite, and invigorates the system. Hence it is often adgacious where no ill-turn is felt to require it. One who feels tolerably well, often finds that a dose of these PILLS makes him feel decidedly better, from their stimulating and renovating effect on the digestive apparatus.

WHAT SHALL I WRITE?

Affectionately inscribed to Mrs. F. M. H., Boston.

Dear L.—When I would write to thee,
Which gives me much delight,
What shall my theme—my subject be,
Mirthful, sublime, or trite?
Shall I the numerous forms of art,
The finite works of man,
Invention shown in every part,
In vain attempt to scan?

Or ocean's dark and briny wave,
Unmessured tho' it be,
Rich treasures of the mighty deep—
Expansive mystery;
The river with its flowing tide
'Twcen sloping banks of green,
Where little boats secure may glide,
Nor billows rude are seen.

How like our famed Piscataqua,
Where we in summer heat,
Beneath those overhanging trees,
Enjoyed a cool retreat.
How quiet is that rustic place,
So changed since days of yore,
When clattering hoofs with eager pace
Sped o'er the bridge it bore.

Still beauteous are the scenes around,
Far as the eye can see;
I love to walk such hallowed ground,
'Tis ever blest to me.
We thought of Him in converse sweet,
His bliss without alloy,
Who gilds the pathway for our feet,
With his divinest joy.

Each blade of grass, each tiny flower,
Unlike in hue or size,
Bespeak the wisdom and the power
Of Him who rules the skies.
All Nature with her works satir
Upon this earthly clod—
How can a mortal e'er aver
Or feel there is no God?

O! love divine, O! potent power,
To Thee our hearts incline,
And may we, till life's latest hour,
Feel we are wholly thine.

DEATH BY ANGER.—In the year 375, Valentinian, Emperor of Rome, was visited by the representatives of a people with which he was at war, but he was not disposed to show them clemency or compassion. He possessed a violent temper to which he was accustomed to give unbridled rein. He began to revile them in very overbearing language. His eyes, voice, color and gestures expressed his ungoverned fury. And while his whole frame was agitated with convulsive passion, a blood vessel burst, and in agony the Emperor breathed his last.

In 1572 the Sultan of Turkey came with an army to Germany. His name was Salyman. He invested a town which held out bravely. The Sultan became so exasperated that he died from the intensity of his rage. Many forms of death are disgraceful, but not many so foolishly disgraceful as dying of anger. J.

—The Detriot Tribune says that a resident of that city, who lives on a fashionable thoroughfare, observed a man whom he did not care to see coming toward his door, and hurriedly instructed Bridget to tell the person he was not at home. "All right, sir," said Bridget, as she made haste to answer the door-bell. "Is Mr. S—— at home?" inquired the caller. "Faith an' he's gone out," responded the obedient servant. "When will he be at home?" asked the man at the door. "Hould on a minnit," put in Bridget, "an' I'll ax him!"

— Wife was undressing little four year old Charley the other evening. He silently felt of his chubby arms a little while, and then looking up into his mother's face, he said: "Mamma, who made me?" "The good man up in the sky," answered mamma. Charley turned a steady, sober, searching look through the tree tops into the clear, beautiful, star-lit sky for a moment, and then instantly capped the climax with the important question; "But, mamma, who took me down?"

— A dignified and consequential officer of the Marine Corps was passing up Fulton street, when he was accosted by a brother officer, who, touching him familiarly on the shoulder, said, "Well, Broom, how are you?" "Excuse me," was the haughty reply, "I wish you would remember that there is a handle to my name." "Oh—certainly. How are you, broom handle?"

—Fontenelle, when he was at the age of ninety, passed Madame Helvetius, whom he did not see, without saluting her. "How little I ought to believe your compliments," said the lady to him, after dinner; "you actually passed me without looking at me.' 'Madame, replied the antiquated beau, 'if I looked at you, I never should have passed.'"

—A sick man was told that nothing would cure him but a quart of catnip tea. "Then I must die," said he, "for I don't hold but a pint."

—The sparrows are so thick and bothersome in Germany, that the boys get a penny for killing six of them.

—An English paper speaks of the mitrailleuse as a "bullet pump."

H. T. HELMBOLD'S
CONCENTRATED
FLUID EXTRACT BUCHU,
THE GREAT DIURETIC.

The proprietor trusts that his Remedies, from the fact of their being advertised, may not be classed as Patent Medicines.

HELMBOLD'S FLUID EXTRACT BUCHU

is a pharmaceutical preparation. The proper name is given, and it is the most active which can be made. It is endorsed as a cure by all medical works for such diseases as recommended by the proprietor. It is pleasant in its taste and odor, free from all injurious properties, and is taken by adults and children. It is tonic, diuretic, blood-purifying, and invigorating. Enfeebled and delicate constitutions of both sexes will find it far more strengthening than any of the preparations of bark or iron.

See medical properties contained in Dispensatory of the United States, of which the following is a correct copy:—

BUCHU.—Its odor is strong, diffusive, and somewhat aromatic; its taste is bitterish, and analogous to that of mint. It is given chiefly in complaints of the urinary organs, such as gravel, chronic catarrh of the bladder, mucoid irritation of the prostate gland, and retention or the incontinence of urine, from a loss of tone in the parts concerned in its evacuation. It has also been recommended in dyspepsia, chronic rheumatism, cutaneous affections, and dropsy.

Cure of Gravel of Five Years Standing. Stone Passed and to be Seen.

SAVANNAH, TENN., May 14, 1869.

Dr. H. T. Heimbold,

DEAR SIR: We introduced your "Fluid Extract Buchu" in this county about eight months ago, and are happy to state that it is meeting with universal favor. We wish to inform you of one instance (among many) where your "Buchu" has wrought wonders. A man in our county, named J. B. Estell, had been suffering about five years with gravel.

About six weeks ago he bought of us one bottle of your "Buchu," and before he was through with one bottle he passed a gravel that weighs eight grains, which now lies on exhibition in our drug store. He says that he will never be without the "Buchu" in his house again. Your preparations are gaining favor every day.

Very respectfully yours, &c.,
ECCLES & HINKLE, Druggists.

Cure of Bladder and Kidney Affection of long Standing. Stone Passed and to be Seen.

WESTPORT, CONN., Sept. 9, 1869.

H. T. Helmbold, Esq.,

DEAR SIR: I commenced taking your "Extract of Buchu" about two weeks since for an affection of the bladder and kidneys. I have suffered by spells very much for a few days past. But yesterday relief came through the effect of your "Buchu." A stone passed from my bladder about the size of a large pea, and I now feel perfectly well and entirely free from the pain that I have suffered with "so hard." I attribute my cure to your medicine entirely, and would recommend all persons similarly affected to try it. I have great faith in its curative powers.

Yours truly, THOMAS J. BENNETT.

Cure of Kidney and Bladder Affection of a Patient Seventy-eight years of Age. Thanks to Mr. Helmbold.

GIRARD, PA., March 31, 1869.

Editor Cosmopolite: I desire, as an unsolicited tribute to the merits of Helmbold's Buchu, and for the benefit of those similarly afflicted as myself, to say that after consulting many eminent physicians, and trying nearly all the best advertised Remedies, in the vain hope of finding relief from aggravated kidney and bladder diseases, from which I have suffered excessively for many years, good fortune finally suggested to me Helmbold's Buchu, which I commenced using with little faith, and no apparent beneficial results for about a month.

At the expiration of that time, however, I thought I commenced to experience slight relief, which encouraged me to persevere in its use, and now, at the expiration of two months, though I am an infirm old man, nearly 78 years of age, and consequently medicines seldom be expected to favorably affect me as they otherwise would, I have found such unspeakable relief and permanent benefit from Mr. Helmbold's valuable discovery, that I feel I ought to publicly record the fact, as an acknowledgment to him, and a valuable suggestion to the public. Yours respectfully,

D. M. LAREN.

DR. KEYSER

is a physician of over thirty years' experience, and a graduate of the Jefferson Medical College, and of the University of Medicine and Surgery of Philadelphia. Hear him:

Mr. H. T. Helmbold.

DEAR SIR: In regard to the question asked me as to my opinion about Buchu, I would say that I have used it and sold the article in various forms for the past thirty years. I do not think there is any form or preparation of it I have not used, or known to be used, in the various diseases where such medicate agent would be indicated. You are aware, as well as myself, that it has been extensively employed in the various diseases of the bladder and kidneys, and the reputation it has acquired, in my judgment, is warranted by the facts.

I have seen and used, as before stated, every form of Buchu—the powdered leaves—tincture, fluid extracts—and I am not cognizant of any preparation of that plant at all equal to yours. Twelve years' experience ought, I think, to give me the right to judge of its merits; and, without prejudice or partiality, I give yours precedence over all others.

I value your Buchu for its effect on patients. I have cured with it, and seen cured with it, more diseases of the bladder and kidneys than I have ever seen cured with any other Buchu or any other proprietary compound of whatever name.

Respectfully yours, &c.,
GEO. H. KEYSER, M. D.,

GREAT SALT LAKE CITY, UTAH, Jan. 28, 1868.

Mr. H. T. Helmbold,

DEAR SIR: Your communication requesting our terms for advertising was duly received, but from a prejudice I had formed against advertising "cures for secret diseases," it was left unanswered. During an accidental conversation in a drug store the other evening, my mind was changed on the character of your Buchu. It was then highly commended for other diseases by two physicians present. Incensed please find our rates of advertising. Yours, T. B. H. STENHOUSE,

HELMBOLD'S BUCHU.
TESTIMONIALS.

A Permanent Cure of Gravel of twelve Years' Standing. Stone Passed and to be Seen.

BURNSIDE, CONN., Dec. 15, 1869.

Dr. Helmbold,

DEAR SIR: It is with much pleasure that I write you upon facts respecting myself. I do not know hardly how to express myself. I have been for the last ten or twelve years the greatest sufferer man could be and live; but more sometimes than others. The complaint was the "Kidneys" and "Bladder." I have been sometimes from twelve to fourteen hours, and wanted to make water every minute, but could not. Have consulted doctors, both in Massachusetts and this State, and been piled up, I may say by the quart, at so liquored medicines, but found no relief from any, and got worse the last six months. I was so that I could scarcely get about, I could not rest night or day.

It would soon have been "all up" with me if I had not seen your advertisement headed "Kidneys." I read it through and thought I would try it. I purchased a bottle, but, mind you, had not much faith in it. Why should I, when I had been trying so many things that cost me much? Well, I begun the pills, I may say by the quart, at so liquored medicines, but found no relief from any, and got worse the last six months. I was so that I could scarcely get about, I could not rest night or day.

I was so that I could scarcely get about, I could not rest night or day.

On Sunday I was unable to go to church. I had not taken any of his medicine, but on my return continued using the "Buchu," and in the afternoon I had a stone in the water, but could not. About one hour after this I tried again, with the same result; but the next time I took the vessel I was then standing a tumbler, and stopping it off again. It was so for three times, and the third time there was something came through the passage and struck against the side of the vessel. I examined it, and it is the ugliest stone or gravel you ever saw, covered over with little spices which collected together. It looks the color of a shell marble, and is as hard as flint. So you see the "Buchu" was doing its work, although I was feeling so badly. I prepared another bottle, thinking there might be some more behind; but since that has passed, which is eight weeks ago last Sunday, I have been as well as ever I was in my life. The stone I have carefully wrapped, and those who have seen it in this place are surprised.

I cannot tell you all, but this is a true story of my case, and you are welcome to make such use of my name as you think proper. I am pretty well known in Berkshire; also in Connecticut. The advertisement saved me. Why not publish more? If any other sufferer sees this worn out, he can do so. I could write all day, but I think I have said enough this time; so I remain your ever well-wisher, ESTEL D. HOWARD,

(Home and School for the Sons of Deceased Soldiers.)

Dr. H. T. Helmbold,

Two bottles only of the package of your valuable Buchu presented to the Institute have been used by the children, and with perfect success. In the case of our little lieutenant, A. J., his pride is no longer mortified, and he is free from the daily morning anathemas of the chamber-maid who has charge of his bedding.

I feel that a knowledge of the result of our use of your Buchu with the children under our charge may save many a Superintendent and Matron of Boarding Schools and Asylums a great amount of annoyance; and many a poor child suffering more from Weakness than from habit, may be for the benefit of the small city afflicted as myself, to say that after consulting many eminent physicians, and trying nearly all the best advertised Remedies, in the vain hope of finding relief from aggravated kidney and bladder diseases, from which I have suffered excessively for many years, good fortune finally suggested to me Helmbold's Buchu, which I commenced using with little faith, and no apparent beneficial results for about a month.

At the expiration of that time, however, I thought I commenced to experience slight relief, which encouraged me to persevere in its use, and now, at the expiration of two months, though I am an infirm old man, nearly 78 years of age, and consequently medicines seldom be expected to favorably affect me as they otherwise would, I have found such unspeakable relief and permanent benefit from Mr. Helmbold's valuable discovery, that I feel I ought to publicly record the fact, as an acknowledgment to him, and a valuable suggestion to the public. Yours respectfully,

D. M. LAREN.

Mr. H. T. Helmbold.

DEAR SIR: In regard to the question asked me as to my opinion about Buchu, I would say that I have used it and sold the article in various forms for the past thirty years. I do not think there is any form or preparation of it I have not used, or known to be used, in the various diseases where such medicate agent would be indicated. You are aware, as well as myself, that it has been extensively employed in the various diseases of the bladder and kidneys, and the reputation it has acquired, in my judgment, is warranted by the facts.

I have seen and used, as before stated, every form of Buchu—the powdered leaves—tincture, fluid extracts—and I am not cognizant of any preparation of that plant at all equal to yours. Twelve years' experience ought, I think, to give me the right to judge of its merits; and, without prejudice or partiality, I give yours precedence over all others.

I value your Buchu for its effect on patients. I have cured with it, and seen cured with it, more diseases of the bladder and kidneys than I have ever seen cured with any other Buchu or any other proprietary compound of whatever name.

Respectfully yours, &c.,

DEAR SIR: Your communication requesting our terms for advertising was duly received, but from a prejudice I had formed against advertising "cures for secret diseases," it was left unanswered. During an accidental conversation in a drug store the other evening, my mind was changed on the character of your Buchu. It was then highly commended for other diseases by two physicians present. MONDAY, AUGUST 8, 1870.

A GREAT BATTLE FOUGHT.—By the courtesy of Mr. E. O. Cole of the Western Union Telegraph we have received the following:—

LONDON, Aug. 6, 9 P. M.

A Berlin dispatch says that Prince Frederick William telegraphs as follows from the field of battle near Worth—"A victorious battle has been fought near Worth. McMahon was totally beaten by the larger portion of my command. The French retired upon Bitz. Sgd. Frederick William, Prince Royal.

J. F. Brown, operator at Newburyport, telegraphs that a dispatch from Worth, Sunday, at 4.30 P. M., says the French were badly beaten and that the pursuers captured 4000 prisoners.

THE EUROPEAN WAR. — The report that Saarlouis had been taken by the French after a brilliant engagement proves unfounded.

At Wissenbourg, the French General Douay, previously reported dead, was killed; 18 officers and 800 French troops were captured.

The fight at Saarbrucken, Wednesday, lasted six hours, and on both sides 600 men were placed hors du combat. The French made some prisoners, but captured no cannon. They lost 40 killed and 60 wounded. The French force in the battle is estimated at 30,000 men, and the Prussians at only 6000. The artillery won the fight; there was little infantry and no cavalry engaged.

It is understood that England has determined to make the invasion of Belgium a casus belli.

The mission of the Duke de Codare to Copenhagen to induce Denmark to form an alliance with France has failed.

There has been no collision at sea between France and Prussia thus far.

The French say that the Prussian needle-gun recoils so badly that marksmen are soon compelled to fire from the left shoulder.

The French also say that the Prussian cavalry carry the old horse-pistols, while the French have carbines of long range and admitting of aim.

Austria and Italy formed an alliance favorable to France.

Inspector Brennan, of the London Police, who has been away from his station on leave, has been captured by the Prussians and shot as a spy.

A despatch from Constantinople reports that the new French minister was warmly received by the Sultan, who expressed strong sympathy with France in the war. The Sultan has ordered a supply of Gatling's American revolving cannon.

The Presse judges from the movements now making by the enemy's troops, that Belgium territory will be violated by Prussia.

The Emperor has authorized English, American and Austrian pysicians to enter the military hospital service.

McMahon's corps has occupied a strong position on the Bavarian frontier.

The army of Baden, Friday, passed the French frontier, and advanced to Lauterburg, where it established headquarters.

The French loss at Neukirchen was three killed and one wounded.

La Liberte says that McMahon moved Friday toward Weissenbourg, that he was but two hours' march from that point, and his men marched at a quick step. He had between 60,000 and 70,000 men. It publishes a private dispatch, sent at midnight from Strasburg, reporting that McMahon beat the Prussians Friday evening and the latter evacuated Wissenbourg.

The loss of the Prussians in the recent engagement reached 10,500 in killed, wounded and prisoners. The French forces defending the town were but 8000 or 10,000 men, while the attacking force numbered fully 40,000. The enemy was so severely crippled that he could not follow the French when they retired.

Fighting is constantly taking place along the lines of both armies from Treves on the north to Lauterburg on the south, describing a line of battle one hundred miles in length.

☞ The Funeral Services of the late James H. Emery were attended on Sunday by Storer Encampment, G. A. R., and Osgood Lodge, I. O. O. F., of which the deceased was a member. The Cornet Band played some of its most plaintive dirges.

☞ An excursion party of 300 visited this city from Dover in Steamer Favorite, and a party of 500 leather jewellers from Lynn did likewise in Steamer C. M. Coit, on Sunday. Some of the excursionists made considerable uproar during their stay.

THE WRETCH.—An Indianian cut off the ears of 21 horses one night recently.

THE QUILL DRIVERS AT RYE BEACH. Among the journalists present at the Editorial Convention, were many of world-wide reputation. One was Thomas W. Knox, now of the New York Sun, and a prominent newspaper and magazine writer—whose sister is the wife of Rev. Mr. Chapman of Boston, who also spends the summer at his farm in Greenland. Mr. Knox has in press a book entitled "A Trip Around the World," which must have an extensive sale. His letters to the N. Y. Herald and Harper's Magazine, during his journey, were exceedingly interesting, and place him in the front rank as correspondent. Mr. Knox has also spent a few days at Appledore, and declares that he has seen nothing equal to the Shoals in all his travels—out to sea, and on land.

Another celebrity present was Charles Carleton Coffin, of Boscawen, ("Carleton" of the Boston Journal), who, with his wife, is spending a few weeks at the sea-shore.

John Calligan Moore, also, who has written a vast amount of matter for the press during the past twenty-five years, having been connected with the N. H. Patriot, Boston Post, Boston Journal, and now editor of the Boston Daily Times. He was the author of "Ye Scheepe Thiefe," which we always thought a very stupid poem, though Mr. Moore is by no means a stupid man.

"Perley," of the Boston Journal, was also there, as large as life,—and we don't know of a bigger fellow — and many other notables.

Correspondence of the Chronicle and Gazette.

KITTERY, ME., Aug. 6.

We had a careless-use-of-firearms accident here Friday. Warren Graves, in attempting to shoot a cat, sent a charge of small shot in the direction of Irving Peckham, who was about a rod and a half distant. One shot went into young Peckham's cheek, a little below the eye, some in by the knee, and some near the ankle. (That charge scattered some.) None of the shot have been extracted, and the boy is quite lame, but it is hoped that nothing very serious will result. It is strange that parents will allow their children to endanger themselves and others by fooling with firearms. The boys are 12 or 13 years old.

The lightning Thursday afternoon struck the dock at the Navy Yard, but did only slight damage; it was not discovered till Friday afternoon. Hailstones nearly an inch in length fell here during the shower; the ground was wet down about four inches.

Scientific men here think the rain was caused by the evaporation of the tears shed by the French army, at the young Prince's tranquility, shown under the first fire. If they have occasion to shed more tears, over a defeat or rout, we may possibly get another shower.

Yours, K. M.

NORTH CAROLINA ELECTION. — The conservatives have carried the legislature, and have gained a congressman in Rockingham district. The conservative majority is the legislature secures a democratic United States Senator in the place of Abbott. The following is the probable result for Congress: First district, Cobb (rep.); second district, 41st Congress, Thomas (rep.); the third is uncertain, with indications in favor of Waddell (dem.); fourth, 41st Congress, Gilliam (dem.); 42d Congress, Rogers (dem); fifth, uncertain, with chances in favor of Scott (rep.); sixth, Shober (dem.); seventh, Harper, (dem.). Shipp, the democratic candidate for Attorney General, is probably elected.

BERWICK.—We are happy to learn that the Parish and Town Records of Berwick, Me., extending from 1701 to 1750, are to be published. This will be an important contribution to the History of this section of the country. Ex-Gov. Goodwin, of N. H., a native of North Berwick, has subscribed one hundred dollars towards this enterprise. All those who desire to subscribe for the Volume, can do so by calling on Nathaniel Hobbs, Esq., of North Berwick, or writing to Capt. W. F. Goodwin, U. S. A., Concord, N. H., who has undertaken the work. — Gt. Falls Jour.

☞ A singular case occurred at Fryeburg, Me., a few days since. Two cows came together on the banks of the Saco river, and hooked and pushed and twisted until they got their horns locked, when one of them went over the bank and broke her neck, and of course dragged the other too, both going into the water, the living one only to be held down by the dead one till drowned.

FOR THE LADIES.—The Springfield Republican, in commenting upon the use of jute "switches" and chignons, which contain minute insects, says that in that city "several women lie in danger of death from these loathsome insects, and the disease in its lesser forms is quite frequent."

TRY IT.—"To obtain a good night's sleep, sponge the entire length of the spine in hot water for ten or fifteen minutes. This will reduce the circulation, quiet the nervous system, and induce sleep better than any drug."

☞ A Mrs. Williams, at the South End, was tired of life and swallowed more than an ounce of laudanum on Saturday. City Physician Dearborn administered antidotes and Mrs. W. felt better afterwards.

☞ The ship Levanter, Capt. Burrows, which sailed from London June 22 for Boston, was destroyed by fire on the 26th of July when near the Grand Banks.

TENNESSEE ELECTION.—The democrats have probably carried the western and central departments, and the republicans the eastern.

—A shrewd observer once remarked as he sat in the gallery of the United States Senate: "Here I am, looking down upon sixty candidates for the Presidency."

—A man down in Maine says if he builds a house he will have foldingdoors, "they're so handy in case of a funeral."

IF IT IS THROWN IN YOUR TEETH—That you do not keep your dental apparatus in proper trim, it is your own fault, for all the world knows that you might do so by using the matchless vegetable dentrifice SOZODONT.

"SPALDING'S GLUE," Cheap, Convenient and Useful. Mends everything.

TO CURE A COUGH, to relieve all irritations of the throat, to restore to perfect soundness and health the most delicate organization of the human frame—the Lungs,—use Dr. Wistar's Balsam of Wild Cherry, which is still prepared with the same care in the selection and compounding of its various ingredients as when it was introduced to the public by Dr. Wistar over forty years since.

SPECIAL NOTICES.

The Life Sustaining Principle.

The vital and the muscular systems are entirely distinct from each other. A man may have the brawn of a Hercules, but if he is deficient in vital energy he will not wear as well, or last as long, or be as healthy and happy while he does last, as the man of ordinary, or even slender build, who possesses a larger share of this animating principle. One of the greatest recommendations of that pure vegetable invigorant, HOSTETTER'S STOMACH BITTERS, is that it increases the vital force of the system. No medicine can double the volume of a man's muscle, or thicken and vulcanize his thews and sinews; but Hostetter's Bitters has an effect much more important. It its premature decrepitude vigor.

It reinforces the life-power, of which bone and sinew and muscle are merely the instruments, holding the same relation to it that machinery does to steam. Let the slight and apparently fragile take heart, they may have more stamina, though far less physical strength, than the broad shouldered athletes they regard with envy. To restore, to sustain, to increase this staminal principle which, when in full supply, is the source of health and the best guarantee of longevity, is a special property of the famous restorative. It is not only a specific for dyspepsia, biliousness, intermittent fevers, constipation, &c., and a preventive of all diseases of a malarious character, but the best of all medicines for strengthening the constitution and awakening the powers of nature, from whatever cause they may have become lethargic. aus6awlw

PAIN KILLER.

Perry Davis & Son, Proprietors, 1840. PROVIDENCE, R. I. 1870.

Time tests the Merits of all Things.

☞ FOR THIRTY YEARS! ☜

PERRY DAVIS' PAIN KILLER

This valuable Family Medicine has been widely and favorably known in our own and foreign countries, upwards of

THIRTY YEARS!

It has lost none of its good name by repeated trials, but continues to occupy a prominent position in every family medicine chest.

It is an External and Internal Remedy. For Summer Complaint, or any other form of bowel disease in children or adults, it is an almost certain cure, and has without count, been more successful in curing the various kinds of CHOLERA than any other known remedy, or the most skillful physician. In India, Africa and China, where this dreadful disease is more or less prevalent, the PAIN KILLER is considered by the natives, as well as European residents in those climates, a sure remedy; and while it is a most efficient remedy for pain, it is a perfectly safe medicine, even in unskillful hands. 1mdawjy8

LOCAL AFFAIRS.

New Advertisements to-day.

Notice—Michael McCarthy.
Annual Meeting—Portsmouth Savings Bank.
General Order—Governor of New Hampshire.
Mutual Life Insurance Company.

☞ Street Sprinkling is good economy, both in saving streets as well as houses and stores. Very dry roads wear out and blow away very fast.

☞ The Appledore goes down the harbor on a moonlight excursion to the Shoals, this (Monday) evening, starting from Pier Wharf at 8 o'clock. The music will be by the Portsmouth Cornet Band. Fare 50 cents.

☞ A young man made himself conspicuous by riding a velocipede, Saturday forenoon, on Market Square. Perhaps he wished to astonish the farmers by an exhibition of his wonderful endurance in warm weather.

☞ Secretary Robeson has just issued a book of 60 pages, giving the "Orders, Regulations and Instructions for the Administration of Law and Justice in the United States Navy." We are indebted to Paymaster Putnam for a copy.

☞ We think some of the owners of Express or Job Wagons, which take parties to the Beaches and Groves, are liable to indictment for overloading, under the new law for prevention of cruelty to animals. The act makes it the duty of all Policemen to see to its enforcement.

☞ The Universalist Sabbath School and Society will have a Picnic at Kittery Point on Tuesday Aug. 9th, leaving Pier Wharf, Portsmouth, at 8 o'clock A. M. on Steamer Appledore. The Portsmouth Cornet Band will accompany them. Tickets for adults 25 cents, scholars free.

THE MUFFIN MATCH at base ball, this week, at the Plains, is exciting considerable attention. Fly catches strictly forbidden when out of reach. The ball to be used will be smaller than a foot ball and larger than a hen's egg. Assistant home runners are in demand. The nines are requested to meet at E. A. Tilton's music room, Congress Street, at 7 o'clock this (Monday) evening.

WAR.—Two youngsters fell out one evening last week, and securing a third for a referee, repaired to the entry of Davis Brothers, opposite the Post Office, to settle the difference. Round No. 1 opened immediately, both taking the initiative. A din arose and a crowd collected. The referee had his eyes full, watching the ground and lofty tumbling and looking out for the police. Astonished store-keepers ran to the scene of batte, with the thought that somebody was rolling barrels down the stairway. And still Round No. 1 went on. At the expiration of 59 seconds, the referee sighted a policeman and scooted. The excited fighters forgot their grievances, seized their caps and followed, leaving the crowd wondering what it was all about.

☞ The writer of "softs" for the Portsmouth Journal, objects to being slain with his own weapons, and lays claim to the sole right of using big words. We know of no other who wishes to use them in his way, and have no doubt that they will still adorn and beautify exclusively the columns of the Journal and that he will live long enough to ascertain that any person may (as he endeavors to) "sit in judgment on one's peers."

The poor fellow endeavors to quote Hazlett for want of an original idea, the last having been expended on Lothair. We don't care what he terms us; were we to style him a calf, he would be no more or less a calf on account of it. No wonder he thinks "the temper is about as hard to keep during the excessive heat, as ice." G.

Communication.

OUR HEALTH OFFICERS, at this season of the year, especially after so long endurance of uncommon hot weather, ought to be on the alert. House-occupants ought to see that all filthy substances should be removed from their premises. But we wish to call the attention of the Health Officers to the condition of the vaults of privies in the most compact part of the city. The effluvia, or miasma from them is poisonous to the atmosphere, and may cause the spread of fatal diseases. Copperas, lime, and ashes have often been recommended, as a partial remedy; but unless the Health Officers attend to this matter, so vitally important to a large portion of our population,—although a healthy city, sickness and death may be a consequence. The orders should be promptory; else many would disregard them.

PRECAUTION.

☞ During the prevalent dry time, extra precautions should be taken to guard against fire.

☞ Rev. Mr. DeNormandie, of this city, officiated at services at the Appledore House, on Sunday afternoon.

☞ During the shower of Thursday afternoon, the lightning struck the Dry Dock and Franklin ship-house at the Navy Yard, damaging the Dock about $100.

☞ The firm of Appledore, (the steamer,) Laighton and the Isles of Shoals, is one of the most popular in this vicinity. How much better and more appropriate, the true name of Smith's Isles would be, would'nt it?

☞ It is decided to hold the Fair of the Rockingham Agricultural Society, at Kingston Plains. The track and grounds are located on the Exeter road, a short distance from Spofford's Corner, and belong to Darius Towle.

TOO MUCH! AH! TOO MUCH!—The rare wit of the Portsmouth Journal, in alluding to Mr. T. S. Nowell's fire extinguisher, says, "TiS Now well to have one of T. S. Nowell." We suggest ten drops of soda water dashed with as much pop beer, as affording the most effectual relief in such cases of abstraction. G.

☞ Mr. E. A. Tilton, having been appointed General Agent of the Empire Mutual Life Insurance Co., for the State of New Hampshire, is ready to issue policies on the life of every eligible citizen or citizeness of Portsmouth. The terms of the Empire are liberal, and after two years, policies are non-forfeitable from any cause, except fraud. Suicides and executed criminals lose their policies, if they kill themselves or get hung before the two years are up.

THAT BASE BALL MATCH.—The following challenge from Rochester has been received by the Granite State Base Ball Club of this city. The "Lazy" Club have the reputation of being rather tough customers at their favorite game, and the Granite States have got some work before them, to win. As will be seen, the Rochester boys don't admire the style adopted by the Sawyers of Dover in playing a match.

ROCHESTER, August 4.

Sec. Granite State B. B. Club.—Sir: I witnessed the game of ball at South Berwick, between the Sawyers and G. S., for the championship, and under the circumstances do not consider it a fair beat. We do not consider them as a club. If they pretend to play by the rules of base ball, or on the square, they ought to be struck out of existence by all base ball clubs.

The Lazy B. B. Club of Rochester challenge the Granite State B. B. C. of Portsmouth, to play a home-and-home game for the championship of the State, the first game to be played at Rochester, Saturday, August 13, at 12:30 o'clock.

The greater part of the road is already completed, and the earnings from the completed portion are already more than sufficient to pay operating expenses and interest on the bonds. The balance of the work is progressing rapidly, in time for the movement of the coming grain crops, which, it is estimated will double the present income of the road.

The established character of this line, running as it does through the heart of the most thickly settled and richest portion of the great State of Iowa, together with its present advanced condition and large earnings warrant us in unhesitatingly recommending these bonds to investors, as, in every respect, an undoubted security.

These bonds have 50 years to run, are convertible at the option of the holder into the stock of the company at par, and the payment of the principal is provided for by a sinking fund. The convertibility privilege attached to these bonds cannot fail to cause them at no distant day to command a market price considerably above par, besides paying about 9 per cent., currency, interest in the meanwhile. U. S. Five-twenties, at present prices only return five per cent.; and we regard the security equally safe.

Proposals for Naval Material.

NAVY DEPARTMENT.
BUREAU OF EQUIPMENT & RECRUITING.
July 11, 1870.

SEALED PROPOSALS to furnish material for the Navy for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1871, will be received at this Bureau until 10 o'clock A. M. of the 5th of August next, at which time the proposals will be opened.

The proposals must be addressed to the "Chief of the Bureau of Equipment and Recruiting, Navy Department, Washington," and must be indorsed "Proposals for Material for the Navy," that they may be distinguished from other business letters.

Printed schedules for any class, together with instructions to bidders, giving the forms of proposal, of guarantee, and of certificate of guarantors, will be furnished to such persons as desire to bid, on application to the commandants of the respective navy-yards, and those of all the yards on application to the Bureau.

The Commandant of each navy-yard and the purchasing Paymaster of each station will have a copy of the schedules of the other yards, for examination only, in order that persons who intend to bid may judge whether it is desirable to make application for any of the classes of those yards.

The proposals must be for the whole of a class, and all applications for information or for the examination of samples must be made to the Commandants of the respective yards.

The proposal must be accompanied by a certificate from the Collector of Internal Revenue for the district in which the bidder resides that he has a license to deal in the articles for which he proposes, and he must further show that he is a manufacturer of, or a regular dealer in the articles which he offers to supply. The guarantors must be certified by the Assessor of Internal Revenue for the district in which they reside.

The contract will be awarded to the person who makes the lowest bid and gives the guarantee required by law, the Navy Department, however, reserving the right to reject the lowest bid or any which it may deem exorbitant.

Sureties in the full amount will be required to sign the contract, and their responsibility must be certified to the satisfaction of the Navy Department. As additional security, twenty per centum will be withheld from the amount of the bills until the contract shall have been completed, and eighty per centum of the amount of each bill, approved in triplicate by the Commandant of the respective yards, will be paid by the Paymaster of the station designated in the contract in funds or certificates, at the option of the Government, within ten days after the warrants for the same shall have been passed by the Secretary of the Treasury.

FREEMAN'S IRON MANDRAKE SYRUP,

It excels all other Iron preparations in the combination with Mandrake and Vegetable Tonics, so that the Liver is acted on to remove bile and impurities from the system, while the vegetable tonics strengthen the stomach and promote the digestion of Iron with the food and its absorption into the blood. It renovates the system and is the best medicine.

MANDRAKE is the Great Vegetable substitute for calomel to act on liver. In FREEMAN'S IRON MANDRAKE SYRUP it is combined with Iron and Vegetable Tonics, and forms the most perfect medicine. It purifies the blood and imparts IRON to it. It acts on the Liver and removes foul humors from the body. It is a most excellent remedy for debility, especially for mothers who are worn down by nursing infants, and for all persons whose blood is poor, and who need Iron and a strengthening medicine. 2meodawly25

LITTLE WASHER, unlike all others, is light and portable, weighing only ten pounds, is sold for the small price of five dollars. Adjusts itself to any article from a Pocketheadkerchief to a

LARGE BED SPREAD,

without alteration. Can be fitted to any tub, and removed at pleasure.

If you will use this little common sense washing machine, you will do the work of half a day in 2 hours.

RICHARDSON'S LITTLE WASHER does not tear or wear the clothes, no matter how fine the fabric. Clothes are straightened out, and passed back and forth, between the rollers till clean.

Remember and always have a good strong and hot suds.

Put your Pocketheadkerchiefs, Cuffs, Collars, Napkins and Fingan Towels, Pillow slips and wash perfectly clean, in two to three minutes. We wash at one time, two or three sheets gathered at the hem, six Pillow slips, six Towels, two or three Cotton Shirts, one pair heavy Pants or two pairs light ones, one heavy Spread or Blanket, always putting the smaller things inside something larger or longer.

Wherever this Little Washer has been introduced the sale has been unprecedented, having sold upwards of three hundred in Dover, N. H., in less than two months; two thirds of the purchasers had been using large awkward machines costing from five to eighteen dollars; all a failure, one great complaint being that they are heavy and no woman can work them.

Richardson's has taken a Silver Medal in Springfield, Mass., at Mechanic's Fair in 1869, and other places have exhibited.

A Lady who has not washed for three years, told her neighbors she did her washing, with that Little Washer, with ease, consequently they ordered one, and the question all over town is, have you got a RICHARDSON'S LITTLE WASHER?

"Mushroomville" is a little village on the bank of Artist's Brook in the suburbs of North Conway. As you approach the place it has something the appearance of a collection of gigantic mushrooms, but closer observation shows them to be umbrellas, under which seated on camp-chairs,are ladies and gentlemen, busily engaged with pencil and brush, in reproducing some of the many beauties of nature around them.

With characteristic energy, the people of Colebrook are making preparations to re-build the business portion of the place, which was mostly destroyed by the recent fire.

Dearborn Copp, Esq., one of Tuftonborough's most successful farmers, has and now wears a pair of calf-skin boots manufactured for him thirty years ago last December! He has worn them for dress boots ever since, and they will probably hold good for the next decade. They will do to go with the old white coat, well known in this city, at Christian shore.

There is a watering trough by the side of the road, on the farm of Benj. F. Mason, in Wolfeborough, which was placed there previous to 1785. It is of pine and in good condition now.

Hon. Issac Adams is building a large saw mill on the old Lee Mill location, in Moultonborough, which will cost about $10,000.

Prof. John E. Sinclair, formerly connected with the Faculty of the Scientific department of Dartmouth College, has been elected to the chair of Civil Engineering, made vacant by the resignation of Prof. Woodman. Mr. Sinclair was formerly of Exeter, and is, we believe, a native of Brentwood.

The Hoosac Division of Sons of Temperance in Kensington has already more than a hundred members; and seems to be in quite a flourishing condition.

Hon. E. A. Rollins is on a trip to Utah and California, which are becoming quite famous as resorts for New England people.

A few days ago, Mrs. Rufus Fuller, of Hooksett, a short distance from the residence of General Head, while her children were in the yard about the house, heard them scream with alarm, went out and found a rattlesnake,which she killed, measuring four feet, seven inches long, having thirteen rattles.

Under the head of births, the Concord Statesman publishes the following:—In Washington, D. C., July 11th, to O. H. and Emma Morrison, two sons and a daughter. Morrison was a native of Sanborn, and a nephew of the old Concord Printer, well known as "Captain Sam."

—An attorney presenting a copy of a writ to an auctioneer, apologized for an unfriendly visit, as he was merely performing an unpleasant duty of his profession. "Certainly not," said the auctioneer, "you must attend to the duties of your profession, and so must I to mine," and instantly knocked him down.

—Never be sorry for any generous thing that you ever did, even if it was betrayed. Never be sorry that you were magnanimous, if the man was mean afterward. It was right for you to give, even if you were imposed upon. You cannot afford to keep on the safe side by being mean.

—Sydney Smith had a brother distinguished for his talents, but exceedingly sedate, having no element of wit or humor in his composition. Sydney said that "he and his brother contradicted the law of gravity, for his brother had risen by his gravity, and he had sunk by his levity."

—At a recent Sunday-school concert, a speaker asked the little boys which they would prefer to do, "Steal a dollar, or have a dollar stolen from them?" Immediately a hand was raised, and a little urchin candidly answered, "Please, sir, I'd rather steal a dollar."

—A little girl who had been studying, at a safe distance, the warlike ways of the soldier-crab, remarked to her mother, "I hope God did not hurt hisself when he was making him!"

—There are two reasons why some people don't mind their own business. One is that they haven't any business, and the second that they have no mind to bring to it if they had.

— Curious fact in philology—Capt. Typlin, loq: "S a mo' stro'nary thing, Mrs'r Poffins, that all goo' things i' drink are wor's one syll'ble — por' sherr', clar't, spirr's!"

—Mr. Samuel Hartford, of Berwick, was found dead in his bed Tuesday morning. Heart disease supposed to be the cause.

—Take care of your thoughts, for they lead to words and acts — just as brooks lead to rivers, and rivers to the ocean.

—Speaking of the theatre of war—that must be the only theatre where back seats are desirable.

—Soft soap, in some shape, pleases all; and generally speaking, the more ye you put into it the better.

CASH VALUE OF A LABORING MAN. It is often remarked of persons who do not possess any property, and who depend upon their daily labor for support of themselves and families, that they are "worth nothing" financially speaking. This language is generally indulged in by men in the community who style themselves business men, and who get rich off the necessities of other men. Let us examine the question financially, and see if there assertions are correct.

Last year the price of common labor averaged $1.50 per day. Admitting that the laborer received $1.50 per day, and it required the whole of that sum to support his family, nevertheless we contend that the laborer was worth in cash to his family the sum of $7989.

The amount he would receive for one year's labor, at $1.50 per day would be $475.60, which amount would be the interest at six per cent. on $7989, which latter sum would be the cash value of the laboring man to his family.

The cash value of the laboring man to the community is much more than the above-named sum, as labor is the only true wealth to any country. Without labor our forges, furnaces, woolen mills, and indeed manufactories of all kinds, would cease to be. The music of the loom and shuttle would be silenced forever. Our national and other banks would close their doors, and our most enterprising merchants take in their signs. Without labor civilization would recede, and the bat and owl would soon occupy the crimson chambers of our would-be business men.

Let the laboring men of the United States realize their true position. Let them reflect that labor is honorable—that labor is wealth. Let them remember that they are a power in the State—that to them this great Government is indebted for all it possesses of liberty, glory, grandeur.

"Let them only reflect" that labor is honorable, but let those who look down on the humble laborer and mechanic reflect for one moment before they speak in terms of disparagement of the "hewers of wood and drawers of water." The custom is too prevalent in the community of making remarks in a sneering manner of the great industrial class of our people, leading youths among us to think that honest industry is not honorable, be it what it may. That time has passed, and the South is too poor to indulge in such sickly nonsense; she needs labor of all kinds.

Honest, industrious mechanics and laborers are the wealth of States, and until they are encouraged and fostered, our people cannot be prosperous. It is not the cash value alone by which he enriches the place of his residence but he adds by his labor to its material wealth; no country or nation that commands the respects of the world, but what that respect was gained through the skill of her mechanical population. Then let all classes, more especially the rich, respect and inculcate their children with the true theory of life, that labor is honorable, and if in after life misfortune should overtake them, willing hands will be put forth to earn their support.

—A sea captain,trading regular to the Africa was invited to meet a committee of a society for the evangelization of Africa. He was asked, among numerous questions touching the habits and religion of the African races, "Do the subjects of the King of Dahomey keep Sunday?" "Keep Sunday!" he replied. "Yes, and everything they can lay their hands on!"

REMEMBRANCE OF MINSTRELSY.

Hark! I hear an angel sing,
Shoo-fly don't bodder me—
Love it is a ticklish thing,
Upon the dark blue sea.
Come sing that gentle strain again,
Horse fly come tickle me;
I wish I was a boy again,
I'm bound to have a spree.

She wore a wreath of roses,
Her bright smile haunts me still,
And her big chignon pinned on behind,
With the sword of Bunker Hill;
If you've a pretty foot—why, show it,
Said the spider to the fly,
Let me kiss him for his mother;
Say—how is that for high?

Good-bye, John, don't stop long;
Then you'll remember me.
Molly put the kettle on,
My bark is on the sea;
The boy stood on the burning deck,
And his name was Pat Malloy,
Singing that's what's the matter with Hannah,
And Paddy Miles's boy.

There was a frog lived in a spring,
He kissed me a sweet adieu,
Together let us sweetly sing,
With the dark gal dressed in blue.
The harp that once through Tara's halls,
They've shoved it up a spout;
We'll all go down to Lannigan's ball,
Does your mother know you're out?

A NEW POWER.—The Concord Statesman gives a description of the development or invention of a "new power," which it has applied to its printing machinery, the last copy of that paper being printed by its agency. It is really a transmission of power without the aid of belts, pulleys or shafting, and promises great success. We will give a brief description.

It is well known that common air can be condensed or crowded into a very much smaller space than it usually occupies. This fact, and that its specific gravity is less than that of water, is the groundwork of the inventor—Mr. Horace Call of Concord. A huge condenser, or a number of condensers, is placed at quite a distance from the machine to be operated, (it may be a mile or several miles,) and when the condenser is set in motion, the air is transmitted through large pipes, similar to a common breast water wheel.

This wheel, sometimes six inches and sometimes six feet in diameter, is set in a tight box or flume without a cover, and just large enough to contain the wheel. This box is then filled with water, and by means of a stop cock, the air is let into the box underneath the wheel, but slightly to one side of the perpendicular plane of its axis. The action of the air is to displace a portion or all of the water from each of the buckets in succession; and, of course, the wheel turns from the action of gravitation. The current of air is kept up, and the wheel continues to turn,—motion being given to other machinery by means of its shaft.

It would appear that this power must necessarily be very economical. The Statesman gives a lengthy description of it and its working, which is, thus far, very favorable. Should it prove successful, it may cause quite a revolution in small manufactories. A condenser could be placed wherever desired, and pipes could be laid so as to carry all the light machinery in town, and ten times as much more.

A VERY SINGULAR CIRCUMSTANCE.—The duel between Graves and Cilley, at the time stirred up the people as they had seldom been stirred up before. On the Sunday succeeding the Saturday on which Mr. Cilley fell in this duel, the unconscious young widow of the husband then lying dead at Washington,—at her home in Maine, turned accidentally to a particular page in her hymn-book. She was so impressed with peculiar feelings at reading it, that she was induced to mark it with a pencil. Some weeks after it was sung at the funeral. The following is the hymn:

List to the tolling bell, mournfully pealing;
Hark! hark! it seems to say,
As melt the sounds away—
So life's best joys decay,
Whilst new their feeling.

O'er a father's dismal tomb, see the orphan bending,
From the solemn church-yard's gloom, hear the dirge ascending?
Hark! hark! it seems to say—
How short ambition's sway,
Life's joys and friendship's ray,
In the dark grave ending.

BRIEF AND TOUCHING.—When Daniel Boone, the celebrated pioneer of Kentucky died, a member of the Illinois Legislature announced the mournful event, and his desire for an adjournment of the House, in the following brief, but touching terms:

"Mr. Cheerman, Dan Boone are dead, I move we put."
And the House "put."

LEMONS.—Housekeepers know how quickly lemons lose their freshness and rot. A simple and inexpensive remedy is to place them in a jar filled with water, the water to be renewed every day or two. By this means this fruit can be kept fresh and sound for several weeks.

—A clergyman addressed his female auditors as follows: Be not proud that our blessed Lord paid your sex the distinguished honor of appearing first to a female after the resurrection, for it was only that the glad tidings might be spread the sooner.

AYER'S
HAIR VIGOR,
For Restoring Gray Hair to its Natural Vitality and Color.
A Dressing which is at once agreeable, healthy, and effectual for Preserving the Hair. Faded or gray Hair is soon restored to its original color, with the gloss and freshness of youth. Thin hair is thickened, falling hair checked, and baldness often, though not always, cured by its use.
Nothing can restore the hair where the follicles are destroyed, or the glands atrophied and decayed. But such a preparation can be named for usefulness by this application. Instead of fouling the hair with a pasty sediment, it will keep it clean and vigorous. Its occasional use will prevent the hair from turning gray or falling off, and consequently prevent baldness. Free from those deleterious substances which make some preparations dangerous and injurious to the hair, the Vigor can only benefit but not harm it.
If wanted merely for a HAIR DRESSING, nothing else can be found so desirable. Containing neither oil nor dye, it does not soil white cambric, and yet lasts long on the hair, giving it a rich glossy lustre and a grateful perfume.

The Daily Chronicle.

Portsmouth, N. H.

TUESDAY, AUGUST 9, 1870.

THE BATTLES OF WISSENBOURG AND HAGUENOU. — There were two great battles on Saturday, and Napoleon's army was forced to retreat, badly demoralized.

On Saturday the Prussians advanced along the whole line. The Crown Prince on the left engaged General McMahon, commanding the French right wing near Wissenbourg, and after an obstinate battle completely routed his forces, capturing many prisoners, guns and standards, and six Mitrailleuses. McMahon retreated, the conquering army following close and driving him out of Haguenou, where he had made his headquarters. Despatches say that he retired to Nancy, which is a long way from the battle field and indicates that his retreat was a precipitate flight. This uncovers the important fortifications of Strasburg, which are menaced by the Prussians. Meanwhile the Prussian Centre, commanded by General Goeben, advanced on Saarbrucken, which was fired and abandoned by the French. The Prussians came upon the enemy occupying a strong position west of Saarbrucken, and commanded by General Frossard. The resistance made here was desperate, but the Prussians swept their opponents away after a terrible conflict, at the point of the bayonet, and drove them on toward Metz.

All the official despatches to Paris are dated at Metz and indicate that great efforts are making to concentrate and reorganize the army at that point while pursuit is temporarily checked.

Napoleon telegraphed the news of defeat to Paris, but says his army retreated in good order and holds a strong position.

Empress Eugenie issued the following proclamation on Sunday:—

The details of our losses are wanting. The situation is not compromised, but the enemy is on our territory, and a serious effort is necessary. A battle appears imminent. In presence of this grave news our duty is plain. We appeal to the patriotism and energy of all. The Chambers have been convoked. We are placing Paris with all possible haste in a state of defence. In order to facilitate the execution of military preparations we declare the capital in a state of seige. There must be no faint-heartedness; no divisions. Our resources are immense. Let us pursue the struggle without flinching and the country will be saved.

The Senate and Corps Legislatif have been summoned to meet at Paris on Thursday, the 11th inst. The despatch from the Emperor announcing Marshal McMahon's defeat and separation from the main army has caused the utmost consternation.

A Paris dispatch says the Prussians are over the frontier and advancing on Paris. The French speak of a great battle as imminent. La Liberte bids the people rise en masse and repel the invaders.

Napoleon telegraphed that he was going to the centre, that the battle lasted from 11 o'clock A. M. to 9 P. M., and that Gen. McMahon's loss in battle was great.

A report, based on a dispatch from Baden, says that a force of Southern German troops (volunteers) has crossed the Rhine and advanced on Strasburg. The whole French army has been driven back, and is supposed to occupy a line between Metz and Nancy.

King William of Prussia telegraphed to the Queen that the Prussian loss was heavy.

Before retreating from Saarbrucken, the French burned the town. The Prussian General Boge was wounded.

A New York Herald dispatch says the situation may be summed up as follows:

The Crown Prince has driven Marshal McMahon's army from Wissemburg, Lanterberg and Woerth, and probably compelled the evacuation of Haguenou and Strasburg. The victory of General Goeben at Saarbrucken and Spiehren and their advance from Homburg has driven General Frossard's corps from Forbach and St. Avolt and probably rendered Bitche untenable. McMahon's corps is at present cut off at Metz. The prisoners taken by the Crown Prince and General Goeben number 8000. The number of killed and wounded is unknown. Immense quantities of army stores have been captured. There are rumors which lack official confirmation, of the evacuation of Thionville, the capture of Sierck and Hagenou, and the advance of the Prussians across the Rhine from South Baden. We know, however, that large Prussian armies are gathered at Saarlouis and in the southern part of Baden.

Previous to the battles, there had been discontent in Paris. After the battles the shops kept by Germans were menaced.

The vessel taken by the French proves to be the Lauman, from Wilmington, N. C., with a cargo of turpentine.

Torpedoes have been thickly sown in the channel of Weser.

The entire French line of operations is kept in intimate communication by underground telegraph wires.

It was General Abel Douay, an infantry commander, who was killed at Wissemburg, and not General E. Douay, the general commanding a division.

There are 19 French men-of-war in the Baltic sea.

A French expedition of 40,000 troops is preparing to sail from Cherbourg.

Before entering the Baltic, Baret captured two gunboats at the mouth of the Elbe, and bombarded Wilhelmshaven, but it was only to try the guns of his ironclads. No landing was attempted.

Marshal McMahon says: "I anticipate a great strategical advantage to be derived from the advance of the enemy and his movements within our territory."

The Danish government cannot withstand the enthusiasm with which Admiral Bouet and his squadron have been received at Copenhagen, and the open sympathies of the people. The secret mission of the Duke de Codore and the arrival of the French fleet coincide too exactly to leave any doubt of what will be the ultimate course of events. Not many weeks, perhaps not many days, will pass before the announcement of an alliance offensive and defensive between France and Denmark, for war. In the meantime there will be a blockade of the Baltic ports, and when the whole squadron assembles it will bombard Hamburg, Kiel, Stettin and Dantzig.

The Prussians claim that they have 800,000 men on the theatre of war.

The Journal Officiel of Paris denies the loss of any cannon or eagles at Weissenbourg.

Advices from Rome state that the French disasters cause profound terror, and that the Pope has asked Eugenie for just one ship to protect him from the Italians now organizing for an attack on the Papal dominions and authority.

Fourteen millions of francs seized by the police of Paris last week, belonged to Rothschild, Hirsch, Raphael, Birschaffsheim and other Jewish bankers.

The National Guard has been assigned to the defence of Paris. The troops clamor to be sent to the front.

Marshal McMahon has telegraphed that he has established his headquarters at Savere, a town in the Dep. of Bas Rhein, on the Paris and Strasbourg Railroad, 20 miles north-west of Strasbourg, indicating that he contemplates the evacuation of Strasbourg.

The Prussian army under command of Crown Prince Frederick William is advancing rapidly into the very heart of France and on a bee line for Paris.

A battle was expected on Monday.

THE CENSUS.—Mr. Folsom Dow of Epping Assistant U. S. Marshal for taking the Census, gives the following returns of the population of the towns of Auburn, Chester, Epping and Raymond.

	1870.	1860.	Loss.
Auburn,	815	886	71
Chester,	1153	1276	123
Epping,	1270	1414	144
Raymond,	1121	1269	147

In Auburn, the excess of females over males is 13; in Chester, 35; in Epping, 16; in Raymond, 3. Heretofore Raymond has been pretty evenly balanced as to the number of the sexes. In 1830 there were just 500 of each.

In these four towns the population is 486 less than in 1860 (the time of taking the last Census.) There are three ways of accounting for this diminution. First—Losses in the War: the four towns lost more than 100. Second —Emigration. Third — Disregard of the Scripture injunction: "Be fruitful, and multiply, and replenish the earth." This last parents should see rectified.—J. F., in Exeter News Letter.

ANOTHER RAILWAY SLAUGHTER.—A terrible accident occurred Saturday night, on the Chesapeake and Ohio Railroad, to the up train at Jerry's River. The next car from the rear coach was precipitated down an embankment 100 feet high and shattered to pieces. Twelve persons were killed and twenty wounded. It is supposed that the accident was the result of a sudden breaking of a wheel.

BASE BALL.—A picked nine of Boston players will play the Harvards on their return to Boston on Tuesday of next week.

Correspondence of the Chronicle and Gazette.

CONCORD, Aug 6.

Eds. Chronicle:—The returns of the census takers are getting in, and they make a sorry show for the increase of population in New Hampshire. In fact, instead of any increase, the population will fall from ten to fifteen thousand below what it was in 1860.

This is the more strange, since the voting population has increased; and is accounted for by the fact, solemn or otherwise, that the stocks of babies are fearfully diminished. What the cause of this is, will be left for others to determine,—partly it may be accounted for by a four years' absence at the seat of war, of so large numbers of the population between the ages of eighteen and forty-five.

One census taker in an average population says he found only 1 1-2 children to a family on the average. The returns from sixty-two towns, mostly farming towns, show a population of 62,676 in 1870, against a population of 68,998 in 1860, a loss of 6322 in ten years. The loss of population is largest in the farming towns away from railroads. The ratio of the towns now in would make the loss of population in the State near 27,000, but some places have increased, which will reduce the loss. Manchester will increase 5000, Concord 2000, Keene 2000, Nashua from 1000 to 1,500, Rochester 900, and some other towns show a handsome increase.

THE EDITORS' CONVENTION.—At the close of the session the following resolution, offered by Mr. Cogswell fo the Monitor, was unanimously adopted:

Resolved, That the thanks of the Editors, Printers, and Publishers' Associations of Maine and New Hampshire are hereby offered to the Superintendents and officers of the Concord, Northern, Boston, Concord and Montreal, Boston and Maine, Eastern, Portland, Saco and Portsmouth, Nashua, Lowell and Boston Railroads, and the several Railway and Steamboat lines of Maine; to Job Jenness & son, of the Ocean House, Rye Beach, and to G. W. & J. S. Pierce, of the Sagamore House, Rye, and the Summer residents of Straw's Point, for courtesies extended to us and our guests on this occasion; to H. C. Barnabee, Mr. and Mrs. H. M. Smith, Miss Addie Ryan, and Mr. W. J. Winch for the sweet singing they have afforded us; to the Dover Cornet Band and the Marine Brass Band from the Navy Yard, for the excellent music so freely furnished at this meeting; and also to the officers of the Navy Yard, for their courteous attentions.

☞ We are indebted to Watson's (New York) Art Journal, for a beautiful full length portrait of Christine Nilsson, the new Jenny Lind, who is presently coming to captivate America with her songs, as she has England. She is an elegant and lovely woman, and a magnificent singer.

☞ The funeral of John Real, the N. Y. murderer, took place from the residence of his brother-in-law in Harlem. The procession numbered about 5000 persons, and contained delegations from nearly a score of social and political organizations. There were 100 carriages.

☞ The Salem Gazette don't believe that Hercules himself could throw another man into a boat, while himself was standing in the water — as is reported of a certain fat minister now disporting at the Shoals. (Show-les!)

THE SPANISH THRONE. — It is said that Don Fernando of Portugal is now disposed to accept the crown of Spain.

One day last week, as Peter Nason, a young man, was reaching his arm out of the car window on his way to Boston, on the Eastern Railroad, his hand came in contact with a post which badly shattered his splitting arm on the back. This is the second accident within a week, and it behooves all to keep their heads and hands inside of the cars. The Railroad Company caution the public not to put their arms or heads out of the windows, but their caution is not sufficiently heeded.

The woods on the Salisbury side of the river between the bridges took fire on Saturday, probably from a spark from a locomotive on the Eastern Railroad, and though it was supposed to have been extinguished it blazed up again on Sunday and burnt over some eight or ten acres of woodland.

—Why does the ocean commerce of America remind one of the railings of a gallery? Because, just now, it is simply ballast trade.

—The white of an egg has proved the most efficacious remedy for burns.

Dr. Pierce's Alt. Ext. or Golden Medical Discovery is not a fancy drink made of poor poisonous strychnine whiskey, proof spirits refuse liquors, spiced and sweetened to please the taste and lead topers on to ruin, as are the so-called "Bitters" of to day. It is a pure medicinal extract of native roots and herbs, and is a speedy, safe and sure remedy for all severe, acute and lingering coughs, loss of appetite, "Liver Complaint" or "Biliousness" and Constipation of the Bowels. Nothing equals it for purifying the blood and curing Pimples, Blotches, Eruptions, Salt Rhum, Erysipelas, Scrofulous and all skin diseases. Sold by druggists.

THE ORDER OF THE DAY.—A general order for SOZODONT. In the TEETH OF ALL OPPOSITION it has become the supreme dentifrice of the age.

No impurity can infest the teeth cleaned daily with SOZODONT. QUILLAY, the bark of the Chilian Soap Tree, an article which possesses cleansing properties superior to those of any other known substance, is one of the ingredients of this peerless compound. SOZODONT is the only dentifrice in existence in which this salubrious botanical product is incorporated.

"SPALDING'S GLUE," handy about the house, mends everything.

SPECIAL NOTICES.

The Life Sustaining Principle.

The vital and the muscular systems are entirely distinct from each other. A man may have the brawn of a Hercules, but if he is deficient in vital energy he will not wear as well, or last as long, or be as healthy and happy while he does last, as the man of ordinary, or even slender build, who possesses a larger share of this animating principle. One of the greatest recommendations of that pure vegetable invigorant, HOSTETTER'S STOMACH BITTERS, is that it increases the vital force of the system. No medicine can double the volume of a man's muscle, or thicken and vulcanize his thews and sinews; but Hostetter's Bitters has an effect much more important. Its use promotes constitutional vigor.

It reinforces the life-power, of which bone and sinew and muscle are merely the instruments, holding the same relation to it that machinery does to steam. Let the slight and apparently fragile take heart, they may have more stamina, though far less physical strength, than the broad shouldered athletes they regard with envy. To restore, to sustain, to increase this staminal principle which, when in full supply, is the source of health and the best guarantee of longevity, is a special property of the famous restorative. It is not only a specific for dyspepsia, biliousness, intermittent fevers, constipation, &c., and a preventive of all diseases of a malarious character, but the best of all medicines for strengthening the constitution and awakening the powers of nature, from whatever cause they may have become lethargic. aug5dawlw

☞ FOR THIRTY YEARS! ☜

PERRY DAVIS' PAIN KILLER

This valuable Family Medicine has been widely and favorably known in our own and foreign countries, upwards of

THIRTY YEARS!

It has lost none of its good name by repeated trials, but continues to occupy a prominent position in every family medicine chest.

It is an External and Internal Remedy. For Summer Complaint, or any other form of bowel disease in children or adults, it is an almost certain cure, and has without doubt, been more successful in curing the various kinds of CHOLERA than any other known remedy, or the most skillful physician. In India, Africa and China, where this dreadful disease is more or less prevalent, the PAIN KILLER is considered by the natives, as well as European residents in those climates, a sure remedy; and while it is a most efficient remedy for pain, it is a perfectly safe medicine, even in unskillful hands.

Morning Chronicle.

THE QUILL.—There are some matters relating to the Printers' Convention at Rye Beach, which we wish as a matter of record, to Chronicle a little more at length than was convenient at the time.

One pleasant surprise to all, was the beautiful and elaborate decorations at the Ocean House, put up by Col. Wm. Beals of Boston, entirely at the expense of the enterprising proprietors of the hotel,—and which were so fitting to the occasion, and astonished while they delighted everybody:

The broad piazza which surrounds the house was enveloped with graceful festoons of bunting, and over the main entrance, in silver letters, appeared the cheerful "Welcome to all." Entering the corridor, in front was seen a scarlet banner, with the name of the Association in gold letters, above which appeared the names of the proprietors, "J. Jenness & Son," and beneath, "Ocean House." On either side of the hall was a beautiful arrangement of flags in globe form, and on the right the motto from Kossuth: "Religion, Education and Freedom, the tri-color of the world;" and on the left the motto: "The pen is mightier than the sword." The dining hall was decorated with a fine canopy in marque form, with streamers and the several national flags on the sides of the room. At the head of the room was an arch with the inscription, "First Inventors of Printing—Coster, Guttenburg, Faust and Schoeffer." Beneath the arch was a union of stars on a blue ground and a large rosette of variegated tinsel, all presenting a neat and tasty appearance.

Of the business meeting in the afternoon, we have already given sufficient report. In the evening, Barnabee's splendid Boston quartet opened the ball, by singing, to new and rich music by M. Keller, of American Hymn celebrity, the beautiful poem, the Bridal of the Granite and Pine, written by Bro. Boylston of the Amherst Cabinet, for the joint meeting in Maine last year. It was a fine composition, artistically sung, and elicited the warmest applause. As Shillaber remarked to Mr. Boylston, "it was an honor that any poet might covet, to be musically arranged by Keller, and musically rendered by Barnabee." But Mr. Boylston modestly says he knows no such distinction, and can only regard it in the light of a delicate and generous compliment:

Gem of kindness—gem harmonious—
Nestling in the heart 't will lie,
Fragrant mem'ries ever waking,
Of our "Coming through the Rye."

The literary exercises, all which took place in the main corridor, were quite interesting. The Maine Association being the oldest organization, Maj. Shaw, one of the Vice Presidents, was called upon to preside. The exercises were brief. After the above song by Mr. Barnabee and his choir, the chairman introduced to the audience Hon. Mr. Blaine, Speaker of the National House of Representatives, to deliver the address. Mr. Blaine was received with warm applause, and spoke briefly to this effect:—

Ladies and gentlemen, and gentlemen of the Press:—Without my consent, I have been advertised for an address on this occasion; and when I announce that I have not made any preparation, and therefore have nothing to say, I know that you will all thank me warmly. [Laughter.] Allow me, however, to congratulate you as representatives of the country press, on your present position in the community, an influence more potential and beneficial than that possessed by the city press.

Less than 80 years ago it occurred to William Pitt to send select editorials from London to the country press of England, and pay for their insertion, thereby subsidizing the English country press. From that day to this there has been no independence on the part of that press.

But in this country the country press is not only the leader and advocate of the people, but it educates the men that go to the city and who control the metropolitan press; and you cannot point to an editor to-day who exerts a controlling influence on public affairs, that did not get his education on the country press,—and among these are such men as Greeley, Raymond, and Charles G. Greene. Give me the country press, and I can defy all the rest.

There is this peculiarity about the press and its influence, that whereas in other lines of business there is a great opposition to the introduction of labor-saving machinery, in the case of the press all such improvements have been welcomed, as tending to its benefit and to that of the community.

Now it was intended that I should do the prose part of the speaking, and for five minutes you will no doubt say that I have been prosy enough. [Laughter.] It is not my duty to introduce the lady who is to follow me. [Laughter, and glances at Mrs. Partington.] She has been a lady more remarkable for merit than beauty [renewed laughter], and unless she be a little different from all the rest of her sex, she will hardly thank me for what must seem a doubtful compliment. [Laughter.]

Now as considerable talk has been made about Mr. Blaine's being announced without authority, we shall just say that the M[illegible]ciation agreed, almost [illegible] would deliver the address, if Shillaber of ours would the poem, for the occasion. And seeing that the proposition for the joint meeting first came from our Maine brethren, and that Shillaber did so well for New Hampshire, we submit that the fault lays with the Piney side of the house, if the Honorable gentleman was announced wrongfully. And further, after the Convention was postponed especially to secure the services of Mr. Blaine in this direction, we think he did not show a due appreciation of the honor conferred upon him by his editorial brethren, in not devoting (as he evidently did not) the mere hour or two which would have simply sufficed for so ready a writer and speaker as he, to have satisfactorily fulfilled the call of the hour.

We speak of this, partly because of our own disappointment in the matter, in common with all present; and more especially because it placed our particular friend, that prince of good fellows Shillaber, in a false position—for whereas he only agreed to write a light poem to come in as a secondary matter after the address — the virtual default to respond properly, of Mr. Blaine, (he failing on this occasion to show himself the able Speaker he is well known to be,) left Mr. Shillaber's poem as the chief and almost sole literary feature of the evening. Not that anybody found a bit of fault with this, save the poet himself,—and he probably only on the ground that the dessert should not be placed for the leading dish at the feast—but we, who believe the man who makes us laugh the loudest and longest is our best friend, always regard Shillaber's productions most which he regards least, and we are vexed beyond measure that he has not yet consented to our publications or to any publication, of his poem, the richest joke of which was, that while it was written of and for and to the Press, it utterly ignored the subject altogether. Everybody enjoyed it, and everybody speaks well of it, but we shan't unless Uncle Ben lets us print it.

The Portland Transcript says, however, and well says that

Speaker Blaine, though he had no oration to deliver, said so strong a word for the country press, that the rural brethren begun to think they were somebody, and held up their heads accordingly, while the representatives of the metropolitan press for once had a little of their conceit taken out of them. It did them good.—As for Bro. Shillaber's poem, it was one of the best things we ever heard on such an occasion, and put the audience in excellent humor. The best thing about it was that while it set out with the Press for its theme, it contrived not to say a word about it. It was a great success.

Governor Stearns, who didn't agree to make a speech, being called upon, made the following fitting remarks:

Mr. President, and Gentlemen of the Associations: After the words of the distinguished speaker who has charmed and instructed us all, and the inimitable poem which has exceeded even the expectations of its author, and while the sweet strains of music still linger in our ears, it cannot be expected and it would not be proper that I should occupy your time with any extended remarks. I desire, however, to express my gratification that this gathering is held in New Hampshire, and that we have the pleasure of meeting upon our own soil, so many eminent members of that profession which fills so important a place in the social affairs of the present day.

The increased importance of the journalistic profession marks the advance of general intelligence, and the diffusion of popular knowledge. To its members more perhaps than to those of any other profession, is given the power to form the sentiment and influence the opinions of the people. Hence the importance of associations like these represented here, in which are engendered the mutual interchange of feelings and opinions so necessary to enlarged and correct ideas. Allow me to express my earnest desire for the prosperity and success of your Associations. I trust that you will enjoy many reunions like this, and that we shall often have the pleasure of bidding you welcome to New Hampshire.

Then for the Ball. This we have already spoken of—and it was a splendid affair:

The grounds were brilliantly illuminated with hundreds of Chinese lanterns, and were made gorgeous by a brilliant display of fireworks, during which rich music was furnished by the Band connected with the Ocean House. The dancing hall presented a scene of gay life, with the recherche costumes of the ladies and its elegant decorations, and was occupied into the small hours of the morning, — a scene for pleasant memory.

But for us, a very pleasantest feature was that midnight lunch of cold duck, ham, &c., in the back kitchen under the stairs, with Shillaber; with the immortal Job Jenness himself for waiter—when everything had been so turned topsy-turvey, that a dish, plate, spoon or cup could hardly be found.

—Henry Ward Beecher says: "Man is born in a house of a thousand rooms. He lives in one or two, and leaves all the rest unopened, unenjoyed."

AYER'S CATHARTIC PILLS,

FOR ALL PURPOSES of a LAXATIVE MEDICINE.

Perhaps no one medicine is so universally required by everybody as a cathartic, nor was ever any before so universally adopted into use, in every country and among all classes, as this mild but efficient purgative Pill. The reason is that it is a more reliable and far more effectual remedy than any other. Those who have tried it, know that it cures; those who have not, know that it cures their neighbors and friends and all know that what it does once it does always—that it never fails through any fault or neglect of its composition. We have thousands upon thousands of certificates of their remarkable cures of the following complaints, but such cases are known to every neighborhood, and we need not publish them. Adapted to all ages and conditions in all climates; containing neither calomel or any deleterious drug, they may be taken with safety by anybody. Their sugar coating preserves them ever fresh and makes them pleasant to take, while being purely vegetable no harm can arise from their use in any quantity.

They operate by their powerful influence on the internal viscera to purify the blood and stimulate it into healthy action—remove the obstructions of the stomach, bowels, liver, and other organs of the body, restoring their irregular action to health, and by correcting, wherever they exist, such derangements as are the first origin of disease.

Minute directions are given in the wrapper on the box, for the following complaints, which these PILLS rapidly cure:—

For Dyspepsia or Indigestion, Listlessness, Languor and Loss of Appetite, they should be taken moderately to stimulate the stomach and restore its healthy tone and action.

For Liver Complaint and its various symptoms, Bilious Headache, Sick Headache, Jaundice or Green Sickness, Bilious Colic and Bilious Fevers, they should be judiciously taken for each case, to obviate the diseased action or remove the obstructions which cause it.

For Dysentery or Diarrhœa, but one mild dose is generally required.

For Rheumatism, Gout, Gravel, Palpitation of the Heart, Pain in the Side, Back and Loins, they should be continuously taken, as required, to change the diseased action of the system. With such change these complaints disappear.

For Dropsy and Dropsical Swellings, they should be taken in large and frequent doses to produce the effect of a drastic purge.

For Suppression a large dose should be taken, as it produces the desired effect by sympathy.

AYER'S PILLS, taken one or two PILLS to promote digestion and relieve the stomach.

An occasional dose stimulates the stomach and bowels to healthy action, restores the appetite, and invigorates the system. Hence it is often advantageous where no serious derangement exists. One who feels tolerably well, often finds that a dose of these PILLS makes him feel decidedly better, from their cleansing and renovating effect on the digestive apparatus. dawjeledim

LOCAL AFFAIRS.

New Advertisements to-day.

Pianos For Sale—A. Pearson.
Coopering Notice—Ansel H. Harlow.
A Card—Richd'n H. Walker.
Adjourned Meeting—Mechanics' Association.

☞ The death of Comrade James H. Emery of Storer Encampment, G. A. R., of this city, is the first which has occurred since the first formation of the Post, two years ago. This was made the subject of an impressive and interesting address at the grave by Comrade J. Albert Sanborn, during the funeral services of Sunday. It is spoken highly of by those who heard it.

Communication.

Messrs. Editors:—It appears that the "Board of Health" have no power to abate nuisances caused by a Railroad Co. ("Are their hats chalked?") or by brewers; have they energy enough to suppress that caused by the butchers? All the preaching from our pulpits Sunday, won't neutralize the swearing caused by the stench of the South Road slaughter house. If the constituted authorities are too imbecile to abolish these crying evils—which we have suffered for years—what alternative is there but Judge Lynch?

A LOVER OF LAW AND ORDER.

A SAD CASE.—Lodgings were given to a woman named Annie Russell and three children at the Police Station, Saturday night, the youngest child being under two years of age and the oldest, a girl, about eight or nine years. They said they were burned out at Manchester during the late fire there and had been wandering about since. Everything was done for their comfort and on Sunday they started off again, returning to the Station in the evening, the mother being howling drunk. The pitiable condition of the children was rendered worse by the raving of the drunken woman, whose uproar attracted hundreds of people to the police station. She started off again Monday morning, taking the children with her.

☞ We don't believe anybody need ask for a better Carriage of any sort, than those turned out from Cames' Manufactory in this city—whether light or heavy, for business or pleasure,—from a trotting wagon to a family carryall. Their work is sought for both at home and abroad, and sold as fast as made.

We understand that the Messrs. Came will proceed immediately to build a three-story addition to the rear of their shop, as their present accommodations are insufficient.

They recently turned out the highest and handsomest open buggy or wagon ever built in the State, which is much admired; and we will add, that the harness which fits and befits the same so nicely, was from Larrabee's saddlery establishment, in this city also. There is no need of going abroad for anything of this sort—or almost any other sort.

PORTSMOUTH AND THE NAVY YARD. A correspondent of the Portland Advertiser, writes to that paper as follows:—

Wednesday morning we stood across Wells Bay and by Cape Neddick in York, with light but favorable winds, passing Kittery Point, then with a freshening wind and favoring tide, sweeping pretty rapidly up the Piscataqua, and arriving at Portsmouth at 3. It is well for travellers on the Piscataqua to avail themselves of a fair tide or a good breeze, else they are likely to encounter delay at a narrow passage below the town, named by our pious ancestors, with fearful accuracy, "Point Full-and-be-d——d." I noticed in its immediate vicinity a small cemetery, but whether it contained the remains of those who had pulled—ineffectually, I was not informed.

Portsmouth is an extremely quiet, old fashioned, but amazingly comfortable and agreeable city, very much like Portland before the railroad days of 1844-48.

The venerable North Cemetery in Portsmouth is in a neglected condition. The cars run close to it, and the entrance is nearly closed up by ashes, not those of the venerable citizens, but of anthracite coal burned by their degenerate descendants.

At the Navy Yard, nearly 1000 men are employed, among whom I recognized several old acquaintances from our part of the State. I judge the discipline is perfect; for when the government bell struck 5, every adze, hammer, mallet, saw and tool dropped from the nerveless grasp of the workmen with a precision worthy of our Light Infantry under the eye of Gen. Mattocks; and a yoke of oxen which had dragged a stick of timber nearly across the yard, were unchained in mid career as if by some telegraphic movement.

It is said that something is saved by Uncle Samuel out of the eight-hour law, in that now the men are mustered at 7.45 and actually begin work at 8, instead of including the muster in the working time. "Sojering" too, is said to be rather more difficult.

Within five minutes after the bell struck 5, at least fifty boats swarmed over the river, each rapidly rowed homeward by the men from the yard; the river was almost covered with them.

☞ The road bed of the Portsmouth, Great Falls & Conway R. R., is being put in a good condition. A gravel train has been running for several weeks, and will be kept on for some weeks to come. Thirty tons of new iron has been laid above Great Falls within a short time, and more is being put down. A new bridge has been built at Milton, and other improvements been made on the line, which are a credit to the efficient Superintendent, Mr. Perkins, who is an able railroad manager. The trains are making good time this summer, and a large share of the mountain travel goes by this route. The road will probably be extended to Ossipee in a short time. The surveyors are at work, and we trust the citizens on the line of the proposed route will give the project all possible encouragement, as it will be of immense benefit to them all when completed.

MISSING.—Mr. George Martin, formerly of Newburyport, who has been in the employ of T. S. Nowell, Esq., for the past year, has been missing since last Friday, and fears are entertained that he has committed suicide, as he had shown signs of aberration of late. Any information as to his whereabouts will be thankfully received by his afflicted family. Mr. Martin is a member of the Masonic fraternity and was in good standing as a member of the Methodist Church of this city.

He is about 5 feet, 9 inches high, light complexion, wore a light moustache, no other whiskers. Before he went away, he went to his boarding place, changed a good coat and hat for old ones and took away an empty valise with him.

☞ During the thunder shower of last week, the lightning struck in several places in this vicinity, but without doing great damage. Two separate trees very near the residence of Mr. R. S. Lane of Newington, and one on the March place in Greenland, were shattered.

A schooner boat-load of Manchester people off Rye Beach, in the Mary Jove, fishing, were in great peril and terror for several hours. The mill at the Harbor was badly damaged, and a few chimnies and bath-houses blown over.

☞ The spacious and elegant Ocean House at Rye Beach, filled up last week; and with the brilliant company, and the fine Band connected with the house, the scene is gay and lively at all times.

The Sagamore House, at Frost's Point, is also well filled, with first-class company.

THE CESS POOL BUSINESS seems coming to a head. Attorney General Clarke has filed a bill of complaints in the S. J. Court against Messrs. Frank Jones and Jarvis Brothers, praying for an injunction to prevent these parties from draining into the cess pool. A hearing will be had at Manchester on Friday.

THE MUFFIN MATCH at base ball, next Thursday afternoon, is a fixed fact. Sixteen muffins answered to their names at the preliminary meeting Monday evening, and the final meeting for finishing the business will be held on Wednesday evening.

☞ Steamer Appledore had 113 passengers to the Shoals, Monday forenoon, and the Laightons dined 463, not counting children. Every spare inch on the piazza was filled with sleepers, Monday night, and yet there was not room for all.

—The steamers California and Narragansett, now fitting out for sea at the Portsmouth yard, will be ready by the first of September.—Boston Advertiser.

Bet you a dime they won't, Mr. Advertiser!

DEATHS.

J. EDGAR THOMPSON, } Trustees.
CHARLES L. FROST,

The greater part of the road is already completed, and the earnings from the finished portion are already more than sufficient to pay operating expenses and interest on the bonds. The balance of the work is progressing rapidly, in time for the movement of the coming grain crops, which, it is estimated will double the present income of the road.

The established character of this line, running as it does through the heart of the most thickly settled and richest portion of the great State of Iowa, together with its present advanced condition and large earnings warrant us in unhesitatingly recommending these bonds to investors, as, in every respect, an unobjectionable security.

These bonds have 50 years to run, are convertible at the option of the holder into the stock of the company at par, and the principal and interest of the principal is provided for by a sinking fund. The convertibility privilege attached to these bonds cannot fail to cause them to no distant day to command a market price considerably above par, be sides paying about 9 per cent., currency, interest in the meanwhile. U. S. Five-twenties, at present prices only return five per cent.; and we regard the security equally safe.

RICHARDSON'S

LITTLE WASHER, unlike all others, is light and portable, weighing only ten pounds, is sold for the small price of five dollars. Adjusts itself to any article from a Pocket-handkerchief to a

LARGE BED SPREAD,

without alteration. Can be fitted to any tub, and removed at pleasure.

If you will use this little common sense washing machine, you will do the work of half a day in 2 hours.

RICHARDSON'S LITTLE WASHER does not tear or wear the clothes, so much as one fine tie fabric. Clothes are straightened out, and passed back and forth, between the rollers till clean.

Remember and always have a good strong and hot suds.

Put your Pockethandkerchiefs, Cuffs, Collars, Napkins and Fringes into a sheet or Pillow slip and wash perfectly clean, in two to three minutes. We wash at one time, two or three sheets gathered at the hem, six Pillow slips, six Towels, two or three Cotton Shirts, one pair heavy Pants or two pairs light ones, one heavy Spread or Blanket, always putting the smaller things inside something larger or longer.

Wherever this Little Washer has been introduced the sale has been unprecedented, having sold upwards of three hundred in Boston, IL, in less than two months; two thirds of the purchasers had been using large awkward machines costing from five to eighteen dollars; all failure, one great complaint being that they are heavy and no woman can work them.

Richardson's has taken a Silver Medal in Springfield, Mass., at Mechanic's Fair in 1869, and other places where exhibited.

A Lady who has not washed for three years, told her neighbors she did her washing, with that Little Washer, with ease, comfortably; they ordered one, and the question all over town is, have you got a RICHARDSON'S LITTLE WASHER?

The Chronicle.

—The Spaniards have a maxim that a man is ungrateful to the past generation that planted the tree from which he eats fruit, and deals unjustly toward the next generation, unless he plants the seed that it may furnish fruit for those who come after him.

—A correspondent of the Chicago Tribune mentions a case where cows were poisoned by eating potatoes that had the sprouts on. He says before old potatoes are fed the sprouts should in all cases be removed.

—In chasing an annoying dog, the other night, a Portlander man ran foul of a clothes line, which widened his mouth and extracted two teeth, and he didn't catch the dog.

—Billings says, "whenever a minister haz preached a sermon that pleazes the whole congregation, he probably haz preached one that the Lord won't endorse."

AYER'S CATHARTIC PILLS,
FOR ALL PURPOSES of a LAXATIVE MEDICINE,
Perhaps no one medicine is so universally required by everybody as a cathartic, nor was ever any before so universally adopted into use in every country and among all classes, as this mild but efficient purgative Pill. The obvious reason is that it is a more reliable and far more effectual remedy than any other. Those who have tried it, know that it cured them; those who know not, know that it cures their neighbors and friends and all know that what it does once it does always—that it never fails through any fault or neglect of its composition. We have thousands upon thousands of certificates of their remarkable cures of the following complaints, but such cures are known in every neighborhood, we need not publish them. Adapted to all ages and conditions in all climates; containing neither calomel or any deleterious drug, they may be taken with safety by anybody. Their sugar coating preserves them ever fresh and makes them pleasant to take, while being purely vegetable no harm can come from their use in any quantity.
They operate by their powerful influence on the internal viscera to purify the blood and stimulate it into healthy action—remove the obstructions of the stomach, bowels, liver, and other organs of the body, restoring their irregular action to health, and by correcting, wherever they exist, such derangements as are the first origin of disease.
Minute directions are given in the wrapper on the box, for the following complaints, which the PILLS rapidly cure:—
For Dyspepsia or Indigestion, Listlessness, Languor and Loss of Appetite, they should be taken moderately to stimulate the stomach and restore its healthy tone and action.
For Liver Complaint and its various symptoms, Bilious Headache, Sick Headache, Jaundice or Green Sickness, Bilious Colic and Bilious Fevers, they should be judiciously taken for each case, to correct the diseased action or remove the obstructions which cause it.
For Dysentery or Diarrhea, but one mild dose is generally required.
For Rheumatism, Gout, Gravel, Palpitation of the Heart, Pain in the side, Back and Loins, they should be continuously taken, as required, to change the diseased action of the system. With such change those complaints disappear.
For Dropsy and Dropsical Swellings, they should be taken in large and frequent doses to produce the effect of a drastic purge.
For Suppression a large dose should be taken, as it produces the desired effect by sympathy.
As a DINNER PILL, take one or two PILLS to promote digestion and relieve the stomach.
An occasional dose stimulates the stomach and bowels into healthy action, restores the appetite, and invigorates the system. Hence it is often advantageous where no serious derangement exists. One who feels miserably well, often finds that a dose of these PILLS makes him feel decidedly better, from their cleansing and renovating effect on the digestive apparatus. dawjeledim

AYER'S
HAIR VIGOR,
For Restoring Gray Hair to its Natural Vitality and Color.
A Dressing which is at once agreeable, healthy, and effectual for Preserving the Hair. Faded or gray Hair is soon restored to its original color, with the gloss and freshness of youth. Thin hair is thickened, falling hair checked, and baldness often, though not always, cured by its use.
Nothing can restore the hair where the follicles are destroyed, or the glands atrophied and decayed. But such as remains can be saved for usefulness by this application. Instead of fouling the hair with a pasty sediment, it will keep it clean and vigorous. Its occasional use will prevent the hair from turning gray or falling off, and consequently prevent baldness. Free from those deleterious substances which make some preparations dangerous and injurious to the hair, the Vigor, can only benefit but not harm it.
If wanted merely for a HAIR DRESSING, nothing else can be found so desirable. Containing neither oil nor dye, it does not soil white cambric, and yet lasts long on the hair, giving it a rich glossy lustre and a grateful perfume.

Portsmouth, N. H.

WEDNESDAY, AUGUST 10, 1870.

WAR NEWS.—In the battle of Haguenau, General McMahon's chief-of-staff, was killed by his side. General Raoult is missing. Metz is preparing for a vigorous defence.

The Corps Legislatif convened on Tuesday at Paris.

The ministers have issued the following proclamation:—

FRENCHMEN.—We have told the whole truth. It is for you now to do your duty. Let one shout come from all—from one end of France to the other. Let the people vie with each other in sustaining the great cause. Some of our regiments have fallen before overwhelming numbers. The army has not been defeated. To the fortunate audacity of the movement let us oppose tenacity. Let the inhabitants of all parts of France, not subjected to the burden of war, rush to the assistance of the brothers in the East. Let France be united. Heaven bless our arms!

A decree has been issued ordering the Garde Nationale of Paris to be detailed for the defence of the capital, and the fortifications will be placed in a condition to resist an attack.

It is said privately that the Emperor is ill at Chalons, and that Doctors Nelaton and Ricord have gone to attend him.

It is said that the Emperor Napoleon's attack is the return of his old disease, provoked by equestrianism.

It is said that the Orleans Princes are prodigal of their money in relieving the wounded of the French army.

Marshal Bazaine has been appointed commander-in-chief, and Gen. Trochu major-general of the army. General Leboeuf retires.

The departments of the Vosges and Moselle are to be inundated by order of the government.

The defences of Paris are officially reported as ready to resist the heaviest assault, and it is said that 150,000 men are ready to fill up the ranks of the army in the field, and that the arming of all adults is contemplated.

The British foreign office has an imperative demand from Prussia that England shall stop shipments of coal or abandon the pretence of neutrality.

Ireland receives the news of the French defeat with profound sorrow.

The French war office having received confirmatory intelligence of the defeat of the French forces at Worth and Spickern, news of the reverses of McMahon's and Frossard's corps has been officially bulletined and distributed throughout all the departments of France. The patriotic excitement which prevailed at the outbreak of the war has been revived, and the united sentiment throughout France is for war and vengeance for their slain brethren. The greatest agitation prevails in all the cities of France, especially in Paris. The patriotic ardor of the populace is intense. The Garde Nationale and Garde Mobile have asked permission to join the army at the front, that they may participate in active movements for the defence of France.

Marshal McMahon telegraphs that his corps suffered less in the late battle at Worth than has been supposed.

The New York Tribune's correspondent writes from Mayence that the prisoners taken at Wissenbourg put a good face on matters, and showed true French gaiety. The large crowd received them very well, throwing packages of tobacco and cigars to their beaten foes. Wine and cigars were offered by the Germans, but the French desired to pay for everything.

A London dispatch of Monday says: The news from Paris grows hourly more serious. None but official accounts can come by telegraph. It is from letters and Paris journals that all intelligence must be gathered. The declaration of the state of siege does not repress popular demonstrations, and it is very doubtful whether the government has the force to keep order or put down any considerable demonstrations. The republicans believe that their hour approaches, and Paris at this moment is as likely to rise against Napoleon as to arm against Prussia. On Sunday evening the rage, fury and disappointment of the Parisians at finding that there has been a series of defeats on French soil, instead of the easy military promenade which they expected was beyond description. All the kiosks on the boulevard are shut at 11 o'clock.

The population were furious on reading the proclamation of the Empress and ministry, saying that the country may yet be saved if all will be united.

A Paris correspondent writes that everbody was mad at morning, madder at noon, and maddest, to about the revolutionary point, at night.

The news of the French defeats was know in London and New York hours before it was confessed in Paris.

Authentic information has been received, to the effect that Austria and Italy have agreed to act in concert in the present European crisis, and that both have pledged themselves to render to France armed assistance if necessary for her security.

A garrison of 18,000 troops has been placed in Strasbourg, and the city is now prepared for a siege. The dams of the Moselle river have been opened and Metz is now surrounded by water.

The last of the French troops have left Rome.

General Trochu, who was to have commanded the Baltic expeditionary corps, has gone to Metz, and the Baltic enterprise is indefinitely postponed.

The reported death of Napoleon is contradicted.

A popular outbreak in Paris is imminent.

There is an immense uprising of the people of France to repel the Prussian invasion. It is said officially that 2,000,000 of men are ready to march, and that the reserve corps will number 1,000,000 men. The people are clamorous for organization and a leader.

Gen. Failly is in communication with Marshal McMahon. There has been no fighting since Sunday.

In the battle of Froschwiller, 140,000 Prussians attacked 32,000 men, under Marshal McMahon.

Gen. Bazaine has 430,000 men at Metz.

Communication.

REDUCING THE NIGHT WATCH.—A proposition has been introduced into the Board of Aldermen by Mr. Nowell, to reduce the number of Night Watchmen, on the ground that the present number is larger than is necessary, and that a considerable saving to the city would result from a reduction of the force. I hope the City Fathers will duly consider the question before acting upon it.

We have an efficient police. If this statement is questioned, let the doubter explain how it is that the streets of this city—a city reeking with rum—are at all passable. Are our drinkers so much more careful about infringing on the rights of decent people than are the drunkards of other cities? I think not. I consider the comparative quiet and good order we enjoy to be entirely due to the police—not to the superior moral character of our drunkards and rowdies—and to their efficiency in at least compelling crime and vice to keep hidden from the public gaze.

The police cannot close the rum-shops—"public opinion" will not allow it—but they do manage to keep the effects of rum-selling in the background, and very often have their hands full to do it, too. Serious crimes are rare in this city, and many criminals from other places are captured here. And if our city is orderly, we certainly have no reason to thank the criminals and rowdies for it, but the men who teach them the only lesson they can comprehend—that they have got to obey the laws.

Mr. Nowell gave as a reason why no watchmen were needed in the vicinity of Market Square, that the various banks keep watchmen on their premises! So does the Bank of England; but I do not see what bearing that fact has on the question of our city police. If the only duty of the city watch was to prevent burglaries, Mr. Nowell's argument would have some weight; but many citizens do not own stores, (I don't, for one,)—yet they are surely to be considered in this matter, as well as the bankers and merchants. The idea that our citizens should be wholly deprived of protection in the vicinity of Market Square because the banks are safe, is surprising. The bank watchmen are private; and if a peaceable man or respectable woman should be insulted or assailed under their very noses, they have no authority to protect the aggrieved or arrest the guilty. It is false economy to save money by encouraging lawlessness, which is just what any measure tending to impair the efficiency of our police force would do.

Yours, PENCIL.

James King, a respectable citizen of Dover, recently celebrated his eighty-first birthday, and second wedding-day, simultaneously, by leading to the hymeneal altar, a blooming bride of seventy-six.

Samuel G. Frost who shot at Mr. Day in Effingham about three years ago, and who was acquitted of the charge of murder by the Court on the ground of insanity, and subsequently taken to the asylum, has escaped from that institution. He got away by digging out two or three bricks with a nail. During his stay at the asylum he has been at times among the most violent of the patients. It is very probable that he has started for Ossipee, where he has relatives, and that he will be captured. No blame attaches to the officers of the asylum.

The Manchester City Hotel caught fire from a barrel of kerosene in the cellar, Sunday afternoon; and so dense was the smoke, that most of the inmates escaped on ladders from the windows. Damage $1000.

The Manchester Mirror says that Concord in a population of 14000, has 75 widows.

Mr. Geo. Seelig, a respectable German, of Manchester, aged 64, committed suicide by shooting, on Saturday.

The Head Guards of Manchester have got a new uniform, red and blue. Gen. Natt gave them their caps. The Company will visit Newcastle on Saturday, for a week's camping-out.

James R. Kendrick, superintendent of the Concord railroad, has been offered a similar position, with a liberal salary, on the just finished railroad between Mobile, Ala., and New Orleans, and will soon go south, to examine the line and decide as to accepting the offer.

Mr. Wm. Greenough has been appointed postmaster at Chester, in place of Mr. D. L. Batchelder, resigned.

The Odd Fellows of Manchester are to erect a fine ball on the burned district in that city.

SPECIAL NOTICES.

The Life Sustaining Principle.

The vital and the muscular systems are entirely distinct from each other. A man may have the brawn of a Hercules, but if he is deficient in vital energy he will not wear as well, or last as long, or be as healthy and happy while he does last, as the man of ordinary, or even slender build, who possesses a larger share of the life sustaining principle. One of the greatest recommendations of that pure vegetable invigorant, HOSTETTER'S STOMACH BITTERS, is that it increases the vital force of the system. No medicine can double the volume of a man's muscle, or thicken and vulcanize his thews and sinews; but Hostetter's Bitters has an effect much more important. Its aim is promotion constitutional vigor.

It reinforces the life-power, of which bone and sinew and muscle are merely the instruments, holding the same relation to it that machinery does to steam. Let the slight and apparently fragile take heart, they may have more stamina, though far less physical strength, than the broad shouldered athletes they regard with envy. To restore, to sustain, to increase this stamina! principle which, when in full supply, is the source of health and the best guarantee of longevity, is a special property of the famous restorative. It is not only a specific for dyspepsia, biliousness, intermittent fevers, constipation, &c., and a preventive of all diseases of a malarious character, but the best of all medicines for strengthening the constitution and awakening the powers of nature, from whatever cause they may have become lethargic. au6dawlw

THIRTY YEARS!

It has lost none of its good name by repeated trials, but continues to occupy a prominent position in every family medicine chest.

It is an External and Internal Remedy. For Summer Complaint, or any other form of bowel disease in children or adults, it is an almost certain cure, and has without doubt, been more successful in curing the various kinds of CHOLERA than any other known remedy, or the most skillful physician. In India, Africa and China, where this dreadful disease is more or less prevalent, the PAIN KILLER is considered by the natives, as well as European residents in those climates, a sure remedy; and while it is a most efficient remedy for pain, it is a perfectly safe medicine, even in unskilful hands. 1mlawjy8

LOCAL AFFAIRS.

New Advertisements to-day.

Varieties—LaFayette Laighton.
Lost—Gold Bracelet.

☞ The Head Guard, Co. C., 1st Regt. N. H. S. M., Capt. David Urch, will go in camp at New Castle, for a 7 days Encampment. They will arrive in Portsmouth on the evening train, next Saturday.

☞ It was Miss Ewen, and not Even, whose death we intended to Chronicle yesterday; and a fast, not fat minister we designed to allude to, at the Shoals. Mistakes will happen; and some of them are ludicrous, while others are provoking.

☞ Steamer Favorite, Capt. Davidson, has been temporarily removed from her regular route between this city and the Shoals; but the pilot steamer Clara Bateman having been engaged to take her place for the few days she will be absent, no interruption will occur to the travelling accommodations advertised.

☞ The Portland Advertiser says, "One of the Isles of Shoals, it is said, belongs to Maine, and to the First Congressional district; though some doubt is thrown upon this statement, by the fact that no petition for a new custom house, a light house, or even a post office, has been received from the Isles within the memory of the oldest Maine Congressman."

CAPT. BAKER'S BENEFIT EXCURSION to-morrow (Thursday) evening, should—and probably will—be a rouser. The Portsmouth Cornet Band are engaged, the moonlight is perfect, and the Appledore is a favorite boat; and when to this combination of attractions is added the opportunity of exchanging the heat and dust of the city for a few hours' luxury in the cool, pure breezes of the Atlantic, and the deserved popularity of the courteous steamboat skipper himself, a crowded boat will no doubt be the result. The fare is only 50 cents, and the starting hour 8 o'clock.

DISTINGUISHED ARRIVALS.—Schooner Pyrola, Moore master, one of Messrs. Harding & Doane's fishing fleet, arrived at Newcastle Monday evening, after an absence of ten weeks on Grand Bank, with 1600 quintals of splendid fish on board. This is an immense catch, and the Pyrola claims the fishy championship; we think she has won it—though if we remember rightly, there was an old brig that once brought in 1600 quintals of dried cod; but that was the result of a long trip to Labrador.

Another of Messrs. H. & D.'s fine vessels, the schooner W. H. Y. Hackett, Robbins master, arrived Tuesday, also from Grand Bank, with 1200 quintals of fish. Our informant says that the Hackett would have brought in as big a fare as the Pyrola, if she could have only held it; but she is the smaller vessel. The schooner seems to be as staunch and reliable as her well-known namesake.

We are pleased to learn that the Newcastle fleet is doing a big business this year, and that Messrs. Harding & Doane are prospering to a very gratifying degree. One of their craft, the Velocipede, not finding fish where the rest of the summer fleet were, stood away to the southward—an unusual thing to do so late in the season—and soon took 200 barrels of mackerel in over her rail; and nearly every vessel arriving lands a good fare.

A TEMPERANCE LECTURE.—Annie Russell, the woman of whom mention was made in our issue of Tuesday morning, at midnight Tuesday visited the West End, and again made night hideous with her drunken howlings and yells, arousing the residents in that locality, some of whom turned out to her assistance. She had with her, her three children, who were lying on the ground completely exhausted, and were kindly cared for by Mr. Wm. Alton; while the mother, after being deprived of a bottle of whiskey, was taken to the Station by the police, (one of whom got a heavy blow from her while doing it,) to sober off. The whole family were provided with tickets to Lawrence, and sent back to that city. We can imagine no more powerful appeal in favor of prohibitory legislation than the spectacle presented by those three little children, cold, wearied and half famished, lying unsheltered on the bare ground, and the miserable mother hugging her darling whiskey-bottle and giving vent to her maudlin sorrows in shrieks, curses and tears. But a law that would have prevented her from getting liquor would have interfered with the "personal liberty" of some rum-seller to make three cents, if he could do so by ruining a body or damning a soul. Great is the power of rum; and wondrous the fervid eloquence of cant, when to bolster up the rum-traffic it raises the cry of "liberty."

THE DEMOCRATIC NOMINEE.—Hon. Wm. P. Haines of this city, whom the Democrats of this First District have nominated as their candidate for Congress, was born in Canterburry, N. H., Feb. 22, 1811, and is consequently 59 years of age. He graduated from Dartmouth College in the class of '31, and commenced the study of law in the office of Hayes and Coggswell of South Berwick, and completed his studies at Saco in the office of Gov. John Fairfield. He was admitted to the bar in 1825 and entered into law-partnership with the Governor, and continued this partnership up to 1847. In that year he was elected to the State Senate. Following that he was chosen agent of the Saco Water Power Co., which was the first of his engaging in manufacturing. This position he held for one year, when he was chosen agent of the Pepperell Manufacturing Co., a position which he held up to Sept., 1866, 18 years, when he was elected Treasurer of the Pepperell and Laconia Companies, a position which he now holds.—Biddeford Journal.

☞ Calvin L. Hayes, Esq., at the last election received the votes of every member of both parties for the office of town clerk of Kittery, at an otherwise contested town meeting. The records under his charge begin in 1642 and are frequently examined by antiquarians. They bear the names of Sir William Pepperell and other distinguished residents of that ancient town. Mark Dennett, Esq., the last representative from Kittery to the legislature in Boston before the separation of Maine from Massachusetts, is still living at Kittery, an octogenarian, who has received many municipal honors from his town.

OVER THE RIVER.—A young son of Charles Jones of Eliot, was accidentally shot by a pistol in the left hand, on Monday, while carelessly handling the weapon.

Capt. Jeremiah Gunnison of Kittery had a cancer removed from his lip on Tuesday.

Rev. Mr. Drake of Kittery Point had a tumor removed from his head on Tuesday.

Mr. Hutchings of York had a cancer removed from his hand on Tuesday. All of the above cases were successfully treated by Dr. Mark F. Wentworth of Kittery.

☞ Bro. Clarke, of the Manchester Mirror, has been rusticating at the Boar's Head Hotel, and is in ecstacies over the place. Manchester and Concord people are getting thick at Hampton and Rye Beaches; and well they may wish relief from the oppressive heat of those sandy localities, where the glory of an east wind (in Summer) is unknown.

☞ The Bangor Whig says that two ladies in Orono are seriously ill from the effects of vermin in jute switches, which they have been in the habit of wearing. The insects have penetrated the scalp in innumerable places, and fatal results are feared. Instances of this kind are becoming very numerous.

The greater part of the road is already completed, and the earnings from the finished portion are already more than sufficient to pay operating expenses and interest on the bonds. The balance of the work is progressing rapidly, in three months the entire road will be open, which will add materially to the present income of the road.

The established character of this line, running as it does through the heart of the most thickly settled and richest portion of the great State of Iowa, together with its present advanced condition and large earnings warrant us in unhesitatingly recommending these bonds to investors, as, in every respect, an undoubted security.

These bonds have 50 years to run, are coupon or registered at the option of the holder into the stock of the company at par, and the payment of the principal is provided for by a sinking fund. The convertibility privilege attached to these bonds cannot fail to cause them at no distant day to command a market price considerably above par, after paying about 9 per cent. currency, interest in the meanwhile. U. S. Five-twenties, at present prices only return five per cent.; and we regard the security equally safe.

RICHARDSON'S

LITTLE WASHER, unlike all others, light and portable, weighing only ten pounds, is sold for the small price of five dollars. Adjusts itself to any article from a Pockethandkerchief to a

LARGE BED SPREAD,

without alteration. Can be fitted to any tub, and removed at pleasure.

If you will use this little common sense washing machine, you will do the work of half a day in 2 hours.

RICHARDSON'S LITTLE WASHER does not tear or wear the clothes, no matter how fine the fabric. Clothes are straightened out, and passed back and forth, between the rollers till clean.

Remember and always have a good Wringer and hot suds.

Put your Pocket handkerchiefs, Cuffs, Collars, Napkins and Fringes into a sheet or Pillow slip and wash perfectly clean, in two to three minutes. We wash sheets quite, two or three sheets gathered at the hem, six Pillow slips, six Towels, two or three Cotton Shirts, one pair heavy Pants or two pairs lightpants, one heavy Spread or Blanket, always putting the smaller things inside something larger or longer.

Wherever this Little Washer has been introduced the sale has been unprecedented, having sold upwards of three hundred in Dover, N. H., in less than two months; two thirds of the purchasers had been using large new-fashioned washing machines costing from five to eighteen dollars; all a failure, one great complaint being that they are heavy and no woman can work them.

Richardson's has taken a Silver Medal in Springfield, Mass., at Mechanic's Fair in 1868, and other pieces where exhibited.

A Lady who has not washed for three years, told her husband she would rather washing, with this Little Washer, with ease, consequently they ordered one, and the question all over town is, have you got a RICHARDSON'S LITTLE WASHER?

TERRAPIN WANTED,
my23 At the Rockingham House

Morning Chronicle.

THE QUILL ON RECORD.—As we believe none of our city papers have made full report of the literary dessert at the Editors' Dinner, in the great tent on the beach at the Sagamore House, we propose to say a word of each sentiment and speaker.

The first thing in order for the second day, after breakfast at the Ocean House, was to embark on the steamer Favorite,—when she got there, after being delayed for an hour or two waiting for the Band. This was done by means of small flat-bottomed boats,—dories or wherries,—launched through the surf by fishermen and boys; and although getting a party on board in such cases is always pronounced very difficult, and the wiseacres on this occasion said it would occupy three hours' time—it actually took only about 30 minutes to put say 200 ladies and gentlemen safely on board. Then Shoalsward, and to thy tent, O printers, at Sagamore. Here, after the material dinner, the assembly was called to order by J. M. Hill, Esq., President of the N. H. Association, and E. H. Elwell, Esq., of the Portland Transcript, introduced as Toastmaster. The first regular toast announced was—

Maine and New Hampshire—sister States linked in history and lineage, as in geographical position; may the friendship this day cemented between the press of both, be as enduring as the hills of the one and as expansive as the forests of the other.

Very handsomely responded to by Hon. Nelson Dingley, Jr., of the Lewiston Journal, in behalf of the Maine Association, and Hon. George G. Fogg of the Independent Democrat for the N. H. Association.

And here we will say that newspaper men have a great abhorrence of long after dinner speeches, and they set "the rest of mankind" a worthy example on this occasion, as these speeches scarcely exceeded five minutes in length.

The next Sentiment was

The Senate of the United States—A body which eminently illustrates the tendency of Republican institutions to open to men of all conditions the highest positions of the State. The Senate of Rome was a body of patricians; the Senate of the United States is a body of citizens.

Senator Hamlin, formerly a printer, was expected to reply to this, but left for home in the morning, and in his absence the Band responded with "Hail Columbia."

The House of Representatives—The strong right arm and bulwark of our Republican government. The people's umpire, and their refuge for redress and reform.

Hon. J. H. Ela, a printer member of Congress, and Gen. A. F. Stevens, responded to this. Mr. Ela made a good speech, which we have before given. Mr. Stevens spoke of Ben. Franklin's electrical discoveries, and of the importance they were to the newspapers, to-day, and also expressed his gratification that so many ladies were present to participate in the festivities of the day.

The Press of Massachusetts—From Plymouth Rock to Berkshire Mountains, and from Nantucket to the Spindle City—alive to the interests of the grand old Commonwealth which was born in the cabin of the May Flower. Success to it in all future time.

Frank B. Sanborn, of the Springfield Republican, responded to this in a unique and happy speech, after which Geo. A. Marden, of the Lowell Courier, gave a poetical epistle purporting to be from Mrs. Partington's "Ike," entitled "Editors on a Bender." It was replete with wit, technical puns, and sharp points. We shall give it to our readers hereafter.

By request, Mr. Barnabee's quartette sung, "Hush my Baby." The next sentiment was:

The Editorial Associations of Vermont and Massachusetts—We welcome them as efficient agencies in the work of elevating the editorial profession. May the series of sister associations soon embrace all the New England States.

Mr. E. P. Walton, of Montpelier, President of the Vermont Association, responded to this, and closed by inviting the other New England Associations, by officers or delegates, to be represented at their annual meeting, on Aug. 11th.

The New York Press—

The largest press in size,
And always noted for its enterprise;
Such journalism can not fail to grow,
With journalists like Bull of Buffalo.

Geo. W. Bull, of the Buffalo Commercial Advertiser, responded to this in a felicitous speech.

California—Her patriotism is pure as her gold—May her future sons be equal to those of her adoption.

This was responded to by Hon. A. A. Sargent, of California, member of the U. S. House of Representatives, formerly a printer and editor, who spoke of the wonderful growth of the State, and closed by inviting all to come and see it.

Mr. Barnabee was called on for a song; but instead, recited a humorous scene in a country debating society, which considered the question of the "Suppression of the Press."

The Daily Press of Boston—So enterprising in its mission that it Transcripts the News and Heralds it be-Times to all Travellers and the rest of mankind, who desire a Journal in which every Advertiser will keep them Post-ed, not only about their Boston Notions, but in the Day's Doings the world over. Here's your good health, and your families', and may they live long and prosper.

Mr. Waters of the Boston Advertiser was called on to respond to this, but could not put in appearance, as he had left for home shortly before.

The Commercial Press—Indispensable to business men, and a power recognized by the Bulls and Bears of the stock market.

Mr. B. F. Guild of the Commercial Bulletin, responded to this with one of his unique and characteristic speeches.

Our Honorary Members—We are honored by their presence here to-day, and are proud to number among them the promoter of railroads across the continent, and the traveller around the world.

This was responded to in behalf of Maine, by John A. Poor, of Portland, and in behalf of New Hampshire, by Charles C. Coffin.—Mr. Poor speaking particularly of Railroads, and Mr. Coffin of the mission of the American Press.

Our Railroads—In the world of matter, what the press is in the world of thought. By facilitating communication, they promote civilization; and by dead-heading editors, they keep the world alive.

As Mr. Poor's remarks related to this sentiment, no other speaker was called on to respond.

The Newspaper Correspondent—He photographs everything—analyzes everything — epitomises everything — is welcomed everywhere—is dead-headed in this world, and expects to be in the next.

A roamer far for news
O'er this terrestial ball,
They're all right down good fellows,
But here's one who Knox them all.

Thomas W. Knox of the New York Sun, the first newspaper correspondent who ever made the tour of the world, professionally, (and his first correspondence as a traveller was written for the Independent Democrat, in a series of White Mountain letters) responded to this sentiment in an exceedingly happy speech, illustrated with a story.

Our Orator and Poet—The one prepared himself for his high position as a Maine editor; the other rose from the case, to be a case himself.

Mr. Blaine was not present, and Mr. Shillaber excused himself from speaking.

A. M. Clapp, Congressional Printer, was next introduced and made a brief speech; after which Ben Perley Poore was called upon, and made an excellent and humorous speech, closing with the following sentiment:

Women—The nonpareil matter always to be locked up in a printer's heart. May she never get out or sorts, or utter a wrong exclamation, if asked for an em-brace.

Ex-Govs. Goodwin and Smyth, being called upon, followed with short speeches, complimentary to the fraternity. Gov. Goodwin said he did not expect to be called upon, and had made no preparation for a speech; but then he could do just as well, for he never studied a speech in his life. He spoke in fitting terms of his old and dear friends and neighbors, the late C. W. Brewster and T. H. Miller; and alluded in his cordial, whole-souled manner, to the managers of the present celebration.

Gov. Goodwin's short and interesting speech showed the interest he has always taken in the press of New England. He gave a closing sentiment, "The Press of the Country, the Watch-towers—May they always prove true;" and Ex-Gov. Smyth followed with a few remarks in a similar vein, saying he numbered some of his best friends among the editors.

Mr. George W. Bazin, one of the oldest printers in Boston, was called on, but excused himself from making a speech.

Mr. Boylston, of the Amherst Cabinet, being called up, read a new poem, the Paper Wedding, or first anniversary, of the Granite and Pine—the N. H. and Me. Press—which we shall print in a day or two. Although not so fresh and novel as the first, we think it fully equal to it, under the circumstances.

The volunteer toasts of Mr. Thomas Spinney, another veteran printer, we have already given.

Very interesting letters were read from Father Prentiss of Keene, 94 years old, who worked on the Boston Independent Chronicle in 1792, and printed the Keene Sentinel for half a century; John W. Moore of Manchester, who worked with Isaac Hill on the N. H. Patriot, fifty years ago; from Senator Patterson, John G. Whittier; and a sentiment by telegraph from Mark Twain:

I commend you all to the two faithful angels that are never absent from press banquets: Plenty that goes before—Famine that follows after.

Many other letters were received, not intended for publication, among which is the following from a prominent gentleman of the Maine Congressional delegation, which is rather too good (or too bad) to suppress:

Your invitation to mix with the Editors and Printers at Rye Beach, (and I suppose to mix "rye" with something else, after getting there, out of the reach of the "Maine Law,") is received. I would be glad to go, but cannot. Blaine will be enough of Congress for Maine. He is a heap of Editor, Printer and Speaker.

Very respectfully, —.—.—

The exercises closed with singing "Auld Lang Syne," followed by the President's repeating the benediction given by Geo. W. Bull of Buffalo, at the late Massachusetts Editors' Meeting: — "Now gentlemen, as we are about to separate, let me quote the words of Dickens in Tiny Tim, 'God bless you, every one.'"

The meeting was the largest of the kind ever held in New England, and everything passed off to the satisfaction of all. We never heard a better lot of after-dinner speeches, and certainly no better weather could have been had for such a gathering.

Mr. Barnabee's quartet contributed very much to the pleasure of the meeting, as also did Harlow's Marine Band. They all generously volunteered their services.

—Here is an oil region local:—It was a bad day for bats in Rousville, Monday. An owner of an oil farm that produces between one and two barrels per week, sold his oil and invested the proceeds in "Rattlesnake Remedy," after which he amused himself by standing upon Bradley's Corners and with a stick knocking the hats of passing pedestrians into the gutter. Many endured these eccentricities of character with a smile, and supposed he was a vender of hair restorative, looking for bald heads upon which to operate, but one excitable individual, whose business called him up and down street often, after having his hat knocked off several times, and finally into the middle of next week, by a crushing blow, began to think the "batter" meant business, and was observed to take his boot away from the vicinity of the eccentric individual's coat-tail several times quite violently, after which the latter picked himself up from the middle of the street and ceased his demonstrations.

—At a tea party in Washington, where General Butler lately was a guest, the hostess, glancing over the table, perceived his cup unfurnished with an important implement, of which she was supposed to appreciate the value. "Why, General Butler!" she exclaimed, in a little womanly flutter of consternation, "haven't you a spoon!" "No indeed, madame!" quickly responded the general, springing from his seat with well acted earnestness, and slapping his pockets, one after the other, "upon my word, madame, if you don't believe me madame, you may search me!" The applause which greeted this spontaneous sally may be more easily imagined than described.

—St. Paul once supposed a case of two little quarrels, one between a man's eye and hand, and the other between his head and his feet. Now we have news from London, through the law report of the Times, of a dispute between two "members" that have even nearer relations with each other. Beard has sued Cheek for libel. Cheek had the assurance to publish it in his paper that Beard was false—that is to say, dishonest.—and thereupon Beard bared his arm and slapped Cheek's cheek. Damages, one farthing.

CLIP YOUR PASTURES.—In all our pastures, especially in a dry season like this, there are spots where the grass has not been much cropped by the stock, and has run up tall and is now unfit for grazing. There are other places where hardhack, fern and other bushes have sprung up. It will pay, next year, if the owner will take his scythe in hand and clip all this profitless growth as close to the ground as he conveniently can. The material may be gathered and put about his trees as a mulch, and thus prove far more serviceable than in any other way.

MULCHING.—There is much work in properly mulching trees, shrubbery or plants, but, notwithstanding that, there is a benefit in it. There is no one thing that will tend more to the vigor of shade or fruit trees than the practice of surrounding the base with waste hay, straw or other similar material. This will retain the moisture about the roots of the tree, and prove far better than watering by bucket, sprinkler or force pump. Besides, its decay adds a fertility to the soil of just such character as the plant or tree requires.

—An Iowa John lately courted and engaged to marry a young girl, who, in a miff at some neglect on John's part, revenged herself by marrying Isaac, John's father. John countered by marrying the mother of his recent betrothed—John becoming the step father of his own step-mother, while Isaac's wife was compelled to become the daughter-in-law of her step-son. And thus John became his own grandfather by brevet.

—A Milwaukee "muss" says, "Taint much trouble to take care o' sick possons; most on 'em don't want anything, and if they do, they don't get it."

—California is "going it strong" on the chicken business. One hatcher has an oven in which he hatches two hundred dozen eggs at a "sitting."

—A swarm of bees settled on a man in Illinois and settled him.

AYER'S
HAIR VIGOR,
For Restoring Gray Hair to its Natural Vitality and Color.
A Dressing which is at once agreeable, healthy, and effectual for Preserving the Hair. Faded or gray Hair is soon restored to its original color, with the gloss and freshness of youth. Thin hair is thickened, falling hair checked, and baldness often, though not always, cured by its use.
Nothing can restore the hair where the follicles are destroyed, or the glands atrophied and decayed. But such as remains can be saved for usefulness by this application. Instead of soiling the hair with a pasty sediment, it will keep it clean and vigorous. Its occasional use will prevent the hair from turning gray or falling off, and consequently prevent baldness. Free from those deleterious substances which make some preparations dangerous and injurious to the hair, the Vigor, can only benefit but not harm it.
If wanted merely for a HAIR DRESSING, nothing else can be found so desirable. Containing neither oil nor dye, it does not soil white cambric, and yet lasts long on the hair, giving it a rich glossy lustre and a grateful perfume.
Prepared by Dr. J. C. Ayer & Co.,

WAR TALK.—The corps of General Frailly, which was not engaged in the recent action, is the rallying point of the French army. It has not been disturbed. Marshal McMahon has executed the movements prescribed for him.

A despatch from Carlsruhe, states that Strasburg was surrounded by an army of 60,000 Prussian troops, mostly from South Germany. The city must surrender, as the garrison is composed only of 7000 men. The advance of the Prussian right, from Saarlouis and Treves, has begun.

The Elbe has been closed to prevent the entrance of the French fleet.

The Prussians are concentrated before Metz.

Marshal Bazaine, commander-in-chief, has 130,000 men at Metz, McMahon has 50,000 at St. Averne, and Canrobert 50,000 at Nancy.

The Emperor has been solicited to return to Paris by the home Generals, and replies:—"I will only return dead or victorious."

Italy and Austria each send 100,000 men to aid France.

The Empress Eugenie, according to the Pall Mall Gazette, is preparing for flight.

The army at Metz is undergoing a thorough re-organization.

The Pall Mall Gazette has assurances from private sources in Paris that the empire is on the verge of collapse. The Germans are expected in Paris, and even if they are arrested the empire is dead. The Parisians are receiving arms, and they are all republicans at heart. The establishment of a provisional government is already talked of. The Orleanists, through Generals Changarnier and Trochu, are in the ascendant, and eminent imperialists are leaving France.

There was a run upon the Bank of France on Tuesday.

The losses of the French in the battle of Woerth, on Saturday, were 5000 dead, wounded and missing, and 6000 prisoners. McMahon's baggage, many cannons, and two long railway trains with stores and munitions, were captured. The Prussian cavalry in their pursuit bagged thousands of stragglers who had thrown away their arms. The total Prussian loss was 3500 dead and wounded.

In Paris all is confusion. Another proclamation has been issued, directed against seditious publications. The Corps Legislatif met, and a resolution directed against the ministry was adopted. The scene about the hall was one of tumultuous confusion, and cavalry cleared the streets.

The Journal Officiel publishes an imperial decree, declaring that the departments of Cote d'Or, Saone and Loire, and the Rhone have been placed in a state of siege. [These departments are southwest of Nancy.]

Napoleon is ill at Metz.

Gleaned and Ground.

The Germans in the large cities have been jubilating over the Prussian victories.

Indiana will be out of debt next month.

There were ten cases of sunstroke in New York, Monday, and six murderous affrays, in which several persons were seriously injured.

Extensive fires are raging in the forests in Washington Territory.

Mrs. McFarland Richardson, residing at Woodside, N. J., who had her carriage broken and herself thrown out and injured on Mount Pleasant avenue, a short time ago, has sued Edward Sawyer, a lumber dealer, with whose heavy wagon her carriage came in collision.

☞ A terrible tragedy occurred in Hartford, Coan., Tuesday evening. A German named Paul Fix, 68 years of age, while intoxicated, shot his wife through the breast, inflicting a dangerous though probably not a fatal wound. He then fired three shots at Mrs. Raible, his wife's cousin, one of which entered her arm, and soon after put four bullets into his own head and neck; he will probably die. Constant dissipation led to domestic quarrels which, have been growing worse for some time past.

ROCKINGHAM COUNTY.—From the printed pamphlet "Report of the County Commissioners of Rockingham County, for the year ending May 12, 1870," we select a few items of general interest to our readers. There is no question, but ere long all town pauper establishments, and all town settlements will be abolished; and all be merged, as they should be, in the County House. We can furnish a few copies of the Report, to those desiring them. The Commissioners say:

The Commissioners take this opportunity to report directly to the people of this county, upon the matters which have been confided to them for the past year.

The County Convention, at its session in the month of June, 1868, authorized the purchase of a county farm, and the erection of buildings upon it. The joint board examined such farms as were offered or recommended to them, and finally selected the Thyng farm, so called, in Brentwood. This farm embraced about one hundred and sixty acres of land, and is situated two and half miles from the Epping depot of the C. & P. R. R. They paid for it the sum of $5,500. The Board also made at the same time an additional purchase of thirty acres of land adjoining this farm, at a cost of $1,000. The occupation and cultivation of this farm for a little more than a year, we think fully justifies the selection which the Board made.

At the time of the purchase of the farm there was upon it a house and two barns, but entirely inadequate for the purposes required by the county. The Building Committee at once contracted for the erection of an almshouse. Although the possession of the new building was not surrendered to us until July of last year, yet, in the month of April we appointed William L. Philbrick of the city farm, Portsmouth, Superintendent of the county farm. Mr. Philbrick moved into the old house on said farm, and occupied it until Sept., 1869, when he removed to the new one.

After furnishing the building, and stocking the farm, the Commissioners early in September notified the several towns in the county that they were ready to receive inmates at the house. Up to the fifteenth of May, 1870, the whole number admitted to the farm was one hundred and eighty-four. The whole number of deaths, discharges and desertions, have been 69,—19 of this number having died at the house,—leaving the present number of inmates 115.

The larger part of the inmates are aged, and most of them unable to perform labor. The number of persons dependent upon the county for support, has been reduced nearly one half since the establishment of this institution; still, partial support is rendered, outside of the farm, to as many as are now supported at the farm. In no case, however, is a larger sum than seventy-five cents per week allowed for the support of paupers away from the farm, save in one or two instances, when the paupers cannot safely be removed.

The Commissioners ask for a new barn, accommodations for the insane poor, &c., which have since been voted by the Co. Convention, and the purchase of another farm authorized and completed as before stated in these columns.

The Thyng farm, when it came under Mr. Philbrick's charge in 1869, was not in a good state of cultivation; in fact it had been neglected for thirty years. The Board at the time of examination, however, thought it could be improved at no great expense, in the ordinary course of husbandry. Mr. Philbrick's success has fully justified their expectation. Last year he cultivated 10 acres of land and raised from it 1,300 bushels of potatoes, besides a considerable quantity of corn, garden vegetables, roots, etc. He also cut thirty tons of hay, which has been consumed on the place. The superintendent has increased the quantity of his cultivated land the present year to fifteen acres and has made great improvements upon the place.

Thus far the children, numbering about twenty, have attended the school in the district near where the farm is situated. The school accommodations in the district, however, are insufficient for them, and it is proposed, at once, to open a school at the farm. This school will be under the charge of Miss Moses, assistant matron.

The insanity department has been under the immediate charge of Dr. Caverly of Brentwood, a faithful and skillful physician.

The Commissioners congratulate the people of this county that they have been so fortunate as to secure the services of so competent and trustworthy a superintendent as Mr. Philbrick, with helpers so efficient as his wife and Miss Julia A. Moses.

We regret our inability to report the current year the exact cost per week of the board of those supported at the Farm. This inability arises from the fact that the inmates have been received gradually, and that a large corps of workmen have been boarded there by the County. These reasons, however, will not continue during the coming year, and in our next report, we can submit an accurate statement of this expense. We have, however, for several weeks kept correct accounts of the amount of provisions consumed by the inmates, and find that the expense of feeding them will not be far from $1 per week each. As the farm, we hope and believe, in coming years will more than defray all other expenses, we think can safely count this as the total weekly cost of supporting a pauper, unable to work at this institution, excepting a trifling sum for clothing.

When, however, we regard the number of those dependant upon the county for support, and the decrease of the sums paid for medical aid and clothing, it must be seen at once that a large saving will ultimately accrue to the county. The large diminution of county paupers since the establishment of this institution, conclusively shows us, that with the utmost vigilance and circumspection on the part of its officers, the county, under the old system, paid much larger bills than they ought to have done. Either some reluctance to a removal from their old homes, has incited some of its old pensioners to greater and more successful efforts for self support, or the county has been for many years the victim of some great imposition. Happily, all chances for the renewal of any such unjust burdens have been removed.

In concluding our suggestions in regard to the county farm, we would say, that the farm is well stocked, the house comfortably furnished for the accommodation of 200 persons, and the expense for the coming year, aside from the recommendations previously made, must be small.

☞ In 1844 the Steamer "Old Sultan" made the trip from New Orleans to Natchez, a distance of 295 miles, in 19 hours and 45 minutes. In July, 1870, the R. E. Lee made the same trip in 17 hours and 11 minutes, a difference of only 2 hours 45 minutes with all the modern improvements.

SPECIAL NOTICES.

The Life Sustaining Principle.

The vital and the muscular systems are entirely distinct from each other. A man may have the brawn of a Hercules, but if he is deficient in vital energy he will not wear as well, or last as long, or be as healthy and happy while he does last, as the man of ordinary, or even slender build, who possesses a larger share of this animating principle. One of the greatest recommendations of that pure vegetable invigorant, HOSTETTER'S STOMACH BITTERS, is that it increases the vital force of the system. No medicine can double the volume of a man's muscle, or thicken and vulcanize his thews and sinews; but Hostetter's Bitters has an effect much more important. Its use promotes physical vigor.

It reinforces the life-power, of which bone and sinew and muscle are merely the instruments, holding the same relation to it that machinery does to steam. Let the slight and apparently fragile take heart, they may have more stamina, though far less physical strength, than the broad shouldered athletes they regard with envy. To restore, to sustain, to increase this staminal principle which, when in full supply, is the source of health and the best guarantee of longevity, is a special property of the famous restorative. It is not only a specific for dyspepsia, biliousness, intermittent fevers, constipation, &c., and a preventive of all diseases of a malarious character, but the best of all medicines for strengthening the constitution and awakening the powers of nature, from whatever cause they may have become lethargic. aug6dawlw

PERRY DAVIS' PAIN KILLER

This valuable Family Medicine has been widely and favorably known in our own and foreign countries, upwards of

THIRTY YEARS!

It has lost none of its good name by repeated trials, but continues to occupy a prominent position in every family medicine chest.

It is an External and Internal Remedy. For Summer Complaint, or any other form of bowel disease in children or adults, it is an almost certain cure, and has without doubt, been more successful in curing the various kinds of CHOLERA than any other known remedy, or the most skillful physician. In India, Africa and China, where this dreadful disease is more or less prevalent, the PAIN KILLER is considered by the natives, as well as European residents in those climates, a sure remedy; and while it is a most efficient remedy for pain, it is a perfectly safe medicine, even in unskillful hands. 1mdawly8

LOCAL AFFAIRS.

New Advertisements to-day.

Rockingham Ten Cent Savings Bank.

☞ Hot, hotter, hottest,—hottest-test. Dry, dryer, dryest—the alliredest.

☞ The Minie Base Ball club did not arrive, and the promised game of base ball didn't come off here, on Wednesday, in consequence.

☞ The sale of the House and Furniture of Mr. M. Fisher to-day at eleven o'clock, is worthy of the attention of those in want of a good residence or furniture, &c.

☞ Pic Nic parties were pick-up parties, Wednesday afternoon, when the rain descended and the floods came. It is never safe, in this catching climate, to hold an out-door show or celebration, without having a reserve shelter at hand.

☞ The thermometer on Tuesday indicated a temperature of 96 degrees in the shade, about town. Mr. Edmund M. Brown informs us that he heated glue in the sun inside of 20 minutes' time and used it in glueing joints together.

☞ City Marshal Johnson has captured about a dozen dogs of all qualities and breeds, and now has them in durance vile. If their owners think them worth paying for, they will be released on having licenses taken out for them; otherwise they will be shot.

ADMIRAL FARRAGUT was suffering from a paralytic shock on Wednesday, and was reported dying, Wednesday evening, at the residence of Commodore Pennock, at the Navy Yard. This sad news will carry heartfelt sorrow to his countrymen throughout the land.

☞ Miles of Concrete Sidewalks and Crosswalks, are laid in Manchester, Concord and Nashua—and to universal acceptance. No city of like size, that we know of, has so good brick walks as Portsmouth; but Concrete (without edge-stones) costs but half as much, and is in many cases as good, or even better.

THE SAGAMORE HOUSE is one of the finest seaside retreats in this country. Nothing on our New England coast can excel the beauty of the location; and there are few hotels that will compare with the Sagamore House, kept by the Pierces, who are also of the Rockingham House at Portsmouth, both of which are fortunate in having clerks—sons of the late Major Morrill of Salisbury Mills—who know how to put their guests at ease, as though in their own homes.—Newburyport Herald.

CAPT. BAKER'S BENEFIT, this evening, should not be forgotten by his numerous friends; he deserves a crowded steamer-full and the indications are that he will receive it, if the weather is favorable. The Appledore is a popular craft, with a popular commander, and with the popular music of the Cornet Band, this benefit should be one of the most popular affairs of the season. The moon will be at its full, this evening, and an excursion to the Shoals can but be enjoyable in the highest degree. Boat starts at 8 o'clock, from Pier Wharf; fare 50 cts.

THAT MUFFIN MATCH of base ball is to come off at the Plains this afternoon, weather permitting. A team for the convenience of the ladies will leave for the grounds from corner of High and Congress Streets at 2.15 P. M. The game commences at 2.30; the nines will be chosen from the following muffers: D. J. Vaughan, D. W. Barnabee, Foster Shores, J. Horace Kent, Chas. H. Joy, Horace S. Frye, I. P. Miller, W. Freeman, G. W. Marston, Joseph Edmonds, John Tucker, Gardner M. Goodrich, Wm. M. Thayer, M. T. Betton, G. H. Jenness, M. M. Miller, H. W. Moses, W. P. Pray, James Parker, Calvin Page, Chas. Partridge.

POLICE.—Walter Snow was arrested on Friday by Officers Johnson and Entwistle, for being a drunkard and a common street loafer. Fined $8.76, and sent to the House of Correction in default of payment. Good job—clear 'em out.

On Saturday, Officer Mortimer arrested John Sullivan, another of the drunken-street-loafer squad, who was also fined $8.76, and sent up in default.

On Wednesday, Officers Entwistle and Stearns arrested a big drunken bully named John Wentworth, on Market Street. He loudly proclaimed his ability to "lick anybody in Portsmouth," and assaulted the officers who arrested him—but he didn't make much of a job of it, and was locked up.

☞ Three days' trotting commenced at the Manchester track, Wednesday. Joe Mooney, the wounded jockey, is thought to be recovering.

—New Orleans has had so much rain lately that it complains.

CENSUS RETURNS.—U. S. Marshal Patterson has furnished the returns of the population of the following towns, as shown by the census returns. We also give the population as reported in 1860, with the gain and loss in each town. It will be seen that the country towns generally have decreased.

—If Bismarck has sent that note to England to either stop selling coal to the French or abandon her pretense of neutrality, it will be curious to note what effect the notice will have upon the disposition of John Bull. Of course he will bellow and roar, paw the earth, and make the dirt fly; but whether he will impale any one with his belligerent horn remains to be seen. Englishmen seem to count how much they can make out of everybody's funeral. Their conduct during our rebellion will never be forgotten here; and all loyal Americans would rejoice very much to see their dear "mother" cornered in some of her meanness; where she would have to back down or fight.—Boston Times.

☞ A report from the Crow agency on the Yellow-stone River, says the Sioux attacked the Crows on their hunting grounds, driving them into the agency, where they claim protection of the government. There are some seventy lodges of Sioux on the river, about 70 miles from the agency, and a thousand lodges at old Fort C. F. Smith. They have burned the grass behind them and are driving the game ahead. Col. Baker will defend the mission Crows, who will undoubtedly come over into Gallatin Valley, followed by the Sioux.

OLD PAPER.—From a reader in Conway we are favored with a copy of the N. H. Gazette of June 25, 1865, a sheet about the size of our daily, half of whose musty space is devoted to reading, among which is a letter from Tom Paine to the citizens of U. S. Among amusing advertisements, John Brown of Rye forbids the harboring or trusting of Daniel Fitzjerrald, a runaway apprentice, for whose return the princely reward of one cent is offered. On the upper margin the paper is addressed to Richard Odell, Esq., in a fair, round hand. The whole affair is quaint and in marked contrast with papers to-day. Patriot.

☞ One of the worst looking failures reported for some time is that of Horatio Woodman, a Boston lawyer. The liabilities will reach upwards of a quarter of a million, while his assets are said to be only $20,000—in western and southern lands. Many banks and leading men are losers.

☞ A row in the Free Methodist Church in Canandaigua turns on the question whether a man shall sit with his wife in church as he insists upon doing, despite the rules.

☞ A Colorado gardener has gathered twenty-four hundred quarts of strawberries from an acre and a half of vines, this year.

☞ A very severe hail storm visited Terre Haute, Ind., Monday night. Many of the stones were six inches in circumference.

DEATHS.

In this city, August 10th, Mrs. SARAH E. VENNARD, wife of Capt. Matthew B. Vennard, aged 73 years.

☞ Funeral Services will be held at her late residence, No. 24 Vaughan St., at 2.45, this (Thursday) afternoon.

In Wakefield, July 27th, Mr. SAMUEL COOK, aged 70 years.

In Wolfeboro', Aug. 5th, Mrs. SARAH BRACKETT, wife of Hon. John M. Brackett, aged 55 yrs.

AT 90 AND INTEREST,

Interest payable May and November.

J. EDGAR THOMPSON, CHARLES L. FROST, } Trustees.

The greater part of the road is already completed, and the earnings from the finished portion are already more than sufficient to pay operating expenses and interest on the bonds. The balance of the work is progressing rapidly, in time for the movement of the coming grain crops, which, it is estimated will double the present income of the road.

The established character of this line, running as it does through the heart of the most thickly settled and richest portion of the great State of Iowa, together with its present advanced condition and large earnings warrant us in unhesitatingly recommending these bonds to investors, as, in every respect, an undoubted security.

These bonds have 50 years to run, are convertible at the option of the holder into the stock of the company at par, and the payment of the principal is provided for by a sinking fund. The convertibility privilege attached to these bonds cannot fail to cause them at no distant day to command a market price considerably above par, besides paying about 9 per cent. currency, interest in the meantime. U. S. Five-twenties, at present prices only return five per cent.; and we regard the security equally safe.

TESTIMONIALS.

"I regard Mr. Eddy as one of the most capable and successful practitioners with whom I have had official intercourse. CHARLES MASON,

"I have no hesitation in assuring inventors that they cannot employ a man more competent and trustworthy and more capable of putting their applications in a form to secure for them an early and favorable consideration at the Patent Office.
EDMUND BURKE,
Late Commissioner of Patents.

"MR. R. H. EDDY has made for me THIRTEEN applications, in all of which patents have been granted, and that one is now pending. Such unmistakable proof of great talent and ability on his part leads me to recommend ALL inventors to apply to him to procure their Patents, as they may be sure of having the most faithful attention bestowed on their cases, and at very reasonable charges. RICHARDSON'S

LITTLE WASHER, unlike all others, light and portable, weighing only four pounds, is sold for the small price of five dollars. Adjusts itself to any article from a Pocket-handkerchief to a

without alteration. Can be fitted to any tub, and removed at pleasure.

If you will use this little common sense washing machine, you will do the work of half a day in 2 hours.

RICHARDSON'S LITTLE WASHER does not tear or wear the clothes, no matter how fine the fabric. Clothes are straightened out, and passed back and forth, between the rollers till clean.

Remember and always have a good strong and hot suds.

Put your Pocket-handkerchiefs, Cuffs, Collars, Napkins and Fringes into a tumbler or Pillow slip and wash perfectly clean, in two to three minutes. We wash at one time, two or three sheets gathered at the hem, six Pillow slips, six Towels, two or three Cotton Shirts, one pair heavy Pants or two pairs light ones, one heavy Spread or Blanket, always putting the smaller things inside something larger or longer.

Wherever this Little Washer has been introduced the sale has been unprecedented, having sold upwards of three hundred in Dover, N. H., in less than two months; two thirds of the purchasers had been using large wash machines costing from five to eighteen dollars; all a failure, one great complaint being that they are heavy and no woman can work them.

Richardson's has taken a Silver Medal in Springfield, Mass., at Mechanic's Fair in 1868, and other places where exhibited.

A Lady who has not washed for three years, told her neighbors she did her washing, with that Little Washer, with ease, consequently they ordered one, and the question all over town is, have you got a RICHARDSON'S LITTLE WASHER?

The Editors on a Bender.

BY GEO. A. MARDEN.

Read at the Rye Beach Gathering of Editors, Publishers and Printers, July 28.

I couldn't think of making any fun,
Since we have heard from Mrs. Partington—
Unless, indeed, you might perchance to like
To hear a word or two from little "Ike,"
Which precious youth, to-day, as I suppose,
Put the old lady's glasses on his nose.
Her facile goose-quill in his youthful fist,
(Whose humorous vigor nothing can resist,)
At her round table took his proper station;
And there around out the fol'wing composition:
The lines I'll do my very best to render—
The title is "The Editors on a Bender."

One summer day, quoth Ike, the Printer's
Whose holidays are very few and small, [all,
Packed up their bags, and said that they would try [Rye!"
What fun there might be "comic" through the
They thought for others they had done enough
Themselves to be entitled to a puff
Of fresh sea air, and so the ready vote is
To give Job and themselves a "special notice."

Like lawyers, when the Courts' vacations find [em,
They went and left their "cases" all behind
Determined here, by free old Ocean's waves,
No longer to be bound like "galley" slaves;
Let him pass by the beaches and the Islands,
And ask the Pines and Granites to the Highlands.

Perhaps even there the scripture "eye for eye,"
He can restore, and give thine rye for Rye.
If he demurs I don't know what we'll do
Unless we borrow of some Rothschild Jew.
Perhaps New York could lend a helping pull— [(Bull?
What say to that, now, Messrs. Clapp and
Besides you're bankers on the note, you know,
Because you're here the guests from Buffalo.
Or suppose we reckon on the industry
So sweetly shown by humming Barnum-bee?
He is a fellow never known to flinch,
Especially when he is flanked by Winch.
The plan I hint at's surely worth the tryin'
If Mr. Smith assents, and Addie Ryan.
Say Mr. Shaw, will you tell us about
How much of all the debt they have sung out?
From such a bank of Massachusetts throats
Your drafts are honored with the soundest notes.
If all these fail our denier resort
Must be the common House-of Congress sort;
We'll never see this war-like destitution,
But pay the debt by a "joint resolution:"
Whereas, Maine and New Hampshire brethren,
Have treated us so well once and again,
Therefore, Resolved, that our most hearty thanks,
Are due to every member of their ranks,
The debt's too heavy (so's that of the nation)
To be paid by a single generation;
We'll pay the coupons, but the rest must be Largely paid up by our posterity.
Or, seriously, the bonds are of the kind
Not payable in money, as we find. [will;
A generous courtesy, free and large good
These are the items in the heavy bill;
In such, at least, we may make some return
Which our creditors will not think to spurn.
We hope some day 'twill be our turn to twine
With our own Bays "the Granite and the Pine."

Nor do we look on Generals as below
The passing notice of a printer's bow;
And whatsoe'er is thought from what we've said,
We are always very glad to see Nutt Head!
And then I'm sure nobody ever will Forget the specimen of a Granite Hill,
Which heads the body we have met to-day,
Whose courtesy we sometime may repay.

And this reminds me that the Old Bay State
Has made a debt which is so very great,
That much to our regret and consternation,
We can't begin to pay the obligation. [it,
Twice has New Hampshire shown us how to do
And in a liberal fashion put us through it;
But like a bank cashier when he absconds,
We carry yet a great load of her bonds.
Last night we paid the coupons, as it were
With current notes from Treasurer Shillaber.
That's worth congratulation, for so far
Our interest's paid in gold—they ramp to par.

But even Shillaber's sweet notes have yet
Not paid, but simply helped to fund the debt.
What can we do? Say we invoke the pen
Of indefatigable Perley Ben.
"If any man kin be kin," that is sure;
He's rich in words—though name and body's
Poore. [ter—
I don't just now think of any plan that's bet-
Ben: Perley Poore shall pay the debt by letter.

Nay, hold! I have it; we've resources enough,
There is no need to play a game of bluff.
What say for us to muster as our Colonel
The head of "a rich metropolitan journal,"
Unless he pays the bills! We'll come it yet!
Stockwell's got money; he shall pay the debt.
Let him pass by the beaches and the Islands,
And ask the Pines and Granites to the Highlands.

Perhaps even there the scripture "eye for eye,"
He can restore, and give thine rye for Rye.
If he demurs I don't know what we'll do
Unless we borrow of some Rothschild Jew.
Perhaps New York could lend a helping pull— [(Bull?

With our own Bays "the Granite and the

Why, in one day you're "pied" three hundred
But never mind, my friends, we'll overlook
Such little trifles, for the pains you took.
And though so crowded our "inside" has been,
Bring on the "matter," we will "get it in,"
A paper must be crowded very bad ["add,"
Which contains always find some room for

Yes, we are on a bender—work shall stop;
On pleasure bent, it's time to "sink the shop."
Farewell to leaders, correspondents, news,
Farewell to items, puffs and interviews;
Let Nap and Bismarck fight on quirks or quips— [(which whips
'Tis "skunk and hedgehog," we don't care
Whether this union that should prove the true,
The Gaul be braggart or the Prussian blue,
It's all the same to us, whatever come,
If we preserve our equilibrium.
Good bye to business of all sorts and kinds;

We'll loads our stomachs and we'll free our minds.
Shall advertising contracts come amiss? [bid!
Our pleasures here? Nay, nay, may Dodd for-
Banished be all their wanities and wiles,
Avaunt ye! Evans, Pettingill and Niles! [er,
Stick to the times and placers which ye ought
To-day, at least, we don't give you the quarter!
For we're good fellows, now see if we ain't.
I'd picture all if I were used to paint.
Who holds fat office should himself be fat—
Dun's Dr. Johnson say something like that?
You'll make an application here, mayhap—
He's Public Printer—and his name is Clapp.
'Taint every office so like the real gems
That counts its profits by the thousand ems.
But he's a jolly, honest-looking chap—

All those who think so, signify by Clapp.
Then to the manner born, the State of Maine
Sends us that excellent speaker, James G.
Blaine.
No chill-Blaine he, who itches for a place,
But called to fill the chair he fills with grace,
Because—at least I heard so once last winter—
A first-rate Speaker was a first-rate printer.
They've tried the thing and found success so fall
That this is now a well established rule.
There's Hannibal Hamlin from the Pine Tree
State,
If not a printer, printing made him great,
Because it gave the world his true position—
A unique one—an honest politician.
We should have run him with Abe Lincoln twice,
Such virtue seldom fills the place of Vice.
New Hampshire shows that rarest of rare men,
A journalist who's risen on his pen,
Or sunk—which shall I call it?—in the race,
And for himself in Congress won a place.
It's downright reason, if it is in rhyme,
We boom up others—not ourselves do climb.
In pol'tics' cards he loses who's the dealer—
An Hon'rable exception is Jake Ela.
Don't raise your hopes on this, my friends;
keep cool!
For this exception only proves the rule.
This single case by no means proves the word
That says "The Pen is mightier than the Sword."
For, also present from the Granite State,
Another M. C. shows the solemn fate
Which follows gallant service in the field—
"The best of veterans sometimes have to yield—
But Stevens' early record was so good
That we will defy recall where he stood,
And try and show him just above the rank
Although M. C. did not succeed his rank.

We work in a [illegible] we run the risk
We're glad Ex-Governors' presence here to boast,
We put Ex-Governor Smyth upon our books
On his past record, and his present looks.
The books—perhaps the record—pray don't laugh,
Are partly credit to his better half.

AYER'S CATHARTIC PILLS,

FOR ALL PURPOSES of a LAXATIVE MEDICINE.

Perhaps no one medicine is so universally required by everybody as a cathartic, nor was ever any before so universally adopted into use, in every country and among all classes, as this mild but efficient purgative PILL. The obvious reason is that it is a more reliable and far more effectual remedy than any other. Those who have tried it, know that it cured them; those who have not, know that it cures their neighbors and friends in ease the creditors will not think to spurn. We hope some day 'twill be our turn to twine With our own Bays "the Granite and the Pine." Minute directions are given in the wrapper on the box, for the following complaints, which these PILLS rapidly cure:—

For Dyspepsia or Indigestion, Listlessness, Languor and Loss of Appetite, they should be taken moderately to stimulate the stomach and restore healthy tone and action.

For Liver Complaint and its various symptoms, Bilious Headache, Sick Headache, Jaundice or Green Sickness, Bilious Colic and Bilious Fevers, they should be judiciously taken for each case, to correct the diseased action or remove the obstructions which cause it.

For Dysentery or Diarrhœa, but one mild dose is generally required.

For Rheumatism, Gout, Gravel, Palpitation of the Heart, Pain in the Side, Back and Loins, they should be continuously taken, as required, to keep the system free from the disease. With such change those complaints disappear.

For Dropsy and Dropsical Swellings, they should be taken in large and frequent doses to produce the effect of a drastic purge.

For Suppression a large dose should be taken, as it produces a desired effect by sympathy.

As a DINNER PILL, take one or two PILLS to promote digestion and relieve the stomach.

An occasional dose stimulates the stomach and bowels into healthy action, restores the appetite, and invigorates the system. Hence it is often advantageous even where no serious derangement exists. One who feels tolerably well, often finds that a dose of these PILLS makes him feel decidedly better, from their cleansing and invigorating effect on the digestive apparatus. dawjeltoo4m

A DISCOVERY IN CANCER THERAUPEUTICS.—The cancer has long been a disease beyond the power of the physician. Its treatment has long been empirical and unreliable. The remedies employed have been painful, dangerous, and always unsuccessful. Under these circumstances, the discovery of a new method of treating cancer will be hailed with general satisfaction by patients and physicians. At the recent annual meeting of the New York Medical University, Professor Scott read a paper in which he stated that repeated experiments had demonstrated the marvellous efficacy of the application of chloride of chromium—a new salt of this rare metal incorporated into stramonium ointment. The preparation, in a few hours, converts the tumor into perfect carbon, and it crumbles away. The remedy causes no pain, and is not poisonous. It promises to alleviate much human misery, and we call the attention of the entire profession to the fact of its discovery.

GIVE THE BORERS NO REST.—Make the round of your apple-trees on the first opportunity, and look out for the card of the borer — a mass of fine chewed chips protuding from a hole in the bark of the tree near the surface of the ground. If these marks are found, dig the intruder out at once. Do not cut the tree more than is absolutely necessary. If you have been to your trees once this season, no matter; go again. We have taken out all we could find in May, and yet have found more borers in the same trees in July. This is the only effective remedy that we know of, and if well followed up, will save many of your apple-trees from destruction. The books say that you can see the eggs of the borer-beetle on the bark of the tree late in the summer, but we confess that diligent search on sundry occasions has not rewarded us with the sight.

TO PREVENT THE SCRATCHING OF HENS. — Take a piece of wire some eight or ten inches long; bend it in the middle around the hen's leg, just above the foot, twist the wire once, leaving the loop hole large enough not to bind or chafe the leg; then spread the two wires so that the ends will be three or four inches apart, and turn down an inch or so of the extreme ends of the wires so that they will catch in the ground. With such a wire on each leg, the hen will not disturb a garden or any place, as they cannot scratch though they can walk with little difficulty.

NAIL IN THE FOOT.—To relieve the terrible effects of running a nail in the foot of man or horse, take peach leaves, bruise them, apply to the wound, confine with bandage, and the cure is quick and certain. Renew the application twice a day if necessary; but one application usually does the work. I have cured both man and beast in a few hours, when they were apparently on the point of having the lockjaw. This recipe, remembered and practiced, will save many valuable lives.—Cor. Southern Cultivator.

—The chairman of an Ohio vigilance committee, who was instructed to duck an obnoxious citizen, thus reported to his constituents: "We took the thief down the river, made a hole in the ice, and proceeded to duck him, but he slipped through our hands and hid under the ice. All our efforts to entice him to come out failed, and he has now retained his point of advantage some hours."

—I "like to see the dear little creatures amusing themselves," said Mrs. Brown, when her elder boy took the visitor's new bonnet and affixed it to the tail of his kite. "Never fear," said the good matron to her visitor, when she saw her bonnet in the air, "as soon as the kite comes down he will give it to you."

REMEDY FOR SCRATCHES.—Take a piece of alum as large as a chestnut, dissolve it in half a teacupful of boiling water; add a tablespoonful of saleratus, and a teacupful of strong vinegar, and use warm. I have found this to be an excellent remedy.

—Some arithmetician asserts that within a few years, one hundred newspapers have started and failed in Chicago, and that $70,000,000 have been sunk in journalistic failures in New York.

—A subscriber writes to an editor, "I don't want your paper any longer." To which the editor replies, "I wouldn't make it any longer, if you did; its present length suits me very well."

—Mr. Wm. Cullen Bryant is said to be worth $500,000; Longfellow, $200,000; Holmes, $100,000; Saxe, $70,000; Lowell, $40,000; and Whittier, $30,000.

☞ Prussia has given a large order for Gatling batteries to a Connecticut firm, and orders for Berdan and Remington rifles have been received from several European powers.

☞ The evacuation of the Pontifical territory by the French troops is complete. France leaves for the government 35 mortars and 15,000 shells.

AYER'S
HAIR VIGOR,
For Restoring Gray Hair to its Natural Vitality and Color.
A Dressing which is at once agreeable, healthy, and effectual for Preserving the Hair. Faded or gray Hair is soon restored to its original color, with the gloss and freshness of youth. Thin hair is thickened, falling hair checked, and baldness often, though not always, cured by its use.
Nothing can restore the hair where the follicles are destroyed, or the glands atrophied and decayed. But such as remains can be saved for usefulness by this application. Instead of fouling the hair with a pasty sediment, it will keep it clean and vigorous. Its occasional use will prevent the hair from turning gray or falling off, and consequently prevent baldness. Free from those deleterious substances which make some preparations dangerous and injurious to the hair, the Vigor, can only benefit but not harm it.
If wanted merely for a HAIR DRESSING, nothing else can be found so desirable. Containing neither oil nor dye, it does not soil white cambric, and yet lasts long on the hair, giving it a rich glossy lustre and a grateful perfume.

The Daily Chronicle.

Portsmouth, N. H.

FRIDAY, AUGUST 12, 1870.

WAR TALK.—Great excitement prevails in Paris, and the spirit of opposition to the Emperor is increasing.

Napoleon is expected in Paris. The connections between Strasbourg and Saverne are reported broken. McMahon is intrenching himself at Saverne, and the Crown Prince is believed to be hurrying to cut off that place from Nancy. The weather is unfavorable for extended military operations.

The result of Saturday's fighting is generally attributed to the Emperors's military incapacity.

The Prussian advance is obstructed by villages filled with French wounded.

The French losses exceed all estimates.

The Prussians took multitudes of prisoners.

A special despatch from Paris says a wild crowd was assembled outside the Corps Legislatif and refused to disperse. Bodies of cavalry and lancers were stationed in all the surrounding streets. The court yard of the Tuilleries was thronged with the soldiery.

Around the hall of the Corps Legislatif the police repeatedly charged on the mob, but the latter reformed after each charge, and bodies of the National Guard threw down their arms and fraternized with the populace. Other bodies remained passive in their barracks.

Prussia is organizing a volunteer force.

The French continue to concentrate on the road to Paris. All that region is in a state of siege.

Figarens, Fridon and others, condemned for contumacy, have been sentenced to be banished from France.

The Prussian outposts have been established at a distance of two German miles from Metz.

The resignation of the Ollivier ministry has been received by the people with great favor.

The French army concentrated at Metz is preparing for an immediate battle. The Prussian forces are massing on the Saar river. Bazaine's appointment as commander-in-chief has given confidence to the army and renewed hope to the French people.

Letters from Metz speak in the most undisguised way of the calamitous and fabulous incapacity of the Emperor, Marshal Lebœuf, and all the military dandies composing the Imperial staff. The army has utterly lost confidence, and a change in the commanders is an absolute necessity to prevent mutiny.

It is said that Marshal McMahon wanted, some days ago, to fire the forests through which the Germans came down unexpectedly upon the French, but the Emperor declined to authorize this step.

A dictatorship is anticipated, with General Trochu acting as supreme head. The Emperor has been invited to return to Paris and attend the reconstruction of the government, but his refusal is considered certain.

In the Corps Legislatif, General Count Palikao announced the formation of a new ministry, and read a list of names, as follows:—Count Palikao, Minister of War. De La Tour D'Auvergne, Minister of Foreign Affairs. Henry D. Clerreau, Minister of the Interior. Grand Perret, Minister of Justice. DeGenouilly, Minister of Marine. Pierre Magne, Minisiter of Finances. Jerome David, Minister of Public Works. Jules Brome, Minister of Public Instruction. Duvernoi s, Minister of Commerce. Buzon Billault, President of the Council of State.

The project of a law for national defence was adopted unanimously by 273 votes, amid prolonged applause. In the excitement, a voice was heard "Now let Prussia look as in the face."

The Military spirit and enthusiasm is increasing throughout France.

The Prussians losses at Wessemburg were enormous.

La Liberte says that all the members of the staff of General McMahon were either killed or wounded in the battle of Woeth.

The Prince Imperial of France has arrived in London and is now with the British legation, in charge of W. F. Smith, the Emperor's confidential agent. Mr. Smith also brought with him the Empress Eugenie's jewels and valuables, and the famous diamonds of the Duke of Brunswick.

A Berlin despatch says the Prussian officers and soldiers think lightly of the effectiveness of the mitrailleuse, but believe that the Chassepot is a better weapon than the needle-gun. The bankers have declined the Prussian war loan, but the people subscribe for it freely.

In the Corps Legislatif Jules Favre, in his remarks, declared that the Emperor's incapacity to command the army and direct the operations had been conclusively proved. He should therefore be recalled. A tremendous row ensued, the Deputies, almost en masse, striving to obtain the floor and gesticulating violently. M. Paul Cassagnac obtained an audience and declared that if he was in the ministry he would court martial M. Favre and all others of the Left and shoot them that very night. [Sensation.] M. Ollivier rose excitedly and said: M. Jules Simon has asked me if the ministry intend to have the opposition Deputies shot. M. Ollivier made some answer to this question, but his reply was inaudible to the Chambers. M. DeKeratry proposed that the Chambers should treat Napoleon Third as the Chambers treated the First Napoleon in 1815. Then another disturbance arose, the Deputies being terribly enraged, and some actually struck each other.

The resignation of the Ollivier ministry has been received by the people with great favor.

The new ministry gives universal satisfaction and tends to unite the French nation.

McMahon had his horse killed under him in Saturday's battle.

Napoleon clings to the command-in-chief.

A dispatch states that Marshal McMahon's losses in killed, wounded and missing were over 40,000 men. His original force at Strasbourg was but 34,000, but it had been reinforced up to nearly 100,000, when it advanced only to meet defeat.

Communication.

THE WAR IN EUROPE. — It appears that the part of the Prussian army which has met the French, has been victorious. The French army has been repulsed with great loss, and the Prussians have entered France. Paris is being more strongly fortified, through fear of its being captured. A portion of the inhabitants have left the city.

Various are the conjectures and speculations, but the result is known only to the Supreme Ruler over all. The fortune of war may change against the Prussians, although it seems improbable, for there is no braver, patriotic, and more enlightened people and troops on the earth. Prussia has a million of soldiers in the field, called out suddenly in the defence of her soil, against the unjustifiable invasion by order of that crafty, execrable, bloodthirsty despot, the second Napoleon.

Should the Prussians capture Paris, that would end the Napoleonic dynasty forever, and probably a majority of the French population, nearly forty millions, would hail the event with joy. Every nation in Europe would, that wishes to maintain the balance of power. Prussia should be content by conquering the French army, without attempting the hazard of attacking Paris, whose inhabitants had no part in waging the unjustifiable war. It may be that England, Denmark, Italy, united, perhaps, with some of the other powers, may effect a pacification. But this is doubted, for Napoleon has as bitter a hatred against Bismarck, as the latter has against the former. They wish to take the lives of each other.

This personal motive, was doubtless the chief cause of the war. How happy should be our reflection, that no military chieftain or any other, without the voice of the people, can involve our nation in the horrors of war. Should the war not be brought to a speedy close, there can scarcely be a doubt but that all the nations of Europe would be, more or less, involved in it; because their interests, like those of individuals, are involved in the result. Nations are governed chiefly by their interests. They will not look on calmly, and suffer either France or Prussia to destroy the balance of power, and erect in its stead a Despotic Empire. England, looking in the vista of the future, is not regardless of her national destiny, should France capture the naval forces of Prussia and of the nations that may become her allies.

She holds that should France invade Belgium, it would be a casus belli, an act of war in violation of a former treaty, having relation to the balance of power in Europe. Now England is making the most energetic preparations for war, should it become necessary, for the protection of her commerce, or the safety of her national existence. There has been no cordial friendship between the French and English for centuries, and the latter do not forget the hostile designs of the first Bonaparte. Should England engage in the conflict, it would be in favor of Prussia, and she can destroy the naval forces of France, and therefore the latter cannot be regardless of the remonstrances of the British Government against the war.

Our nation is so far removed from the seat of war, that although fearless of invasion, our commerce may be greatly affected by the events which transpire. Merchandize destined for the benefit of either of the contending parties, would be liable to capture, and condemned as contra band of the war, whatever may be the law of nations, so called. Inter arma legessilent. Whether our Government has taken any measure with a view to arrest the prosecution of the war, is not publicly known. But should Congress be convened and express the voice of the nation against the further prosecution of the war, it might have and ought to have some effect; and besides that, some salutary measures and regulation might be adopted for the protection of our Commerce. Should the unholy war be protracted, it would be next to impossible for our nation to preserve our strictly neutral policy.

But what can feeble men say or do to avert the calamity of war, against the fist of Him who holds the destinies of nations in his hand? All things and all human creatures are subject to this will and superintending Providence. Will not the creator of all things do right? If we believe in the sacred scriptures, we must believe that nations have been and may continue to be punished for their sins against High Heaven. Although the mind instinctively shrinks back in view of the horrors of war, it must be conceded that some good has sometimes resulted from it. Whether any good will result from the present war, is among the secrets of the future.

The withdrawal of the French troops from Italy may induce the long appressed people to throw off the Pontifical yoke, according to present indications. The "infallible" Pope once exercised a despotic power over Kings and Emperors of Europe, and the superstitious catholic subjects. He now begs of the ruling Empress of France a single vessel by which to make his escape from Rome, should the Italians rise and assert their national independence. That would eventually terminate Priesteraft and the Catholic religion in Europe.

Another result may be that the people, advanced in intelligence and civilization, may down with despotic heads, and sooner or later assert their natural and inalienable rights. But it does not seem to be right that the blood of thousands upon thousands of those, who have no enmity against each other, should be poured out like water on the battle field, to gain that liberty which is the gift of God. Q.

☞ A terrible accident occurred at the west end of the Kansas Pacific railroad track Tuesday night. A heavily loaded iron train, getting beyond control, in consequence of the iron clogging the brakes, ran into a boarding train, demolishing the two rear cars and crushing in the end of the sleeping car. Six persons were killed, and six or eight wounded. The killed, as far as ascertained, were Mexicans sleeping under the train.

☞ "The chief end of man" was decided long ago, by the Westminster catechism; but whether the chief end of woman is that which wears the chignon and ought to contain the brains, or that which is magnified and ornamented with the pannier and sash, or that set off with the high heels, buckles and tassels—remains to be settled. As the boy said when his mother was going to spank him,

☞ A cage in the shaft of Glassmier & Hines, near Middleport, Penn., containing 12 miners, was precipitated to the bottom, 200 feet, Wednesday, by the giving way of the hoisting machinery. Six miners were instantly killed and all the others wounded.

☞ The Berkshire County Agricultural Society of Massachusetts is to have a new feature in the shape of congregational singing, at the Fair this fall.

SPECIAL NOTICES.

The Life Sustaining Principle.

The vital and the muscular systems are entirely distinct from each other. A man may have the brawn of a Hercules, but if he is deficient in vital energy he will not wear as well, or last as long, or be as healthy and happy while he does last, as the man of ordinary, or even slender build, who possesses a larger share of this animating principle. One of the greatest recommendations of that pure vegetable invigorant, HOSTETTER'S STOMACH BITTERS, is that it increases the vital force of the system. No medicine can double the volume of a man's muscle, or chicken and vulcanize his thews and sinews; but Hostetter's Bitters has an effect much more important. Its use promotes constitutional vigor.

It reinforces the life-power, of which bone and sinew and muscle are merely the instruments, holding the same relation to it that machinery does to steam. Let the slight and apparently fragile take heart, they may have more stamina, though far less physical strength, than the broad shouldered athletes they regard with envy. To restore, to sustain, to increase this staminal principle which, when in full supply, is the source of health and the best guarantee of longevity, is a special property of the famous restorative. It is not only a specific for dyspepsia, biliousness, intermittent fevers, constipation, &c., and a preventive of all diseases of a malarious character, but the best of all medicines for strengthening the constitution and awakening the powers of nature, from whatever cause they may have become lethargic. 4 aug6dawlw

PERRY DAVIS' PAIN KILLER

This valuable Family Medicine has been widely and favorably known in our own and foreign countries, upwards of

THIRTY YEARS!

It has lost none of its good name by repeated trials, but continues to occupy a prominent position in every family medicine chest.

It is an External and Internal Remedy. For Summer Complaint, or any other form of bowel disease in children or adults, it is an almost certain cure, and has without doubt, been more successful in curing the various kinds of CHOLERA than any other known remedy, or the most skillful physician. In India, Africa and China, where this dreadful disease is more or less prevalent, the PAIN KILLER is considered by the natives, as well as European residents in those climates, a sure remedy; and while it is a most efficient remedy for pain, it is a perfectly safe medicine, even in unskillful hands. 1mdawly8

☞ A game of base ball, between two picked nines of this city, will take place at the Plains this afternoon.

☞ The showers of Wednesday and Thursday were the first real breaking of the month's or six weeks' drought.

☞ The late residence of Mr. Fisher, on Islington street, was sold at auction, on Thursday, by Maj. Hackett, for $5,500. Aaron Young, Esq., was the purchaser.

☞ Prof. Sylvester Dixon is stopping for a few days with his friends in this city, and will preach in the Methodist Church Sunday forenoon.

Rev. J. W. Durrell will deliver a lecture on Temperance in the Methodist church Sunday afternoon at quarter to 3 o'clock. He is an able and popular speaker, and will doubtless have a full house.

☞ The French roof for the new half of the Rockingham House has been raised within the last few days, bringing it up into full view from our office windows; and the whole structure when finished will be one of the largest and most imposing buildings in the city or State, and another evidence of the enterprise and public spirit of Frank Jones—the like of which take it all in all, has not been seen many times in Portsmouth since its settlement.

POSTPONED.—A large crowd of our most respected citizens got aboard the Appledore on Thursday evening, for the benefit excursion of Capt. Baker, but a fog came rolling in from sea at sunset, and the excursion was postponed until this (Friday) evening, if fair weather; if not fair, it will be again postponed until Monday evening next. Patient waiters are no losers, and we hope Capt. Baker will find it so when he does get a clear evening for his benefit. He deserves a good one.

THAT MUFFIN BASE BALL MATCH came off on Thursday afternoon, as announced, and quite a large audience of ladies and gentlemen witnessed it. The sport was rare, as wo-thirds the players knew nothing of the points of the game and the most laughable mistakes occurred. Home runs were made on overthrows with a perfect looseness, and the way some of the heavy weights got around the bases was a caution to the smaller fry who were playing at those positions.

Dow of the Granite States was umpire, and filled the difficult position satisfactorily. At the close of the game, the "Foul Batters" were jubilant because they had made 36 runs to 31 for the "Heavy Muffers," but Capt. Barnabee of the H. M's, claimed that his nine had won the game because by scoring less than the F. B's they had proved themselves the worst muffers. This was allowed by the umpire amid great applause.

The eighteen were invited by Mr. G. H. Jenness to play a second game at Rye next Thursday afternoon, and the invitation was unanimously accepted by the "club."

Shores, M. M. Miller, Locke and Partridge of the "Foul Batters," distinguished themselves for fly catches, and Buzzell at 1st base. Jenness was the first home-runner, and Kennedy made handsome play and considerable light scratching at left field. Shores also made a handsome double play at short stop. Barnabee, of the "Heavy Muffers," played like an old settler behind the bat; Tucker, Betton and Leavitt effectually covered the bases, Edmonds and Freeman pitched finely (for his side) and Pray and Page rolled themselves over in glory. Barnabee went for some well caught flies and Freeman got a home run. I. P. Miller requested a milking-stool at first but recovered his base ball legs after a few "muffs."

The lapse of a week's time, it is hoped, will enable the "game legs" to recover, so that the Rye Beachers can see the muffers muff in their muffingest style.

The score book was a wonder in its way, being gilt-edged and measuring 34 x 22 inches.

OLD TIMES CHRONICLES, No. 12.

BY UNCLE JOSEPH.

RESISTANCE TO THE STAMP ACT IN PORTSMOUTH.—The Puritans came to this country to be free from ecclesiastical oppression. And they, with the early settlers of New England, guarded against all approaches of civil oppression. Measures to tax the Colonies were sternly opposed in their incipient stages.

The Stamp Act was among the first measures of the British Government for taxing the Colonies. It was introduced into Parliament March 10, 1764. By its provisions all notes, bonds, marriage contracts, and all legal instruments, were to be executed on stamped paper, on which a duty was to be paid.

When the news reached this country there was the most determined opposition. It was well known that the noble Pitt, a member of the royal ministry, thought the measure of taxing the Colonies unjust. Also others in England.

Parliament did not hurry the Act through. It was delayed till Feb. 7, 1765. On that day it passed the Commons by a vote of 255 to about 50. It passed the House of Lords March 8; and the king, George III, gave it his assent March 22.

The news came to America, and in most of the Colonies measures were at once taken to resist. In none were they more determined than in New Hampshire, and especially at Portsmouth and vicinity.

The Act was to go into effect Nov. 1, 1765. On the day previous, a body of people from the country towns approached Portsmouth, apprehending that the stamped paper would be distributed. Being assured such would not be the case, they went home.

The next morning the bells of Portsmouth were tolled. Newcastle and Greenland bells were tolled also. It was understood to denote the decease of Liberty. In the course of the day, friends were notified to attend the funeral. A coffin was prepared, neatly ornamented, and on it was inscribed, "Liberty, aged 145 years." The date was from the landing of the Pilgrims in 1620. A procession was formed at the State House. Two unbraced drums were used. As the procession moved, minute guns were fired. At a grave opened for the reception of the coffin, some one gave a short oration in honor of the departed. Then one said there were signs of life. Soon the inscription on the coffin was changed to "Liberty Revived." The bells struck up a cheerful peal, and joy lighted up the countenances of all.

The whole affair was worthy of the pencil of Trumbull. It was not a lawless mob, but the calm, deliberate act of men determined to be free. Stalwart men we are sure were there. Honest, industrious citizens and those of rustic simplicity, acted thus to show their abhorrence of injustice and wrong, and that they would never be vassals nor wear the despot's chain.

On the 8th of March of the next year, the odious Stamp Act was repealed.

New Hampshire Items.

General Natt Head has been invited by the managers of the Coos and Essex Counties Agricultural Society, to address the people present at the Annual Fair this autumn, and has accepted the invitation. General Head is a practical farmer of large experience, and is the present President of the State Agricultural Society. As Adjutant General he is widely and favorably known, especially to the soldiers of New Hampshire, and his presence at Lancaster on the occasion referred to, will lend additional interest to the coming Fair.

☞ Mr. Frederick Noyes, of Amherst, met with a serious accident last week at Greenland. While riding to the beach, his horse became unmanageable, threw Mr. Noyes out, breaking one of his legs in two places.

☞ These be dog-days indeed; but the dogs have had their days (and nights too) long enough, and we hope the Police will dog them until they reduce many of them to a dogged silence.

☞ Hon. Wm. H. Seward is off for China.

DEATHS.

In this city, Aug. 10th, MRS. CARRIE A. PLACE aged 22 years, 3 moths, wife of Mr. Henry S Place.

☞ The Funeral will take place from the Free Will Baptist Vestry on Pearl Street, this (Friday,) P. M., at half-past 3 o'clock. Relatives and friends are invited to attend.

The greater part of the road is already completed, and the earnings from the finished portion are already more than sufficient to pay operating expenses and interest on the bonds. The balance of the work is progressing rapidly, in time for the movement of the coming grain crops, which, it is estimated will double the present income of the road.

The established character of this line, running as it does through the heart of the most thickly settled and richest portion of the great State of Iowa, together with its present advanced condition and large earnings warrant us in unhesitatingly recommending these bonds to investors, as, in every respect, an undoubted security.

These bonds have 50 years to run, are convertible at the option of the holder into the stock of the company at par, and the payment of the principal is provided for by a sinking fund. The convertibility privilege attached to these bonds cannot fail to cause them at no distant day to command a market price considerably above par, besides paying about 9 per cent., currency, interest in the meanwhile. U. S. Five-twenties, at present prices only return five per cent.; and we regard the security equally safe.

RICHARDSON'S
LITTLE WASHER, unlike all others, is light and portable, weighing only ten pounds, and sold for the small price of five dollars. Adjusts itself to any article from a Pocket handkerchief to a

LARGE BED SPREAD,

without alteration. Can be fitted to any tub, and removed at pleasure.

If you will use this little common sense washing machine, you will do the work of half a day in 2 hours.

RICHARDSON'S LITTLE WASHER does not tear or wear the clothes, no matter how fine the fabric. Clothes are straightened out, and passed back and forth, between the rollers till clean.

Remember and always have a good strong and hot suds.

Put your Pockethandkerchiefs, Cuffs, Collars, Napkins and Fringes into a sheet or Pillow slip and wash perfectly clean, in two to three minutes. Wo wash at one time, two or three sheets gathered at the hem, six Pillow slips, six Towels, two or three Cotton Shirts, one pair heavy Pants or two pairs light ones, one heavy Spread or Blanket, always putting the smaller things inside something larger or longer.

Wherever this Little Washer has been introduced the sale has been unprecedented, having sold upwards of three hundred in Dover, N. H., in less than two months; two thirds of the purchasers had been using large awkward machines costing from five to eighteen dollars; with a failure, one great complaint being that they are heavy and no woman can work them.

Richardson's has taken a Silver Medal in Springfield, Mass., at Mechanic's Fair in 1868, and other places where exhibited.

A Lady who has not washed for three years, told her neighbors she did her washing, with that Little Washer in one case, concerning which they ordered one, and the question all over town is, have you got a RICHARDSON'S LITTLE WASHER?

Morning Chronicle.

AFTER THE BALL.—To a good-natured man, there was fun all through the Editors' Convention at old Rye. We copy a few of the many jolly accounts. Bro. Boylston, of the Amherst Cabinet, continues:

The "stowing away" for the night fully tested the capacity not only of the Ocean House, but of all others within a mile, many of the guests going out that distance in pursuit of "rye straw." Some of the readers of this might have had their risibles somewhat excited had they looked into the ladies' parlor and seen the Statesman and the Cabinet napping on the soft side of a lounge, with "nary" a sheet to cover them. Jenks! that was a cooler! A stroll on the beach at sunrise with Mrs. Partington, with "slights to sea," made all right. "The early bird," &c. Where was Ike?

Elwell, of the Portland Transcript, says:

We got a cot on the floor of a room which, during the day, had been appropriated to the use of the ladies, and the dear creatures would keep disturbing our slumbers by running in from the dance after their hats and things. They didn't mind us much, but after our two companions turned in, they commissioned a colored waiter to make another raid. He came in chuckling and muttering to himself as he rummaged about in the dark, "How de debil dese wimmin's tings git in here among de men?" It did have rather a suspicious appearance, but appearances are deceitful. At last, after a platoon of beauties from the ball room had opened wide the door and taken a general survey of us, with the exclamation, "Poor fellows! they retired early," [Early! two o'clock in the morning!] one of our room-mates could stand it no longer, and, shutting the door, he dragged his cot against it, determined to deliver no more hats and shawls. As for ourself, we dreamed of guardian angels all night.

Campbell of the Manchester Union, says:

All vacant room in neighboring houses was appropriated, and the parlors were given up to mattresses on the floor; yet, far in the night somnolent printers were wandering about the halls, singing, 'Oh, for a lodge in some vast wilderness!' The proprietors did the best they could; but, in behalf of Room 27, we trust that the 'member from Aroostook' will next time be provided with a room, solus.

The member from Aroostook referred to, is Bro. Gilman, the irrepressible and unquenchable, of the Houlton Pioneer. The Union man says further:

All the appointments were on a scale of great magnificence, and the Messrs. Jenness are entitled to much praise for their taste and liberality. The horns of our profession are greatly exalted. We are satisfied from these demonstrations, as well as from the utterances of outsiders during the meeting, that the printers are the true nobility of our social system. Selah.

The Portland Transcript, modestly says:

The New Hampshire editors are a handsome set of men. In the matter of good looks, we are afraid that we Down Easters can't compete with them, but that is a question we must leave the ladies to decide. We think the press must be better appreciated in the Granite State than it is in Maine—there are so many of those New Hampshire quill-drivers, and they are all in such good case!

Bro. Elwell must have mistaken the outside dignitaries for our New Hampshire knights of the quill.

Per contra, (for there must always be an exception, to prove the rule, in every thing,) The Portland Advertiser presents the adverse side of the case, though in the most good-natured manner. Hear him:

The Convention was a private affair, and it is nobody's business who was there and what was done. We repeat that this was a private affair, and we decline to give any detailed account of it. We have given the outlines of the meeting of New Hampshire and Maine editors—"the bridal of the Granite and the Pine," as it is the fashion to call it—and the ceremony was so satisfactory, that it is proposed to have a Mormon wedding next year—a convention of New England editors; to be followed, as some enthusiastic gentlemen think, by a national convention, and it is of these plans we desire to speak briefly.

By all means, let us have the New England convention, and the national convention, and get them done with and out of the way. But when they are done with, let us return as soon as possible to our local associations, in which there is an opportunity to cultivate mutual acquaintance, respect and friendship, and to consider our common interests. The ambitious festivities of the larger gatherings, the speech-making, the dancing, the gregarious dinners, the excursions in over-loaded steamboats, the uncomfortable lodging in over-crowded hotels—how do all these things differ from the daily routine of attendance upon the conventions and assemblies of our masters, the public?

We humbly submit that these annual gatherings should have a different purpose and a different plan. We should seek a respite from the toils of an exacting profession; an opportunity for repose and leisurely conference; a place where the wicked orators cease from troubling, and the weary reporters are at rest. After the dinner there were speeches and poems, some good and some detestable, and Barnabee satirized the speech-making, quite unintentionally, by a comic representation of a country debating society, which was received with roars of laughter. There were fourteen regular toasts, and the prolonged agony of the occasion was almost insupportable.

A certain amount of talking is doubtless necessary, but it should be carefully "boiled down," and the toastmaster mobbed at sight. If we are to have a New England convention next year, let us have it in Boston, and in the regular anniversary week, with the other annual nuisances; but after that is over, let us hold our Maine convention in the fall, within our own limits and in our own way.

Bless the dear man's heart! Don't he know that people are not satisfied, and do not believe they have had a good time, unless there is a rush and a crush? And does he believe that the very professors and teachers of advertising, would be satisfied at all if their own show was not blazoned about like those of other folks?

But the only real complaint or faultfinding that has come to our knowledge among all the unstinted praise for all concerned,—comes from an obscure hunker paper in Saco, which we do not recollect ever seeing or hearing of before. A scribbler therein thinks he was slighted by the committee, in the awarding of rooms. Possibly he was not preferred before his betters,—perhaps he could have done the work better; but if there be only one complaint in 300, the committee may well feel satisfied.

The Portland Press, for instance, says,

The individual who first suggested a joint convention of the editors and publishers of Maine and New Hampshire at Rye Beach, is entitled to a pension. It is doubted, however, if he gets one. The real benefactor of the race seldom obtain the "reward of merit" unless they are so mouldy that a suitable acknowledgement is of no account.

The Lewiston Journal says:

One of the pleasantest features of the occasion this year is, that the Maine editors meet with their coadjutors of New Hampshire and other States.

The Newburyport Herald says:

As always in this country—to commit an Irishism—the principal attraction of a public dinner is after dinner, in the speeches for which American dinners are noted. On this occasion they were very appropriate, relating entirely to the press—some in poetry and some in prose. Most of them were eloquent, wise or witty, and all indicated what has often been denied, that the faculty of good speaking and good writing can be united.

The Laconia Democrat says:

Those hours under the tent, were hours of unalloyed pleasure, and long to be remembered.

The Dover Gazette says:

This is pronounced on all hands to have been the most agreeable and enjoyable excursion the press and printers of this State have yet had. The arrangements were perfect, and all admirably carried out.

AYER'S CATHARTIC PILLS,

FOR ALL PURPOSES of a LAXATIVE MEDICINE,

Perhaps no one medicine is so universally required by everybody as a cathartic, nor was ever any before so universally adopted into use, in every country and among all classes, as this mild but efficient purgative PILL. The obvious reason is that it is a more reliable and far more effectual remedy than any other. Those who have tried it, know that it cured them; those who have not, know that it cures their neighbors and friends and all know that what it does once it does always—that it never fails through any fault or neglect of its composition. We have thousands upon thousands of certificates of their remarkable cures of the following complaints, but such cures are known in every neighborhood, and we need not publish them. Adapted to all ages and conditions in all climates; containing neither calomel or any deleterious drug, they may be taken with safety by anybody. Their sugar coating preserves them ever fresh and makes them pleasant to take, while being purely vegetable no harm can arise from their use in any quantity.

They operate by their powerful influence on the internal viscera to purify the blood and stimulate it into healthy action—remove the obstructions of the stomach, bowels, liver, and other organs of the body, restoring their irregular action to health, and by correcting, wherever they exist, such derangements as are the first origin of diseases.

Minute directions are given in the wrapper on the box, for the following complaints, which these PILLS rapidly cure:—

For Dyspepsia or Indigestion, Listlessness, Languor and Loss of Appetite, they should be taken moderately to stimulate the stomach and restore healthy tone to the system.

For Liver Complaint and its various symptoms, Bilious Headache, Sick Headache, Jaundice, or Green Sickness, Bilious Colic and Bilious Fevers, they should be judiciously taken for each case, to correct the diseased action or remove the obstructions which cause it.

For Dysentery or Diarrhœa, but one mild dose is generally required.

For Rheumatism, Gout, Gravel, Palpitation of the Heart, Pain in the Side, Back and Loins, they should be continuously taken, as required, to change the diseased action of the system. With such change those complaints disappear.

For Dropsy and Dropsical Swellings, they should be taken in large and frequent doses to produce the effect of a drastic purge.

For Suppression a large dose should be taken, as it produces the desired effect by sympathy.

As a DINNER PILL, take one or two PILLS to promote digestion and relieve the stomach.

An occasional dose stimulates the stomach and bowels into healthy action, restores the appetite, and invigorates the system. Hence it is often advantageous where no serious derangement exists. One who feels tolerably well, often finds that a dose of these PILLS makes him feel decidedly better, from their cleansing and renovating effect on the digestive apparatus. dawjeltoodtm

The Granite and the Pine.

BY E. D. BOYLSTON.

At the New Hampshire and Maine—Granite State and Pine Tree State—Editors' Convention; after dinner at the Sagamore House, the 'Bridal' of the previous year having been alluded to by a gentlemen speaker, a Paper Wedding was proposed, and E. D. Boylston of the Cabinet was called upon by the President to officiate in the ceremony, which was as follows:

THE PAPER WEDDING OF THE GRANITE & PINE.

When together on Little Chebeague we stood,
We pledged to each other for evil and good;
And fondly the hearts and hands did entwine
That wield the Press of the Granite and Pine.

To renew those vows of fraternal love
We gather again where the sea-birds rove,
And, happy and free as they, resign
A day to the love of the Granite and Pine.

O, who will attempt the dawn to declare
Of the fond love of our emblems fair?
Tradition ascribes it, with truth we believe,
To "the good old days of Adam and Eve."

Father Noah beheld them in tender embrace
Far down in the waters that covered earth's face,
And there amidst that terrible drench
They pledged a love no waters should quench.

Those grand old lovers stood by the shore
And welcomed the Pilgrims when they came o'er:
And a greeting hearty, fragrant, meet, [fleet.
Waved the pines, as Plymouth rock kissed their

When Tyranny followed and placed on the pine
The royal "K," and said, "It is mine,"
The very rocks reacted and 'cried out' with will,
And he caught the mitten at Bunker Hill.

Still are true lovers the granite and pine,
And never divorce shall know their entwine;
While heaven's sun sheds o'er them its sheen,
The rock will be firm—the pine, evergreen.

Unfailing, unfading in strength and in grace,
Like them, let us prove to duty and place;
Fulfilling a mission, noble, almost divine,
Wielding the Press of the Granite and Pine.

Proud of our forests, and proud of our hills,
Proud of the mission our calling fulfills,
Proud of our emblems, proud of each other,
We each give and take the hand of a brother.

And last our first love should dim with years,
And be supplanted by coldness and tears,
Let us, as true lovers, those pledges renew
First made at Chebeague, by the sounding blue.

Granite, proud Granite, say will thou
Take the evergreen Pine, with solemn vow,
To be thy wedded, honored wife,
In sickness, health, till close of life?

I plight my troth true and faithful to be,
If the beautiful Pine thou wilt give to me.

And now, fair one, O, evergreen Pine,
Will thou take the Granite forever as thine,
In sickness, health, to serve hand and heart,
And know no other till death shall part?

I plight my troth thus faithful to live,
If to me the proud Granite thou wilt give.

O Granite, proud Granite, in thee I confide,
And give thee the Pine as thy beautiful bride;
Love her, embrace her, call her thy own,
Till the last in the forest shall be cut down.

Then may the Union, in land more fair,
Where neither abrasion or woodmen are,
In love perfected shine as the day,
Republishing God's truth forever and aye.

And now, let none seek asunder to part
Those thus conjoined in hand and in heart;
And Heaven, kind Heaven, benignantly shine
On the Press Union of the Granite and Pine.

PRUNE YOUR TREES NOW. — From this date until October is the best time to prune fruit and shade trees. A wound made at this time of the year will not bleed, but will harden and remain sound, even if the new growth of wood does not cover it. The spring of the year is the worst of all times for pruning; the sap is then running, and it keeps the surface exposed by the cutting in just the condition for decay; and if the wound is a large one, a rotten hole in the tree is the result. To prune in June is better, but even then, we would not advise you to take off any limb larger than an inch in diameter. Let all larger limbs remain until the last of the summer, or September.

Therefore form the habit of examining your trees at this season, that you may avoid the necessity of pruning next spring. But it must not be thought that we advise the cutting off of large limbs when it can be avoided; and if trees were properly attended to when young, it would seldom be necessary. Especially see to it that none of the young trees grow up with crotches that will be liable to split down under the weight of fruit, or snow, or wind; to this end, cut remorselessly.

FEEDING BONE AND OYSTER SHELLS TO HENS.—In one of the late Boston agricultural papers there appeared a statement of the loss of a large number of hens in consequence of feeding them with ground bone, supposed to have been poisoned in some way. Bone or oyster shells should never be mixed with meal, or anything else, when given as feed. Bone and shell must be kept entirely separate from all other feed, and made accessible to the fowls, all the year round, and they will, of themselves, eat just as much as is needed but not a particle more. Shell is generally preferred by fowls, and should be somewhat coarse.

—What do we seek redress for when we go to law?—"Injuries." Where do we find it? "In-juries."

H. T. HELMBOLD'S
CONCENTRATED
FLUID EXTRACT BUCHU,
THE GREAT DIURETIC.

The proprietor trusts that his Remedies, from the fact of their being advertised, may not be classed as Patent Medicines.

HELMBOLD'S FLUID EXTRACT BUCHU is a pharmaceutical preparation. The proper name is given, and it is the most active which can be made. It is endorsed as a cure by all medical works for such diseases as recommended by the proprietor. It is pleasant in its taste and odor, free from all injurious properties, and is taken by adults and children. It is tonic, diuretic, blood-purifying, and invigorating. Enfeebled and delicate constitutions of both sexes will find it far more strengthening than any of the preparations of bark or iron.

See medical properties contained in Dispensatory of the United States, of which the following is a correct copy:—

Buchu, when its odor is strong, diffusive, and somewhat aromatic; its taste is bitterish, and analogous to that of mint. It is given chiefly in complaints of the urinary organs, such as gravel, chronic catarrh of the bladder, mortid irritation of the prostate gland, and retention or the incontinence of urine, from a loss of tone in the parts concerned in its evacuation. It has also been recommended in dyspepsia, chronic rheumatism, cutaneous affections, and dropsy.

Cure of Gravel of Five Years Standing. Stone Passed and to be Seen.

SAVANNAH, TENN., May 14, 1869.

Dr. H. T. Helmbold,
DEAR SIR: We introduced your "Fluid Extract Buchu" in this county about eight months ago, and are happy to state that it is meeting with universal favor. We wish to inform you of one instance among many where your "Buchu" has worked wonders. A man in our county, named J. B. Estell, had been suffering about five years with gravel.
About six weeks ago he bought of us one bottle of your "Buchu," and before he was through with one bottle he passed a gravel that weighs eight grains, which we now have on exhibition in our drug store. He says that he will never be without this "Buchu" in his house again. Your preparations are gaining favor every day.
Very respectfully yours, &c.,
ECCLES & HINKLE, Druggists.

Cure of Bladder and Kidney Affection of long Standing. Stone Passed and to be Seen.

WESTPORT, CONN., Sept. 9, 1869.

H. T. Helmbold, Esq.,
DEAR SIR: I commenced taking your "Extract of Buchu" in the week since for an affection of the bladder and kidneys. I have suffered by spells very much for a few days past. But yesterday relief came through the effect of your "Buchu." A stone passed from my bladder about the size of a large pea, and I now feel perfectly well and entirely free from the pain that I have suffered with 'so hard.' I attribute my cure to your medicine entirely, and would recommend all persons similarly affected to try it. I have great faith in its curative powers.
Yours truly, THOMAS J. BENNETT.

Cure of Kidney and Bladder Affection of a Patient Seventy-eight years of Age. Thanks to Mr. Helmbold.

GIRARD, PA., March 31, 1869.

Editor Cosmopolite: I desire, as an unsolicited tribute to the merits of Helmbold's Buchu, and for the benefit of those similarly afflicted as myself, to say that after consulting many eminent physicians, and trying nearly all the best advertised Remedies in the vain hope of finding relief from aggravated kidney and bladder diseases, from which I have suffered excessively for many years, good fortune finally suggested to me Helmbold's Buchu, which I commenced using with little faith, and no apparent beneficial results for about a month.
At the expiration of that time, however, I thought I commenced to experience slight relief, which encouraged me to persevere in its use, and now, at the expiration of four months, although I am an infirm old man, nearly 78 years of age, and consequently medicines cannot be expected to do wonrably affect me as they otherwise would, I have found such unspeakable relief and permanent improvement from Mr. Helmbold's valuable discovery, that I feel I ought to publicly record the fact, as an acknowledgment to him, and a valuable suggestion to the public. Yours respectfully,
D. M. LAREN.

DR. KEYSER
is a physician of over thirty years' experience, and a graduate of the Jefferson Medical College, and of the University of Medicine and Surgery of Philadelphia. Hear him:

Mr. H. T. Helmbold.
DEAR SIR: In regard to the question asked me as to my opinion about Buchu, I would say that I have used and sold the article in various forms for the past thirty years. I do not think there is any form or preparation of it I have not used, or known to be used, in the various diseases where such medicate agent would be indicated. You are at liberty to use my name in your extensively employed in the various diseases of the bladder and kidneys, and the reputation it has acquired, in my judgment, is warranted by the facts.
I have seen and used, as before stated, every form of Buchu—the powdered leaves—tincture, fluid extracts—and I am not cognizant of any preparation of that plant at all equal to yours. Twelve years' experience ought, I think, to give me the right to judge of its merits; and, without prejudice or partiality, I give yours precedence over all others.
I value your Buchu for its effect on patients. I have cured with it, and seen cured with it, more diseases of the bladder and kidneys than I have ever seen cured with any other Buchu or any other proprietary compound of whatever name.
Respectfully yours, &c.,
GEO. R. KEYSER, M. D.,
140 Wood Street, Pittsburgh, Penn.
August 11, 1865.

GREAT SALT LAKE CITY, UTAH, Jan. 28, 1868.

Mr. H. T. Helmbold,
DEAR SIR: Your communication requesting our terms for advertising was duly received, but from a prejudice I had formed against advertising "cures for secret diseases," it was left unanswered. During an accidental conversation in a drug store the other evening, my mind was changed on the character of your Buchu. It was then highly commended for other diseases by two physicians present. Incensed please find our rates o advertising. Yours, &c., H. B. H. STENHOUSE,

HELMBOLD'S BUCHU.
TESTIMONIALS.

A Permanent Cure of Gravel of twelve Years' Standing. Stone Passed and to be Seen.

BURNSIDE, CONN., Dec. 15, 1869.

Dr. Helmbold,
DEAR SIR: It is with much pleasure that I write you upon facts respecting myself. I do not know hardly how to express myself. I have been for the last ten or twelve years the greatest sufferer man could be and live; but more sometimes than others. The complaint was the "Kidneys" and "Bladder." I have been sometimes from twelve to fourteen hours, and wanted to make water every minute, but could not. Have consulted doctors, both in Massachusetts and this State, and taken pills, I may say by the quart, also liquored medicines, but found no relief from any, and got worse the last six months. I was so that I could scarcely get about, I could not rest night or day.
It would soon have been "all up" with me if I had not seen your advertisement headed "Kidneys." I read it through and thought I would try it. I purchased a bottle, but, mind you, had not much faith in it. Why should I, when I had been trying so most every thing? But I did. Well, I began taking it, and before I had taken the first bottle I felt bad; but I finished it and got another. By the time I took half of the second I still got worse (apparently.) When I walked it seemed as if my right kidney was falling from its place, and I felt really bad. I felt so, before I had finished the second, that I had madeup my mind it was of no use trying any more—and all this time the "Buchu" was doing its work, but I did not know it, so I gave it up and went to Hartford on Saturday to one of the best doctors in the city. He said it was the neck of the bladder, and I should have to undergo an operation. He gave me medicine, and I went home quite downhearted.
On Sunday I was unable to go to church. I had not taken any of his medicine, but on my return continued taking my "Buchu," and in the afternoon I had a desire to make water, but could not. About one hour after this I tried again, with the same result; but the next time I took the vessel it was the same as turning a faucet and stopping it off again. It was so for three times, and the third time there was something came through the passage and struck against the side of the vessel. I examined it, and it is the ugliest stone or gravel you ever covered over with little pieces which collected together. It looks the color of a mud turtle, and is as hard as flint. So you see the "Buchu" was doing its work, although I was feeling so badly. I procured another bottle, thinking there might be some more behind; but since that has passed, which is eight weeks ago last Sunday, I have been as well as ever I was in my life. I have the stone securely wrapped, and those who have seen it in this place are surprised.
I cannot tell you all, but this is a true story of my case, and you are welcome to make such use of my name as you think proper. I am pretty well known in Berkshire; also in Connecticut. The advertisement is true. Why not publish more? If any one wishes to see this wonder, they can do so. I could write all day, but I think I have said enough this time. I remain your ever well-wisher, EDWARD L. HOWARD,
